NATIONAL CHAMPIONS

Since the inception of the program in 1949, Florida State swimming and diving has had their share of All-Americans. The Seminoles have racked up a combined 182 All-American certificates in 58 years. In addition to the All-American accolades, FSU boasts six National Champions, at least one every decade since 1960. A sure sign that Florida State is on their way to being on of the elite programs in the country.

CURT GENDERS - ONE-METER DIVING (1961)

Before Dave Cowens, Deion Sanders or Charlie Ward, Curt Genders was considered to be "Possibly the greatest athlete in Florida State history" in the 1964 swimming and diving media guide.

The moniker was well earned as Genders became the first swimmer or diver to ever earn All-America honors in three different seasons as he picked up the award from 1959-61 on the one-meter board as well as three-meter board or "high board" as it was called back in the 1960's.

A native of Sarasota, Genders saved his best NCAA meet for his last. During the 1961 competition, he defeated a pair of Olympians on his very last dive to claim the title on the one-meter board, a first for Florida State swimming and diving.

PHIL BOGGS - ONE-METER DIVING (1971)

Ten years after Curt Genders brought home the program's first national championships and once again it was on the one-meter diving. While most of the swimmers and divers recruited by Florida State today have national accolades, Boggs was not well known outside of his hometown of Akron, Ohio.

Despite standing in at just 5-foot-5, Boggs was actively involved in diving, football, baseball and track, but it wasn't until his junior year that he fully turned his attentions to the springboard. Working with FSU graduate Dick Wells at Firestone High School, he began his journey to national recognition and eventually an Olympic gold medal.

Following a satisfactory freshman season, instead of returning to Ohio, Boggs spent the summer in Ft. Lauderdale, training with coach Bill Barton. Barton's work that summer had a tremendous impact as the very next season Boggs placed fourth on the one-meter board at the 1969 NCAA Championships. His All-America certificate was the first by a Seminole diver since Genders in 1961.

"It was fun," Boggs said of his summer under Barton's tutelage. "He was the first person to tell me that I had the opportunity to compete on the national level."

The improvement continued the next as he moved up two spots on the one-meter board while adding All-America recognition during the three-meter competition. His final season Boggs climbed to the top of the diving mountain with a national championships on the one-meter.

At the time, Boggs' five All-America awards tied him with Genders for the most in the program's history and the diving duo currently rates third. Five years after winning the national championships for the Seminole, Boggs went on to claim a gold medal on the one-meter board at the 1976 Olympics in Montreal.

WOMEN'S 200 FREE STYLE & 200 MEDLEY RELAYS (1982)

The women's program when out on a high note in its last AIAW Championships as it won a pair of relay titles. The Seminoles finished second to Texas in the team standings thanks to championships in the 200 freestyle and medley relays.

Getting Florida State's first women's national championship in swimming was the quartet of Meg McCully, Sharon Spuler, Laurie Lehner and Simone Kusseling in the 200 medley relay. The foursome set a new school record with a winning time of 1:42.86. Up next was a title in the 200 free relay as Spuler, Lehner and Kusseling were joined by Lenore Gribble to post a top time of 1:33.50 to set another Seminole standard.

A tribute to the talent on that year's team, both relay marks would stand for more than 15 years. It wasn't until 1999 that the 200 free relay record was taken down and on the 20th anniversary of the 200 medley relay title, the record was finally broken. The 200 medley and free relays were the centerpiece of one of the most successful years in the program's history. Eight different swimmers came home with All-America certificates, including five that amassed 12 individual awards to go along with accolades in four of the five relays.

The following year Florida State competed at its first Women's NCAA Championships after the national governing body began sponsoring the sport the year before.

STEPHEN PARRY - 200 BUTTERFLY (1997)

Within the first 23 years of the program, Florida State had a pair of national champions, but after Phil Boggs in 1971, it would be another 36 years before a Seminole stood on top of the podium at the NCAA meet. Florida State returned to men's swimming and diving glory in 1997 when Stephen Parry put the program back on the map.

Parry trained in crowded pools and limited facilities in Liverpool, Great Britain, but from that setting came great accomplishments. He was the 1994 Junior European Champion and the 1995 England National Champion in the 200-fly.

