

2007-2008 COACHES

LEONARD HAMILTON

It is often said that a man is measured by how he lives and how many people he touches during his life.

Head Coach

- Tennessee-Martin, 1971
- Austin Peay, 1973
- 6th Season at Florida State (87-71, .551)
- 19th Season as a Collegiate Head Coach (287-271, .514)

Leonard Hamilton, who is in his sixth season as the head coach at Florida State, measures up very well.

Hamilton has built his life around his family and his players. With each passing year, the foundation on which he has built his life grows and solidifies. He continues to add and nurture the foundation while, at the same time, building a structure that is unmatched by many others. With each passing year and with each experience that challenges him, Hamilton lives his life to the fullest and touches more people in ways that not only make them better people but allows them to realize their potential.

Helping people realize their potential is especially true when it comes to Hamilton's basketball players at Florida State. His players are successful in the classroom and on the court during their careers as Seminoles and develop into successful men by the time they earn their degrees and move into the professional world.

Hamilton has guided three of his first five teams into postseason play and has returned the Seminole program to the national spotlight. During his tenure, Florida State has defeated 10 nationally ranked teams, vastly improved its status in the Atlantic Coast Conference and helped Florida State become a pipeline to the NBA. Hamilton's teams are now annually competing for upper division finishes in the ACC, and the Seminoles are one of only two teams in the ACC that has had at least one player drafted into the NBA in each of the last four seasons.

Hamilton guided the Seminoles to a 22-13 record, to a berth in the quarterfinal round of the NIT and victories over three nationally ranked teams during the 2006-07 season. He was at the 2007 NBA Draft to watch as Al Thornton — one of his prized pupils — became only the second Draft Lottery selection in school history as he was picked with the 14th overall selection by the Los Angeles Clippers. During the season, Thornton earned All-America Third-Team and All-ACC First-Team honors and was the runner-up choice as the ACC Player of the Year.

Coaches are measured by accomplishments both on and off the court, and Hamilton's program is on course to achieve the goals he established when he arrived in Tallahassee.

Hamilton was hired on March 19, 2002 to return the Seminole men's basketball program to the glory it had earned when it played for the 1972 national championship and regularly competed for, and won, conference championships during the 1980s and early 1990s.

Hamilton was the Washington Wizards' head coach in 2001 and the head coach at the University of Miami for 10 years prior to that (1991-00) when he became the seventh head coach in Florida State men's basketball history.

In his final season at Miami, Hamilton guided the Hurricanes to their second straight 20-win season, a share of the Big East regular season championship and the school's first trip to the Sweet 16 of the NCAA Tournament. The Hurricanes finished 23-11, including a 13-3 conference record, and were ranked 23rd in the nation in the final Associated Press poll and 20th in the final USA Today/ESPN poll. Miami's 23 wins matched the team's 1998-99 total and, at the time, tied the school record for victories in a season.

Under Hamilton's leadership, Miami became one of the nation's top programs, advancing to postseason play five times in his final six seasons including three consecutive NCAA Tournament appearances from 1998-2000. Miami's winning records in his final six seasons meant the Hurricanes joined Syracuse and Connecticut as the only Big East schools to have an overall winning record from 1995-2000. The Hurricanes' 48-22 Big East mark over his last four seasons tied Connecticut for the best conference record over that period. Over his last two seasons, Miami registered a league-best 28-6 conference record for an .824 winning percentage.

In his final season with Miami, Hamilton's Hurricanes recorded three wins over ranked teams including a 74-70 home win over No. 18 St. John's, marking the sixth straight season Miami had defeated a ranked opponent in the Miami Arena.

In the 40 seasons prior to Hamilton's arrival, the Hurricanes reached the postseason just four times including one NCAA Tournament appearance (1960). In his 10 seasons at Miami, Hamilton led the Hurricanes to five postseason appearances.

Along with the rise of the Hurricanes' program, Hamilton's players also continued to develop and win individual awards. In 1999-2000, guard Johnny Hemsley earned All-Big East Second-Team honors while center Mario Bland earned All-Conference Third-Team honors.

