Seven straight Top Four finishes. Nine straight bowl wins. 239 career victories. Fifth on the all-time Division I-A coaching win list. The nation's winningest bowl coach — ever. Fourteen Top 20 finishes in 18 seasons. Two Atlantic Coast Conference championships. Thirteen career bowl wins. Seven straight 10-win seasons.

It all adds up to an impressive list of credentials compiled by Florida State University Head Coach Bobby Bowden during a 28-year coaching career. Even with all those accomplishments to his name, over the last four years not a day went by, hardly an interview concluded, without Bowden having to answer The Question.

"Do you feel your career is missing something without a national title?"

or

"Does winning the national championship eat away at you?"

or

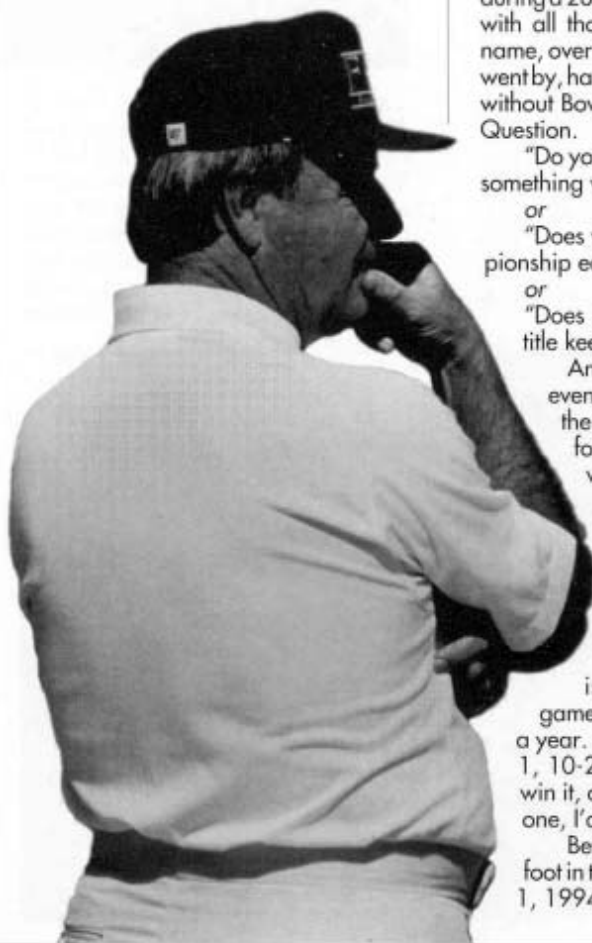

"Does NOT winning the national title keep you awake at night?"

And every time, every time, even though he had answered the query a hundred times before, the Florida State coach would reply in this vein.

"Sure, I'd like to have one (a national championship), but I don't stay awake at night thinking about it. It's not what motivates me.

"To me, the most satisfying thing is winning games. I like winning 10 games a year. If they said you can go 11-1, 10-2, 11-1 every year and not win it, or go 5-6, 4-7 and then win one, I'd rather win the games."

Before Bobby Bowden set one foot in the Orange Bowl on January 1, 1994, he was a college football coaching legend. Before Derrick Alexander led a ferocious charge on the top rushing attack in the country, before Matt Frier's impassioned halftime speech and William Floyd's determined running, before Charlie Ward's final drive and Scott Bentley's most important field goal, even before Byron Bennett's "wide left" and the final gun — Bobby Bowden was a winner. But before that 18-16 victory over Nebraska, Bowden could not escape The Question.

Now, he never has to hear it again. And that may be the best thing about winning the national championship.

In the early morning hours of January 2nd, when Bowden's Seminoles were unanimously proclaimed the 1993 National Champions, it was hard to tell whether the veteran coach felt more happiness at winning that one single game, or relief about adding the missing element to his nearly unending list of accomplishments.

That morning, there was also a clue to what has made Bobby Bowden one of the most successful college coaches in history. Because after the late night celebration with family and friends, the morning television shows and photo shoots, Bowden was already working on 1994. He went recruiting.

"I'll probably get to enjoy this in February," Bowden said at a press conference later that morning. He wasn't kidding.

His "day after", spent in the homes of five top Miami area recruits, also showed that just because Bowden earned that first national championship, doesn't mean he's ready to stop there.

"The way I've got it figured, after retirement, there's only one big event left," Bowden said. "And I'm not ready for that."

Indeed, Bowden's "lifetime" contract at Florida State is renewed every year for a five-year period, ensuring that the man whose name has become synonymous with Florida State football will finish his career in Tallahassee.

