BOBBY BOWDEN

Head Coach

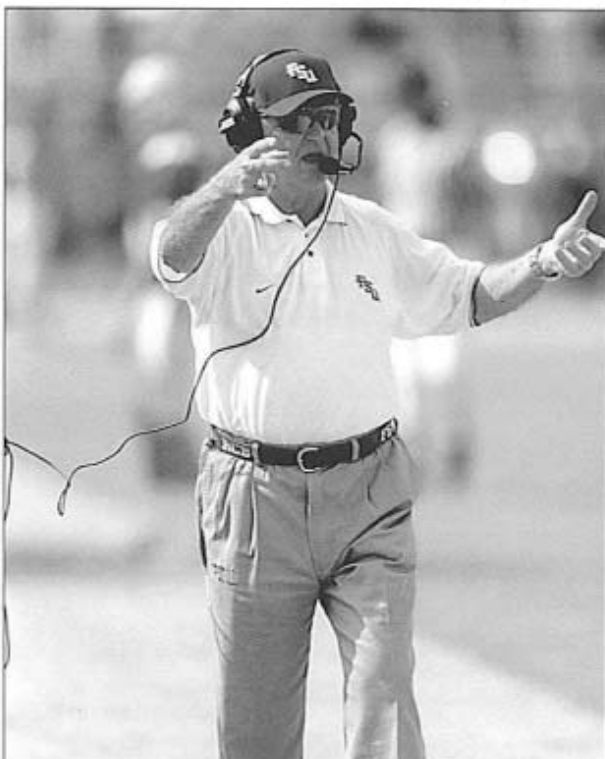

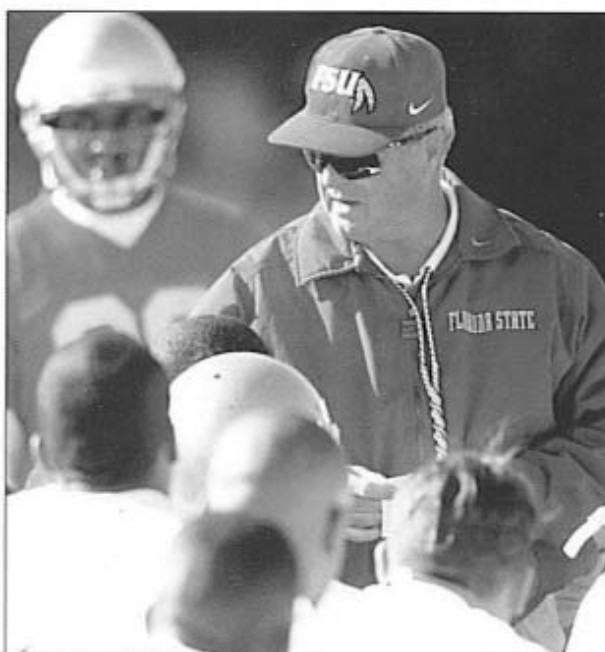

HOWARD '53 • 29TH SEASON AT FSU

Most college football fans will remember the 2003 football season as the year in which Bobby Bowden's 342nd career win made him the all-time winningest coach in Division IA history. However, Bowden and FSU fans will likely remember his 28th season at FSU as being the one in which he reestablished his program as one of the nation's elite. The Seminoles traveled to the Orange Bowl on the heels of a breathtaking win over intrastate rival Florida, with their 11th ACC championship in 12 years and a return to the familiar 10-win season landmark.

Bowden and his staff did a remarkable job last season considering they entered the year with an offense that included just one senior (tailback Greg Jones) and a defense that would face some of the nation's top offenses. Bowden led FSU (10-3) to its 18th 10-win season in his 28 years. The Orange Bowl was the Seminoles' 22nd consecutive bowl game and the fifth BCS bowl game for FSU in the six-year existence of the national championship arrangement.

The outlook for the 2004 season is extremely bright with a number of publications suggesting the Seminoles will contend for the national title, but Bowden and his staff will face a challenge very much the opposite of last season. The offense will be loaded with returning starters at every position except tailback and flanker, but the defense must find replacements for seven starters.

Bowden took over an FSU program prior in 1976 that had won just four games over the previous three seasons. He has remained at FSU, despite offers from NFL teams and several prestigious college football programs. Bowden's loyalty has meant the world to Florida State University and its athletics program.

Bowden's record at Florida State is 269-67-4. The totals include a 140-20-2 record in Tallahassee, 31-8-1 record at neutral sites and 98-39-1 in an opponent's stadium. He has built those numbers against some of the nation's toughest schedules, earning respect for his team, attracting top players to his program and establishing his reputation as a competitor in the process.

Bowden achieved impressive numbers in his previous coaching stops including a 31-6 record at his alma mater Samford University between 1959 and 1962, and 42-26 at West Virginia from 1970-75. But what he has done at FSU is simply phenomenal. Eighteen times in 28 years, his Seminoles have won 10 or more games in a season. Florida State had been to just eight bowls in the 29 years before him. The 2004 Orange Bowl marked the Seminoles' 25th since his arrival, including a string of 22 in a row and 18 "New Year's Day" trips. He is, by far, the winningest coach ever at Florida State as his win total is greater than the previous seven Seminole head coaches combined.

Florida State is the only school to finish among the (Associated Press) Top Five for 14 consecutive seasons. The Seminoles finished first twice (1993, 1999), second twice (1987, 92), third, four times (1988, 89, 97, 99), fourth, five times (1990, 91, 94, 95, 96) and fifth in 2000. No team in college football history can match the run.

Over the past 12 years, Florida State has played in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Since joining the league in football, FSU is 90-6 and has claimed 11 ACC championships and set the league record for consecutive victories. Bowden picked up ACC Coach of the Year titles in 1993 and 1997.

Part of the reason for Bowden's success in his long run at FSU is that the elements of the job that seem to turn into chores over the years for most coaches, recruiting, speaking engagements, public functions, press responsibilities, come easily for Bowden.

"I feel great physically," said Bowden who turned 74 last season. "I've always been a people person. I enjoy getting to know people, so the recruiting is still a lot of fun for me. I like going into a player's home and meeting his parents and family. I don't have any desire to slow down on all the elements outside of the actual game that some people find hard. I understand why it grinds away at some people, but it just doesn't on me. I guess I've always been able to put football in its place."

