

Fifth-Year Senior
Quarterback
Christian Ponder

2010

FLORIDA STATE

OUTLOOK

There's a synergy working within the Florida State football program as the Jimbo Fisher era unfolds with the start of the 2010 season. Fisher has energized the Seminoles with sweeping changes, from the infrastructure of the program to the addition of five new assistants, all of whom bring impressive credentials as teachers and recruiters.

On the field, the Seminoles welcome the return of 10 offensive starters from a unit which ranked second in the ACC in total offense, led by veteran quarterback Christian Ponder and the entire offensive line. There are proven playmakers among specialists and a renewed optimism on defense with the introduction of a new, zone-based scheme.

Factor in the season-ending Gator Bowl victory over West Virginia, a record turnout for the 2010 spring game and a palpable buzz among the fan base, and the pieces to Fisher's first season puzzle seem to be fitting together nicely.

With the season at hand, here's a segment-by-segment look at the Seminoles moving forward:

QUARTERBACKS

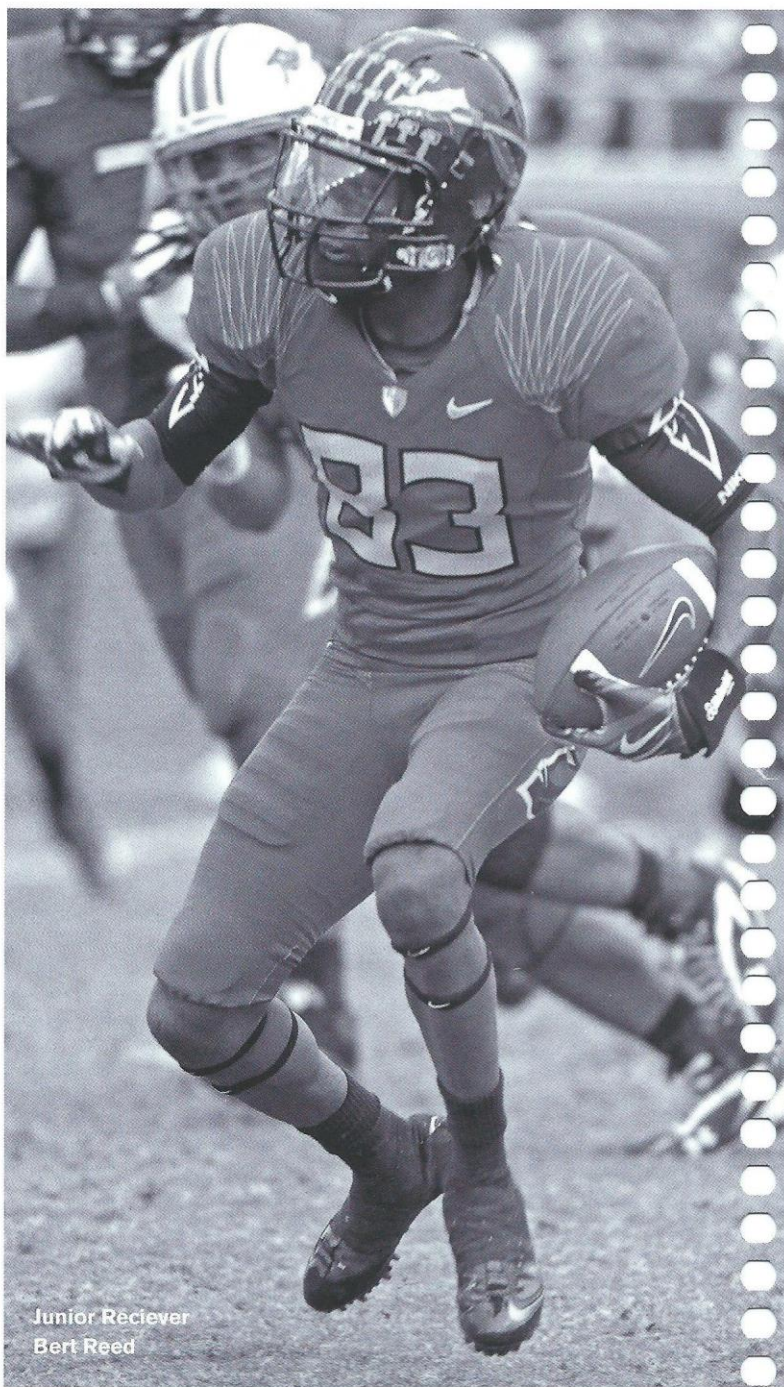

- Fifth-year senior quarterback Christian Ponder enters the 2010 season as one of the most highly regarded signal-callers in the nation. Despite suffering a season-ending shoulder injury in the ninth game of the 2009 season, Ponder posted the sixth-best season for total offense in ACC history (321.8 ypg). With 22 starts and 23 career appearances, Ponder begins the season among the top 10 statistical quarterbacks in FSU history.
- Redshirt sophomore EJ Manuel's rapid development in Ponder's absence last season gives the Seminoles two explosive options under center. Manuel directed FSU to a 3-1 record, securing the school's 33rd consecutive winning season and 28th consecutive bowl appearance along the way. He earned Gator Bowl MVP honors by leading the 'Noles past No. 18 West Virginia, 33-21.
- Ponder received all of the work with the first-team offense during spring practice, just four months removed from shoulder surgery. While Manuel missed spring following shoulder surgery, a pair of young quarterback prospects benefited greatly from the added work. Redshirt freshman Will Secord and freshman Clint Trickett, a January enrollee, shared the quarterback duties for the Garnet team at the spring game.

RUNNING BACKS

- Junior tailback Jermaine Thomas led the Seminoles with 832 rushing yards and nine rushing TDs in 2009, highlighted by four 100-yard performances, including 121 yards and two scores against West Virginia. Despite posting 1,342 yards and a 5.7 ypc career average, Thomas is locked in a battle for playing time.