In 1998-99, Hemsley and forward Tim James earned All-Big East First-Team honors. The Hurricanes joined Syracuse (8 times), Georgetown (twice), Pittsburgh, St. John's and Villanova as the only schools to have two players earn All-Big East First-Team honors in the same season. In 10 seasons under Hamilton, the Hurricanes had 13 All-Conference selections.

In 1998-99, Tim James was named Big East Co-Player of the Year, along with Connecticut's Richard Hamilton, and Johnny Hemsley was selected as the league's Most Improved player.

Miami's rise began in 1994-95 when Hamilton led the Hurricanes to the greatest single-season turnaround in Big East history. Picked to finish at the bottom of the Big East Conference standings, Hamilton guided the Hurricanes to a fifth-place finish and a berth in the National Invitation Tournament — Miami's first postseason appearance in 31 years.

Miami set a Big East record in 1995 for the greatest single-season improvement in league history. The Hurricanes' nine-win conference win increase tied Louisiana Tech for the best in the nation. Miami's eight-win overall improvement tied for the third-best single-season increase in school history.

At the conclusion of the 1995 season, Hamilton was named the United Press International National Coach of the Year.

His peers also recognized Hamilton, as the league coaches tabbed him Big East Conference Coach of the Year for the first time.

Hamilton took home even more hardware at the end of the 1999 season. He was named Big East Coach of the Year for the second time, joining Jim Calhoun, Lou Carnesecca, Jim Boeheim, John Thompson, P.J. Carlesimo and Al Skinner as the only coaches to win the award more than once. Hamilton was later honored as the Eastern Basketball Coach of the Year. In 2000, he was named the Black Coaches Association (BCA) Coach of the Year.

Hamilton understands that defense wins championships. Under his tutelage, the Hurricanes became one of the nation's top defensive teams. Miami ranked nationally in field goal percentage defense in each of his last four seasons including a No. 1 national ranking in 1997-98. In his final season, the Hurricanes ranked 22nd in the nation in field goal percentage defense, holding teams to 39.4 percent shooting. In 1998-99, the Hurricanes ranked 13th in the nation, holding teams to 38.4 percent shooting. Since his arrival at Florida State, the Seminoles have become the toughest team to score against, and they led the league in scoring defense in 2003.

The 1997-98 Hurricanes ranked No. 1 in the nation in field goal percentage defense, holding opponents to 37.9 percent shooting from the floor. The 1996-97

Hurricanes ranked No. 6 in the nation in field goal percentage defense, holding opponents to just 38.0 percent shooting.

Hamilton has continued that tradition since coming to Florida State. The Seminoles ranked seventh in the nation in field goal percentage defense and 16th nationally in steals per game in 2002–03. Tim Pickett, a Hamilton recruit and All-ACC First-Team selection, led the conference in steals with 82 during the 2003 season. He became only the third player

In addition, Pickett finished 10th in 3-point field goals made per game and 18th nationally in steals per games. The Seminoles ranked first in the ACC and ninth in the nation in 2007 as they set a school record for free throw shooting percentage.

Despite all his success on the court, Hamilton never loses sight of his No. 1 priority: the student-athlete. His number one goal is to help prepare his players for the challenges they will encounter in life. In his 10 seasons at Miami, 28 of Hamilton's 31 seniors received their degrees. In five seasons at Florida State, he has helped 13 of 15 seniors earn their degrees including Pickett, a 2004 NBA second round draft selection of the New Orleans Hornets.

For his work both on and off the court, Coach Hamilton was honored as one of four finalists for the 2000 Coach Wooden "Keys to Life" Award. The award is given annually to a coach who best exemplifies degree and served as the captain of the basketball team as an undergraduate player, and at Austin Peay State University where he began his coaching career and served as an assistant coach for the Governors. Hamilton helped lead Austin Peay to two Ohio Valley Conference championships.

Hamilton arrived at Miami from Oklahoma State where he spent four years rebuilding the Cowboys' program. He led them to consecutive appearances in the NIT, the first back-to-back postseason appearances for OSU since 1953–54. While at Oklahoma State, he recruited and coached current Florida State assistant coach Corey Williams.