He has developed the most consistently successful program in the history of college football. FSU won more games in the decade of the 1990s than any other program. The win over Wake Forest on October 25th of last season allowed him to pass Joe Paterno to become the all-time winningest coach.

"To be honest, it doesn't really feel like I should be there," said Bowden of the feat. "It's not something that I sat down 40 years ago and said 'you know if I coached long enough and was successful maybe I could get there.'" That type of thought never entered my mind. I don't really think about it. Maybe when I'm done I'll look back on everything."

While Bowden has not spent much time looking back, most of the nation has spent time looking in at his program's extraordinary success. Just imagine a college basketball program advancing to the Final Four for 14 years in a row. Even more startling is the thought of playing in the national title game five times in eight seasons. FSU set an NCAA record with 14 straight Top Five finishes and the 2001 Orange Bowl was the Tribe's third straight national title game and fifth in eight years.

Like few other coaches before him, Bowden has created unreal expectations for his program. He has coached his Florida State teams so very close to perfection that for some, anything short of another national championship is a down year. The last time FSU did not finish the season ranked was following a 7-4-1 record in 1986. Over the 17 seasons since that year, Florida State has won 179 games and lost just 31 with one tie.

In the fickle world of "big-time" college sports some forget what it is all about. Sure, Bobby Bowden is proud of his two national championships, his place among the all-time greats, and a football program that is the model for the entire country. But he has always pointed to the fact that there are more important things in life. He makes time for charity and to give to his church. He has never walked past an admiring child without a wink and a smile. He greets total strangers. He listens and he cares.

One of Bowden's greatest coaching achievements revolves around his success in bowl games. His 18-8-1 record and .685 bowl winning percentage rank first all-time. Only Joe Paterno (20) has won more bowl games. Indeed, Florida State's eighth head coach has inked his name on the list of legends while coaching Samford for four years, West Virginia for six and 28 years at FSU.

What Bobby Bowden means to Florida State University off the playing field cannot be measured. Respect, sincerity, class, honesty, charisma, charm and humor; just a few of the words that describe and define this man better than wins, losses or coaching records.

It has been well chronicled how the Birmingham, Ala., native left snowy West Virginia to come to Florida State and save the program. Three seasons after he first walked across the campus, he had taken FSU to within one game of a national championship.

Rising above Bowden's coaching accomplishments, though, are his credentials as a man. Friendly and outgoing, he is a deeply religious man who believes strongly in the strength of the family. He loves people. His personality and charm are bigger than life and he has become somewhat of a folk hero. An engaging speaker, Bowden is constantly in demand and most free evenings will find him on the speaking circuit. His off-season travel schedule would exhaust anyone. Sunday morning will usually find him in the pulpit of a church somewhere in the south. Outside of football, Bowden has an intense interest in World War II history and he is a voracious reader on the subject. He traced his ancestry to parts of Germany and has visited the country several times.

Bowden was an outstanding football player at Woodlawn High School in Birmingham, Ala., and went on to Alabama as a freshman quarterback, fulfilling a lifelong dream to play for the Crimson Tide. He lasted one semester in Tuscaloosa before high school sweetheart Ann Estock lured him back to Birmingham. They soon married and Bobby transferred to Howard College in Birmingham. The two celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in the same year (1999) that FSU won its second national championship and Bowden coached his only undefeated team - the only team ever to go wire-to-wire as the AP No. 1 in college football history.

Bowden served as an assistant football coach and head track coach at Howard College (now Samford) from 1954-55. He left his alma mater to serve as Athletic Director and Head Coach at South Georgia Junior College from 1956-58. He returned to Samford as head coach from 1959-62. He joined the Florida State coaching staff under head coach Bill Peterson as wide receivers coach from 1963-65. During that time, he coached Seminole receiver T.K. Wetherell who is now president of FSU. Bowden moved on to West Bowden's faith and family have always been most important to him. The nation can follow son Tommy's career as head coach at Clemson as well as Terry, who is ABC's college football studio analyst. The Bowden's oldest son, Steve, co-wrote a book entitled "The Bowden Way" with his dad that hit the Wall Street Journal's best seller list. Youngest son, Jeff, will be in his 11th season on the FSU staff in 2004 and his fourth as offensive coordinator. The four boys, daughters Robyn Hines (who is married to Clemson assistant coach Jack Hines), Ginger Madden, and 21 grandchildren make up the Bowden clan.

MICKEY ANDREWS

Associate Head Coach/
Defensive Coordinator/Secondary
ALABAMA '64 • 21ST SEASON AT FSU

Florida State's rise to become the most consistently successful program in the history of college football directly correlates with the arrival of Mickey Andrews as defensive coordinator. FSU's offense has long been national championship caliber, but it has been Andrews' ability to catch the Tribe defense up with the offense that has made the Seminole program the powerhouse that it is today. So it was fitting that Andrews added the title of Associate Head Coach just prior to the 2002 season.

Andrews' status as perhaps the nation's finest coordinator is not just shared by Bowden and every FSU fan as he was recognized in 1996 as the nation's top assistant coach when he received the first-ever Frank Broyles Award. Andrews directed the nation's top rated rushing defense in 1996 and his units have been among the top five nationally against the run in six of the last 11 seasons. His 1998 defensive unit ranked No. 1 nationally in total defense and pass defense. In addition, the Seminoles ranked a close second nationally in rushing defense and scoring defense. In 2000, FSU ranked among the country's top 15 in every major defensive statistical category.

Under Andrews' direction, Florida State has become the top producer of All-America and NFL caliber cornerbacks in the nation. He has coached two players, Deion Sanders (1988) and Terrell Buckley (1991), who have won the Jim Thorpe Trophy, given annually to college football's top defensive back. LeRoy Butler joined those two as a consensus All-America pick in 1989.

Clifton Abraham was an All-American in 1994 and Corey Sawyer in 1993, which means the Seminoles had an All-American at cornerback each year from 1987-94. Tay Cody was a consensus All-America selection as a senior in 2000 and he was preceded by eventual All-Pro cornerback Samari Rolle of the Tennessee Titans.