- Sophomore Chris Thompson emerged from spring practice atop the depth chart at tailback. As a freshman, Thompson ran for 120 yards on just 23 carries (5.2 ypc), though he missed two games. He ran for two touchdowns against NC State and posted the second-longest rush of the season by the 'Noles with a 49-yard burst against Georgia Tech.
- Junior tailback Ty Jones made three starts and appeared in six games for the 'Noles in '09. His 251 rushing yards included a 108-yard performance in FSU's impressive road win at No. 7 BYU. He was second on the team with five rushing TDs.
- Versatile sophomore Lonnie Pryor was the only freshman on offense to appear in all 13 games for the 'Noles last season. Pryor made four starts at fullback but also provides a big-back option from the tailback spot. He rushed for 156 yards and four TDs and collected 10 receptions for 132 yards and a score.
- Junior college transfer Debrale Smiley, a 235-pounder, provides the Seminoles with a power back capable of hammering out third-down conversions or rumbling through opponents as he did when he broke off a 48-yard run in the spring game.

RECEIVERS

- Bert Reed enters his redshirt junior season as the Seminole's most productive returning receiver. He latched on to a career-high 60 catches for 710 yards in '09, which ranked second on the team. With 83 career receptions, Reed is fast moving up FSU's list of all-time pass-catchers.
- Junior Jarmon Forston broke loose for a career-high 45 receptions last season, good for 610 yards and four TDs. A six-game starter, Forston is a formidable target, as evidenced by his leaping, one-handed grab to set up the Gator Bowl winning score.

Junior Receiver

- Redshirt junior Taiwan Easterling returned from Achilles tendon surgery in time to post career-highs for receptions (35) and receiving yards (442) in 2009. Easterling, whose 65 career receptions rank second on the roster, spent the spring with the FSU baseball team.
- Sophomores Willie Haulstead and Rodney Smith saw limited action last season but were significant contributors in the spring, as was redshirt sophomore A.J. Alexander, who joins the corps after spending '09 at cornerback.
- The Seminoles' heralded 2010 recruiting class includes five receivers – Greg Dent, Christian Green, Jarred Haggins, De'Joshua Johnson and Kenny Shaw – who will have an opportunity to play their way into the rotation.