Parry found his first year at FSU to be a challenge, having to adjust to a new training program, a new school and new country all together. But it was after the British Trials that he knew he had to change something. He returned to FSU with a new ambition — a team victory at the Atlantic Coast Conference Championships and a top five finish in the NCAA. He took advantage of the training facilities and started working harder and longer.

NATIONAL CHAMPIONS

At the 1997 NCAA championship meet in Minneapolis, Minnesota, Parry and his teammates achieved several honors. Dedekind became the first FSU swimmer to achieve three All-America finishes and all five Seminole relay teams scored for the Seminoles. But perhaps the greatest accomplishment came on the night of March 29th when Parry, who was seeded first in the 200-fly going into the finals, won the first national championship for swimming in FSU history. His pool record time of 1:44.28 won him the title and helped etch his name in the Seminole record books.

"I wasn't really thinking about it (the championship) at the time," Parry said. "Going into the race seeded first, there was some pressure but I wasn't expecting to win. It was more of a shock than anything else. I just swam the race the way coach planned it out. It really didn't hit me until I got back to Tallahassee that I had won a national championship. And it wasn't even until this summer that I realized I'm as good as the best swimmers in the nation."

BRENDON DEDIKIND - 50 FREE (1997) & 100 BREASTSTROKE (1998)

Swimming in a lane with six and seven people is not the ideal training conditions for an Olympic swimmer. But for Brendon Dedekind, it was the starting point for what would soon become a successful career in collegiate and international competition.

After the 1992 South African Nationals, he began to pursue that dream. Dedekind sent out 32 applications to United States universities and received many prospect questionnaires, but no scholarships materialized. So in 1993 he enrolled in engineering classes in South Africa and gave up on the dream.

In 1993 the tables began to turn for Dedekind and he started to see the dream becoming a reality. Neil Harper, an assistant coach at FSU at the time, received a phone call from former LSU teammate, Darryl Cronje, a fellow South African swimmer, telling him about a South African who could be an asset to the team. Not too long after, Dedekind received a call from then assistant head coach Neil Harper offering him a scholarship.

As a freshman in 1995, he qualified for the NCAA Championships at the University of Texas. Although he made the consolation finals in the 50-free and won the heat finishing ninth, he was still overwhelmed by the facility and the stronger, faster swimmers. This gave him more incentive to train and work harder for the next season.

The following March, Dedekind started to make his mark in FSU swimming history. With one NCAA meet under his belt, Dedekind felt more relaxed and less overwhelmed by the enormity of the competition at the 1997 Championships at Minnesota. That year he became the first swimmer in FSU history to garner All-America honors in three events as he finished in the top five of the 50 and 100 freestyle—including the fastest 50 free heat in NCAA history—as well as the 100 breaststroke.

In the 1998 NCAA meet at Auburn, his 19.17 qualifying time in the 50 free set a new pool record and gave him the top seed going into the evening competition. That night, Dedekind dominated the competition and became only the second swimmer in FSU history to win an individual title, taking first in the 50 free.

"I took the race as just another race," Dedekind remarked. "It was really exciting to win the 50-free, but I was still not satisfied with my time. I think I could have swam faster that night."

Satisfaction came in his senior year, but not in the 50 free. Dedekind entered the 1999 NCAA Championships qualified in the 50 and 100 free and the 100 breaststroke. He walked away with yet another title, but this time it was in the 100-breast.

A participant in the 1996 and 2000 Summer Olympic Games, Dedekind's Florida State career will come full circle in the fall of 2004. Dedekind became the eighth Seminole from the swimming and diving team to be elected to the Florida State Hall of Fame.

TERRY HORNER - ONE-METER DIVING (2007)

After taking home two diving National Titles in 10 years it would be another 36 until FSU would once again have a diver atop the podium. Not only did Terry Horner bring home the Seminoles first diving championship in more than three decades, he became the first freshman swimmer or diver to do so. Horner's 6 dive total of 399.35 put the freshman from Orlando in elite company. He, along with Seminole sprinter Walter Dix are the only FSU athletes to ever win an individual National Championship as freshmen.