Andrews' defenses feature an attacking style up front that puts pressure on the opposing offense. He is also a big believer in creating depth and uses as many as 40 players a game. In 1991, Athlon's Magazine named him the Assistant Coach of the Year and in 1998 he was named the national Defensive Coordinator of the Year by American Football Coach's Magazine.

Andrews came to Florida State from the Arizona Wranglers of the United States Football League (USFL), where he spent one season as defensive coordinator after having spent the previous 17 years coaching in the collegiate ranks.

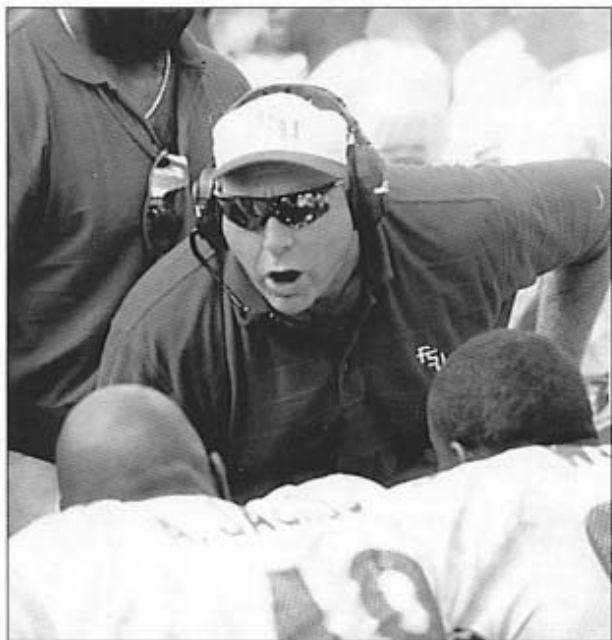

Andrews' coaching resume includes stints at Eastern Kentucky, Livingston, North Alabama and two of the teams that appear on the Seminoles' 2004 schedule. He was Clemson's defensive coordinator from 1977-80 and was an assistant at Florida in 1981-82.

From 1972-76, Andrews was the head coach and athletic director at North Alabama. He was the head coach at Livingston University from 1970-72 where he won the NAIA national championship.

A star on the football field and the baseball diamond at the University of Alabama from 1961-64, Andrews earned second team All-America honors as a wide receiver and defensive back. During his career, the Crimson Tide won a pair of national championships (1961, '64) and played in three New Year's Day bowl games.

In addition to his football honors, Andrews was an All-SEC choice in baseball. In 1964, he received the Hugo Friedman Award as Alabama's best all-around athlete.

Andrews and his wife, Diane, have two grown children Ronnie and Shannon, and five grandchildren.

BILLY SEXTON

Assistant Head Coach/ Running Backs

FLORIDA STATE '74 • 28TH SEASON AT FSU

Billy Sexton has been a familiar fixture on the sidelines of Florida State football games since 1973 and two years ago he added the title of Assistant Head Coach to his coaching resume. The Tallahassee native started his career at FSU as a player for the Seminoles and went on to become a graduate assistant coach in 1977 and then a full-time coach in 1979.

While the 2002 season was special because of the addition of administrative responsibilities that go along with his new title, it would already have been memorable as his son, Wyatt, joined the team as a freshman quarterback. Wyatt played sparingly in 2003 and will enter fall drills as the backup to four-year starter Chris Rix.

This season will be Sexton's 28th as a staff member at the school and his 22nd as the Seminoles' running backs coach, where a slew of pros have learned and refined their skills under the former FSU quarterback. Among the greats that Sexton coached is Warrick Dunn, who became Florida State's all-time leading rusher in 1996 and finished his career with 3,989 yards. Sexton has seen 13 of his pupils taken in the draft since 1988, including first rounders Dunn, William Floyd (San Francisco 49ers, 1994), Dexter Carter (San Francisco 49ers, 1990) and Sammie Smith (Miami Dolphins, 1989). Also among Sexton's former pupils are All-American Greg Allen, who broke 26 school records during his FSU career, and Edgar Bennett. Travis Minor was a four-year starter at tailback and was selected by the Miami Dolphins in 2001. Greg Jones added his name to the FSU alums in the NFL with his selection by the Jacksonville Jaguars in the second round this past April.

Since 1983, Sexton's running backs have become one of the most effective components of the FSU offense, averaging nearly six yards per carry and over 10 yards per catch during those 20 seasons. In addition, Florida State's backs have earned a reputation for being sure-handed receivers.

Sexton joined the Florida State staff as a graduate assistant in 1977, Bobby Bowden's second year as the FSU mentor. He became a member of the full-time staff in 1979 and worked with the Seminole quarterbacks for three seasons until 1982 when he became the head junior varsity coach and handled scouting duties. He took over the running backs the following year.

A standout at Leon High School in Tallahassee, Sexton played his first three years of college football at Alabama. He was one of the south's biggest recruits, but a coaching change with the Crimson Tide shifted their offense away from the passing game and he transferred to FSU. He was the Seminoles' starting quarterback for the opening half of the 1973 season.

Sexton earned a bachelor's degree in business from FSU and began his coaching career as an assistant coach at Leon High before returning to Florida State as a coach. He and his wife, Joy, have three children: Wyatt, Leslie and Taylor.

COACHES

JEFF BOWDEN

Offensive Coordinator/
Wide Receivers

FLORIDA STATE '83 • 11TH SEASON AT FSU

Jeff Bowden enters his fourth season as the offensive coordinator for the Seminoles in 2004. He took over for Mark Richt in February of 2001 when Richt left to become head coach at Georgia. Bowden had been wide receivers coach for the Seminoles for the seven years leading up to his elevation to offensive coordinator and retained those position coaching duties when he took over the offense.

Bowden was given the reigns of the FSU offense during one of the more challenging periods in recent FSU history. The Seminoles would begin his first season as coordinator in 2001 faced with the necessity of starting a redshirt freshman quarterback for the first time in over 30 years at FSU. Last year, the Seminole offense began the season with four brand new starters on the offensive line. The good news for Bowden in 2004 is that he will have all but two starters back from last season. The FSU offense must find a replacement for P.K. Sam at wide receiver and three-year starter Greg Jones at tailback, but enough talented players emerged over the second half of last season and in the spring to make the offensive staff optimistic about the potential for this season.

