Florida State University's 1983 football guide has been designed for use by the media and Seminole fans. Any questions not covered in this brochure can be addressed to the Sports Information Office.

Additional information such as feature material and photos will be made available to any accredited member of the media upon request.

All requests for working press, radio, television, photographer, or scouting credentials should be directed to the Florida State Sports Information Director at least one week prior to the game.

Credentials: Space for the working press, radio, television and scouts is allocated by the Sports Information Office. All requests for working credentials should be directed to this office in writing at least one week prior to the game. Florida State's press box is located on the west side of Doak Campbell Stadium with elevator service to all levels. Media representatives and scouts should enter through the Press Gate, located north of the elevator.

Policies: Working press will be admitted to the press deck, where approximately 90 seats are available. Credentials are issued by FSU according to the following criteria:

- (A) Local newspapers, wire services, national publications, newspapers from opponent's area and student newspapers from FSU and opponent's school.
- (B) Other daily newspapers with preference to those which regularly cover FSU.
- (C) Scouts.
- (D) Non-daily newspapers, with preference to those which have regularly covered FSU.
- (E) Radio and television personnel not actually broadcasting, but considered reporting (seats will be provided in the stands).

Radio-TV: The sixth level of the press box is designated for use by radio and television broadcasting crews and home and visiting coaches. Each booth is fully enclosed and sound proof.

Photographers: Only accredited photographers will be issued credentials. The photo deck, or roof, of the press box offers an unobstructed view for TV, movie and still cameras. Photographers will be allowed on the sidelines only after receiving an armband on game day. Armbands can be picked up at the base of the press box when a field photo pass is presented. Only freelance photographers shooting for the FSU Sports Information Office will be issued credentials. Dark-room space is available in the stadium upon request.

Press Parking: Parking is limited and passes will be issued on a priority basis within the same guidelines as working credentials. The press lot is located on the southwest corner of Doak Campbell Stadium. Access to the lot should be made from Stadium Drive.

Services: Play-by-Play, half-time and complete statistics will be provided. When possible, post game comments from both coaches and players will be available. A light pre-game meal will be served on Level Six and refreshments will be available throughout the game.

Telecopiers: An independent telecopier service will be available for each game with a nominal fee being charged. Please contact the Sports Information Office in advance. If you plan to use your own telecopier and phone, please have them placed in the telecopier area of the press deck.

Telephones: Telephone service should be secured directly through Centel Telephone Company of Florida, Tallahassee (904/222-2236). Have them contact the Sports Information Office for location.

More Information: Anyone with questions or desiring assistance can contact the Sports Information Office, P.O. Drawer 2195, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32316, Phone (904/644-4038).

Special Note to the Media: Florida State football coaches are scheduled to move into the new athletic administration building sometime in late August with the rest of the administration (including the Sports Information Office) moving sometime in late September. Due to construction schedules contingent on weather, etc., there is a chance that the coaches, who are now housed in the press box, must remain longer. Please bear with us on any circumstances we may have to deal with. Please also be advised that the entire athletic department will change over to one departmental phone number sometime in mid-season, probably October. Fall football releases will keep you up to date on when those changes will take effect.

OUTLOOK

Look Who's Back In Town!

Look out College football! Florida State is back again.

Back, that is, among the nation's elite. Back to the status of national power. Back, if all goes according to schedule, among the teams that are to be reckoned with come next December. And perhaps even back where it was in 1979 and '80—with a shot at bringing home a national championship.

Really the absence from this lofty height wasn't all that prolonged. After consecutive Orange Bowl appearances in the aforementioned years—two years in which the Seminoles were but only one victory away from winning it all—they dipped to 6-5 in 1981.

But just at the time when the grandstand quarterbacks felt Bobby Bowden's Tribe had reached its peak and were into a decline, it suddenly became apparent that the engine was idling.

Last year, when no one gave the Seminoles a chance to return to power status, Bowden fooled everyone by taking a young, hungry team to within one game of a return to the Orange Bowl—and eventually to a finish in the nation's Top Ten. The high finish in the final polls (a consensus 7th), marked the third time in the last four seasons that Florida State had finished a season in the Top Ten.

Florida State returns eight starters on a Bowden-style wide-open offense which rolled up 466 yards per game in 1982. That figure ranked the Seminoles third in the country behind Nebraska and Brigham Young.