Horner was able to pull away early when his second dive of the finals scored a 9.0 from all seven judges. He was able to seal the deal on his final dive where he received four more 9.0 scores. Horner now joins Seminole legend Curt Genders and Olympic Gold Medalist Phil Boggs as diving National Champions.

FSU'S OLYMPIC TRADITION

Stephen Parry

2008 AN OLYMPIC YEAR

To have the chance to represent your country at the Olympic Games as a swimmer or divers highest achievement. Florida State has sent 13 athletes to the Olympics since 1976, bringing home one gold (Phil Boggs, 1976, 3m Diving) and one bronze medal (Stephen Parry, 2004, 200 butterfly) in that time. This season several more Seminole athletes look to wear the colors of the country proudly in Beijing for the 2008 Olympic Games.

Jarryd Botha

JARRYD BOTHA - SOUTH AFRICA

Seminole senior Jarryd Botha's junior year was highlighted by sweeping the backstroke events at the ACC Championships. But as good as that feeling may be, having the chance to win a spot on the South African Olympic team would be even better. Botha will compete for a spot in the backstroke events in April.

ED DENTON - GREAT BRITAIN

Another talented senior for FSU Ed Denton also brought home a gold medal at the ACC Championships in 2007 (100 free). Denton will try and follow in the footsteps of former Seminole Stephen Perry and Head Coach Neil Harper by making the British Olympic team in the sprint events.

IAN POWELL - GREAT BRITAIN

Just like his teammate Ed Denton, senior Ian Powell will vie for a spot on the British Olympic squad. Powell will try to qualify in the butterfly events.

Ed Denton

FSU'S OLYMPIC TRADITION

KYLE YOUNG - UNITED STATES

Senior Kyle Young burst onto the scene in 2007 winning the 500 and 1650 freestyle events at the 2007 ACC Championships as well as earning All-American honors in the 1650 with his seventh place finish. Young qualified for the United States Olympic Trials with his fourth-place finish in the 1500 at the ConocoPhillips USA National Championships (15:22.75).

In addition to the four seniors, freshman Ian Rowe has an United States Olympic Trial cut and sophomore National Champion diver Terry Horner is expected to have qualifying marks before the trials.

Since Head Coach Neil Harper joined the Seminoles FSU has recruited some of the best international swimmers in the world to come compete in Tallahassee.

"My goal as the head coach when we talk about recruiting them is we want to send them back to their home country faster than they came," said Harper. "We want their goals to be making their Olympic team, making their World Championship team, breaking national records."

Harper knows first hand what it's like to represent his country at the Olympics. He was a member of Great Britain's 1984 and 1988 Olympic teams and he was a coach at the last two Olympics (South Africa and Swaziland). According to Harper, nothing else compares to the feeling of competing for your country.

"I think it's probably the most euphoric feeling there is," said Harper. "When you represent your country at the Olympics, it's like your entire population, whether they know you or not, because you're wearing the flag and you're wearing the uniform of your nation, your entire nation is going to pull for you. That's where you were born, that's where you were raised and so there's no other feeling like it."

Florida State has sent a combined 11 athletes representing seven countries to Sydney and Athens. Now Harper is looking to not only continue the tradition of sending international athletes to the games, but begin to send U.S. swimmers to the Olympics as well.

"We're finally getting to the point where our program is good for everyone and there's no one out there that can say that, 'I'm not going to Florida State because I won't be able to make an Olympic team,'" said Harper. "There are plenty of great U.S. swimmers that can come to Florida State and make the U.S. Olympic team. We've had over 20 Olympians and we've had a couple of medalists - a gold medalist and a bronze medalist- so we know that we can produce NCAA Champions, but we can produce Olympians and Olympic medalists."

If the 2007-08 team is any indication, Florida State's Olympic tradition is on the verge of getting richer.

FSU'S OLYMPIC TRADITION

FSU'S SWIMMING & DIVING OLYMPIC HERITAGE

For an athlete, the highest honor a nation can bestow upon them is to have them represent their country in the Olympic Games. Since the 1976 Games in Montreal, Canada, the Summer Olympics have had a Garnet and Gold feel to them. All told, 13 current and former Florida State swimmers and divers have represented 11 different countries.