Bowden enjoys a challenge and has a straight forward approach with both players and the media. He is confident in both the system and the staff, and his work has been fruitful since he first began at FSU. Under Bowden's direction in 1997, E.G. Green earned second team Associated Press All-America status and he finished with more receiving touchdowns (29) over his career than any previous FSU receiver. Nine years ago, Green teamed with Andre Cooper to become the first duo in FSU and ACC history to each register over 1,000 receiving yards. Ten years ago, Kez McCorvey finished a career that made him the second most prolific receiver in school history. Just five years ago, Peter Warrick broke Green's FSU record and set a new ACC record with 31 career TD catches. In 2000, Snoop Minnis earned consensus All-America honors and was selected in the third round by the Kansas City Chiefs. Three years ago, Javon Walker topped an excellent two-year career with FSU with the MVP trophy from the 2002 Gator Bowl win over Virginia Tech, and followed that with his selection in the first round of the NFL draft by Green Bay. Quarterback Chris Rix, then a freshman, won the ACC Rookie of the Year honors in 2001. In the three years since adding the coordinators duties, the Seminoles have won two ACC championships and earned bids to two BCS bowls.

As a player, Bowden was on FSU teams that played in three bowl games. Following his playing career, he moved immediately into coaching at Salem College in West Virginia, where he coached receivers for two seasons under head coach Terry Bowden. He was promoted to offensive coordinator in his third season at Salem.

After a year back at FSU as a graduate assistant, Jeff again joined his older brother at Samford University in Birmingham, Ala. He was the Bulldogs offensive coordinator in 1987 and added the title of assistant head coach for the 1988-90 seasons. He is credited with guiding the career of Division III All-America quarterback Jimbo Fisher at Samford. In 1991, he moved from Samford to Southern Mississippi and coached receivers for three years before coming to Florida State to replace John Eason who left to join Brad Scott's new staff at South Carolina.

Jeff is married to the former Cindi Smith and they have five children, Haley, Hunter, T.J., Robert and Julia Elizabeth.

JODY ALLEN

Defensive Ends

VALDOSTA STATE '83 • 5TH SEASON AT FSU

Jody Allen begins his third year as the defensive ends coach at Florida State in 2004. He moved into the full-time role prior to the 2002 season replacing Jim Gladden who had been an assistant at FSU for 27 years. While he was the newest member of the staff, Allen, 43, was no stranger to the coaches or players having served as a graduate assistant at FSU for the previous two seasons working with the defensive backs.

Allen's coaching resume goes much deeper than FSU as he brought 10 years of experience on the Division IA level with him to the Seminole program. A 1983 graduate of Valdosta State, Allen was an assistant there in 1999. He coached at Griffin (GA) High School in 1998 and Murray State in 1997. Prior to those stints, he coached two years in the Canadian Football League with the Shreveport Pirates in 1995 and BC Lions in 1994. He was wide receivers coach at Arkansas State in 1992 and was elevated to offensive coordinator in 1993. He coached receivers and running backs at Ole Miss during his tenure there from 1987-91. Allen was a graduate assistant at Alabama in 1984-85 before coaching the wide receivers for the Crimson Tide in 1986.

Allen's defensive ends performed well last season and quickly adjusted to the loss of returning starter Alonzo Jackson who was drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers following the 2002 season. Rising senior Eric Moore is an All-America candidate at right defensive end. Kamerion Wimbley has already played a lot of football for FSU and he will be in a battle to win the starting honors on the left side along with senior Chauncey Davis.

COACHES

Florida State head coach Bobby Bowden wasted little time following FSU's National Championship game at the 2001 Orange Bowl to name Daryl Dickey to his coaching staff to handle the quarterbacks. Dickey filled the position vacated by Mark Richt who was named head coach at Georgia in December of 2000. Dickey stepped into a unique situation in terms of FSU football, as he would be forced to get a redshirt freshman ready to go as the starter for the first time in over 30 years at FSU. Not only that, but the rookie would have to follow Heisman Trophy winner Chris Weinke.

Dickey's work with Chris Rix in 2001 was outstanding as Rix finished the year as the ACC's Rookie of the Year, the National Offensive Rookie of the Year and the nation's eighth-rated passer. Rix will enter the 2004 season as the man to beat and a likely four-year starter at the position. His physical tools are impressive with the ability to run and throw, and he has a flair for the dramatic moments. Dickey will have a very short bench this season with only one other scholarship player who went through spring drills. Wyatt Sexton is a sophomore who has impressed coaches with his savvy and toughness. He played sparingly last year, but will be counted on to be ready to lead the offense in 2004. The Seminoles signed two highly recruited high school seniors last year and it would appear that either Drew Wetherford or Xavier Lee and perhaps both, could see playing time as a true freshman.

Dickey, 42, came to FSU after four seasons as the head coach at Presbyterian College in South Carolina. The 2000 season, Dickey's last as head coach, was a special one for the Blue Hose as they posted an 8-2 record and finished second in the Atlantic Conference. It marked the second time in three years that a Dickey-led Blue Hose team finished second in the league regular season and posted an eight-win season. The overall record in 2000 was the best for a Blue Hose squad since 1979 when PC finished the regular season ranked No. 1 in the NAIA and posted an 11-2 record. Dickey's 1999 and 2000 teams provided the best two-year span in football (15-6) for the Blue Hose since the 1978-79 seasons. Presbyterian finished 7-4 in 1999, 8-3 in 1998 and 5-6 in Dickey's first season with the Blue Hose (1997).

A Tennessee graduate, Dickey quarterbacked the Volunteers to a 9-1-2 finish during his senior season in the fall of 1985. He led the Southeastern Conference in passing efficiency that year and the Vols were unbeaten in the seven games that he started. He was named Most Valuable Player of the 1986 Sugar Bowl when he led the Vols to a 35-7 win over Miami.

After a brief stint with the San Diego Chargers in the NFL and the Memphis Showboats in the USFL, Dickey returned to Knoxville to serve as a graduate assistant coach for the Volunteers. He was assistant quarterback coach at Tennessee before being named a volunteer assistant at Florida State. During his stint with the Seminoles, Dickey helped guide quarterback Peter Tom Willis to the seventh-best total offense ranking in the nation during the 1989 season as Willis passed for 3,124 yards and 20 touchdowns.