Mr. Touchdown: FSU's Greg Allen ran for 20 touchdowns and caught one more for a nation's leading 21 scores in 1982. Allen also finished among the nation's leaders in kickoff returns and all-purpose yardage. More Good News: Allen is just a junior and Bowden promises he'll tote the ball often in '83.

And while last year's 9-3 record and the overwhelming 31-12 Gator Bowl victory over West Virginia was enough to make Seminole fans ecstatic, the thought of what could happen in 1983 has them on the brink of pandemonium.

"If we can keep everybody healthy and get the answers to a couple of questions—yes, we could be as good as anybody," says Bowden. "What we have here is a whole bunch of great potential. Right now that's all it is—potential."

A great deal of that substance called potential is on offense. It was there that last year's Seminoles shined. They finished second only to Nebraska in scoring, and third behind the Cornhuskers and Brigham Young in total offense. Pretty elite company to say the least.

"Before the season last year we kept thinking that our defense was just awful," said FSU linebacker Coach Gene McDowell. "We couldn't stop anything our offense was doing. After we got into the season we realized that nobody else could stop our offense either. Our defense wasn't that bad—our offense was just THAT GOOD."

If the Seminole offense was indeed "that good," then it should be even better this time around.

Returning to the fold for 1983 is the team's starting quarterback and leading passer, Kelly Lowrey, four of the top five running backs, six of the top eight receivers and nine of the 10 players off the first two offensive lines.

"Kinda scares me to death," said Bowden. "I'll tell you what, there was one time during last season that I looked out there and saw us doing things that I couldn't believe. I said to myself, 'there's nobody in the world that can stop us.'"

Of course, LSU and Florida did a good job of slowing down the offensive machine for two nights toward season's end.

"That's why I say that we've got potential," Bowden says with caution. "It's always gonna be out there but we've got to use it. We saw in a couple of games what could happen if we don't throw and we don't catch and we don't block. You could have the greatest talent in the world, but you've still gotta go out there and do it."

Bowden has a proverbial good/bad story to report at quarterback. First the good news: Kelly Lowrey, who directed the Seminoles to seven straight victories a year ago, is back and looks better than ever.

"I'll tell you what, he looked better in spring than we even thought was possible," said Bowden of Lowrey. "I'm telling you if he plays like he did in the spring he will be one of the top quarterbacks in America."

The bad news is that there is an obvious void behind Lowrey.

"We really wanted someone to rise to the top and take over that No. 2 spot," said the Coach. "What we had was a bunch of guys who were very close to one another. I don't like when you've got a bunch of players in a pack like that. Your great player will always rise above the rest. I haven't seen that yet."

Look for Bob Davis, Rick Taylor, Eric Thomas and Kirk Coker all to get another shot at Bowden's chief backup quickly this fall.

The Florida State runners will be led by the familiar Greg Allen who returns for his junior year. Look for him to get the ball a lot in 1983 and that could spell trouble for Tribe opponents. Allen has rushed for more than 1,600 yards in his first two seasons and has carried the ball just slightly more than 13 times per game.

"I wouldn't be surprised if he gets a few more times than that this year," said Bowden. "We think he's a great runner and we may just turn him loose and see what he can do."

Cedric Jones is a dependable runner who saw considerable action last year—he could play tailback or fullback. Horace Wilmot emerged from the spring as the No. 1 fullback and he looks to see plenty of time there this fall. Also keep a close eye out for junior college transfer Roosevelt Snipes at tailback. A gifted athlete, Snipes will get the once-over in the fall and may be a familiar name before season's end.

Not much more can be written or said about the Florida State receivers. Without question it is the most solid group—top to bottom—in the school's history. Two years running Bowden snared the best available receiver in the land. Jessie Hester will be a junior this year, Hassan Jones a sophomore. Both can catch, both can run, both are extremely dangerous and both finished behind Tony Johnson on the receiving list in '82. Johnson and 6-6 Weegie Thompson are fine pass-catchers who will be seniors this year.

Tom McCormick has been an All-South selection at center two years in a row. Ricky Render was the second team All-South tackle, Jim Thompson, the other tackle, was voted last year's most improved player and Jamie Dukes has been called the best young lineman ever to enroll at Florida State. With those people up front along with massive Herbert Harp, things are solid.

