A Winning Tradition

Baseball is definitely Tallahassee's favorite pastime, and nobody does it better than Florida State. With fans who pile into Dick Howser Stadium by the thousands each week during baseball season, you could say the proof is in the pudding. The reason they come is tradition, a winning tradition that is the essence of the Florida State baseball program.

But tradition doesn't last too long without people. People have made Seminole baseball a winning tradition.

In 46 seasons of intercollegiate play, through six decades and eight head coaches, Florida State has never had a losing season. The Tribe has made 16 consecutive trips to NCAA Regional competition, the second longest current streak in Division I baseball. Since 1948, 31 of FSU's 46 teams have advanced to NCAA Regional or District competition. Twelve times, Florida State squads have won those tournaments to advance to the College World Series.

Along with the many achievements of Florida State's teams, Seminole players have picked up many individual awards. A pair of Seminole standouts—Mike Fuentes in 1981 and Mike Loynd in 1986—won the Golden Spikes Award, presented annually to the top amateur baseball player in the country. Two other players — Terry Kennedy in 1977 and Jeff Ledbetter in 1982—were named Player of the Year.

Over 132 Seminoles have signed professional contracts after leaving Florida State. In the past four seasons alone, FSU has sent 25 players into professional baseball. Last year, John Wasdin became the ninth Seminole chosen in the first round of the major league baseball draft.

The 26-man list of Florida State stars who went on to play in the major leagues ranges from past major leaguers Ken Suarez, Woody Woodward, Jim Lyttle, John Grubb and Juan Bonilla, to current pros Paul Sorrento, Luis Alicea, Deion Sanders and Eduardo Perez. Every year, more former Seminoles are working their way up the professional ladder and into the limelight of professional baseball.

Undoubtedly, Florida State's winning tradition has been fueled by its fans. Over 80,000 people packed Dick Howser Stadium last year, an average of 2,019 per game.

Florida State enjoys the support of the entire University and the Tallahassee communities. And no matter where the Seminoles travel, they can expect the same rousing cheers they receive in their home stadium. Florida State baseball fans are the most loyal and knowledgeable fans in college baseball.

With that type of fan interest, Florida State baseball attracts extensive media coverage around the state and around the country. FSU baseball is first page news in Tallahassee, and 10 major newspapers in Florida cover the Seminoles on a daily basis. National baseball publications keep weekly tabs on the squad as well.

And if fans can't travel to watch their Seminoles play, what better way to find out about the action than on the radio. Florida State boasts the most extensive radio package in college baseball. Every game, home and away, will be broadcast live across the Tallahassee area this season.

Media coverage of the Seminoles extends to the television screen. In the past five seasons, over 60 games have been broadcast on cable networks across the Southeast and across the country. Already, 11 games have been scheduled for broadcast in 1994, including eight of Florida State's games against intra-state rivals Florida and Miami.

Local television stations offer extensive coverage of the team, beginning in January with preseason practices and continuing through tournament time. "Seminole Uprising" and "The Mike Martin Show", a pair of half-hour shows focusing on Seminole baseball, air twice weekly on statewide cable and on local television.

While the Florida State baseball winning tradition began long ago under the first Seminole coaches, there is no question that tradition has reached unprecedented heights under current head coach Mike Martin. In his 14 seasons at the helm, Martin has led Florida State to six College World Series appearances, including five in the last seven years. All 14 of his teams have appeared in NCAA Regionals, and 12 of those 14 teams won at least 50 games. Martin coached FSU teams have won nearly 75 percent of their games. His career record of 761-258-3 makes Martin the fourth winningest active coach in Division I baseball.

Athletics and academics go hand in hand at Florida State University, and that is evidenced by the opportunities afforded to each and every student-athlete who attends FSU. The Florida State coaching staff and administration stress the pursuit of excellence in both baseball and academics. To help balance the two, all FSU student-athletes work with the academic support staff, which provides tutorial assistance, career development, scheduled study hall sessions, and computer facilities. One of the Seminole assistant coaches works closely with the academic support staff to monitor class attendance and resolve any conflicts which may arise with scheduling, travel, etc. during the season.