Dickey served as quarterbacks coach at Kentucky from 1990-93 and then was promoted to offensive coordinator for the Wildcats, a position he held for another two years. Three of Dickey's quarterbacks at Kentucky (Pookie Jones, Freddie Maggard, and Brad Smith) all finished their careers ranked among the top 15 passers in Wildcat history. Jones finished with the second-best career total offensive numbers in school history.

From March of 1995 until December of 1996, Dickey served as offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach for Georgia Southern, a Division I-AA member of the Southern Conference.

Dickey is the son of former Tennessee and Florida head coach Doug Dickey. He played high school football at Buchholz High in Gainesville, Fla., but graduated from Fairview High in Boulder, Colo. He is married to the former Kendall George and they have three children: Karis (14), Dallas James (11) and Drew (9).

ODELL HAGGINS

Defensive Tackles

FLORIDA STATE '93 • 11TH SEASON AT FSU

In 10 years as an assistant coach at Florida State, Odell Haggins has proven that the enthusiasm and dedication he displayed as an All-American noseguard for the Seminoles has transferred into great success as a football coach. Haggins has made FSU's interior defensive front one of the most respected units in all of college football.

Haggins had a busy spring and it will be an intense fall as he must establish both first and second team players at the two interior positions. Darnell Dockett and Jeff Womble held the starting honors at the positions for most of the past two years and while the position is rich in talent, it will be light on starting experience in 2004. A strong nucleus of returning players along with very talented newcomers has given the defensive staff an optimistic air as fall camp begins.

Haggins came to FSU in 1994 when Brad Scott was named head coach at South Carolina and took fellow FSU assistants John Eason and Wally Burnham with him. When the decision came as to who would be hired to complete the "new" FSU coaching staff, Bowden turned to one of his own and selected Haggins. The decision has proven fruitful for both Florida State and Haggins.

In addition to his success in terms of coaching, Haggins has emerged as one of the top recruiters in the country pouring the energy and enthusiasm he has for his alma mater into the all important job of making sure there are talented Seminoles on the depth chart. He switched recruiting territories this year and now has more responsibilities in talent-rich south Florida.

A native of Bartow, Fla., Haggins was a four-year letterwinner and popular team leader for the Seminoles from 1986-89. He earned Kodak, Walter Camp and UPI All-America honors as a senior in 1989 and was a second team Associated Press selection as a junior in 1988. The 1987 FSU team finished the season ranked second in the nation and the Seminoles were third in the country in his junior and senior seasons.

Following his outstanding collegiate career, Haggins was drafted by the San Francisco 49ers and played two years, earning a Super Bowl ring in 1990. He spent the 1991 season with the Buffalo Bills.

Haggins earned a degree in criminology from Florida State and was working with the state attorney's office in Jacksonville before he joined the FSU staff. He worked with the rehabilitation of juvenile offenders while with the state attorney and continues to make working with young people a priority.

Haggins is married to the former Robin Kimbrough.

Jimmy Heggins begins his 11th season as offensive line coach at Florida State and his 19th overall on the FSU staff in 2004. The challenge for the Seminole offensive front will be much different from last year. Heggins welcomes back all five returning starters from a year ago. Included in the group are a pair of All-America candidates at offensive tackle. Alex Barron was a consensus All-America as a junior last year and naturally should contend for the honor as a senior, while Ray Willis will be a three-year starter at the other tackle spot. Last year, Heggins began the season with the task of finding four new starters along the line.

Heggins was an outstanding noseguard on Bobby Bowden's FSU teams in the mid 70s. He returned to his alma mater in 1986 as a full-time coach after a year at Southwestern Louisiana where he tutored USL's defensive ends. Prior to his stint with the Ragin' Cajuns, he was running backs coach at Eastern Michigan for two years and at Western Illinois for a year. He coached the tight ends and then the noseguards at FSU prior to taking over offensive line duties in 1994 when Brad Scott left to become head coach at South Carolina.

The Seminoles have produced a number of NFL offensive linemen and have had two offensive linemen selected in the first round of the NFL draft over the last six years. Seattle selected Walter Jones with the No. 6 overall pick four years ago and he started for the Seahawks as a rookie. Tra Thomas was selected with the 11th pick of the 1999 draft by Philadelphia. Both have become perennial All-Pro's. In fact, FSU's 1996 offensive line produced three NFL players with Clay Shiver starting at center for the Dallas Cowboys in 1997 and Todd Fordham, who is now with the Pittsburgh Steelers. Most recently Brett Williams, who was twice named the ACC's top blocker, was selected by Kansas City in the 2003 draft along with Todd Williams (Tennessee Titans). Milford Brown was taken in a supplemental draft following the 2002 season. In addition to his offensive line protégés, Heggins coached a pair of tight ends who enjoyed solid NFL careers in Reggie Johnson and Lonnie Johnson.

A native of Salisbury, N.C., Heggins came to FSU in 1974 as a running back after gaining 1,670 yards and earning all-state honors in North Carolina in 1973. A fullback his first two seasons with the Seminoles, he made the switch to noseguard in Bobby Bowden's first year at FSU in 1976 and was named the team's outstanding defensive player following the season. As a senior, he led Florida State to a 10-2 record and a win over Texas Tech in the Tangerine Bowl. He began his collegiate coaching career as a graduate assistant at East Carolina in 1980. He filled the same role at FSU in 1981 and '82.

Heggins has two daughters: Andrea and Lauren.

JOHN LILLY

Tight Ends/ Recruiting Coordinator

GUILFORD '90 • 10TH SEASON AT FSU

John Lilly begins his seventh year as coach of FSU's tight ends and the man in charge of coordinating the recruiting efforts. During that span of time, he has established himself as one of the finest recruiting coordinators in the country in addition to his on-field success in tutoring the tight ends. While he is in his seventh year in his current role, Lilly's experience with the Seminoles goes back nine years when he joined the staff as a videographer in 1995.

Lilly was named a full-time assistant coach in January 1998 and has headed the efforts in recruiting the last six classes at Florida State, which have all been ranked among the nation's best. His 2001 recruiting class was a near-unanimous choice as the very best in the nation, and this year's recruiting class is equally as talented.