Back in 1976, when then-president Stanley Marshall and athletic director John Bridgers brought Bowden to Tallahassee from West Virginia, there were few clues that the Birmingham, Ala. native would transform Florida State into the football power it is today. When he arrived, the Seminoles had won just four games in the previous three seasons, including an 0-11 campaign in 1973. There was talk of ending the program.

"When I was at Alabama, all I heard was 'Beat Auburn.' When I was at West Virginia, all I heard was 'Beat Pitt.' When I got to FSU, their bumper stickers read 'Beat Anybody!'" Bowden joked in the early years.

Bowden himself had been hung in effigy in West Virginia, despite compiling a 42-26 record at the school in six years there and taking the Mountaineers to a pair of Peach Bowls. He left after a 9-3 season at WVU and returned to Tallahassee, where he had been an assistant coach under Bill Peterson from 1963-65, coaching the FSU wide receivers.

Upon his return to Florida State, Bowden immediately united the Seminole fans, alumni and team under a common goal. That goal — to play arch-rival Florida on an even keel. It's a promise he has kept. Since Bowden's arrival, the Tribe is 10-8 against UF.

Within two years, Bowden had led the Seminoles to their first 10-win season and to their first bowl game in six years when his 1977 team went 10-2, including a Tangerine Bowl victory over Texas Tech. It was a preview of things to come.

In Bowden's 18 seasons at Florida State, the Seminoles have now won 10 or more games 10 times. FSU has been to 15 bowl games in his 18 years, including a string of 12 in a row and eight New Year's Day trips. Prior to his arrival, Florida State had been to just eight bowls in 29 years. His FSU win total of 166 is greater than the total of the school's previous seven head coaches combined.

Bowden's Florida State record is 166-46-3. His teams have become nearly unbeatable at home with an 88-15-1 record, while earning the head coach "King of the Road" status with a 78-31-2 mark outside of Tallahassee.

Many of those 78 road wins have come in some of the toughest stadiums in the country as his squads played at Nebraska, Clemson, Notre Dame, LSU and Michigan, to name a few. By playing some of the nation's toughest schedules, Bowden earned respect for his team, lured top players to his program and developed a reputation as an intense competitor, unafraid to take on anyone, anywhere.

Bowden has brought a 47-year-old Florida State football program into the national limelight. FSU is now mentioned in the same breath as long-time football powers Notre Dame, Michigan, USC and Nebraska. The Seminoles have become a mainstay in the Associated Press Top 20, and of late, the Top 10. Under Bowden, the Tribe has spent 127 weeks in the Top 10. In the last three seasons alone, Florida State has spent 24 weeks as number one and has rarely strayed from the Top Five. In 18 seasons, Bowden's FSU teams have 14 Top 20 finishes.

Last season's 12-1 record and No. 1 final ranking tied Florida State with Miami as the only schools ever to post seven straight Top Four finishes. Over the past seven seasons, the Seminoles have finished second (1987), third (1988 and '89), fourth (1990 and '91), second (1992) and first (1993).

Those 10 win seasons keep adding up, and Bowden's career victories now add up to 239. Only four coaches in the history of Division I-A football have more. Bear Bryant, Amos Alonzo Stagg, Pop Warner and Joe Paterno are ahead of Bowden on that all-time win list. The Orange Bowl win over Nebraska pushed Bowden ahead of Woody Hayes. It's mighty select company.

"To tell you the truth, when I started out, I never thought about breaking records or getting this many wins or that many. I just wanted to coach football and win games," Bowden said. "So far, it's worked out OK, so I guess I'll just stick with that."

Likewise, Bowden is hard-pressed to explain his unprecedented success in bowl games. Florida State's string of 12 bowl games without a loss dates back to the 1981 Orange Bowl, while the nine wins in nine straight seasons (an NCAA record) goes back to a 17-17 tie with Georgia in the 1984 Citrus Bowl. Only Bryant and Paterno, with 15 each, have more bowl wins than Bowden. His 13-3-1 bowl record and .794 win percentage is unmatched in the history of college football.

However, it is not Bowden's bowl victories or 10-win seasons or national rankings that made he and Florida State University the perfect match 18 years ago. Maybe it's his down-home accent, his folksy charm and his self-deprecating humor.

"Move that halo down a few inches and it's a noose," he says about his sometime nickname, "St. Bobby."

"Hey gal, how ya doin'?" or "Now, where are you from buddy?" he asks strangers he meets in the hallway.

No one is a stranger for long. Bowden is quick with a handshake or a hug for everyone, big and small. He hates to say no to requests. He flies around the country every off day during the season and nearly every day during the offseason, giving speeches to churches and businesses, hospitals and youth groups, making appearances and shaking hands. His schedule would tire even a much younger man, but the 64-year-old makes it look easy. He has become Florida State's number one goodwill ambassador.