Facilities don't necessarily make a winning tradition. Tradition in Florida State baseball has made the facilities great. Dick Howser Stadium is, simply put, one of the finest college baseball stadiums in the nation. The setting, with pine trees lining the rightfield wall, a 2,500-seat concrete grandstand and bleacher seats along both lines, is beautiful. The playing field itself is meticulously groomed year-round.

Located behind the Seminole dugout is a three-year-old lockerroom and clubhouse facility. The spacious, carpeted rooms include a large player room, an office with video equipment where players and coaches review videos, and a training area/weight room.

The Moore Athletic Center, adjacent to Dick Howser Stadium, houses the Seminole weight room and training complex, in addition to the baseball coaches' offices. In the state-of-the-art weight room, FSU baseball players have the opportunity to condition themselves under the direction of strength coach Dave Van Halanger and his assistants, who run an off-season program for Seminole athletes. In the training room, athletes receive the finest care from the professional training staff, led by head trainer Randy Oravetz.

In the past 45 years, thousands of coaches, fans and administrators have contributed to the winning tradition of Seminole baseball. But it is the players who have built that tradition, one person at a time, one season at a time.

'94 BATGIRLS

The Florida State Batgirls continue a great tradition of FSU Baseball. Enthusiasm, vitality, and eagerness establish the batgirls as an integral part of the baseball program. The Batgirls represent Florida State University with pride and all their energy through various activities. During the fall, they aid in Alumni and Homecoming events, and support the Ronald McDonald House with their efforts at the Garnet and Gold Game. When the season opens, the batgirls are busy helping and encouraging the Seminole baseball team, along with assisting the visiting teams and the spirited fans. They also provide support to the coaches, umpires and the athletic department. Traveling to away games and making spirit banners add yet another touch of zeal that this squad possesses. Every year, the Florida State Batgirls become more well-known, and it is because of their involvement with continuing the tradition of such a successful baseball program.

Few collegiate baseball facilities rival the Seminoles' beautiful Dick Howser Stadium. Located on the campus of Florida State University, the stadium has provided nearly one million fans with the feeling of having "the best seat in the house" to watch the finest in college baseball action. Additions and improvements to the stadium since its 1983 opening have made it one of the best ballparks in the country.

The Seminole Baseball "Tradition Room" underneath the third base stands holds an attractive showcase which tells the story of the great players, award-winners and tremendous teams of the past. Trophies and plaques depicting Florida State's baseball success through the years adorn the walls. It also provides a comfortable lounge area adjacent to the FSU lockerroom, complete with VCR and big-screen television, where Florida State players can relax before and after games.

Florida State's players and coaches enjoy the convenience and luxury of a clubhouse and lockerroom located behind the Seminole dugout. The main lockerroom area is fully-carpeted and contains personalized lockers for each player, a separate lockerroom for the Seminole coaches, a video area where FSU players and coaches do videotape analysis, and a coaches' office. A built-in stereo system blares the players' latest favorites. Adjacent is a room which doubles as a weight and training area, complete with lifting machines.

There are ongoing efforts to keep Dick Howser Stadium one of the top facilities in college baseball. Truly a "player's ballpark," the stadium has had many upgrades: the addition of a screen to the top of the right field wall, the addition of a roof to the grandstand and a state-of-the-art electronic scoreboard, complete with message center.

Dick Howser Stadium, named after the late Kansas City Royals and Florida State manager who was also Florida State's first-ever baseball All-American, is a showcase befitting one of the top collegiate teams in the nation. From the beautifully-manicured playing surface to the chairback seats and modern press box, Howser Stadium is one of the best places in the country to watch a game.

On opening day, the one-millionth fan will walk through the gates of Howser Stadium in only its 12th season of operation. For the fourth consecutive year the Seminoles averaged over 2,000 fans a game.

With a listed capacity of 5,000 in Dick Howser Stadium, Florida State continues to set attendance records. Every year, over 5,000 fans witness the home team take on the University of Miami. Florida State annually ranks in the top 10 nationally in attendance.

Florida State fans are simply the best and most knowledgeable in college baseball. Although they live and die with "their" Seminoles, the FSU faithful are known nationwide for their sportsmanship and appreciation of good baseball — by both teams, as well as their sometimes "creative" brand of support. They, along with the stadium and a professional game operation, are a large reason Dick Howser Stadium has been the site of 10 NCAA Regional tournaments in the 11 years since its opening in 1983.