Lilly's transition from coaching the defensive backfield with Mickey Andrews as a graduate assistant to working with the Seminole tight ends was an easy one. He served as a graduate assistant in 1996 and 1997 under Andrews, after coming to FSU as the defensive videographer in 1995.

In 2004, Lilly will have a battle on his hands, but one of those battles that coaches envy. He has three players who have all shown they could win the starting job at tight end. Paul Irons returns for his senior season and has the most starts under his belt. He is proven and reliable. Matt Henshaw will be a junior and emerged as a receiving threat over the second half of the season scoring touchdowns against Florida and Miami in the Orange Bowl. Coaches knew rising junior Donnie Carter could play a lot of positions on the field, but he appears headed for greatness at tight end.

A 1990 graduate of Guilford College, Lilly was a Dean's List student all four years while playing quarterback, wide receiver and special teams for the Quakers from 1986-89. He was named the winner of the Golden Helmet Award as the ideal Guilford College football player as a senior and was a team captain at the North Carolina school.

A native of Beckley, W. Va., Lilly graduated from Woodrow Wilson High where he played quarterback for one of the state's top high school programs.

Lilly joined the Florida State football family in 1995 after coaching and teaching at Northwest Guilford High in Greensboro, N.C., from 1991-94.

KEVIN STEELE

Linebackers

TENNESSEE '81 • 2ND SEASON AT FSU

Florida State head coach Bobby Bowden's addition of former Baylor head coach Kevin Steele to his coaching staff in January of 2003 drew immediate praise from college football experts coast-to-coast, and the results of his effort both on the field and on the recruiting trail has been dramatic. Steele quickly earned the respect of both the players and his coaching peers. His linebackers sing his praises and Bowden's confidence in his abilities shows in the fact that there is no dramatic concern about the unit despite the fact that they must replace all three starters.

Steele was the head coach at Baylor from 1999-2002 and came to FSU prior to the 2003 season to replace Joe Kines, who left to become Alabama's defensive coordinator. A 1981 Tennessee graduate, Steele coached the linebackers for the NFL's Carolina Panthers from 1995-98 before taking the head coaching position at Baylor. He has also served as an assistant coach at Nebraska, Tennessee, Oklahoma State and New Mexico State.

Last season, Steele's transition was eased by the fact that he had three returning starters including All-ACC performer Michael Boulware. While some might suggest a big drop off with three new faces taking on starting roles, FSU's defensive philosophy of playing a lot of people during the season should pay off as there is game experience two-deep at all three positions.

Steele spent his freshman year at Furman before transferring to Tennessee and playing linebacker for Johnny Majors in 1978 and 1979. He stayed on as a student assistant in 1980 and then as a graduate assistant in 1981. He was promoted to outside linebackers coach in 1982.

Steele then moved to New Mexico State, where he served as recruiting coordinator and linebackers coach in 1983. From 1984-86, he coached linebackers and tight ends at Oklahoma State. He returned to his alma mater in 1987 and spent two years as the defensive backs coach for the Volunteers.

From 1989-94, Steele coached the linebackers under Nebraska legend Tom Osborne. During his six years in Lincoln, the Cornhuskers went 60-11, appeared in six bowl games, won four conference championships and captured the 1994 national championship with a 13-0 record.

In 1995, Steele made the jump to the NFL as the linebackers coach for the Carolina Panthers. Under head coach Dom Capers, the Panthers reached the NFC Championship game in their second season of existence (1996). After four years with Carolina, Steele was hired as head coach at Baylor in 1999.

The 45-year old Steele is a native of Dillon, SC. He and his wife Linda have a 17-year old son (Gordon) and a 15-year old daughter (Caroline).

JAMES COLZIE (Florida State '96)

Former Seminole cornerback James Colzie joined the Florida State football defensive coaching staff in mid-March and will be responsible for coaching the Seminole cornerbacks in 2004. He returned to Tallahassee after serving as an assistant football coach at Florida International for three years.

A four-year Seminole letter winner from 1993-96, Colzie graduated from Florida State in 1996 with a degree in international affairs. During his career at Florida State, the Seminoles won a national championship (1993) and played for another (1996), went 43-5-1, won four ACC championships and finished each season ranked No. 4 or higher. Upon graduation, Colzie signed a free agent contract with Tampa Bay, but went back to his second love – baseball – and played one season in the Montreal Expos organization in Harrisburg, Pa. After one season in the minor leagues, Colzie returned home to Miami and taught high school and coached at Miami Christian for two years. Colzie was the head coach for football and baseball and was the assistant coach for the basketball program, which won a state championship during his tenure.

During his second year at Miami Christian, Colzie was offered a position by Coach Don Strook to help build a new football program at Florida International University. He was one of five coaches brought in to help start the program. They used the first year to lay the foundation for the program and a second year to develop the team. Competition began in 2002. Once the program was in place, Colzie was the cornerbacks' coach and an assistant special teams coach, working with the returnees.

The Miami Herald's Athlete of the Year in 1993, Colzie accepted a scholarship to Florida State where he was the defensive back on the Seminoles' No. 1 rated defense.

A talented athlete, Colzie spent most of his childhood running between the football field, the basketball court and the baseball diamond. He was a star as a freshman and sophomore at Class 2A Gulliver, where he played football, basketball, and baseball and ran track. He later transferred to South Miami Senior High. JON JOST Strength & Conditioning