A year ago the second team offensive line played almost as much as the first unit. Any of the group including Terry Widner, Parrish Barwick, John Ionata, Sam Restivo and Gerry Riopelle could crack the lineup before play begins.

With all of that good news one could get the feeling the 1983 Seminoles just can't be beaten. Wrong.

"I can tell you how to beat us," said Bowden. "The same way those teams beat us last year. You take the ball and ram it right down our throats. We have got to be able to stop that stuff right up the middle. We can't be giving up five, six, seven yards right up the middle on the first down."

The main man in charge of doing that is Florida State's "Secretary of Defense" Alphonso Carreker. At 6-6, 250 Carreker is certain to be an early-round pro draft pick and Florida State coaches believe he's the best defensive tackle in college football this year. They may be right.

Helping along the defensive front will be returning starters David Ponder, back at tackle after having to fill a hole at nose guard a year ago, and Brad Fojtik. Coaches took a long, hard look at Lenny Chavers, back after missing a season with knee surgery, and Todd Stroud to play the nose in 1983.

Dependable John McLean returns at one outside linebacker spot this year (they don't call them ends anymore) along with junior Brian Williams. Garth Jax, the Texan who won himself a starting slot in the Gator Bowl as a freshman, will play some here as well.

Florida State lost its leading tackler in Tommy Young, but the Seminoles return the other half of the linebacking tandem in senior Ken Roe. Henry Taylor looks to be the other starter, but Prince Matt and Kim Mack played considerably last year and should do the same in 1983.

The biggest question mark in the Seminole camp is the defensive secondary where only Brian McCary returns. Warren Hanna and Harvey Clayton were lost to graduation and Larry Harris will miss 1983 recuperating from knee surgery. Speedster Billy Allen asked to be moved to cornerback last spring and improved every time out as he gained experience.

"The only problem," says Bowden of Allen "is that I don't want him over Jessie Hester (l) averaged 216 yards per catch to head a flashy group of wide receivers who are among the nation's best. No less than 16 players caught at least one pass in 1982. Fitting perfectly in that style is running back Cedric Jones (r) whose versatility allowed him to not only catch 12 passes, but throw for a touchdown too.

there if he's gonna be a second-teamer. I'll leave him there as long as we think he can play. He's too good an athlete to sit on the bench."

Junior Eric Riley probably had the best spring among the defensive backs and he'll have a good chance to start at one corner. McCary is very solid at weak safety but a decision will have to be made between Pat Milligan, Tracy Ashley, Joe Wessel and John Piurowski for the strong safety slot.

The kicking game will again be a question early. It appears that Philip Hall will enter the season as the placement specialist, although Mike Rendina hasn't been counted out. Hall is extremely accurate but doesn't have nearly as much range as Rendina.

Walkon Brian Harlow handled the punting chores last season and did reasonably well although Bowden is looking for a better job in 1983. Freshman signee Louis Berry from Panama City, Fla., is the heir-apparent as the Tribe punter but how soon he'll be able to take over remains to be seen.

The Offense

QUARTERBACK—Head coach Bobby Bowden feels good about his No. 1 quarterback, and he should. Kelly Lowrey rose from the dregs of the also-rans during last season's fall practice to lead the Seminoles in total offensive yards. His '82 statistics included 113 completions of 217 passes thrown, 1,670 total yards and 11 touchdowns. And in the 11 games he played, Lowrey threw just eight interceptions. A starter in seven games, the senior enhanced his position with FSU coaches in the spring by improving his total game. So sold on Lowrey is Bowden, that the head coach suggests "how Lowrey goes, so goes the Seminole offense. We feel real good about what Kelly can do," says Bowden. "He improved his overall game in the spring. He can do so many things for us. If he stays healthy, we can be a very good offense." Bowden doesn't feel quite so good about the backup quarterback situation, although Bob Davis made fine progress. Walk-on Kirk Coker and often injured Eric Thomas enter fall practice in the best position to challenge Davis for the second spot.

TAILBACK—The good news here is the return of the nation's leading scorer—Greg Allen. Twenty-one times in '82 Allen went over and through opponents' defense for six points. In just two seasons as a Quarterback Kelly Lowrey is the leader of the offensive outfit; despite entering last season as a little-used third stringer, he passed for 1,671 yards and 11 touchdowns. Lowrey ran for four scores and he even caught a touchdown pass.