He enjoys dealing with the media and keeps up with what is written and said about his team. Everyday, he takes time out for phone calls and remains one of the most accessible major college coaches in the nation. His affinity for the media led some to say he was TOO well-liked, and that because he was a "good guy", people gave his team a break in the polls last year. TOO well-liked? Too sincere? Well, if that's the worst thing people can say about you, it's been a pretty successful run.

Bowden is a man with his priorities in order. God and Family top the list. In this day when coaches go crazy, threatening each other, throwing tantrums and living solely for their sport, Florida State's man says "I realized a long time ago that football is not life and death. It's just football, a nice game. I hate to lose, but I love life too much to let it get me down."

It takes a lot to make a successful coach. Bowden is coach, motivator, leader, delegator, organizer, recruiter and father figure. In 40 years of coaching, he has changed with the times and adapted to new things. On the field, he stresses blocking and tackling, yet opened up the Florida State offense to the shotgun, no-huddle attack in recent years. And off, he can be a strict disciplinarian, yet lets players be themselves in their dress and leaves his door open to one and all.

Bowden has gained respect nationwide for his coaching style. His desire to go for the win and the two-point conversion against Miami in 1987 attracted admirers across the country. And few will forget the "punt-rooskie", which led to a big victory at Clemson in 1988. Bowden's bag of tricks. His players love them, his opponents dread them and the fans expect them. But for every trick, there's a screen pass, or a simple out, or a fullback dive.

"You can take all the X's and O's and the fancy formations and the hidden defenses," Bowden said at his first press conference at Florida State back in '76, "but if you don't block and tackle better than the people you're playing, then you're going to get beat."

Bowden grew up in the shadow of Legion Field and was an all-star quar-

Georgia Junior College in Douglas, Ga. There, he compiled a 22-11 record before returning to his alma mater as the head coach in 1959. He went 31-6 at Samford in four years and dominated Alabama small-college football. Following his stint at FSU as an assistant coach, Bowden went to West Virginia as an assistant for three years and was subsequently promoted to the top job. Then he slipped on a patch of West Virginia ice following his Florida State interview, made the decision to come to Tallahassee and the rest, as they say, is Seminole legend.

Bowden is also the patriarch of the "first family of college coaching." He and son Terry, the head coach at Auburn University and last year's national Coach-of-the-Year, are the first father-son duo to lead Division I-A programs, let alone to coach them at the same time. Terry's brother, Tommy, is on the staff at Auburn, as is brother-in-law Jack Hines, who is married to Bobby and Ann's eldest daughter, Robyn. Youngest son Jeff joined the Florida State coaching staff in 1994 as the wide receivers coach. The rest of the Bowden clan includes Steve and Ginger. The six Bowden children and 14 grandchildren all attended last year's National Championship game, making the victory truly a family event.

CHUCK AMATO

ASSISTANT HEAD COACH/
DEFENSIVE LINE
(NORTH CAROLINA STATE '69)
13TH SEASON AT FSU

Chuck Amato enters his ninth season as the number two man behind Head Coach Bobby Bowden in 1994. A 13-year veteran of the coaching staff, Amato came to FSU in 1982 as the defensive line coach after serving two seasons as linebackers coach at the University of Arizona.

Since joining the Florida State staff, the Eaton, Pa. native has seen the Tribe defense lead the program to unprecedented national prominence. The last three years, the Seminoles have finished the season ranked in the top 10 in the nation in rushing defense.

Amato's task in 1994 will be replacing solid starters Jon Nance (noseguard) and Toddrick McIntosh (tackle), however, he is in the enviable position of welcoming back one of the nation's top players and a host of young talent. Derrick Alexander is Amato's star pupil at defensive end and he tallied 100 tackles, including five sacks, in 1993.

The defensive line has been one of the Seminoles' top positions of late producing a number of NFL players including; Dan Footman (Cleveland), Carl Simpson (Chicago), Reggie Freeman (New Orleans) and Sterling Palmer (Washington). In addition, Amato coached All-American noseguard Odell Haggins, who is in his first season as an assistant coach on the staff, and recently retired NFL great Alphonso Carreker.

Prior to his stint at Arizona, Amato coached at his alma mater, North Carolina State University. He started his career while still a student at N.C. State, as a student assistant coach in 1968. He remained at the school for the next 12 years. In 1971, he earned a full-time position; three years later he was promoted to defensive coordinator, a position he held for the next six seasons.

Amato worked for three different head coaches at N.C. State — Al Michaels, Lou Holtz and the late Bo Rein.

A three-year letterman in football and wrestling, Amato earned both his bachelor's and master's degrees from N.C. State. On the mat, he claimed a pair of Atlantic Coast Conference titles in his weight class and went undefeated in dual matches.