The stadium was dedicated in honor of Dick Howser in March of 1988 prior to an exhibition game between Florida State and the Kansas City Royals, two of Howser's former teams. As part of the stadium dedication, Kansas City all-stars George Brett and Bo Jackson helped unveil a new $150,000 matrix scoreboard and a bronze bust of Howser. Both items were permanent additions to the facility.

Old Seminole Field was christened Seminole Stadium March 28, 1983, after over one million dollars of renovations were completed on the park. Wooden bleachers were replaced

The lower level seating is arranged like box seats, while the upper level has metal bleachers with chair backs. All 2,500 grandstand seats annually sell out. Additional seating down both lines provides 2,500 more seats. Nearly 1,000 seats are available for overflow crowds and the park was designed to allow for future expansion.

INSIDE Pitch

Since the completion of Dick Howser Stadium in 1983, Florida State has hosted 10 NCAA Regionals in 11 seasons. In all, Tallahassee has been a host site 13 times since 1976.

The Seminole Baseball Tradition Room holds an array of FSU baseball memorabilia and trophies which tell the story of Florida State baseball success.

320 feet to right-field, 400 feet to center and 340 feet to left. Prior to the 1986 season, a screen was added to the top of the right field wall; it rises from the 10-foot high wall, increasing in five-foot increments from 20 feet in the power alley to 30 feet in rightfield — giving a unique effect.

A matrix board which provides lineups, statistics and messages throughout the game, a high quality public address system, modern concession stands and vendors circulating the stands give Howser Stadium a “big

The beautiful home of Florida State’s baseball Seminoles, from the Tradition Room, clubhouse area and lockerroom to the top-notch playing field, chairback seats and overall family atmosphere, is indeed a fitting tribute to one of FSU’s greatest alumni, Dick Howser.

SEMINOLE BASEBALL TRADITION ROOM

The latest addition to Dick Howser Stadium is the Seminole Baseball Tradition Room. A beautiful area adjacent to the FSU clubhouse and lockerroom. This room, located underneath the stadium, holds an array of FSU baseball memorabilia and trophies which tell the story of Florida State baseball success.

Separate wall displays, attractively backlit, are devoted to Florida State All-Americans, former Seminoles in the pros, and FSU’s 12 College World Series teams. Another wall is lined with FSU’s most recent tournament and conference championship trophies, as well as replicas of the Golden Spikes Awards of Mike Loynd and Mike Fuentes.

Another corner contains a VCR and large-screen television where players can enjoy the latest videos. Couches line the room to provide a comfortable area for relaxed viewing.

SEMINOLES

In The Pros

Deion Sanders

Florida State annually sends the top talent to professional clubs via the major league draft, and 1993 was no exception. Five Seminoles signed with major league teams, including pitcher John Wasdin, who was chosen by the Oakland A's with the 25th pick in the draft. Wasdin's selection marked the third consecutive year a Florida State player was chosen in the opening round. Other Seminoles drafted in 1993 included first baseman Mike Schmitz who signed with the New York Yankees and pitcher Bryan Harris who signed with California. In addition, relief pitchers John Nedeau and Jeff Tam signed with California and the New York Mets as free agents.

Since the major league draft was instituted in 1966, 134 Florida State players have signed contracts with major league teams. Twenty-nine former players have ascended to play with major league teams while others, like the late Dick Howser and Woody Woodward, have become successful coaches and administrators on the major, minor and collegiate levels.

Current Seminoles in the pros include Deion Sanders, Atlanta's two-sport star, who played centerfield for the 1992 and 1993 National League Champion Braves. Second baseman Jody Reed is in his second season with the Los Angeles Dodgers after spending five seasons with the Boston Red Sox. Paul Sorrento enjoyed his most productive year as a pro hitting 18 home runs and 65 RBIs while playing first base with the Cleveland Indians. Relief pitcher Richie Lewis also came into his own while appearing in 57 games for the expansion Florida Marlins. Fundamentally sound Luis Alicea is now in his fifth year playing second base with the St. Louis Cardinals. Catcher Marc Ronan saw his first major league action after being called up to St. Louis late in the season. Former first round pick Eduardo Perez continued to impress the baseball community, reaching the major league level in 1993 after just two years in the minors. He appeared in 52 games playing first base for California.