TIGHT ENDS

- Junior Beau Reliford started the final five games of the '09 season following an injury to Caz Piurowski and came into his own with 11 receptions for 101 yards and two TDs, including the fourth quarter game-winner at North Carolina.
- Ja'Baris Little, a junior, has been primarily used in blocking situations over the past two seasons and has seen action in 20 games.
- Signees Will Tye and Tank Sessions will have the opportunity to compete immediately with walk-on redshirt sophomore Jonathan Johnson as the Seminoles build depth at the position.

OFFENSIVE LINE

- The Seminoles return their entire starting line from 2009, which helped pave the way for the ACC's No. 2 total offense (421.4 ypg). Combined, the quintet brings 142 career starts to the table and forms one of the most formidable units in the nation. All five were nominated for All-ACC honors a year ago by the league coaches.
- Senior left guard Rodney Hudson, a consensus pre-season All-American, was the ACC's 2009 Jacobs Blocking Award winner and is poised to become the first offensive lineman in league history to earn All-ACC honors for four seasons.
- Redshirt senior center Ryan McMahon is the Iron Man of the unit. With 39 consecutive starts over the football, the three-time Rimington Award candidate could become FSU's all-time leader in career starts this season.
- Junior left tackle Andrew Datko, one of the nation's finest pass protectors, brings a streak of 25 consecutive starts into the season. He allowed just two sacks in '09 and was ACC Lineman of the Week with a silencing performance against UNC's vaunted pass rush.

- Junior right tackle Zebrie Sanders and junior right guard David Spurlock ranked first and second on the squad with 39 and 36 knockdown blocks, respectively, and have started side-by-side in 19 of the last 20 games.