Prior to his tenure at Oklahoma State, Hamilton was on the staff at the University of Kentucky where he spent 12 seasons with one of the top programs in the country. From 1974–80, he served as an assistant coach and in 1980 he was honored by being named the first associate head coach in Kentucky basketball history.

Despite all his success on the court,
Hamilton never loses sight of his
No. 1 priority: the student-athlete.

Coach John Wooden's philosophy of emphasizing the fact that impacting the life of a student is more significant than any winning percentage. He was named one of Tallahassee's Top 33 citizens in 2004 by the Tallahassee Democrat and inducted into the Gaston County (N.C.) Hall of Fame in 2007.

The induction into the Gaston County Hall of Fame marked a monumental occasion for Hamilton who earned induction into his fourth collegiate Hall of Fame. In addition to being honored by his hometown in 2007, he is also a member of the Athletic Halls of Fame at the University of Miami, the University of Tennessee at Martin where he received his bachelor's

During his 12 seasons at Kentucky, the Wildcats registered a 296-83 (.781) record, won eight SEC regular season championships and two SEC tournament titles, went to three Final Fours and won the national title in 1978.

Hamilton's coaching career began at Austin Peay State University where he served as a graduate assistant from 1971-73 and then as a full-time assistant from 1973-74. The Governors won back-to-back Ohio Valley Championships in Hamilton's last two seasons at the school. Hamilton recruited and coached James "Fly" Williams, the 1974 conference Player of the Year and two-time all-conference selection. Williams was a two-time consensus

All-America in 1973 and 1974, the only two-time All-America in school history. The Governors won the OVC Championship and played in the NCAA Tournament in 1973.

Hamilton's legacy extends across the nation as six of his former assistant coaches have moved on to become head coaches at the Division I level: Tim Carter (South Carolina State), Dwight Freeman (Norfolk State), Randy Lee (Maine Machias), Dickey Nutt (Arkansas State), John Phillips (Tulsa) and Bill Self (Kansas).

He played at Gaston (NC) Community College where he set a school record by scoring 54 points in a game, and later at the University of Tennessee-Martin where he is a charter member of the school's Hall of Fame. At both schools, he served as a team captain. Additionally, while at Tennessee-Martin, Hamilton received both the team Most Valuable Player Award and the Best Defensive Player award in his senior season.

He earned his bachelor's degree in physical education from Tennessee-Martin in 1971 and received a master's degree in physical and health education from Austin Peay State in 1973.

2007-2008 COACHES

STAN JONES

Associate Head Coach

- Memphis, 1984
- Sixth Season at Florida State

Stan Jones, who is considered to be one of the top tacticians and finest recruiters in all of college basketball, is in his sixth season as the associate head coach at Florida State. Under Jones' direction, the Seminoles have developed into one of the most fundamentally sound and best-coached teams in the Atlantic Coast Conference with its players now annually competing as the best in the nation's top conference. He has coached two of the three All-ACC First-Team selections — Tim Pickett and Al Thornton — in Florida State history during the first five years of his tenure in Tallahassee.

Jones is largely credited with the development of 2007 NBA Draft Lottery pick Al Thornton who came to Florida State as a little-known freshman in 2004 and finished his career as one of the top players in school history. After averaging only 2.8 points and 7.9 minutes played as a freshman, Thornton left Florida State for the NBA as an All-America Third-Team and All-ACC First-Team selection, the runner-up ACC Player of the Year and the seventh-leading all-time scorer in Seminole basketball history. Jones is also lauded for his work with Tim Pickett who came to Florida State as a junior college transfer and left as a First-Team All-ACC selection.

The Seminoles advanced to the quarterfinal round of the 2007 NIT and have played in the postseason in three of Jones' first five seasons as a Seminole assistant coach. In his 11 years as an assistant coach at the collegiate level, Jones has helped eight different teams into postseason play including four into the NCAA Tournament. He has also recruited and coached nine different NBA Draft selections including three first round picks.

