

QUARTERBACKS

Junior Wyatt Sexton started seven games last season, completing 139-of-252 passes for 1,661 yards with eight touchdowns and eight interceptions. Sexton left spring drills No. 1 on the depth chart at quarterback but will have to hold off talented redshirt freshmen Drew Weatherford and Xavier Lee when preseason practice begins. Sexton had the best game of his career in last season's 36-3 win over sixth-ranked Virginia, going 20-of-26 for 275 yards with one TD and no interceptions.

Wyatt Sexton

Weatherford and Lee, who both redshirted in 2004 in their first season with the Seminoles, had impressive springs and showed the coaching staff why they were two of the most sought after prep signal callers two years ago. Weatherford actually saw action in the North Carolina game last year, but suffered an ankle injury in his only college snap. After off-season surgery, he is expected to be 100 percent when fall practice resumes. Lee was the state's Mr. Football as a high school senior and has the physical size (6-4, 227) and tools to be a standout quarterback when he gets on the field.

RECEIVERS

Although the depth chart at wide receiver looks a lot different from last season, the position is stocked with talented players ready to become household names in 2005. Senior Willie Reid, who has shown he can make big plays when the ball is thrown his way, will take over on one side while shifty junior Chris Davis steps in as the other starting receiver. Davis has drawn comparisons to FSU All-American Peter Warrick for his ability to cut on a dime and make people miss in the open field. The two will replace departed starters Crapnonso Thorpe and Chauncey Stovall, who moved on to Kansas City and Philadelphia, respectively.

Willie Reid

True sophomore De'Cody Fagg began to come into his own toward the end of last season and during the spring. He will open as the back-up to Reid, and at 6-3, possesses a perfect combination of size and speed. Burner Kenny O'Neal, an All-American sprinter on the FSU track team, is listed at third team and is followed by Joslin Shaw on the depth chart.

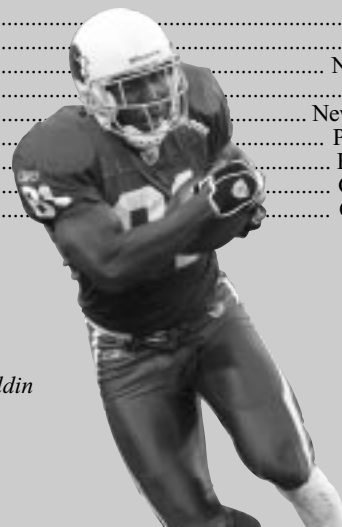

Backing up Davis on the other side is true freshman Greg Carr, who many believe was the most improved player at the conclusion of spring practice. Carr spent the winter with the Seminole basketball team and when he combined his 6-6 height and his leaping ability from the court, he was almost impossible to cover during the spring. Walk-on Robert Hallback has earned a shot at playing time with his sure hands and will back up Davis and Carr.

RUNNING BACKS

Florida State will feature one of the most talented offensive backfields in the nation in 2005. Senior Leon Washington, who led the ACC in rushing yards per game a year ago, returns as the starter at tailback. Behind Washington is junior Lorenzo Booker, who will get his fair share of carries as the other half of what may be the best 1-2 tailback combo in school history. The two backs accounted for 1,838 rushing yards last season and each averaged better than five yards per carry.

Leon Washington

Lamar Lewis and Jamaal Edwards, who both saw action as true freshmen last year, will back up Washington and Booker. The sophomores have been impressive in scrimmages and limited game action. A trio of freshmen will also push for playing time this season as Antone Smith, Russell Ball and Matt Dunham make their way to Tallahassee this fall.

As with the tailbacks, the fullback position is both talented and deep. Seniors James Coleman and B.J. Dean will battle for the No. 1 spot after splitting starting duties last year. The two seniors will clear the way for Washington and Booker and will also get short yardage carries. Coleman and Dean combined for six rushing touchdowns in 2004. Joe Surratt will back up the pair after playing last season as a true freshman.

TIGHT ENDS

Despite the graduation of Paul Irons, who signed a free agent contract with the Cleveland Browns, tight ends coach John Lilly welcomes back three talented seniors in Matt Henshaw, Donnie Carter and Matt Root. All three have proven they are capable of winning the starting job with Henshaw and Carter penciled in atop the depth chart to open fall drills.

Donnie Carter

Carter missed the 2004 season with a knee injury, but the offensive coaches expect big things from him this year. Henshaw, an excellent receiver, caught just five passes in his junior year as a back-up but did end his sophomore season with TD receptions in the last two games (Florida and vs. Miami in the Orange Bowl). Root, a Tallahassee native who transferred from Notre Dame two years ago, had just one grab last year as he played most of the year with a broken hand.

OFFENSIVE LINE

Although new offensive line coach Mark McHale lost a pair of tackles to the NFL in Alex Barron and Ray Willis, the returning linemen are confident that this year's unit will be a team strength. There's not only a new coach on the offensive line, there is also a new blocking scheme as well as a new labeling system. McHale will emphasize more zone blocking and visited Alex Gibbs of the Atlanta Falcons this summer. Gibbs' zone blocking techniques with Denver helped make the Broncos one of the most successful rushing teams in the NFL. He also visited Howard Mudd of the Indianapolis Colts, who annually assembles one of the league's top offensive lines. The Seminoles will no longer flip the offensive line with a tight side and a split side as they switch to the left and right terminology.