Seminole, he has rushed for 1,600 yards and 24 touchdowns and holds a ton of FSU school records. A "backup" to Ricky Williams for the last two years, Allen enters the fall as Defense may be the only question mark on this '83 squad. Can the defense rise to the Orange Bowl defenses of 1979 and '80 which limited opponents to just over a touchdown per game?

a starter. Others figuring in the picture here are Cedric Jones and another Allen—Billy. Jones is a natural tailback, but he has seen time at fullback when a double tailback system has been used. Allen, Billy, is still somewhat of a question mark since he spent the spring learning cornerback but count on seeing him in the offensive backfield. Two newcomers—Roosevelt Snipes and Darrin Holloman—will probably settle into jobs on the speciality teams.

FULLBACK—Bowden spent the spring searching for a bruising fullback, a blocker in the spirit of the graduated Ken Burnett. The search will continue. But with fleetfooted runners Cedric Jones and Horace Wilmot in the backfield, the Seminoles enter fall practice sporting a different dimension. Jones netted 167 yards during the '82 season on 33 carries through his reserve fullback role. During the spring he was moved to tailback but his speed at fullback will have Bowden looking at several different schemes including the usage of split-backs. "The split-back provides us with a different dimension at fullback," he says. It favors the kind of runners we have."

WIDE RECEIVER—"The roster here is deep, talent laden and experienced," says the 1982 media guide in describing last year's receiving corps. Ditto for 1983 as Hassan Jones, Weegie Thompson, Jessie Hester and Tony Johnson are all back. At split end, Thompson, who enjoyed an excellent spring, has the edge over Tony Johnson. Thompson missed the first half of the '82 season with a broken leg while Johnson was the Seminoles' leading receiver with 30 catches. "Both are capable of starting at any major college in the country," Bowden says of the split end tandem. "We have a lot of depth there." Jones is number one at the flanker spot with Hester behind him. As a freshman, the Clearwater native had 12 catches and got his first start in the Gator Bowl. Hester, the Seminoles' greatest threat as a game-breaker, must become more consistent if he is to win back the job he held for 11 games last season. Hester was the leader in touchdown catches last year with five. Also figuring among the wide receivers is red-shirt sophomore Steve Nicklaus.

TIGHT END—Without a doubt, Bowden's number one concern on offense is this position. With the graduation of Zeke Mowatt, depth as well as talent is the problem. In Tom Wheeler the Seminoles have a solid performer, but one who has been plagued by injuries. Because of those injuries he saw limited action in '82. An injury also cut short his best spring. Nevertheless, Wheeler enters the fall locked in a battle with former linebacker Pete Panton. Panton impressed Seminole coaches with his reckless play and blocking but he is short on experience. A newcomer could find this position one that would allow early playing time.

INTERIOR LINE—Center highlights an offensive line which returns all its starters. Returning All-South center Tom McCormick enters the fall number one but fast-improving Sam Restivo is only slightly behind. The senior McCormick has twice been selected first team All-South Independent and Associated Press honorable mention All-American. According to Bowden, Restivo's strong spring performance means center may be a shared proposition this fall. Sophomore Jamie Dukes anchors right guard while Ricky Render is the top man at the left guard. Gerry Riopelle will challenge at left guard while sophomores Parrish Barwick and Joe Kostka are behind Dukes at the other spot. Jim Thompson enters the fall at his starting left tackle position despite missing spring workouts with a knee injury. Behind Thompson will be sophomore John Ionata, who made improvements during the spring. Herbert Harp anchors strong tackle with Terry Widner backing him. With such depth it appears Bowden will platoon his entire line once again. "We're not dominating yet," says Bowden, "but we've got everyone back and I hope we've improved."

The Defense

OUTSIDE LINEBACKERS—A new name, experienced veterans and excellent depth add some pizzazz to the former defensive end positions. Returning starter John McLean enters fall practice anchoring the left side while spring practice's most improved player, Brian Williams, is ahead of Garth Jax at the right outside linebacker spot. According to Bobby Bowden, both starters enjoyed excellent springs. McLean was FSU's fourth leading tackler during the '82 season while Williams saw action as a reserve behind McLean. Freshman Jax, a starter in the Gator Bowl, missed spring practice due to a broken leg. Another freshman, Stanley Scott, starts fall practice behind McLean. Bowden says Florida State should "be solid at the outside linebacker spots barring injury."