Last year, the Seminoles earned three victories over top-25 ranked teams and four victories over teams that played in the NCAA Tournament. Florida State earned wins over No. 4 Florida, No. 8 Duke and No. 23 Virginia Tech. The Seminoles were one of only five teams to defeat the Gators, and their victory over Duke was the first in school history in Cameron Indoor Stadium. Florida State has defeated 10 nationally ranked teams including No. 1-ranked Duke on March 1, 2006 with Jones on the Seminole coaching staff.

Florida State's vastly improved play in the last five seasons has coincided with Jones' arrival and tireless recruiting efforts for the Seminole basketball program. His recruiting knowledge and efforts have helped attract the nation's top talent to play for the Seminoles. Jones helped attract four top-20 ranked recruiting classes to Tallahassee including the nation's No. 1-ranked class in 2003. For his efforts, Jones was named one of college basketball's top 25 recruiters.

Not only has Jones been influential in attracting some of the nation's top talent to play basketball at Florida State, but his coaching ability has helped develop those talented players on the court. Jones has helped Florida State win 20 games or more in consecutive seasons and has helped coach the team to national postseason appearances in three of the last four seasons. Florida State won 22 games and advanced to the quarterfinals of the 2007 NIT after the Seminoles won 20 games, finished fifth in the ACC and advanced to the second round of the NIT in 2006.

Jones has coached four NBA draft selections in his first five years at Florida State. Thornton was only the second NBA Draft Lottery selection in school history as he enjoyed one of the top all-around seasons in school history in 2007. Pickett, who earned All-America Honorable Mention and All-ACC First-Team selection during his two-year career at Florida State, was a second round pick of the New Orleans Hornets in 2004 while Von Wafer was a second pick of the Los Angeles Lakers in 2005. Alexander Johnson was an All-ACC pick and selected in the first round of the 2006 NBA Draft by the Indiana Pacers. The Seminoles are one of only two ACC teams who have had at least one player drafted in each of the last four seasons.

Jones has coached four teams in the NCAA Tournament in his first 11 years as a coach on the collegiate level. Jones helped coach Miami into the NCAA Tournament during three consecutive seasons (1998-2000) and coached Mississippi State into the NCAA Tournament during the 2002 season.

Jones was also an assistant head coach to Leonard Hamilton with the Washington Wizards in 2001.

Jones began his collegiate assistant coaching career at Miami under Hamilton in 1996. During his career at Miami, he helped guide the Hurricanes to a 95-54 record for a .638 winning percentage. The 95 wins (19.0 wins per season) were the most in a five-year period for the program since the 1959 through 1964 seasons. Miami won 23 games in both 1999 and 2000 to mark only the third time in program history (and first time since 1964) the program had won at least 20 games in consecutive seasons.

In his final four seasons at Miami, Jones helped guide the Hurricanes to four postseason tournament appearances, a regular season Big East championship and the school's first-ever NCAA Tournament Sweet 16 appearance in 2000. Miami won a school-record-tying 23 games in 1999 on its way to the school's first-ever top-10 national ranking. The Hurricanes were ranked No. 10 in the season-ending Associated Press poll.

Jones, who will turn 48 during the 2007-08 season, is married to the former Olga Campos. The couple has a daughter, Shannon (25), and a son, Adam (23).

COREY WILLIAMS

Corey Williams, the only assistant coach in the ACC who has earned an NBA Championship ring as a player, is in his first season at Florida State. One of 43 NBA Draft picks to have been recruited and coached by Leonard Hamilton, Williams has developed the reputation as an effective and tireless recruiter who is annually credited with attracting top talent and then coaching that talent to achieve at the highest levels.

Williams was an assistant coach at Oral Roberts University from 2000–07 and a player under Hamilton at Oklahoma State during his playing career from 1989–92. He had returned to his alma mater for a short period of time before joining the Florida State staff in June of 2007. Williams brings a wealth of recruiting success and very deep recruiting roots with him to the Seminoles program.

Williams helped lead Oral Roberts University to a pair of NCAA Tournament appearances as a coach and led Oklahoma State to consecutive NCAA Tournament Sweet 16 appearances as a player.