Dating back to Florida State's first Olympic representative in the pool, diver Phil Boggs at the 1976 Games, the Seminoles have had at least one representative in all but two of the last eight Olympics. At the 2004 Games in Athens, Greece, Florida State had five representatives – the second highest total in school history – and former Seminole Parry produced the school's second medal in the pool as he took the bronze in the 200-meter butterfly.

The last three Olympic Games have been especially bountiful for Florida State representation at the aquatics center. Eleven of the Seminoles' 13 Olympians took part in either the Atlanta, Sydney or Athens Games. The 2000 Sydney Olympics saw FSU's highest participation as six former Seminoles competed at the event. In the last two Games, Florida State has had eight different participants.

Success was immediate for the Seminoles the first time they had an athlete in the pool at the Olympics. Diving for the United States, Boggs captured the school's first medal when he won gold during the springboard event in Montreal. It would be another 28 years before a Seminole would appear on the medal stand after Great Britain's Stephen Parry captured the bronze in the 200-meter butterfly.

While Parry ended Florida State's 28-year medal drought, a different dry spell of almost equal length was halted as well in Athens. In 1980, Wendy Fuller became the first female FSU swimmer or diver, and only the second overall, to compete in the Olympics when she dove for her native Canada. It wasn't until 2004 when the Seminoles had their second female in the water as Golda Marcus, competing for El Salvador, swam in the 400 and 800-meter freestyle.

Besides being only the second female Olympian in the program's history, Marcus is part of another elite group. She and teammate Chris Vythoulkas—a member of this year's Bahaman team—are two of only four FSU swimmers to ever compete in the Olympics while still part of the active roster. The first pair of current Seminoles to compete in the Games was South African Brendon Dedekind and Rob Braknis of Canada when they swam in the 1996 Atlanta Games.

Up until this year, no Seminole had participated in more than two Olympic Games. All of that changed in 2004 as Julio Santos made his third appearance in the games for Ecuador. A two-year All-American, Santos made his first trip to the Games in 1996 then returned in 2000. All told, five Florida State swimmers and divers have participated in more than one Olympics.

Florida State has been well represented on the pool deck by a pair of coaches. Head coach Neil Harper, an Olympian himself in 1984 and 1988, served as the head coach for South Africa in 2000, while returning in 2004 as a member of the Swaziland coaching staff. Diving coach Patrick Jeffrey made the trip to Atlanta in 1996 as member of the US coaching staff.

FSU'S OLYMPIC TRADITION

GARNET AND BRONZE

Every swimmer that participates in the Olympic Games dreams of being on the medal stand and having a dignitary place that medal around their neck. From the world record holders all the way down to person seeded last in lane eight, the dream is there. It's what drives them to get up at 5:30 a.m. every morning for practice instead of hitting the snooze bar one more time and what makes them swim one more lap instead of hitting the showers even though their body aches.

Every Olympian daydreams of seeing their flag rise to the rafters and for former Florida State University swimmer Stephen Parry that dream became a reality. In 2004 he became the first Seminole in 28 years to capture a medal as he took home bronze in the 200-meter butterfly.

"I'm really, really proud. It's an amazing feeling, a fantastic feeling," Parry said. "I know it's an old cliché, but it really is a dream come true. I'm so proud to be a part of the British team and give them this medal."

The fulfillment of that dream almost became a nightmare for Parry. Swimming for Great Britain, a ton of pressure had been put on Parry and his teammates after the squad came up dry in the medal count during the Sydney Games, a first for Britain since the 1936 Olympics.

Perhaps it was the weight of an entire country on his shoulders or the internal pressure following a fourth-place finish at the 2003 World Championships, regardless, the preliminaries of the 200 butterfly on August 16 did not go as planned. In fact, the prelims were almost Parry's only swim of the entire meet. The 16th and final swimmer in the semifinals, he was a tenth of a second from being in the stands for the race instead of in the pool.

