THE CHAMPIONSHIPS

The conference will conduct championship competition in 25 sports during the 2009-10 academic year - 12 for men and 13 for women. The first ACC championship was held in swimming on February 25, 1954. The conference did not conduct championships in cross country, wrestling or tennis during the first year.

The 12 sports for men include football, cross country, soccer, basketball, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, wrestling, baseball, tennis, golf and lacrosse. Fencing, which was started in 1971, was discontinued in 1981.

Women's sports were initiated in 1977 with the first championship meet held in tennis at Wake Forest.

Championships for women are currently conducted in cross country, field hockey, soccer, basketball, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, tennis, golf, lacrosse, softball and rowing with volleyball deciding its champion by regular season play.

AN OVERVIEW

Consistency. It is the mark of true excellence in any endeavor.

However, in today's intercollegiate athletics, competition has become so balanced and so competitive that it is virtually impossible to maintain a high level of consistency.

Yet the Atlantic Coast Conference has defied the odds. Now in its 57th year of competition, the ACC has long enjoyed the reputation as one of the strongest and most competitive intercollegiate conferences in the nation. And that is not mere conjecture, the numbers support it.

Since the league's inception in 1953, ACC schools have captured four national golf titles. Clemson captured its first ever ACC and NCAA title in 2003. Wake Forest, with its league-leading 18 ACC championships, captured national titles in 1974, 1975 and 1986.

North Carolina is second to the Demon Deacons with 11 ACC crowns, 10 outright. Georgia Tech has captured 11 league titles, including nine outright while Clemson has won nine league titles, eight outright. Clemson and NC State were co-champions in 1990, while in 2007, Georgia Tech shared the title with Virginia Tech.

Duke has won the league championship six times while Maryland and NC State each have shared one ACC title - the Terrapins and South Carolina tied in 1964 while the Wolfpack and Clemson deadlocked in 1990. Florida State captured its first ever ACC Championship title in 2008.

Wake Forest leads all league schools with 22 ACC individual champions. North Carolina is second with 13 followed by Clemson (7), Duke (6), Georgia Tech (6), NC State (6), Maryland (3), Virginia (1) and Florida State (1). In 2007, Florida State's Jonas Blixt claimed ACC medalist honors, which marked the first time an individual from Florida State had claimed the individual title.

Seven ACC golfers have captured NCAA medalist honors, with NC State's Matt Hill capturing the latest honor in 2009. Wake Forest claims three of those honors in Curtis Strange (1974), Jay Haas (1975) and Gary Hallberg (1979). North Carolina's John Inman captured individual honors in 1984, Clemson's Charles Warren brought home the individual title in 1997 and Georgia Tech's Troy Matteson in 2002.

Eight of the league's 11 golf teams took part in the NCAA Regionals a year ago and four of those teams - Georgia Tech, Duke, Wake Forest and Virginia - advanced to the NCAA Championship. Participating as individuals at the NAAs, NC State's Matt Hill captured the medalist honors while Clemson's Kyle Stanley placed second. Georgia Tech tied for 10th, Duke placed 14th while Wake Forest and Virginia tied for 27th.