He and his wife, Peggy, are the parents of twin daughters — Lugina and Selena.

Widely considered one of the top defensive coaches in the nation, Andrews has turned the Florida State defense into one of the top all-around units in college football over the past 10 years. Last year's defensive unit finished the year as the toughest to score on in the country.

Andrews' abilities as a defensive coach have not gone unnoticed. In 1991, Athlon's Southeastern Football Magazine named Andrews its Assistant Coach of the Year, and he is annually listed among the nation's top aides.

Under Andrews' direction, Florida State is becoming renowned nationwide for producing top cornerbacks. Two of his pupils — Deion Sanders (1988) and Terrell Buckley (1991) — have won the Jim Thorpe Award, given annually to the nation's top defensive back. LeRoy Butler joined those two as a consensus All-America pick at cornerback in 1989 to give the Seminoles four consensus All-America choices at the position in the last six years. Last year, Corey Sawyer nearly added his name to that list as he earned first team All-America honors on all but one poll. And, like clockwork, an Andrew's disciple finds himself in the running for top honors this year as Clifton Abraham is considered one of the country's finest cornerbacks.

Andrews came to Florida State from the Arizona Wranglers of the old United States Football League, where he spent one season as the defensive coordinator. But he was no stranger to the college game, having previously spent 17 years coaching in the collegiate ranks.

Andrews' coaching resume includes stints at Eastern Kentucky, Livingston, North Alabama, Clemson and Florida. He has worked for two of FSU's 1993 opponents, as assistant coach at Florida in 1981-82, and as defensive coordinator at Clemson from 1977-80.

From 1972-76, Andrews was the national championship.

Andrews starred in football and baseball for Alabama from 1961-64, earning second team All-America mention as a wide receiver and defensive back. During his career, the Crimson Tide won a pair of national championships (1961, '64) and played in three New Year's Day bowl games.

In addition to his football honors, Andrews was an all-Southeastern Conference choice in baseball. In 1964, he received the Hugo Friedman Award as the Tide's best all-around athlete.

Andrews and his wife, Diane, have two children — Ronnie and Shannon, and one grandchild — Dillon.

JEFF BOWDEN

WIDE RECEIVERS

(FLORIDA STATE '83)

FIRST SEASON AT FSU

The old expression says that the "apple doesn't fall far from the tree." Since Bobby Bowden was already the father of the nation's most prominent, and well branched, coaching tree, it should not come as a surprise that he chose one of his sons to fill a rare coaching vacancy at Florida State.

But make no mistake, Jeff Bowden measures up to his dad's tough standards.

Jeff Bowden joins the Seminole coaching staff to work with the talented FSU receiving corps in his first season. The transition should be a smooth one for Bowden, who came to Florida State after serving as wide receiver's coach at Southern Mississippi for the previous three years.

After playing in three bowl games for his father at Florida State, Jeff spent three years at Salem College in Salem, West Virginia. He was the receivers coach his first two seasons and was promoted to offensive coordinator his last year working under his brother, and current Auburn head coach, Terry Bowden. While at Salem, Jeff coached Orson Mobley, who went on to play for several NFL teams.

Jeff then spent a year working on the Florida State staff before rejoining brother Terry at Samford. He served as offensive coordinator and assistant head coach with the Bulldogs. He is credited with guiding the career of Division III All-America quarterback Jimbo Fisher while at the Birmingham, Ala. school.

Bowden then moved on to Southern Mississippi, where he served head coach Jeff Bower as wide receivers coach for two seasons. In addition, Bowden worked with a number of the Golden Eagles' special teams.

Bowden and his wife Luann have two children, Hunter and T.J..

RONNIE COTTRELL

MIDDLE LINEBACKERS/
RECRUITING COORDINATOR
(TROY STATE '83)
FIFTH SEASON AT FSU

Ronnie Cottrell begins his first season as middle linebackers coach while he continues to coordinate Florida State's recruiting efforts, a job for which he has been recognized as one of the nation's best.

Cottrell steps in to coach one of the Seminole's deepest positions, and his most difficult decision may be which player to put in the game. Wally Burnham produced a pair of Butkus Award winners at middle linebacker in Paul McGowan ('87) and Marvin Jones ('92) and the success of the position in FSU's attacking style has enticed some of the nation's top high school talent.

If recruiting is a prerequisite to winning and the lifeblood of any successful college football program, then Ronnie Cottrell is seeing to it that Florida State stays healthy, and on top, for a long time to come.