"It was a disappointing start and I was desperate to give something to the team," Parry noted. "I watched the same clip of Rocky III and I was really nervous. But now I know the feeling of being an Olympic medalist and it's wonderful."

With his world turn upside down, Parry turned to a safe haven – Florida State head coach Neil Harper. A confidant from his days as Parry's assistant coach at FSU and someone who knows what pressure is like on the British team, Harper—who traveled to Athens as a member of the Swaziland coaching staff—was able to put Parry back in the right frame of mind for the semifinals that night.

It's funny how far a "nothing to lose" attitude can take you. Swimming out of lane eight, Parry not only qualified for the finals, but he did something that only one other individual had done at the Games, he beat Michael Phelps. The 19-year-old American phenom was the favorite to win five individual medals, but in the semis Parry stole the spotlight as he beat Phelps to the wall and earn the top seed for the finals the following night.

"Sometimes that's just the way sports go," Harper added. "He was lucky to be in the right place at the right time. He had a poor swim in the morning and let the stress and pressure get to him. Now he's in the outside lane and had nothing to lose and everything to gain and you could tell he enjoyed swimming again. Luckily for him it wasn't damaging enough that it didn't cause him to not make the semifinals."

All of sudden his rollercoaster ride through the Olympics was heading back up hill at a dramatic pace. Instead of just being another also-ran in the Michael Phelps' coronation, Parry joined Australia's Ian Thorpe as the only swimmer at the Games to beat the second-coming of Mark Spitz to the wall. The spotlight was back on.

"Sometimes uptight is not the best way for him to perform," Harper said. "As you saw from semifinals he's at his best when he is footloose and fancy-free. What it did for him was take some of the pressure off him. You could see by the way he swam that the weight had been lifted off his shoulders. It was fun to watch him last night. He tried to keep it low key for the finals but it's tough when you know the whole world is watching."

While Parry tried to bring his carefree demeanor to the finals of the 200 butterfly, having the eyes of the world on you and an agitated world record-holder in the lane besides you doesn't make for a walk in the park. From his observation spot on the deck, Harper noted that as the finalist marched onto the deck for the event, Parry tried to give a wave and a smile to his British teammates in the stands, but clearly his game face is on.

As was to be expected, Phelps took an early lead in the race and tried to put as much distance as possible between he and the rest of the field. One of the best in the world at closing out a race, if Phelps had a sizeable lead at the last turn everybody else would be racing for silver.

.....Through the first 100 meters, Parry was firmly in second ahead of Japan's Takashi Yamamoto, but nearly a second behind Phelps. Midway through the third 50 meter lap, Parry's "nothing to lose" attitude came back. If he didn't take his shot at catching Phelps he would never know what might have been.

....."I thought I'd lost it there at the end," Parry added. "I saw Michael getting away. I got really excited down that third length. I thought I was reeling him in a bit and I didn't expect to be there. I came off that last wall and that's when he showed his true form. He really is fantastic."

During that third lap Parry hit the afterburners—his third split of 29.74 was lap three's fastest and the third fastest 50-meter split during the final 100 meters of the race—and with 25 meters to go he was neck and neck with Phelps. Unfortunately, the combination of Phelps' closing ability and not enough fuel in Parry's tank allowed Phelps to pull away for the gold.

"It got really exciting. Steve was pushing Phelps and the two of them just took off," Harper said. "Stephen tried to make a move at 150 (meters) and caught up to him and it look for a second that he might pull it off, but he ran out of gas and the Japanese guy caught up to him and Stephen held on for the bronze.

"You could tell that Steve was really relieved at the end. He had given himself a shot to win the gold and was able to hold on for the bronze. He got what he wanted and it's great to see that. He soaked it all up."

Yamamoto also pulled away during the last few strokes as he snuck in for the silver, but Parry would still be on the medal stand. After his performance in the semifinals, Parry told Harper that after a sixth-place finish in Sydney and fourth at last year's World Championships, he did not want to finish fourth through sixth, he wanted that medal and now he had it. In addition, Parry reset the British record that he took down the night before with a time of 1:55.52.