NEBRASKA '90 • 4TH SEASON AT FSU

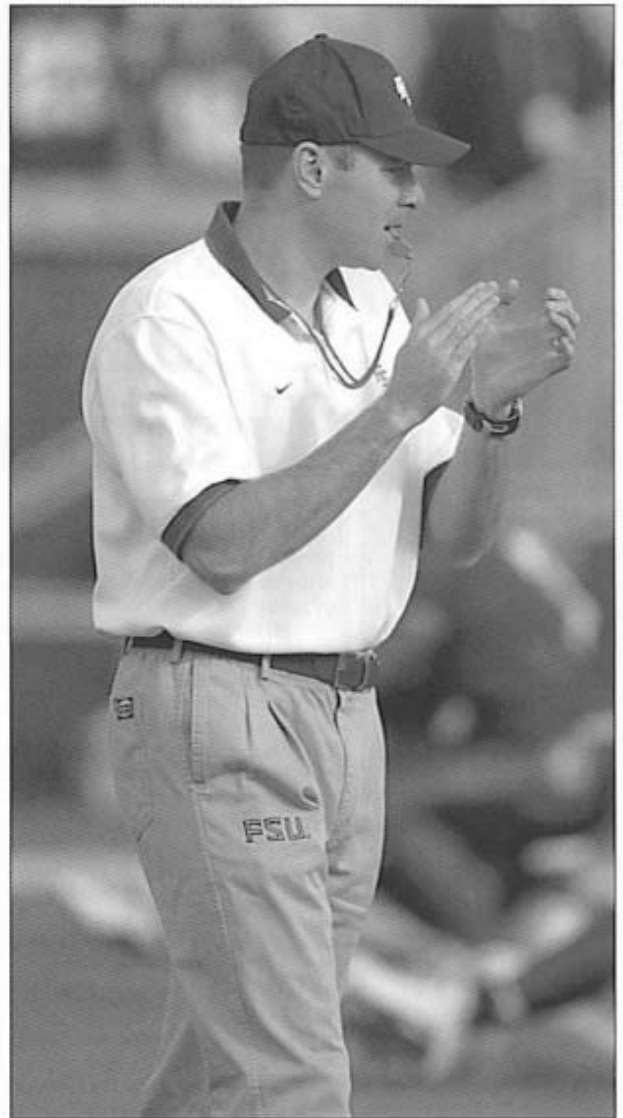

Florida State's commitment to its strength and conditioning program is tangible both in the quality of the individuals who run the programs and the improvements that have been made to the facilities and training areas. Head Strength and Conditioning Coach Jon Jost, who is in his fourth season at FSU, worked feverishly to design the Champions Training Complex and his efforts have resulted in the completion of one of the nation's best training environments. Striving for excellence is not uncommon for Jost, who in the summer of 2003, was presented with certification of Master Strength and Conditioning Coach, making him one of only 36 individuals in the world who have earned the distinction.

Jost, 36, was named Head Strength and Conditioning Coach at Florida State on February 9, 2001, marking a new era in the training and conditioning of Seminole athletes. Prior to heading to Tallahassee, Jost headed the strength and conditioning programs at both Southern Methodist University (1996-2001) and the College of Holy Cross (1995-1996). He started his career as a strength and conditioning coach at the University of Nebraska where he served as an assistant for seven years (two years student assistant, five years full time assistant) and earned certification as strength and conditioning specialist. During that time, Jost worked closely with Boyd Epley, the Nebraska Director of Athletic Performance and founder of the National Strength and Conditioning Association.

Jost has worked extremely hard in developing a staff of experts dedicated to improving athletic performance. He and his staff of six full-time assistant strength coaches and three graduate assistant strength coaches are committed to providing the best athletic performance enhancing program in the nation to FSU athletes. Jost and his staff implement a comprehensive strength and conditioning program designed to reduce the risk of injury and to train the complete athlete. Each program is tailored to each individual athlete and addresses agility, endurance, flexibility, power, speed and strength. The goal of the program is to maximize the on-field performance of each athlete, while reducing the risk of injury.

Jost earned a bachelor's degree in exercise science with an emphasis in strength and conditioning from Nebraska in 1990 and went on to receive a master's degree in education administration with an emphasis in post-secondary education from the school in 1994. He is married to Marianella Baez.

FLORIDA STATE SEMINOLES

"Our Strength & Conditioning program and off-season training are cornerstones of the Seminoles' success. The road to championships begins here." — Bobby Bowden

THE ROGER HOLLER

Champions Training Complex

The FSU strength and conditioning program is designed to improve athletic performance through an individualized regimen of stretching, lifting, speed, power, agility and conditioning drills. The goal of the program is to maximize the on-field performance of each athlete, while reducing the risk of injury.

Before a strength program is designed for an athlete, they are put through a series of physical tests to evaluate their speed, power, strength, agility, and body composition. Once the testing is completed, a program is designed for each student-athlete that will specifically address his weaknesses and enhance his strengths.

The computerized workout programs show in detail the exercise, the number of sets, repetitions and amount of weight prescribed for each workout. Head Strength and Conditioning Coach Jon Jost and his staff of experts closely monitor progress to assure each student-athlete is on schedule to reach their goals. Physical development is critical in order to excel at the collegiate level.

FSU's athletics department is committed to excellence in every area. This includes providing its athletes with the most state-of-the-art facility and equipment. Florida State's Champions Training Complex provides the best platform to train its athletes to their full athletic potential.

Conditioning

The Seminoles pride themselves as being the best-conditioned team on the field. FSU's conditioning program addresses linearly, change of direction and resistance training to ensure each of the energy systems are developed. The goal is for Florida State to be the most physical and conditioned team in the nation.

STRENGTH & SPEED PROGRAM

The Seminole strength and speed program is designed to improve athletic performance through individualized workouts each addressing:

Strength

Defined as Mass x Distance.

Agility

The ability to change direction without the loss of speed.

Speed

The combination of stride length (the amount of ground covered between steps) and stride frequency (the number of steps per second).

Power

Defined as Mass x Distance ÷ by Time. In other words, it is the combination of strength and speed.

Flexibility

The range of movement in a joint and its surrounding muscle. This is a key component of improving athletic performance and avoiding injuries.

Acceleration

The ability to reach top speed in the shortest period of time. This is the number one tested indicator of performance.

Nutrition

Nutrition is a key component in staying healthy and for physical development. Nutritionist Josh Hingst works closely with the players to assist with nutritional needs.

Buster Davis lost 12 pounds of fat and gained three pounds of muscle in the off-season.

All athletes have their body composition measured in the Bod Pod.

Sports Medicine Staff

RANDY ORAVETZ Director of Sports Medicine (Florida State '79) 26th Season at FSU

One of the most important aspects of a top athletic program is the training staff and Florida State's athletic training operation is headed by one of the best in the country in Randy Oravetz. Well-respected nationally, Oravetz was honored with the 2000 NATA Distinguished Athletic Trainer Award and was also recognized in 1998 by the National Association of Athletic Trainers when he was awarded the National Service Award.