Matt Meinrod

David Castillo returns as the starter at center and hopes to put together an injury-free 2005. Castillo and Matt Meinrod, who was injured in the opener at Miami, are the leaders of the offensive line and picked up McHale's new system quickly over the spring and summer. Meinrod will start at right guard and will be backed up by redshirt freshman Cornelius Lewis. Castillo will be backed up by John Frady and Dumaka Atkins.

Cory Niblock, who started at guard last season when Meinrod went down with a knee injury, moves out to left tackle this year. Veteran Ron Lunford, who could also play guard, is listed as the second-team left tackle. Jacky Claude played as a true freshman last year, and won a starting job at left guard following spring drills. At right tackle, David Overmyer is penciled in as the starter but Mario Henderson will make his case for starting honors in preseason practice. Both Overmyer and Henderson have starting experience at tackle.

DEFENSIVE LINE

The defensive line of 2004 had three players taken in the NFL Draft as tackle Travis Johnson and ends Chauncey Davis and Eric Moore moved up to the professional ranks. In addition, tackle Clifton Dickson will not be eligible this fall due to academics. The lone returning starter is Brodrick Bunkley at noseguard and he notched seven starts a year ago. Bunkley battled through an injury-plagued junior season and he can be a dominating presence inside when he is 100 percent. Andre Fluellen saw action for the first time last year and he is scheduled to take over at defensive tackle. Bunkley and Fluellen will be backed up by a pair of freshmen in Aaron Jones and Emmanuel Dunbar.

Kamerion Wimbley

Although he is not listed as a returning starter, right end Kamerion Wimbley saw as much time as FSU's two starters at end a year ago as Jody Allen rotated the three players throughout the season. Wimbley had an outstanding spring as he earned the Hinesman Award, given by the coaches to the spring's most dominating player on either side of the ball. At left end, Darrell Burston is penciled in as the starter but will have to hold off talented sophomore Alex Boston.

Junior linebacker Buster Davis finished fourth on the team in total tackles last year and is one of the reasons the group is so highly touted.

LINEBACKERS

The Seminole linebackers have been ranked as the top unit in the country by the Atlanta Journal Constitution and will anchor the 2005 Florida State defense. All three starters return in weakside linebacker A.J. Nicholson, middle linebacker Buster Davis and strongside linebacker Ernie Sims. Nicholson and Sims, who has garnered preseason All-America accolades, ranked first and second on last year's team in total tackles while Davis checked in at number four.

Ernie Sims

As good as the three returning starters are, it is the depth at linebacker that makes this group the nation's best. Sam McGrew started the opener at Miami last year and will likely see as much playing time as any of the starters. Marcello Church used an outstanding spring to show the coaches he belongs on the field in his senior season. True sophomores Jae Thaxton and Lawrence Timmons will also see a great deal of action as they made names for themselves last year as reserves and as outstanding special teams players. Rodney Gallon will get his first taste of game experience after taking a redshirt in 2004.

DEFENSIVE BACKS

Mickey Andrews' secondary features a pair of Tallahassee Lincoln High School standouts who are among the best at their respective positions. Preseason All-American Antonio Cromartie will start at left corner and his former prep teammate, Pat Watkins, returns as the starter at free safety. The duo finished in a tie for second last year in the ACC with four interceptions apiece. Cromartie got a couple reps with the offense during spring scrimmages at wide receiver and may get a shot on the other side of the ball in the fall with his outstanding size and speed.

Antonio Cromartie

At right cornerback, senior Gerard Ross will have to hold off talented second-year player J.R. Bryant. Bryant ended the 2004 season as the nickel corner when Leroy Smith broke his arm, but Ross used a solid spring to move into the top spot on the depth chart. Redshirt freshmen Tony Carter and Trevor Ford, who are listed behind Cromartie at left corner, could see a great deal of action at either spot.

Senior Kyler Hall was awarded a medical redshirt last year and will get the starting nod at rover. Hall, who played in three games in 2004, started six games as a sophomore at free safety in 2002 so he brings plenty of experience to the defensive backfield. Anthony Houllis and Darius McClure follow Hall on the depth chart at rover.

KICKERS & PUNTERS

Veteran placekicker Xavier Beitia graduated but FSU's special teams should be in good shape with punter Chris Hall returning along with deep snapper Myles Hodish. Sophomore Gary Cismesia will open as the starter at kicker but will be pushed by Chase Goggans and incoming freshman Graham Gano for the job. Cismesia started three games last year and tied a school record with a 5-for-5 field goal performance against Duke. He finished the season 7-for-9 with his only two misses coming against Florida.

Chris Hall

Hall had an impressive junior campaign, his first year as the starter, as he finished third in the ACC with an average of 42.1 yards per punt. He also dropped 21 of his 67 punts inside the 20. Hall will also handle the holding duties again in 2005. Hodish is back for his second season as the deep snapper and he and Hall have established a good rapport with a year of game and practice experience under their belts.
