(2003 Highlights) after her GAA reached 2.15 three games into the season, McKenzie dominated and went 9-1-1 and sliced her GAA by two-thirds. Her GAA in that span was 0.43 and she posted a save percentage of .900 in leading FSU back from a 1-4 start...recorded her first ever win over a ranked team against Ole Miss in a 96 minute OT match...followed that game by allowing just one goal in her first ever ACC victory over Maryland. That fifth minute goal versus Maryland was the only ACC goal she would allow until the regular season final over a month later at North Carolina...notched the first shutout of her career versus USF in Tampa...picked up her first shutout win in an ACC game as she held Duke scoreless for 90 minutes in a 3-0 FSU victory...followed that performance with another ACC shutout in a 1-0 win at Clemson...shut down another ACC team as she held Wake Forest off the board for 110 minutes in Winston Salem for her third straight ACC shutout...set a new gold standard for ACC keepers in the next game as she shutout her fourth straight ACC team in a 1-0 win over NC State...shutout her next opponent as well for over 70 minutes as she left the FAU

McKenzie faced 22 shots and made seven saves as she held UNC scoreless for over 67 minutes in a 0-0 game. The Tar Heels eventually scored on McKenzie but the junior held the Heel offense almost three goals below its season average. TWENTY SURGERIES COULDN'T END ALI MIMS' SOCCER DREAMS

Ali Mims returns to college soccer this season after two years and 20 surgical procedures to repair a fractured leg. Her story of courage, perseverance and eventually triumph is recounted below thanks to FSU Associate Sports Information Director Chuck Walsh.

Sophomore goalkeeper Ali Mims has been through 20 surgical procedures on her leg in the last two years. She has been asked why she hasn't given up playing the sport she loves countless times. She has cried herself to sleep more times than she wants to remember since her last game in 2001. To this day, and for the rest of her life, she will feel pain in her left leg with each step she takes.

But the pain she feels has not slowed her down nor has it lessened her desire to regain her spot in Florida State's starting lineup, and more importantly, rejoin her teammates. As a freshman in 2001, she became the Seminoles' starting goalkeeper midway through the season and enjoyed one of the finest seasons of any player at her position in school history. Mims led Florida State into the NCAA Tournament for only the second time in school history as she won eight games and recorded a 1.59 goals against average — both school records for freshmen.

But disaster struck at the beginning of the 2002 season as she fractured her left leg in a scrimmage against Georgia and was forced to miss the entire season. After spending the entire year in rehab it looked like Mims was ready to complete her comeback in 2003 but complications from her surgery and rehabilitation forced her to miss another full season. Mims had to sit on the sidelines as the Seminoles played in the ACC Tournament championship game and advanced to the College Cup for the first time in school history.

Since that fateful night in Athens, GA two years ago, Mims has endured a surgical procedure to correct the initial fracture, another because of acute compartment syndrome caused by an abnormal amount of swelling in the lower leg, 12 procedures to rid infection that had enveloped the area and even more surgeries to correct tendon problems caused by nerve damage and scar tissue suffered when her leg was broken. Just as she was set to return in 2003, the chronic infection in her leg became active once again forcing her to the sidelines for another year. More rehabilitation was needed to repair her body of the subsequent tendon problems and nerve damage.

She continued to be part of team — in mind only because her body had betrayed her.

"The toughest part of the last two years has been watching my teammates play and knowing I was unable to contribute," said Mims who actually looked forward to the three-a-day practice sessions which began the 2004 season. "It was also hard to hear bad news after bad news after bad news and to take two steps backwards and only one step forward during my rehabilitation."

While many players would have simply hung up their cleats and walked away from the game when they lost yet another season to an injury that you thought was healed, Mims continued to work her way back into shape. Because of her love for the game of soccer, her teammates and coaches, Mims persevered through setback after setback on her way back to the Seminoles' active roster.

Her last surgery was in November of 2003 and she was cleared to begin training again in January of 2004. She opened fall camp with a green light from the Seminole training staff to practice as hard and as long as she could.

"The day the doctors cleared me was the best day ever," said Mims. "You can never say never but hopefully that was the end of my problems. It then became up to me to decide that I wanted to play again. The doctors looked at me cross-eyed when I told them that I did."

As one of the most experienced goalkeepers on the roster, Baker welcomed her back to the field this fall and was delighted with the fact that she could compete for the starting assignment on the last line of defense.

"There have been one or two little speed bumps where she has to listen to her body and do a little less, which if you know Ali is easier said than done," said Baker. She has made great strides and has gone through things that would have made most players quit a long time ago. She believes in what we are doing and believes there is a lot of good soccer left and wants to be a part of that. She is going to be a nice addition to our team both on and off the field."

Mims' addition to the active roster will be less about the competition than it is about rejoining her family of teammates. Because more than competing, Mims missed just being with her teammates while she was injured. She missed the camaraderie of spending time with those who have become her closest friends.

"I missed being a part of the team because that is a very special thing," said Mims. "When you are injured and are not contributing on the field you kind of drop off the team. You miss being with the girls especially when you know it is solely because you physically just can't do it. You go to the field and leave straight afterwards. I wasn't in the locker room hanging out and I couldn't physically just sit there during practice. Being around the family is what I really missed and it was the support of my teammates that enabled me to push through the hard days."