Williams was an assistant coach for seven seasons at Oral Roberts where he helped lead the Golden Eagles to an average of 18 wins a season including 20 or more wins in each of the last three seasons and appearances in the NCAA Tournament in each of the last two seasons. Oral Roberts finished with a 23-11 record and won the Mid-Continent Conference Tournament championship in 2007. Among its 23 wins during the 2007 season was a victory over No. 3 Kansas on the road at Allen Fieldhouse in Lawrence, Kan.

As ORU's chief recruiter during his tenure there, Williams is credited with assembling the recruiting classes that allowed the Golden Eagles to become one of the top teams in the nation. Among the players he is credited with recruiting are Caleb Green, a two-time All-American and the first three-time Player of the Year in Mid-Continent Conference, and Ken Tutt, the 2006 Mid-Continent Tournament Most Valuable Player. Williams helped attract a majority of the players that dotted the Golden Eagles' roster and the Mid-Continent All-League teams.

Williams played collegiately at Oklahoma State from 1989–92. He is the 13th all-time leading scorer in school history with 1,320 career points. Williams played two seasons under Hamilton at Oklahoma State and helped lead the Cowboys to consecutive NCAA Tournament Sweet 16 appearances under Eddie Sutton in 1991 and 1992. The Cowboys were ranked 14th in the final Associated Press poll of the 1991 season and 10th in the final coaches' poll following the 1992 season.

With Williams in Oklahoma State's lineup for 128 games during his four-year varsity career, the Cowboys ranked as one of the top teams statistically in the nation. The Cowboys ranked fourth nationally in scoring defense in 1992, 12th in the nation in average margin of victory in both 1991 and 1992 and 20th in the nation in winning percentage in 1992. He scored 1,320 career points and averaged 10.3 points and 3.2 rebounds in leading his team to winning records in his final two seasons.

Oklahoma State went to four consecutive postseason tournaments (two NIT and two NCAA Tournaments) and averaged 21.5 victories per season during his career. The Cowboys finished 24-8 and 10-4 in the Big 8 in 1991, and 28-8 and 8-6 in conference play in 1992. Oklahoma State was ranked as high as No. 2 in the nation and defeated five nationally ranked teams during the 1992 season. They earned victories over No. 3 Missouri and No. 2 Kansas on their way to the Sweet 16 in 1992.

Williams was drafted by both the Chicago Bulls of the NBA and the Kansas City Chiefs of the NFL. He was drafted by the Chiefs despite the fact that he had not played football since junior high.

Williams chose basketball over football and spent two very productive years with the Bulls. While a member of the Bulls in 1992–93, Williams helped Chicago win its third straight NBA Championship. He also played with the Minnesota Timberwolves during his NBA career. Williams spent the majority of the 1994 season with the Oklahoma City Cavalry of the Continental Basketball Association. He returned to Oklahoma State as a student assistant in 1994

ANDY ENFIELD

Assistant Coach

- Johns Hopkins, 1991; Maryland, 1994
- Second Season at Florida State

Andy Enfield, who has been nationally recognized for his ability to teach the game of basketball's finer points at both the professional and collegiate levels, is in his second season as an assistant coach at Florida State. His ability to develop players by improving their shooting techniques and offensive efficiency has allowed him to help the Seminole program and its players continue their ascension into the upper half of the Atlantic Coast Conference and into the national spotlight.

During his first year at Florida State, the Seminoles finished first in the ACC and ninth in the nation with a .758 team free throw shooting percentage. The Seminoles' team free throw shooting percentage in 2007 not only set a team record but it was an increase of more than five percentage points — the highest increase of any team in the ACC — from the 2006 to the 2007 season. The Seminoles' .758 free throw shooting percentage marked the highest for a single season in school history and was nearly three full percentage points more than the former record of .729 during the 1967–68 season.