Other Florida State products like Tim Davis in the Mariners organization are poised on the brink of the majors. Florida State players enter the draft well-prepared and make quick ascents to the major leagues. Pitcher Mike Loynd and Alicea are prime examples of that coaching and preparation. Loynd pitched in his first game as a Texas Ranger in 1986, just six weeks after coming out of Florida State as the Golden Spikes Award winner. Alicea was the second player to reach the majors out of the draft in 1986, as the St. Louis Cardinals' second baseman.

THIS IS Florida State

From its beginnings as "The Seminary West of the Suwannee" in 1857, Florida State University has grown to stretch across 347 acres of rolling oak and pine-covered hills to comprise a campus which has educated millions of students over the last century.

Florida State University has boasted a heritage of service and scholarship since the Florida legislature passed an act authorizing two state colleges — one east (now the University of Florida) and one west of the meandering Suwannee River.

Starting with a 130-member coed enrollment in 1857, the Seminary survived the Civil War, reconstruction, radical social changes, and a variety of name changes to emerge in 1909 as the Florida State College for Women.

It was converted back into a coed institution in 1947 by a legislature anxious to open up the state's educational resources to thousands of degree-seeking ex-GI's from World War II. It also was granted a new name, "Florida State University." The University today contrasts vividly with its beginning. Sixteen schools and colleges within the university serve more than 28,000 students who are enrolled in the 276 graduate and undergraduate degree programs, and live and work among 1,300 faculty and 2,600 staff members. About 5,000 degrees are awarded every year.

In the past several years, the University has joined an elite group of institutions in the United States which produce more than 200 doctoral graduates annually. Emphasis on graduate research and study at the University continues to grow, and today more than 4,000 graduate students pursue a variety of degrees.

Student life at Florida State University also offers young people ample opportunity to acquire leadership skills and to apply their classroom learning in student government, residence hall government, Greek social organizations, honors programs, departmental organizations and more than 200 other registered student organizations active on campus. The FSU Artist Series, the Distinguished Lecture Series and outstanding music, theater and dance productions provide enjoyable evenings for the entire community.

Being a student at Florida State University means stepping into a tradition of more than 130 years of higher education. From its Flying High Circus to its Supercomputer Computations Research, Florida State provides a panorama of excitement, blending the educational and social sides of campus life.

FLORIDA STATE University Administration

SANDY D'ALEMBERTE President

President Talbot "Sandy" D'Alemberte is the 12th chief executive officer of Florida State University. He was appointed president on Nov. 29, 1993, by the Florida Board of Regents and took office on Jan. 3, 1994.

D'Alemberte, who served as the fourth dean of the FSU College of Law from 1984 to 1989, has continued teaching on the law school faculty.

In a special "Profiles in Power" section, the April 15, 1985, edition of the National Law Journal listed D'Alemberte as one of the 100 most powerful lawyers in the United States. He was the only law dean on the list and one of only 10 members of law faculties.

He was the 1991-92 president of the American Bar Association and the 1982-84 president of the American Judicature Society.

D'Alemberte served in the Florida House of Representatives, representing Dade County from 1966 to 1972. He was chairman of the state Constitutional Revision Commission in 1977 and 1978.

As an attorney, D'Alemberte has been with the Steel Hector & Davis law firm in Miami and Tallahassee where he first began his law career in 1962 and was named partner in 1965.

Numerous awards D'Alemberte has won include the 1993 Academy of Florida Trial Lawyers Perry Nichols Award; the 1993 Florida Academy of Criminal Defense Lawyers Annual Criminal Justice Award; the 1990 Jurisprudence Award from the Anti-Defamation League of South Florida; the 1986 National Sigma Delta Chi First Amendment Award; a 1985 American Academy of Television Arts and Sciences "Emmy" for his work in open government, particularly the opening of court proceedings to electronic journalists; the 1987 Florida Bar Foundation Medal of Honor Award and the 1984 Florida Civil Liberties Union "Nelson Poynter" Award.

