DEDICATION

The 2006-07 Florida State women's golf media guide is dedicated to Dr. Don Veller and his wife, Fran. Veller, who coached FSU to its first football victory in 1948 and was the long-time coach of the men's golf team, died Nov. 20, 2006 at the age of 94. Veller was hired by Dr. Doak S. Campbell in 1948 as head football coach and associate professor of men's physical education at Florida State for a salary of $5,400. He replaced Ed Williamson who had coached the Seminoles through their first season since becoming co-educational. Veller's teams went 31-12-1 over his five years that included FSU's first football victory, its first winning season and one of two undefeated seasons in FSU history (8-0 in 1950). In his first three seasons alone, his Florida State teams won 24 of 26 games. He became Seminole men's golf coach after resigning as football coach, serving in that post on three different occasions (1953-58, 1966-67, and 1974-83). He amassed a 78-23 dual meet record and coached some of the Seminole's finest PGA Tour players including Hubert Green, Paul Azinger, Jeff Sluman and Kenny Knox. In 2004, Florida State completed renovations to the Seminole Golf Course and re-named it the Don Veller Seminole Golf Course.

Florida's Seminoles: The Unconquered People

WOMEN'S GOLF 2006-07
WE ARE THE SEMINOLES FSU Seminoles

By Barry Ray, FSU
 Office of News and Public Affairs

As a people, few have prevailed over more trying circumstances than the Seminole Indians of Florida. Over the course of almost two centuries, Florida's Seminoles endured three wars with the U.S. government, resisted numerous efforts to relocate them to federal reservations in the West, and ultimately made their home in one of the world's most inhospitable environments, the Florida Everglades. That they have not only survived, but thrived – all while maintaining their fierce independence and rich culture – is a tribute to their courage and perseverance.

This is their story.

Long before European explorers ever visited the area now known as Florida, native peoples had been living here for thousands of years. In fact, as many as 100,000 members of four Indian nations – the Apalachee, the Tequesta, the Timucua and the Calusa – were living in highly organized settlements throughout the peninsula when the Spanish first arrived in 1513.

The native peoples' lack of resistance to smallpox, yellow fever and other "European" diseases, as well as later slaving raids from the English colonies of Georgia and South Carolina eventually decimated their numbers. By the mid-18th century, the Indian nations of Florida had ceased to exist.

In their place, groups of Indians from a confederation of tribes collectively referred to as the Lower Creeks began moving into Florida from Alabama and Georgia. They had been pushed out of their former homes by the encroachment of white settlers, as well as by conflicts with other tribes. It was around this time that the name "Seminoles" first appeared; there are several possible explanations as to its origins.

When the first English speakers began arriving in Florida in 1763, they found many Creeks living as yat'siminoli, or "free people," across the northern part of the Florida peninsula. ("Yat'siminoli" was a term used in the Mikisuki", or Miccosukee, language, which still is spoken today.) The settlers may have simply ignored the Indians' separate tribal affiliations and called them all Seminolies, or Seminoles.

Others believe that the Seminole name comes from the Spanish word Cimarron, meaning "wild men" or "unconquered." The Indians may have been given this name because they had escaped from slavery in the English-controlled colonies to the north.

With the end of the American Revolutionary War in 1784, English-speaking settlers began moving southward in ever greater numbers, buying or seizing land from the native inhabitants. By 1813, some of the Creek tribes in Alabama rose up against the white settlers and the Indian tribes that supported them. This conflict, known as the Creek War of 1813-14, proved disastrous to all of the tribes. U.S. troops led by Gen. Andrew Jackson crushed the uprising and forced a treaty on the Creeks that took more than two million acres of land from them. Several thousand Creek warriors and their families migrated south into Spanish Florida, where they and the Seminoles increased their resistance to white settlement.

In 1814, such conflicts escalated into the first of three Seminole wars. Over the next four years, Jackson illegally entered Spanish Florida numerous times to burn Seminole villages and kill resistance leaders.

With the end of the First Seminole War in 1818, many Indians moved further into Florida. By 1820, the year before Spanish Florida became a U.S. territory; there were at least 5,000 Seminoles, Creeks and Mikisuki people living here. However, a series of federal treaties failed to protect their rights and, in 1835, war broke out again.

The Second Seminole War (1835-42) proved to be the longest, most costly, and the last of the U.S. wars of Indian removal fought east of the Mississippi River. It also would be the first guerilla-style war faced by U.S. troops. Led by the fierce warrior Osceola, the Seminoles were aided by runaway slaves, who received protection from their allies in return for a portion of the agricultural staples that they grew. These so-called "Black Seminoles" also had a reputation as fierce fighters, and were equally determined to preserve their freedom.