Florida State's latest recruiting class, although small, was once again hailed as one of the nation's best with quality individuals at every position and high school All-Americans aplenty. Cottrell's 1993 class was praised by every recruiting expert as the top group in the entire country. One expert, Allen Wallace, reported that FSU's '93 class might be "the best group ever signed, there are no weaknesses top to bottom." That group included 17 USA Today All-Americans, 13 Super Prep All-Americans and four Parade All-Americans. Over the last three years, Cottrell has signed a total of 14 Parade All-Americans.

Cottrell is in his fifth season as recruiting coordinator at Florida State. He was promoted to the job as the Seminoles' top recruiter after assisting Brad Scott with the 1990 recruiting class as a graduate assistant.

A native of Brewton, Ala., Cottrell came to FSU after two years as an assistant at Troy (Ala.) State while attending school there in 1981 and 1982. He also held high school head coaching jobs in Alabama, at Kinston, Flomaton and East Brewton high schools. In 1986 and '87, he led Flomaton High to a pair of perfect regular seasons, the first in school history.

Cottrell has two children, Meredith and Kevin. Last spring, he married the former Jean Lee of Tallahassee.

JIM GLADDEN

OUTSIDE LINEBACKERS

(WILLIAM JEWELL '62)

20TH SEASON AT FSU

Outside linebackers coach Jim Gladden has been an integral part of Florida State's rise to national prominence. When the 20-year veteran first came to FSU as a graduate assistant in 1975, the program was struggling, finishing 3-8 that year. Gladden was hired as a full-time coach upon Bowden's arrival in 1976 and the Seminoles have only had one losing season since that time.

Through his 19 seasons with the Seminoles, Gladden has been the outside linebackers coach. His most famous former pupils are Willie Jones, a second round draft pick of the Oakland Raiders and Howard Dinkins, the Atlanta Falcons' third round pick in 1992. Two Seminole OLBs — Reggie Freeman and Sterling Palmer — were selected in the 1992 NFL draft. Freeman was taken in the second round by the New Orleans Saints and Palmer was chosen in the fourth round by the Washington Redskins.

In addition to working with the linebackers, Gladden is one of the best Seminole assistant coaches when it comes to recruiting. Whatever recruiting area he has been assigned to has produced some of the top talent on the Florida State squad. Gladden's recent work in Texas yielded three starters on the '93 FSU defense.

Another of Gladden's responsibilities are the punt return and punt block units. In 1984, the Seminoles blocked a school record eight punts during the regular season and added a crucial block in the Citrus Bowl to give FSU a tie in the game. Since 1976, Florida State has blocked 58 kicks.

Gladden graduated from William Jewell College in 1962. As a member of the football team there, he was chosen to the all-conference team.

Over the next 15 years, Gladden coached in the high school ranks. He spent four years in Kansas City and St. Louis before moving to Kentucky, where he was the high school coach of the year in 1970. After two years as head coach at Hernando High in Brooksville, Fla., Gladden came to Florida State.

Born in Springfield, Mo., Gladden and his wife, Patricia, have two children — Julie and John.

ODELL HAGGINS

TIGHT ENDS/OFFENSIVE LINE

(FLORIDA STATE '93)

FIRST SEASON AT FSU

Bobby Bowden did not look far when he had a rare opening on his coaching staff this past season. In the process, the nation's second winningest coach also showed his ability to stay current. Bowden selected former FSU All-America nose-guard Odell Haggins to coach the tight ends and offensive line this spring.

"He was one of the best players and leaders we've had here," said Bowden when announcing Haggins had the job. "He was dependable and accountable and that's the kind of qualities you look for in a coach."

Bowden should know. Haggins proved those qualities right under his new boss's nose.