Oravetz begins his 19th season as the director of sports medicine at FSU in 2004 and he does so in fine fashion as the program now enjoys a state-of-the-art sports medicine facility. Oravetz was instrumental in the design of the new Don Fauls Athletic Training Room. Named in honor of the legendary FSU athletic trainer, the facility is adequately equipped with the latest advances that the field of sports medicine has to offer.

Oravetz supervises a staff of nine assistant athletic trainers, five graduate assistant athletic trainers and 42 student trainers and oversees the medical care given to the athletes of 19 different varsity sports and performs administrative duties. He is the primary liaison between the Florida State team doctors and the coaching staff and is directly responsible for the everyday care and treatment of the FSU football players. He and his staff deal with the prevention, treatment and rehabilitation of all athletic injuries.

With the help of Oravetz and his staff, several Seminole athletes have overcome major injuries. Five FSU football players have earned the Piccolo Award, given annually by the Atlantic Coast Conference to "the most courageous" player in the league. The award is a tribute to not only the hard work and character of the winners, but also the professionalism and dedication of the trainers and medical staff who assist the players in the rehabilitative efforts.

Before being elevated to the head trainer's position in 1986, Oravetz served as the number one assistant trainer at FSU for seven years. He began his Florida State career as a student trainer for four years Fauls and was elevated to a full-time assistant in 1979 immediately following graduation from FSU. During his tenure as an assistant trainer, Oravetz served as the head

THE DON FAULS Athletic Training Room

Florida State Athletic Training has experienced a very exciting time as construction on the brand new Don Fauls Athletic Training Room was completed last spring. The 15,000 square foot athletic training room is housed off Doak Campbell Football Stadium and is used by all 19 Seminole varsity teams. This facility is adequately equipped with the latest advances that the field of sports medicine has to offer.

Florida State's athletes have ample accessibility for aquatic therapy as the Don Fauls Athletic Training Room includes a 8' x 40' in-ground workout pool, a 9' x 16' in-ground cold whirlpool, a 9' x 16' in-ground warm whirlpool, and nine extremity whirlpools.

Some of the attractions include an in-house pharmacy, x-ray machine and two physician evaluation rooms. There is also a 4,000 square foot rehabilitation room with the latest version of a Biodex isokinetic testing machine. The treatment area includes 24 treatment tables with various modalities, computer injury tracking devices, and 18 taping benches.

Don Fauls

Don Fauls was doctor, parent, friend, and confidant to thousands of Florida State athletes over 27 years of service in athletics. Seminoles everywhere join to honor the naming of the new athletic training room to a special man that provided the opportunity to help so many athletes in so many ways. Let all who enter this dedicated athletic training room emulate the same honesty, loyalty, and integrity of this outstanding individual.

COACHES

The athletic training room is complimented with an orthotic room and an education center/teaching lab that will be large enough for 40 athletic training students to utilize. The mission of the Florida State University Athletic Training/Sports Medicine major with a degree in Human Sciences is to prepare the undergraduate student for a multi-skilled career in athletic training. The goal of the athletic training education curriculum is to fulfill the university's mission of providing excellent formal instruction with individual attention. Unique to this program is the integration of academics and athletics for outstanding professional development. This preparation along with didactic "course work", clinical, and field experiences will provide the athletic training student with the possibility of sitting for the NATABOC national certification examination. Florida State University Athletic Training/Sports Medicine Education Program has officially been granted national accreditation by the Commission on Accreditation of Allied Health Education Programs (CAAHEP). The program has been granted a five-year candidacy.

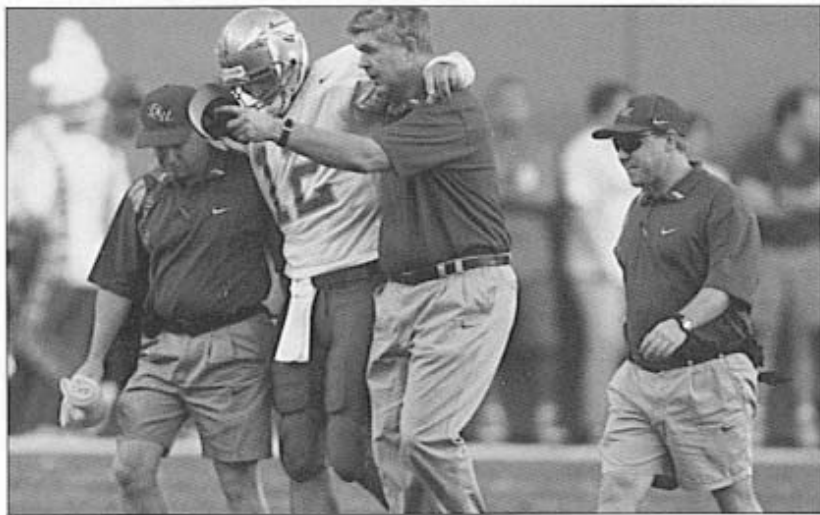

Other features: Each physician evaluation room is equipped with the latest advances in computer injury tracking software. The In-house pharmacy also serves FSU's athletes for diagnostic fluoroscopy. The first rehabilitation area has a floor that consists of rubberized tiling, allowing maximum efficiency during functional rehabilitative training. The second rehabilitation area consists of ample equipment options. The rehabilitation areas are equipped with the newest version of the Biodex System 3. This isokinetic testing/workout device provides pivotal biofeedback data during the injury recovery process. The rehabilitation area also includes a fully equipped cardiovascular workout area.

Piccolo Award

The Atlantic Coast Conference has selected a football player to receive the Brian Piccolo Award since 1971. The award is named after the former Wake Forest football star who was drafted by the Chicago Bears, but whose death and courage has inspired athletes for over 25 years. The story was made into a popular movie. The award is given to "the most courageous" player in the ACC and five Seminoles have won the award. Dan Footman in 1992, Sam Cowart in 1997, Corey Simon shared the award with Virginia's Anthony Poindexter in 1998, Chris Weinke in 1999 and Anquan Boldin in 2002. The award is a tribute to not only the hard work and character of the recipients, but also the professionalism and dedication of the trainers and medical staff who assist the players in the rehabilitative efforts. FSU's honorees have been particularly successful as Footman had a long career with the Chicago Bears and Simon, Weinke, Cowart and Boldin, the 2003 NFL Rookie of the Year, are all on NFL rosters.