The fighting ended in a stalemate in 1842, and an uneasy peace lasted for 14 years. In 1856, however, Seminole leader Billy Bowlegs and his followers were provoked by U.S. soldiers. They retaliated, and the ensuing series of skirmishes became known as the Third Seminole War (1856-58).

When U.S. troops once more withdrew again with no treaty or victory the Seminole Wars finally ended. All told, more than 3,000 Seminoles had been forcibly removed from Florida to the Western territories of Arkansas and Oklahoma. As few as 300 remained in Florida, and they took refuge within the dense swamps of the Everglades. However, their place in history was assured as the only American Indian tribe never to have signed a peace treaty with the U.S. government.

From the 1920s onward, as the development boom exploded in South Florida, the Seminoles lost more and more of their hunting lands to tourists and settlers. They became agricultural workers in the vegetable fields of South Florida, and also ran tourist attractions, wearing their colorful patchwork clothing, producing souvenirs and wrestling alligators.

On Aug. 21, 1957, the Seminole Tribe of Florida was established through a majority vote of Florida's Seminole Indians. This vote gave the Seminoles federal recognition as a self-governing tribe with a constitutional form of government. The Seminole Tribe of Florida now has almost 3,000 members living on five reservations across the peninsula at Hollywood, Big Cypress, Brighton, Immokalee and Tampa.

The Seminoles work hard to be economically independent. Tourism and gaming profits pay for infrastructure and schools on their reservations, while citrus groves, cattle agriculture, aircraft production, tobacco sales, land leases and aquaculture are other significant sources of revenue.

Having persevered through two centuries of adversity, the Seminole Indians of Florida have earned the right to call themselves "the unconquered people." Their indomitable spirit is one that Florida State University proudly seeks to emulate in all of its endeavors.

The Symbol: Seminoles

Florida State would play two games in 1947 before students demanded the school acquire a symbol. While details conflict, most believe the account of a poll of the student body is accurate. The Florida Flambeau reported that Seminoles had won by 110 votes over Statesmen. The rest of the top contenders (in order) were Rebels, Tarpons, Fighting Warriors and Crackers.

In the 1950s, a pair of students dressed in Native American costumes and joined the cheerleaders on the field which eventually evolved into the majestic symbol of Osceola and Renegade that FSU now enjoys. Today, the Seminole Indian Tribe participates in many campus activities.

Florida State University is proud of its longstanding cooperative relationship with the Seminole Tribe of Florida. The Seminole people have suffered many hardships and injustices, but they have remained brave, dignified and proud. The Seminoles are unconquered. They symbolize what we hope will be the traits of all of our graduates, including our student-athletes.

PREVIEW

FSU Seminoles

Success and the Florida State women's golf program are synonymous.

They go hand-in-hand.

Traditionally, the Seminoles have been one of the most successful teams in collegiate golf during the 23-year tenure of Head Coach Debbie Dillman. The Seminoles annually qualify for the NCAA Tournament, play well in the regional championship and finish most seasons ranked within the nation's top 20.

That tradition is going to change.
It's going to improve.

Jaclyn Burch is a senior leader for the Seminoles and one of the top golfers in the ACC.

WOMEN'S GOLF 2006-07
PREVIEW

With the best amateur women's golfer in the world and a talented group of experienced and tested veterans on its roster, the Florida State women's golf team will look to earn its best national finish in Dillman's coaching career during the 2006-07 season. If the teams' improvement in the last year is any indication, the Seminoles will compete with the nation's best for a spot in the nation's top 10.

"Every player on our team has worked hard and knows that we can be successful this season," said Dillman. "We have to work hard every day, push each other and be at our best in every tournament. We need to build throughout the season to play well in the post season and then do what we do well – play well in the regional to get to the championship and then play our best once we get into the championship."

All-America and World Amateur Team Championship medalist Caroline Westrup enters the spring season as the No. 1 ranked amateur player in the world and the top in the collegiate ranks. She continues to get better with each round and each event she plays in as a Seminole. Westrup's success coupled with the continuing maturation of the Seminoles' starting lineup consisting primarily of experienced upperclassmen should help Florida State earn their best national finish in recent memory.

Though only a sophomore, Westrup is a team captain and the Seminoles' team leader. Four players – seniors Jaclyn Burch and Kayla Shaul and juniors Whitney Brummett and Whitney Wright – have played a great deal of golf during their Seminole careers and should join Westrup in the starting lineup. A pair of underclassmen, sophomores Lauren Cousart and Erica Gonzalez, and freshman Lacey Agnew will also earn playing time in the starting line-up throughout the season.