DEFENSIVE TACKLES

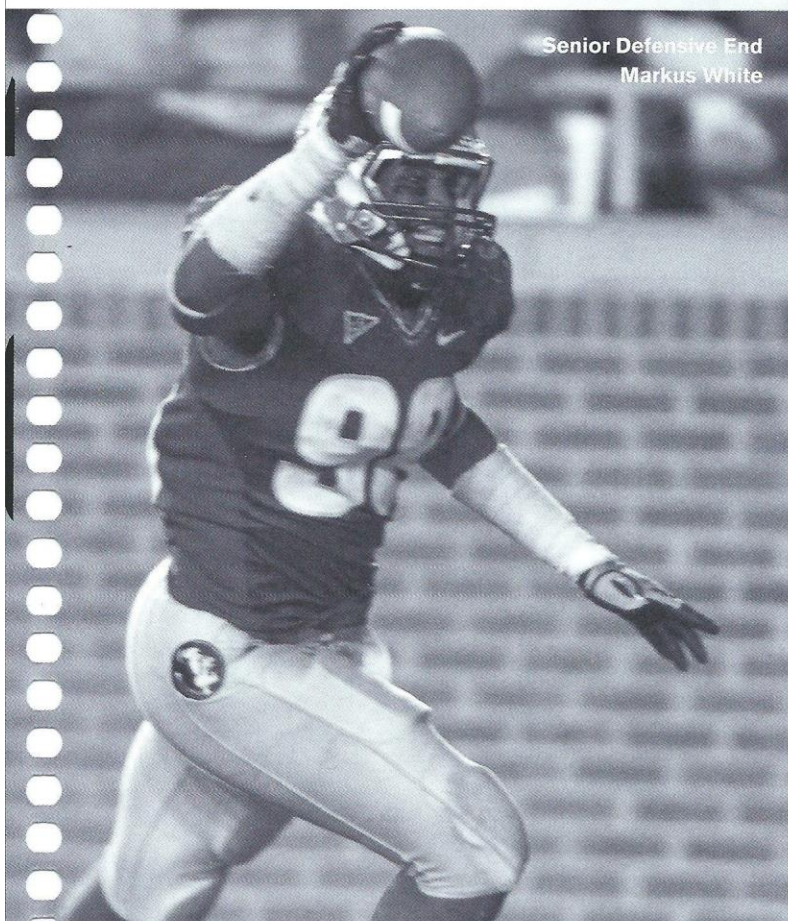

- Young, athletic and still developing physically, redshirt sophomore Everett Dawkins symbolizes the Seminoles' interior defensive line. One of five underclassmen in the segment, Dawkins made seven starts in '09 and earned "most dependable" honors in the spring.
- No interior lineman was more productive than sophomore Jacobbi McDaniel last season. As a true freshman, he made only two starts, but led the segment with 25 tackles, four tackles for loss and two forced fumbles.
- The Seminoles expect to get a big lift from the arrival of redshirt sophomore Anthony McCloud from the junior college ranks. A 300-pounder with the ability to push the pocket, McCloud earned "most improved" honors in the spring.
- Redshirt freshman Demonte McAllister, the beneficiary of extended reps in the spring, flashed his athleticism with a sack and a pass break-up in the Garnet & Gold game. Junior Moses McCray, who led the segment with nine starts in '09, had offseason surgeries which should improve his production.

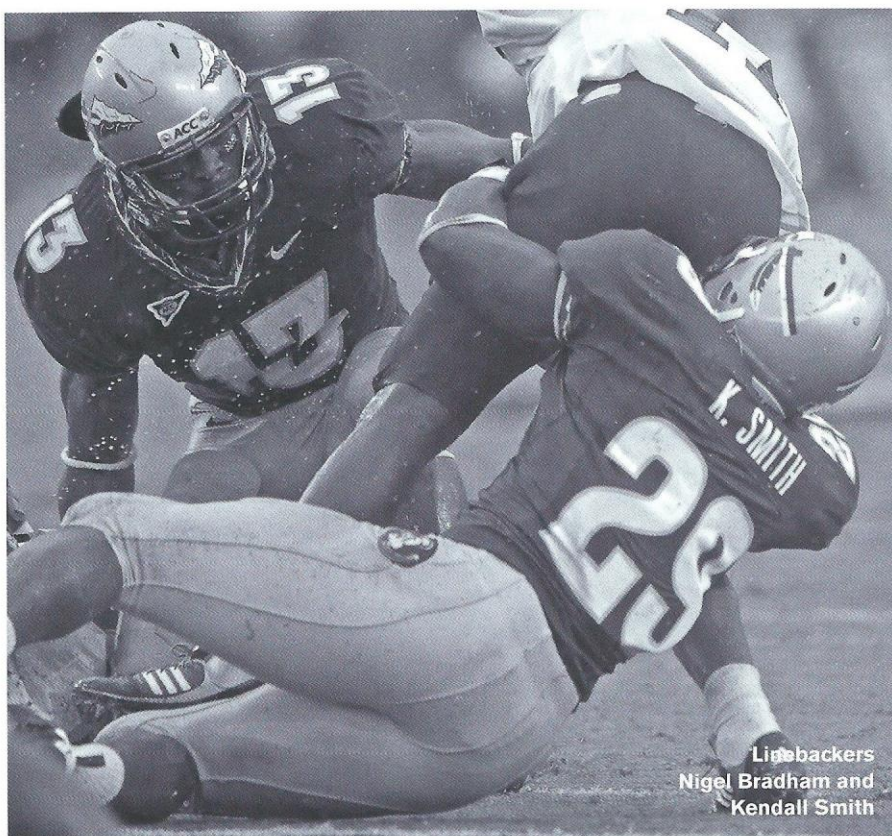

DEFENSIVE ENDS

- Left end Markus White, the lone senior among the top four returning defensive ends, boasts a relentless motor which helped him record 10 1/2 tackles for loss last season. That's tops among all FSU defensive returnees.
- Sophomore right end Brandon Jenkins saw action in 12 games last season, primarily as a reserve, though he led the team with four quarterback hurries. A consistent playmaker in practice, Jenkins' three-sack spring game raised the expectations of the coaching staff.
- Rangy redshirt sophomore Toshmon Stevens' lone tackle for loss in '09 came in FSU's Gator Bowl win. The back-up to White on the left side, Stevens' physical tools fit nicely into the Seminoles' new defensive scheme. Right side end Dan Hicks is a redshirt freshman with a huge upside and a physical frame that fits FSU's needs.