Bowden has suggested, "How Lowrey goes, so goes the FSU offense."

TACKLES—All-America candidate Alphonso Carreker welcomes back David Ponder to the interior wall where the tandem will tackle challenges named Arizona State, LSU and Auburn among others. Last year the two accounted for 154 tackles. FSU coaches say left tackle Carreker, who enters the fall on the wake of excellent '83 spring and '82 season performances, can be one of the nation's premier defensive tackles. Carreker started in opponent's backfields eight times last year, tops in quarterback sacks for the Seminoles. Ponder returns to his '81 home at right tackle after starting at noseguard a year ago. He did see some limited action at tackle when freshman Isaac Williams filled in for him at nose. Ponder missed most of spring with a knee injury. Also expected to contribute at tackle this fall will be three sophomores. Williams, moved from nose guard, plays behind Carreker while Jim Hendley and Gerald Nichols back up Ponder.

NOSEGUARDS—Brad Fojtik enters fall practice No. 1 at this spot, despite missing the spring game with a knee injury. As a starting tackle in '82, Fojtik made 61 hits. The feeling among Seminole coaches is that the much-traveled Fojtik, who began his Seminole career as a defensive end, has the quickness better suited for nose. Sophomore Todd Stroud, a surprise in the spring, plays behind Fojtik. Lenny Chavers, who entered last fall's campaign a starter before being sidelined by a knee injury, adds further experience. Better depth, cites Bowden, should be a plus at noseguard this fall.

Seniors John McLean (l), Ken Roe (38) and Alphonso Carreker (76) will anchor the defense in 1983. Roe and Carreker combined for 120 tackles and 122 assists last year.

LINEBACKERS—"Solid" is the way Bowden describes the linebacker spot which features the likes of All-South performer Ken Roe and much-improved Henry Taylor. Two-year starter Roe was the Seminoles' second leading tackler last fall with 145. He made his mark in nearly every defensive category last year, including two interceptions, three blocked kicks and two recovered fumbles. Improved durability only increased the senior's stock during the spring. He will be backed by Kim Mack at strong linebacker. A good spring performance shot Taylor to the top of the pack at the middle linebacker spot going into fall practice. He will be challenged by top reserve of a year ago—Prince Matt. Sophomores Cletis Jones and Stuart Wyatt also are in positions to challenge.

CORNERBACKS—In a defensive secondary that ranked as Bobby Bowden's No. 1 concern in the spring, the cornerbacks worried Bowden most. But as the spring progressed so did Eric Riley and Billy Allen. The two are one-two entering fall practice at the strong cornerback spot but Allen may be switched back to offense. The other cornerback spot belongs to Rocky Kinsey, despite his having missed the entire spring with an injury. By far, Riley enjoyed the best spring of the mass of walk-ons, experiments and regular defensive backs who were tried at corner. "He has great athletic ability and good speed," says Bowden. "He's just inexperienced." Walk-on Anthony Smiley will challenge Kinsey at the other slot. Also look for walk-ons to get a good looking over this fall.

SAFETIES—Brian McCrary and Pat Milligan, the two starters in the Gator Bowl, return although both are locked into tight battles entering the fall. McCrary, who missed spring with a fractured hand will be challenged by Joe Wessel and John Piurowski at free safety. McCrary tied John McLean in tackles last year with 79 for fourth-best among Seminole defenders. He shared the team lead in interceptions with four and against East Carolina had a personal high nine tackles. Wessel, a junior, enjoyed his best spring as a sophomore. At free safety Milligan completed the spring in a battle with Tracy Ashley.

KICKING GAME—Despite the return of starting punter Brian Harlow and place kicker Philip Hall, Bobby Bowden says he will be looking for help in these areas. Harlow's inconsistency and low 37.2 average means either two things—the sophomore improves or Bowden will probably go with Panama City freshman Louis Berry. As for the kicking game, Bowden is pleased with walk-on Philip Hall in extra point and short field goal situations. He made 52 of 53 extra points during the 1982 season and was good on six of seven field goals. His 70 points was second on the team in scoring. But when it comes to range, Bowden may have to look to a host of walk-ons unless Mike Rendina can improve his accuracy. After a freshman year in which he was the Seminoles' leading scorer with 52 points, Rendina suffered through an injury-hampered sophomore year. During the spring he showed neither the accuracy or distance that Seminole coaches desire.