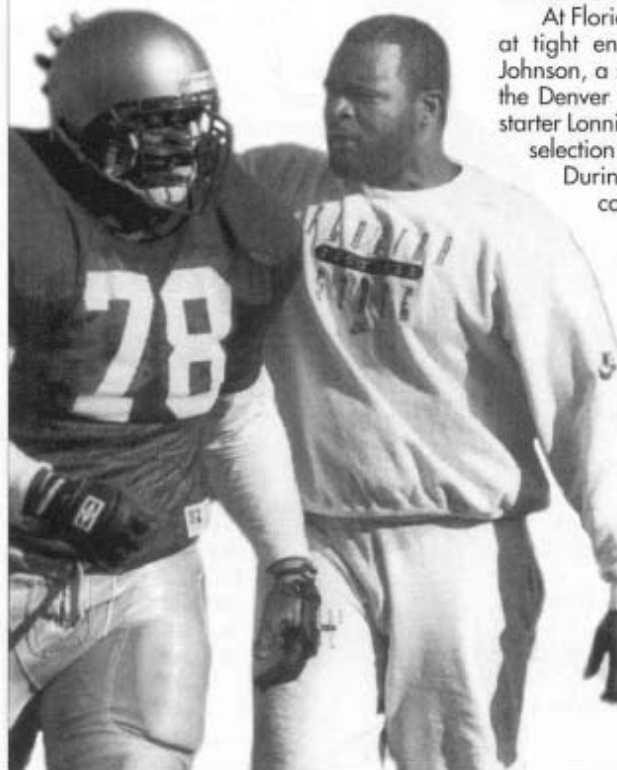

A native of Bartow, Fla., Haggins was a four-year letterwinner and popular team leader during his years at Florida State. He was a Kodak and Walter Camp All-American in 1989 and a second team Associated Press choice in 1988. The 1987 Florida State team finished the year ranked second in the country while FSU was the No. 3 team following both his junior and senior seasons.

Following his collegiate career, Haggins was drafted by the San Francisco 49ers and played with that team for several seasons, earning a Super Bowl ring in 1990. He also spent one year with the Buffalo Bills.

He earned a criminology degree from Florida State in May of 1993 and comes to FSU from the state attorney's office in Jacksonville where he worked with juveniles.

OFFENSIVE LINE

(FLORIDA STATE '78)

NINTH SEASON AT FSU

In his ninth season on the Seminole coaching staff, Jimmy Haggins takes over as the Seminoles' offensive line coach in 1994. This will mark the third year Haggins has worked with the FSU offensive line, as he assisted former FSU offensive coordinator Brad Scott with the split side of the line in each of the past two seasons. During his coaching tenure at FSU, Haggins also has coached the tight ends for two years and the noseguards for four years.

Haggins, an outstanding nose-guard under Bowden in the mid '70's, returned to his alma mater in 1986 as a full-time coach after a year at Southwestern Louisiana, where he tutored USL's defensive ends. Prior to that, he was running backs coach at Eastern Michigan for two seasons, and at Western Illinois for one year.

At Florida State, Haggins' students at tight end have included Reggie Johnson, a second round draft pick of the Denver Broncos, as well as 1993 starter Lonnie Johnson, a second round selection by the Buffalo Bills last year.

During his time as noseguard coach, Haggins was instrumental in the transformation of Odell Haggins from linebacker into one of the top noseguards in the country.

The Salisbury, N.C. native began his collegiate coaching career as a graduate assistant at East Carolina in 1980. He filled the same role at FSU in 1981 and '82.

Haggins originally came to Tallahassee in 1974 as a freshman running back. He was an all-state back in North Carolina as a senior after gaining 1,670 yards. A fullback his first two seasons at FSU, Heggins made the switch to noseguard in 1976. At the end of that season, he was named the squad's outstanding defensive player. A year later, he helped Florida State to a 10-2 record and the Tangerine Bowl championship.

Heggins and his wife, the former Winifred Parker, have two daughters — Andrea and Lauren.

MARK RICHT

OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR/QUARTERBACKS
 (MIAMI '82)

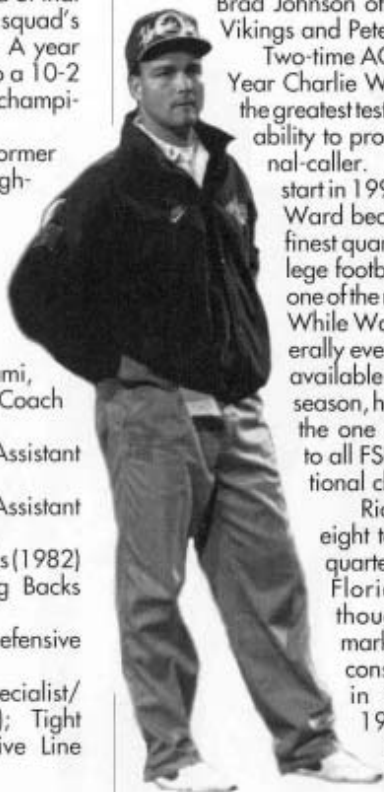

FIFTH SEASON AT FSU
 NINTH OVERALL

Florida State assistant coach Mark Richt has been one of the nation's most respected young coaches for several years. His remarkable list of credentials includes the development of 1993 Heisman Trophy winner Charlie Ward and much of the implementation of FSU's record-setting 1993 offense. So it was Richt that Bobby Bowden selected to replace Brad Scott as offensive coordinator when the latter left to become head coach at South Carolina following the season.

Richt directed two top six Heisman Trophy vote-getters in the past three seasons, and sent three signal-callers to the NFL since 1989. In his eight seasons as FSU's quarterbacks coach, Richt has tutored top quarterbacks like Casey Weldon of the Tampa Bay Bucs, runner-up in the 1991 Heisman balloting, Brad Johnson of the Minnesota Vikings and Peter Tom Willis.