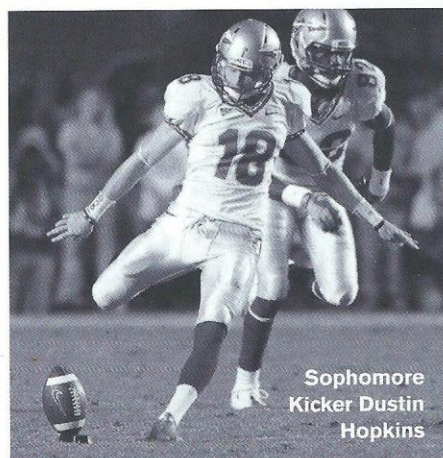

LINEBACKERS

- Junior weakside linebacker Nigel Bradham, who led the Seminoles with 93 tackles last season, was FSU's best defender over the second half of the season. Bradham registered 10 or more tackles in four of the last five games.
- Senior Kendall Smith returns for his senior season on the heels of his most productive campaign. Smith, one of two returnees who made 13 starts in '09, registered 85 stops from the middle linebacker position and led the segment with seven tackles for loss.

- The strongside linebacker position was one of the most competitive in the spring as two reserves – junior Nigel Carr and redshirt senior Mister Alexander – earned most dependable and most improved honors for the segment from the coaches. Carr made 26 stops last season. Alexander – a natural pass rusher – made 17 stops, but six of those were behind the line of scrimmage, including five sacks.
- Redshirt sophomore Vince Williams, who missed last season with a back injury, was extremely productive in the spring from his weakside spot behind Bradham. He led or shared the team lead in tackles in three of four spring scrimmages.
- Heralded freshman Jeff Luc, a January enrollee, spent the spring getting acclimated to the Seminoles' defense. Physically mature and a punishing hitter, Luc was the top-rated middle linebacker prospect in the nation for the 2010 signing class.

- FSU may well have landed the nation's top linebacker recruiting class. In addition to Luc, Christian Jones, Telvin Smith, Nigel Terrell and Holmes Onwukaife will immediately add talent and depth to the segment.

SECONDARY

- Redshirt senior boundary cornerback Ochuko Jenije brings 13 starts and career-highs for tackles (31) and interceptions (4) back for his final year of eligibility. Jenije is the lone returning starter in a secondary that is making the transition in both scheme and personnel.
- Electric sophomore field corner Greg Reid spent much of the '09 season as a starter in FSU's nickel defense and performed admirably with 23 tackles, two interceptions and six pass break-ups. Reid's ball instincts fit well with the zone scheme now employed.
- Redshirt junior field corner Dionte Allen registered three pass break-ups in an injury-marred '09 season, which included one start. Xavier Rhodes is a tall, physical, boundary corner whose skills will allow him to push Jenije.
- FSU signed three cornerbacks in the 2010 class, including touted junior college transfer Mike Harris and USA Today national Defensive Player of the Year Lamarcus Joyner, the top-rated prep at his position.
- The Seminoles must replace both starting safeties and 2009 reserves Nick Moody and Terrance Parks are the front-runners to fill the voids at free safety and strong safety, respectively. Redshirt freshmen Justin Bright and Gerald Demps, along with sophomore Jajuan Harley, will provide competition and depth.

SPECIALISTS

- Sophomore kicker Dustin Hopkins emerged as a significant contributor both offensively and defensively for the Seminoles. Hopkins became the top-scoring freshman kicker in school history with 97 points and set an FSU bowl record with 49 field goals against West Virginia. His 24 touchbacks on kickoffs ranked fourth nationally.
- Junior punter Shawn Powell's first full season as the starter included an impressive 41.6-yard average. He also pinned opponents inside the 20-yard line 13 times on 43 punts and contributed significantly to a unit that allowed just 136 punt return yards. Powell also handled all placement holds for the second consecutive season.
- Greg Reid earned multiple honors for his prowess as a return specialist. He led the nation in punt returns with an 18.4 average and proved to be a game-changer in late-season wins over Wake Forest and Maryland. Reid was also fourth in the ACC in kickoff returns (25.5 avg).
- Redshirt freshman Chris Revell enters the fall as the leader to take over the long-snapping duties with competition coming from classmate Philip Doumar.