Born June 1, 1933, in Tallahassee, D'Alemberte was educated in public schools in Tallahassee and Chattahoochee, Fla. In 1955, he earned his bachelor's degree with honors in political science from the University of the South in Sewanee, Tenn. After his military service as a lieutenant in the Naval Reserve, D'Alemberte studied on a Rotary Foundation Fellowship at the London School of Economics and Political Science, University of London, England. In 1961, he received his juris doctorate with honors from the University of Florida, where he was named to the Order of the Coif and served as president of the Student Bar Association and articles editor of the UF Law Review.

D'Alemberte's book, "The Florida Constitution," was published by Greenwood Press in 1991. He was co-editor of the 1990 four-volume work, "Florida Civic Trial Guide" and has written many published articles.

He is the father of two grown children, Gabrielle Lyn, a law student at the University of Denver, and Joshua Talbot, a senior at his father's alma mater, the University of the South. D'Alemberte is married to Patsy Palmer, the children's-policy coordinator in Gov. Lawton Chiles' office.

As FSU president, D'Alemberte follows Dr. Bernard F. Sliger, president emeritus, who had served as the 10th FSU chief executive for 15 years before stepping down in 1991. Sliger then returned to the university's helm in September 1993 following the resignation of his successor, Dr. Dale W. Lick, who served from 1991 to 1993.

Bob Goin

BOB GOIN Athletic Director

Florida State's athletic program has never experienced a growth period like the one currently in progress. From new facilities to the continued improvement of all 16 Seminole teams, both on the playing field and in the classroom, this growth has been spurred by the leadership of Athletic Director Bob Goin. In his fourth year at the helm of the Florida State athletic department, Goin is moving Seminole athletics into the future.

Recently, Goin saw the completion of the Scott Speicher Tennis Center at Donald Loucks Courts. The state-of-the-art tennis complex includes 12 lighted courts and 1,332 seats. It is continued proof of Florida State's commitment to building top-notch facilities for its athletes.

Goin is also watching over the expansion of Doak Campbell Stadium and the construction of the Daisy Parker Flory Wing of the Moore Athletic Center, which will bring all FSU coaches and athletic department staff under one roof for the first time in school history. Furthermore, the addition of a top of the line academic center shows Goin's commitment to a strong student athlete outreach program.

Goin was also a leading force in Florida State's move into the prestigious Atlantic Coast Conference in 1991. The decision to join the ACC has proven to be mutually beneficial to Florida State and the conference.

By implementing one of the nation's top compliance programs, spearheading the development of athletic facilities and committing himself to continuing FSU's unprecedented successes both on and off the athletic field, Goin has proven to be an excellent leader.

In addition, Goin is becoming a nationally-recognized leader. Recently, he was named the third vice-president of the Division I-A National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics, a position which will see him become president of that group in three years. Goin was also named a Chair of the College Football Association Board of Directors in 1993; he is a member of the NCAA Interpretations Committee. In 1993, Goin began his first year on the Atlantic Coast Conference Baseball Committee and his third on the ACC Television Committee.

An assistant and then associate athletic director at Florida State from 1982-90 before becoming the acting athletic director and then athletic director, Goin ran many aspects of the day-to-day operation of the FSU athletic department. He was in charge of all game-day operations for the Seminole football, basketball and baseball teams, in addition to many other duties. Goin worked as tournament director for seven NCAA baseball regionals.

Goin came to Tallahassee in July of 1981 after two years as athletic director at California (PA) State College, where he was credited with expanding the athletic department and forming the Cal State Athletic Scholarship Fund and Athletic Booster Club.

Prior to taking the California post, Goin served as assistant athletic director at West Virginia University. From 1976-79, Goin was involved in several expansion projects at WVU, including construction of a new stadium and athletic facility.

From 1960-76, Goin worked at Bethany College, where he held a variety of positions, including associate professor and chairman of physical education and athletics. He also coached the football, basketball and baseball teams at Bethany.

A recipient of a number of coaching honors, Goin has also served on many university-wide committees. He and his wife, Nancy, have three sons — Doug, Brian and Bruce — a daughter, Janice, and two grandchildren — Nikki, 13, and Robbie, 11.