Two-time ACC Player of the Year Charlie Ward is perhaps the greatest testimony to Richt's ability to produce a top signal-caller. After a rocky start in 1992, Richt helped Ward become one of the finest quarterbacks in college football history, and one of the most decorated. While Ward captured literally every single trophy available following last season, he brought home the one most important to all FSU fans — a national championship.

Richt has logged eight total seasons as quarterbacks coach at Florida State, although 1994 will mark only his fifth consecutive season in that role. In 1989, Richt left FSU to be the offensive coordinator at East Carolina University under current Georgia Tech Head Coach Bill Lewis. Richt previously served as a graduate and then volunteer assistant coach in charge of quarterbacks at FSU from 1985-88.

Richt was well-schooled in the passing game before coming to Tallahassee as a graduate assistant coach in 1985. The Boca Raton, Fla., native was a quarterback at the University of Miami under former Hurricane coach Howard Schnellenberger. He was the backup quarterback to Buffalo Bills star Jim Kelly during his three seasons at UM.

Richt is married to the former Kathy Francis of Tallahassee. The couple has a four-year-old son, Jonathan.

BILLY SEXTON

RUNNING BACKS
 (FLORIDA STATE '74)
 18TH SEASON AT FSU

Billy Sexton has been a familiar sight on the sidelines of Florida State football games since 1973. The Tallahassee native started his career at FSU as a player for the Seminoles and went on to become a graduate assistant coach and then a full-time coach in 1977. Only outside linebackers coach Jim Gladden has logged more time on the Seminole coaching staff than Sexton.

This year marks Sexton's 12th as the Seminole running backs coach, where a slew of current pros have learned and refined their skills under the former FSU quarterback. Sexton's pro proteges increased with the 1993 draft when fullback William Floyd was selected in the first round of the 1994 NFL draft by the San Francisco 49ers. In addition, tailback Sean Jackson was taken in the fourth round by the Houston Oilers. Also among Sexton's former pupils are All-American Greg Allen, who broke 26 school records during his FSU career, former number one draft picks Sammie Smith (1989) and Dexter Carter (1990), and top draft choices of 1992 Amp Lee and Edgar Bennett.

Since 1983, Sexton's running backs have become one of the most effective components of the FSU offense, averaging nearly six yards per carry and over 10 yards per catch over those 10 seasons. Florida State's backs have earned a sure-handed reputation and are renowned for their pass-catching abilities.

Sexton joined the Florida State staff as a graduate assistant in 1976, Bobby Bowden's first year as the FSU mentor. He became a member of the full-time staff in 1977 and worked with the Seminole quarterbacks for five seasons until 1982, when he became the head junior varsity coach and handled scouting duties. The next season, he took over the running backs position.

A standout at Leon High School in Tallahassee, Sexton played his first three years of college football at Alabama before transferring to Florida State. He was the Seminoles' starting quarterback for the opening half of the 1973 season.

Sexton earned a bachelor's degree in business from FSU and began his coaching career as assistant coach at Leon before returning to Florida State as a coach.

He and his wife, Joy, have three children — Wyatt, Leslie and Taylor.

DAVE VAN HALANGER

STRENGTH & CONDITIONING

(WEST VIRGINIA '76)

12TH SEASON AT FSU

In the competitive environment of college football, games are often won because of strength and speed.

Part of the reason for Florida State's success on the field is a year-round weight-room program run by strength and conditioning coach Dave Van Halanger. The 12-year veteran of the Seminole coaching staff has helped hundreds of FSU athletes get stronger, faster and more flexible.

Under Van Halanger's direction, the average student-athlete gains 20-25 pounds, adds 100 pounds to his bench press and 200 pounds to his squat during his years at FSU. Each athlete can knock about two-tenths of a second off his 40 time and can jump four to five inches higher when he leaves Florida State, thanks in part to the work of Van Halanger and his staff. He was named the 1993 Strength Coach of the Year by the NFL Coaches.

In addition to work in the weight room, Van Halanger works closely with the FSU trainers to keep players in shape as they recover from injury.

Van Halanger spent five years as the head strength coach at his alma mater, West Virginia, prior to his arrival at FSU in July of 1983. He is credited with starting West Virginia's first organized weight training program.

A four-year letterman under Bowden at West Virginia, Van Halanger was a co-captain of the 1975 West Virginia Peach Bowl team. An offensive tackle, he earned All-East honors his junior and senior seasons and was an honorable mention All-America selection as a senior. He played professionally with the Atlanta Falcons in 1976 before returning to WVU as a graduate assistant and head junior varsity coach. He became the full-time strength coach at WVU in 1978.