Westrup (Ahus, Sweden) was an All-America First-Team and All-ACC selection as one of the nation's top collegiate golfers in 2006. She finished with an eight-under par score of 280 to claim the individual world title at the 2006 Women's Golf World Amateur Team Championship. Westrup made up four strokes and added two additional strokes during the final round to win the individual championship by two strokes over Rikako Morita of Japan. She also finished tied for 29th in the individual standings and led the Seminoles to a 16th place finish in the 2006 NCAA Championship.

Westrup led the Seminoles in stroke average (73.64), rounds scored at par or better (nine), rounds scored at 75 or better (15) and tied for the team lead with her low round score of 70. She earned five top-five individual finishes – first at the Liz Murphey Collegiate Classic, second at the Lady Gamecock Invitational, tied for second at the Ryder/Florida Championship, tied for third at the NCAA East Regional Championship and fourth in the ACC Championship and finished the season with the fifth lowest scoring average in the ACC – behind three Duke players (Amanda Blumenherst, Liz Janangelo and Anna Grzebien) and one player from Virginia (Leah Wigger).

"Caroline is special" said Dillman. "She is a mature, steady, strong and hard-working player who is one of the greatest competitors I have ever coached. She is a pleasure to work with and a great person to have as a leader for our team."

Burch (Wildwood, Mo.) is in her fourth season as a member of the Seminoles' starting lineup with her sights set on leading the team to its best finish during her career. She has helped lead the Seminoles to two NCAA Championship appearances and two top-20 national finishes during the first three years of her career. Burch earned All-ACC honors in 2005 as one of the top 12 golfers in the nation's top conference for women's golf.

Burch earned her career-best finish of tied for second in leading the Seminoles to the team title at the Ryder/Florida Championship during the spring of 2006. Burch finished third on the team in stroke average and second on the team with 13 single round scores at 75 or less in leading Florida State to five top-10 team finishes as a junior. She carded a 71 in the third round of the regional championship to help the Seminoles keep their fourth place standing.

"Jaclyn has been a consistently strong player for us throughout her career," said Dillman. "She needs to take her game up a couple of notches this season for us to be successful. I would love for her to finish her career and be remembered as one of the players who took this program to another level in the national standings."

Shaul (Cumming, Ga.) was a major factor in the Seminoles' drive to a 16th place finish at the NCAA Championship in 2006. Her scores at the NCAA Regional were a major factor in the Seminoles finishing fourth in the event and advancing to the NCAA Championship. Shaul competed in five events as a member of the Seminoles' starting lineup as a junior and finished the year ranked among Florida State's leaders in most statistical categories.

After helping the Seminoles advance out of regional play and into the national championship, she continued to play well there with four rounds at an average of 77.75. Her average in the NCAA Championship was nearly one full stroke behind her junior year average of 78.74 strokes per round. Shaul's career-best round of 75 came in the second round of the championship and helped the Seminoles earn a top-16 national finish for the third time in the last four seasons.

Kayla Shaul is one of three Seminole seniors and was in Florida State's starting lineup at the 2006 NCAA Championships.

WOMEN'S GOLF 2006-07
PREVIEW FSU Seminoles

"Kayla's work ethic and enthusiastic attitude are infectious; she makes the other players on our team want to practice and play better," said Dillman. "She will do a nice job in serving her teammates as one of our team captains."

Brummett (Eureka, Mo.) enters her junior season poised to make her mark on the national stage. Brummett has been Florida State's top finisher in four of the 20 events during her career. She has earned two top-five, three top-10, five top-15, six top-20 and 11 top-25 career finishes and has led the Seminoles to 13 top-10 team finishes during the first two years of her career.

Brummett enjoyed an outstanding outing at the NCAA East Regional in 2006 as she finished with a 223 score (tied for second best of her career), a +7 score vs. par (tied for third in her career) and a 146 score for 36 holes (tied for the best of her career). She led Florida State in the second round with a career-best two-under par 70 and moved into a tie for 17th with a two-day total of 146. Brummett's 70 in the second round of the NCAA East Regional helped the Seminoles move to fourth place in the team standings from 10th place and begin to cement their overall placement in the event.

"We are expecting low scores from Whitney all season long," said Dillman. "She needs to perform well for our team to perform well; she knows that and understands that. She has to be a leader for us; she knows that and understands that, too."

Wright (Rockingham, N.C.) is another member of the roster with extended experience in the Seminoles' starting line-up. She has played in 17 of 19 tournaments during the first two years of her career including two ACC Championships. Wright was a member of the Seminoles' starting line-up in 2004-05 and during the majority of the 2005-06 season.