Under Enfield's tutelage in his first season as a Seminole assistant, Florida State shot the ball very well from both the free throw line and the field. In addition to leading the ACC in free throw shooting percentage, the Seminoles ranked fourth in the ACC (and 23rd in the nation) in field goal shooting percentage and third in the ACC (and 50th in the nation) in 3-point field goal shooting percentage. Florida State made 237 3-point field goals and averaged 6.8 made shots from the bonusphere. The Seminoles' total from long range is the second-highest single-season total in school history. The Seminoles shot .380 from the 3-point line — the fifth-highest percentage from beyond the arc in school history. The team's outstanding shooting led to the team scoring 2,607 points (an average of 74.5 points scored per game.) The Seminoles' 2,607 points is the third-highest team point total in school history.

Enfield worked closely with Al Thornton during his first season at Florida State. Thornton shot a career-high .530 from the field (fifth in the ACC), a career-high .790 from the free throw line (seventh in the ACC) and a career-high .444 from the 3-point line in averaging a career-high and ACC-leading 19.7 points per game. Thornton was an All-America Third-Team and All-ACC First-Team selection and finished as the runner-up for the prestigious ACC Player of the Year award.

Prior to joining the Seminole staff and Leonard Hamilton, Enfield was an assistant coach for the Boston Celtics and the Milwaukee Bucks.

Enfield was an assistant coach with the Boston Celtics of the NBA from 1998–2000 — a time during which he worked with head coach Rick Pitino in building the franchise into a play-off contending team. While in Boston, Enfield worked closely with five-time All-Star Paul Pierce, the Celtics' first round draft choice in 1998. Pierce was named to the NBA All-Rookie team as he averaged 16.5 points and 6.4 rebounds. The Celtics continued to improve in his second season with the club as they finished with 35 victories — 16 more than they had earned the previous season.

Enfield also worked as an assistant with the Milwaukee Bucks from 1994–96 as they, too, drafted well and began a growth period that helped the franchise return to the playoffs. During his first season in Milwaukee, the team showed a 14-game improvement from the previous season and found itself in the hunt for a spot in the playoffs until late in the season. Enfield tutored Glenn Robinson (the No. 1 overall selection in the 1994 NBA Draft) and four-time All-Star forward Vin Baker. Robinson averaged 21.9 points and Baker 17.7 as they formed one of the highest-scoring and best-shooting duos in the league that season.

Enfield is the president of All Net Basketball, one of the top basketball instructional programs in the United States. He has coached over 100 NBA players on perfecting the art of shooting. His list of success stories includes Pierce, Gilbert Arenas of the Washington Wizards, Dwyane Wade of the Miami Heat, Grant Hill of the Phoenix Suns, Jason Kidd of the New Jersey Nets and Al Thornton of the Los Angeles Clippers.

He was a guest clinician on the topic of shooting at the NABC Coaches' Clinic at the 2005 NCAA Final Four. He has been hired as a coaching consultant for NBA teams such as the Chicago Bulls and Washington Wizards as well as numerous college basketball programs across the country. He has also been an invited clinician for basketball programs overseas and professional teams as far away as China.

Enfield is the all-time NCAA career free-throw percentage leader with a mark of 92.5% (431 of 466). He still holds nine career records at Johns Hopkins and was inducted into the school's Athletic Hall of Fame in 2001. His 2,025 career points are nearly 500 more than any other player has scored for the Blue Jays.

Enfield's accomplishments in the classroom were just as impressive as his exploits on the basketball court at Hopkins as he earned First-Team GTE Academic All-America honors as a senior and second team honors as a junior. He was also the first of four Johns Hopkins men's basketball players to earn an NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship between 1991 and 1998. No other men's basketball program in the nation produced more NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship recipients during the 1990s than Hopkins' four.

Enfield relied on his educational and business background to help develop TractManager, Inc. into the most successful document imaging and contract management company within the Healthcare and Real Estate markets. As part of the initial investment group and one of three key executives in the start-up company, Enfield helped transform TractManager, Inc. into a very successful and profitable company.

Enfield earned his bachelor's degree in economics from Johns Hopkins in 1991 and a master in business administration from the University of Maryland in 1994. He earned a 3.5 grade point average as an undergraduate.

Enfield and his wife, Amanda, have two daughters: Aila (1) and Lily Elizabeth who was born just before the beginning of the 2007–08 season.