Besides ending Britain's eight-year drought without a medal, Parry also snapped a 28-year drought for the Florida State swimming and diving program. The team's only medal came at the 1976 Games in Montreal, Canada, when diver Phil Boggs captured the gold medal on the springboard.

PHIL BOGGS: FSU'S FIRST OLYMPIC GOLD MEDALIST

When he first came to Florida State in 1968, very few would have pegged Phil Boggs as a future gold medal winner in the Olympic Games. It was through hard work and a boost of confidence that got him to the top of the medal stand in 1976.

A four-sport athlete in his native Akron, Ohio, Boggs didn't concentrate on diving until his junior year and his first season at Florida State was not outstanding. Instead of heading back to the Buckeye State for the summer following his freshman year, Boggs decided to spend the break in Ft. Lauderdale with coach Bill Barton.

When he wasn't working as a lifeguard or cleaning the pool, Boggs was on the diving board learning from Barton. Besides improving the technical aspect of his diving, Barton's biggest impact on Boggs may have been the boost of confidence he gave the young diver.

"It was fun," Boggs said of his summer under Barton's tutelage. "He was the first person to tell me that I had the opportunity to compete on the national level."

Over the course of a summer Boggs was transformed from just another diver to one of the top collegiate divers in the country. At the 1969 NCAA Championships, he picked up his first All-America honor – the first by a Seminole diver since 1961—and proceeded to collect four more national honors over the next three seasons.

If he didn't know it by his senior year, Boggs would find out in 1971 that he had what it took to compete beat the elite athletes. That season he captured Florida State's second national championship, winning the one-meter crown. Now that he had capped of his collegiate career at the top of the mountain, it was time to test himself against the rest of the world.

The year after he won the national championships, Boggs virtually had his ticket punched for the 1972 Games in Munich. A poor dive during the final round of the US Olympic Trials kept him off the 1972 team and put Olympic Dreams on hold for four years.

"People always talk about sacrifices, I don't know where they get that from," Boggs noted. "That's a distorted view. It's just a matter of priorities. You can't think 'Gee I missed a party because I had to get up early to work out. I enjoyed the workouts. You have the camaraderie of the people you work out with. It's like a fraternity or sorority in itself."

Not only was Boggs determined to be on the 1976 team in Montreal, he had his eyes set on winning a medal. Between the 1972 Olympic Trials and the '76 Games, Boggs won 17 national and international titles, including the 1973 and 1975 World Championships. In four years he had gone from being a spectator to being the favorite for gold.

Going into the final round of the 1976 Olympics, Boggs was well in command of the springboard competition, holding a 40-point lead on the nearest competitor, but his experience at the 1972 Trials told him that nothing was guaranteed. He nailed his final dive, a 2 ½ somersault with a twist, and when he came back to the surface and saw the judges' scores, Boggs knew he had the gold medal wrapped up. His final score of 619.05 put him 48.57 points ahead of silver medalist Franco Cagnotto of Italy.

"Everything you've ever dreamed of is right there. Even if no one else knows, you know it will always be there," Boggs added. "When the national anthem plays and you're presented your medal, you feel like the king of the world."

Boggs went on to become the president of US Diving and was inducted into the International Swimming Hall of Fame in 1985. The Phil Boggs Awards is present annually at the US Aquatic Sports Convention, honoring those who have achieved individual excellence in diving and have given back a part of themselves to insure the sport's success continues. Boggs died on July 4, 1990, in Miami, Fla.

INTERNATIONAL TRADITION

When the collegiate careers of Florida State University swimmers and divers are finished, it doesn't necessarily mean they are done in the water. Over the last ten years current and former Seminoles have made a name for themselves on the international scene. Representing ten different countries, Florida State athletes have competed at the top level of swimming and diving in biggest events on the planet, including the Olympics and World Championships.

2007 WORLD UNIVERSITY GAMES

In 2007 three Florida State athletes competed in the World University Games in Bangkok, Thailand. Jarryd Botha, Dan Frebel and Terry Horner competed against the world's best swimmer and divers with Horner coming away with the groups best finish a seventh place mark on the 1m board. Horner was the highest American finisher in the event.