CHARLES W. EHRHARDT Faculty Athletic Committee Chairman

Entering his 10th year as the Chairman of the FSU Athletic Committee, Professor of Law Charles Ehrhardt is an important link for Florida State with the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

He is a member of the NCAA President's Commission Liaison Committee and the NCAA Special Committee which reviewed the Association's Enforcement and Infractions process.

During his tenure as the athletic committee chair, Ehrhardt twice served as president of the Metro Conference and at one time was the chair of the Faculty Athletics Representatives Association.

This is Ehrhardt's second stint on FSU's Athletic Committee. A professor of Law at Florida State since 1967, he first served as a member of the committee from 1969-71. He was reappointed to the board in 1983 and succeeded Dr. James Jones as chairman in 1984, thus becoming Florida State's representative to the NCAA.

A highly-respected expert in the field of Evidence, Ehrhardt is the Ladd Professor of Evidence in the Florida State College of Law. He wrote the Florida Evidence Code, passed by the state legislature in 1976, which deals with the admissibility of evidence in court trials. Ehrhardt has written a book on evidence, which is now in its third edition.

Ehrhardt is in demand as a lecturer and speaker. He works with lawyers and judges nationwide as a private consultant on evidence matters. He currently teaches in the areas of torts, evidence, trial advocacy and sports law. He has been honored four times as the outstanding professor in FSU's College of Law and was the recipient of a University Teaching Award in 1989.

A native of Elkader, Iowa, Ehrhardt received a bachelor's degree from Iowa State University in 1962. He went on to the University of Iowa, where he earned his law degree two years later. He became an Assistant United States Attorney in Iowa before coming to Tallahassee.

Ehrhardt and his wife, the former Judy Sutton, have three children.

ATLANTIC Coast Conference

The Tradition

Consistency. It's the mark of true excellence in any endeavor.

In today's intercollegiate athletics, competition has become so balanced and so competitive that it is virtually impossible to maintain a high level of consistency.

Yet the Atlantic Coast Conference has defied the odds. Now in its 41st year of competition, the ACC has long enjoyed a reputation as one of the strongest and most competitive intercollegiate conferences in the nation. And that is not mere conjecture, the numbers support it.

Since the league's inception in 1953, Atlantic Coast Conference schools have captured 47 NCAA and AIAW championships, including 27 in men's competition and 21 in women's. In addition, 76 men and 25 women have earned the coveted title of NCAA champion.

The ACC also stands at the forefront of intercollegiate athletics in terms of academic accomplishments of its student athletes. That accomplishment is nowhere better reflected than in the CFA Academic Achievement Award, given annually to the CFA member institution with the highest graduation rate among members of its football team. Seven times over the past 13 years, an ACC member school has claimed the award.

The Championships

The conference currently conducts championship competition in 23 sports, including 12 for men and 11 for women.

The first ACC championship was held in swimming on February 25, 1954, while the league's inaugural basketball tournament took place March 4-6, 1954, at North Carolina State, drawing 36,000 fans over the three days.

The 12 sports for men include football, cross country, soccer, basketball, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, wrestling, baseball, tennis, golf and lacrosse.

Women's sports were initiated in 1977 and conference championships for women are currently conducted in cross country, volleyball, field hockey, soccer, basketball, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, tennis, golf and softball.

1992-93 In Review

The ACC enjoyed another productive year in 1992-93 as conference teams captured four national championships, sent four football teams to bowl games, saw league football champ Florida State finish second in the nation, and won over 73 percent of their games against non-conference opponents in all sports.

North Carolina made it three men's basketball national titles in a row for the ACC by defeating Michigan 77-71 in the championship game. The Tar Heels maintained a Top 10 ranking throughout the course of the season en route to a 34-4 record and the league's seventh crown since 1953.

In conference competition, North Carolina led all schools by capturing seven ACC championships. Duke was second with four league crowns, followed by Clemson with three, Florida State, Georgia Tech, N.C. State and Virginia with two titles each and Maryland with one.

INSIDE Pitch

With Georgia Tech and Florida State ranked 1-2 in Baseball America's annual preseason Top 25 poll, the Atlantic Coast Conference becomes the first league ever to place the top two teams in BA's preseason rankings.