Van Halanger is currently in the third year of a five-year term as the North Florida state director and a member of the National Board of Ethics for the National Strength and Conditioning Association. He teaches several classes on strength training and conditioning to students and to the Tallahassee community. Van Halanger leads FSU's Fellowship of Christian Athletes group.

Some of Van Halanger's former assistants at Florida State currently hold positions as strength coaches with professional and collegiate teams across the country, including the Florida Marlins and Milwaukee Brewers, Ohio State University, Syracuse University and Samford University.

Van Halanger, a native of Turtle Creek, Pa., and his wife, Michele, have three children — Danielle, Julie and Matthew.

BILL RAGANS

FLORIDA STATE '90

Bill Ragans begins his second season as a graduate assistant coach for the Seminole defense. A standout safety for the Seminoles from 1987-90, Ragans will again concentrate on assisting Mickey Andrews with coaching the defensive backs in 1994.

A native of Live Oak, Fla., Ragans was known as a punishing hitter from his strong safety position. As a senior, he recorded five quarterback sacks and caused five fumbles. He was also a valuable member of the FSU special teams, blocking three kicks that season. Ragans was a member of the second team All-South Independent squad in 1990 and played in the Hula Bowl following his final year.

After leaving Florida State, Ragans continued his football career, first signing as a free agent with the Seattle Seahawks before joining the Frankfurt Galaxy of the World Football League. After playing two years in Europe, Ragans returned to Live Oak to coach the defensive backs at Suwannee High School.

OSCAR WILLIAMS

FLORIDA A&M '88

Oscar Williams begins his first full season with the Seminole football program after working with the team in spring practice last year. Williams, 26, will work with the FSU tight ends during the season.

Williams is a 1988 Florida A&M graduate and was the starting quarterback for the Rattlers as a sophomore and junior (1986, 87) before an injury ended his career prior to his senior season. Williams was also a star pitcher for the Rattler's conference championship teams as a sophomore and junior.

A native of St. Petersburg, Williams is a graduate of Tampa Jefferson High where he earned honorable mention all-state honors as both a quarterback and pitcher.

Williams joins the staff after a stint as head baseball and assistant football coach at Boca Raton High where he coached current FSU baseball star Scott Zech.

TRAINERS & MANAGERS

RANDY ORAVETZ

HEAD TRAINER

(FLORIDA STATE '79)

16TH SEASON AT FSU

One of the most important aspects of a top athletic program is the training room, and Florida State's training operation is headed by one of the best in head trainer Randy Oravetz. Entering his ninth year as the Florida

State head trainer, Oravetz oversees the training room operation for the Seminole football team and for all FSU student-athletes. Before being elevated to the head trainer's position in 1986, Oravetz served as the top assistant trainer at FSU for seven years.

Oravetz leads a staff of three full-time assistants and a large group of student trainers. He is the primary liaison between the Florida State team doctors and the coaching staff. Oravetz is directly responsible for the everyday care and treatment of the FSU football players. He and his staff deal with both the treatment and the prevention of injuries.

Oravetz was a member of the student training corps for four years under legendary FSU athletic trainer Don Fauls before joining the full-time staff immediately following his graduation from Florida State in 1979. He began his career at the University of Tampa, where he was a student trainer for his hometown school before coming to FSU.

During his tenure as Fauls' assistant, Oravetz was the head trainer for the FSU baseball team for two seasons and worked with the basketball, track, swimming, and tennis squads.

He and his wife, Linda, have two sons, Jonathan and Thomas.

JIMMIE CALLAWAY

EQUIPMENT MANAGER

18TH SEASON AT FSU

An eighteen-year veteran of the FSU athletic staff, Jimmie Callaway enters his fifth season as the head equipment manager in 1993. Prior to becoming head equipment manager, Callaway held the post of assistant equipment manager for 13 years.

In addition to the huge task of ordering and directing the upkeep of the football team's equipment, he handles ground transportation arrangements for all of Florida State's athletic teams and assists in the coordination of security of the Moore Athletic Center on football game days.

Callaway supervises the everyday distribution of football gear and maintenance of the practice fields. He oversees team facilities in the Moore Athletic Center. When the Tribe goes on the road, he directs the transfer of all equipment and baggage to the site of the game. A large staff of student managers, supervised by Callaway, assists him in these duties.

A Tallahassee native, Callaway came to the athletic staff after 20 years with the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles.

He and his wife, Donna, have two daughters — Connie and Leanne, and one grandson, Cody.

Prior to going to Alabama, Marucci spent four years as a student assistant trainer at West Virginia University while earning his bachelor's degree in Athletic Training. During that time, he worked with all 17 intercollegiate teams and traveled with the football team.

In addition, Marucci has worked as an assistant trainer with the NFL's Cleveland Browns and Tampa Bay Buccaneers.