Wright played in four events including the second ACC Championship of her career as she helped Florida State earn a bid to the NCAA East Regional Championship during the spring of 2006. Her best event of the spring season came as she helped lead the Seminoles to the title at the Ryder/Florida Championship.

"Whitney played through some adversity late in the season last spring which I think will help her this year," said Dillman. "She has worked harder than she knew she could and will be prepared to battle for her position in the starting line-up. I am excited to see how much she has improved entering the season."

Cousart (Athens, Ga.) gained valuable experience as a freshman as she played in three events. She earned her way into the starting line-up in two events as a freshman and played as an individual at the Florida State hosted Chrysler Challenge.

Gonzalez (Davie, Fla.) was one of the Seminoles' top players in 2006 who was among the top qualifiers for each tournament and earned her way into the Seminoles' starting line-up for the Florida State hosted Chrysler Challenge where she finished tied for 34th in the individual standings.

Agnew (Jonesboro, Ga.) is a freshman who has the ability to challenge for a spot in the starting line-up. She comes to Florida State as a player who has been a winner throughout her career and will add to the Seminoles' championship mentality. She strikes the ball well and is a strong putter.

"While we are happy with our starting five, it is certainly not set in stone," said Dillman. "The fact that we have Lauren, Erica and Lacey waiting in the wings is a very good thing. Not only do those three players know that they can step in and play at any time, but the members of our starting line-up know how close they are to becoming starters. Those three players make us a deep team – deeper than we have been in quite a few years."

Another player with experience as a member of the Seminoles' starting line-up is senior Michelle Steakin (Wellington, Fla.). She is one of three seniors on the Seminoles' roster who has earned her way into the qualifying rotation to play in Florida State's starting line-up during her career.

"Michelle has had a solid career for us and we need her to be solid again as a senior," said Dillman. "She is a good player who can and will help us this season."

Juniors Ashley Kemp and Ashleigh Anderson, sophomore Sara Young and freshman Jamie Kuhn will also add depth to the Seminoles' roster. Kemp, Anderson and Young have all gained experience as members of the Seminoles' "B" team while Kuhn joins the team and adds depth in her first season.

"Ashley, Ashleigh and Sara are veterans in our program who know how to work hard, be successful and be good teammates," said Dillman. "They have all earned playing time as members of our "B" team and help our program be successful that way. We need team players like Ashley, Ashleigh and Sara in our program. Jamie is part of that group who is also an important member of our team."

Whitney Brummett is one of the rising stars in the ACC who will help the Seminoles compete among the nation's top teams in 2007.

team and individual honors in the Atlantic Coast Conference since joining the league in 1992. In addition, the Seminoles are annually invited to play in the most prestigious tournaments in all of college golf and can usually be found near the top of the leader boards in those events.

Dillman has established the Seminole program as one of the nation's best by recruiting the nation's top talent to Tallahassee. Her strength as a recruiter is evidenced by the number of former players who have played, or who are playing professionally and the number of players who enjoyed tremendous success as collegians.

Among the numerous current pros recruited by Dillman are Karen Stupples and Tiffany Faucette. Stupples won two tournaments during her collegiate career as a Seminole and qualified for the LPGA on her first attempt. She was also a member of Great Britain's Curtis Cup teams in 1996 and 1998. Stupples earned her first LPGA Championship in 2004 when she won the Welch's/Fry's British Open Championship. Faucette was a three-year member of the Seminole women's golf team who is currently playing on the Ladies' European Tour. She won the 1997 McDonald's Open Championship and was runner-up at the 1995 Canadian Women's Amateur Championship.

Dillman recruited and coached Kristin Tamulis, Florida State's first three-time All-ACC selection who graduated from Florida State in 2003. Tamulis has played in three U.S. Women's Open Tournaments. She played on the Futures Tour in 2004 where she earned five top-10 finishes and is currently playing on the LPGA Tour where she finished 18th in the 2005 Courning Classic.

Dillman's teams consistently rank among the best in the ACC and the nation. In the last five years, she has guided the Seminole into the NCAA Tournament five times, produced seven All-ACC selections and helped the Seminoles improve their standing in the ACC – considered by many to be the toughest women's golf conference in the nation.

Dillman was honored as the Atlantic Coast Conference Coach-Of-The-Year in 1992, the Seminoles' first year in the conference. The Seminoles finished second in the conference tournament that season and finished only two strokes behind North Carolina for the team championship.

Dillman was a member of Florida State's 1980 nationally ranked squad and 1981 AIAW national championship team.