That sentiment is echoed by her teammates.

"It's so important for us, especially my class, to see Ali back out on the field practicing and playing at such a high level," said senior midfielder and team captain Jez Ratliff. "We all came in together as freshmen, and saw her develop. She was on the verge of a spectacular sophomore season then we all witnessed that injury and we have seen what she had to go through every step of the way. She did so much behind the scenes that we didn't see as well. Just to see her back out is amazing for the whole team throughout her recovery. It's great to have her with us every day."

It is for those reasons she continues to play soccer despite the pain she feels on a daily basis.

"All of my doctors have asked me why I want to continue playing. They have asked me why I want to continue to go through all of the surgeries. They have asked me those questions since I first began the process and I keep giving them the same answer. I want to continue to play soccer and I love it too much to give up on the game."

If Mims didn't have the desire to return to the pitch, she could have probably avoided a lot of the pain and hard work she put in over the last two years. Due to her single-minded focus to play again, the surgeries she underwent were aimed at giving her the best chance of playing the game she loves. They were not aimed at just getting her back on her feet as quickly as possible.

Through many long nights of crying herself to sleep or not being able to sleep at all because of the pain, she has learned a great deal about herself. Two of the biggest things she has learned are perseverance and that God has control over her life and the humility that comes with that."

"I have learned what a privilege it is to play a college sport, because that privilege can be taken away in a split second," said Mims. "I am a living example of that. I think about the times in the hospital when I couldn't even walk and think about what I have now. I feel blessed to be able to participate and not watch. I really feel blessed this year to be out there again. It isn't about me though. It is just a blessing to be part of this team again."

Because of the injury she suffered and related complications she has endured, Mims has been granted two medical redshirts by the NCAA giving her two additional years of eligibility. She will complete the requirements for a bachelor's degree in business in April and begin working on her master's degree during the summer of 2005.

"I'm not coming back to prove anything to anyone," said Mims. "I have had soccer in my life for my whole life. It's what I do. I can't imagine not doing it. You have a certain number of years you can play in college and two years of that were taken away from me. Why not try and utilize the time that you do have left?"

Ali Mims will never tell you how much her body hurts because it feels too good to be part of the Florida State women's soccer team.

It was just the second time in team history that a Seminole had ever recorded two assists in an NCAA Tournament game...went on to match that feat by recording two more assists in the Sweet 16 versus West Virginia. Her first one put FSU up 1-0 and the second was one of the biggest assists in FSU soccer history. With time winding down to a shootout, the junior trapped a Katie Beal service and had the composure to slip a pass to a wide-open Gallegos for the game-winning goal with :21 left...sent FSU to its first ever College Cup when her half volley staked the Seminoles to a 2-0 lead they would never relinquish in a 2-1 win over No. 7 Florida in Gainesville.

2002: Followed up an All-ACC rookie campaign with an even better sophomore season...finished in the top three on the team for points, goals and assists...third on the team with 17 points and six goals, tied for fourth with one game-winning goal and was tied for third with five assists...surpassed her goal total from her rookie season and finished just one assist shy of her 2001 number...tied for second on the squad with three game-winning assists...finished the season strong with 12 of her 17 points coming in the last 13 games...recorded the first multi-assist game of her career. (in the ACC) appeared in every conference game and made three starts...tied for third on the team with four points and her two assists placed her second on the squad...third on the team in shots in conference games. (in the NCAA) made her first career NCAA Tournament start versus Ole Miss and went on to start all three tournament games...became just the third player in FSU history to ever record both a goal and an assist in an NCAA Tournament game. (2002 Highlights) Ratliff played a big role in the team's first win of the year as she scored a goal and recorded the game-winning assist in a 2-1 victory over Oregon...scored in her second straight game as she helped FSU tie Missouri when she equalized the game at 2-2...scored her first and only game-winning goal of the year versus Florida. The goal came on her only shot of the game and finished off FSU's comeback from an early 1-0 deficit...followed up her game-winning goal against UF with a game-winning assists against UCF. With just over 10 minutes remaining before OT, Ratliff assisted on Leah Gallegos' game-winner...continued her hot streak as she recorded another key goal in the Seminoles' next game versus Duke. Helped Florida State comeback from a one goal deficit versus Duke as she tied the game with her fourth goal of the season...in the Tribe's next ACC road game Ratliff recorded the first multi-assist game of her career in her first full game as a wide midfielder...notched her fifth goal of the season as she put FSU up 1-0 versus Jacksonville.

2001: Standout freshman that appeared in all 24 matches and started seven games...earned All-ACC rookie team honors as one of the top offensive freshmen in the ACC...recorded five goals, six assists, three game-winning assists, and totaled 16 points in her first season...her 16 points were the were the fifth-most ever recorded by an FSU rookie at that time and she finished third on the rookie assist list...finished 2001 in the top five of every offensive category...second in game-winning assists, fifth in points, fourth in assists, third in game-winning goals, fifth in shots and shot percentage, fourth in shots on goal and second in shot on goal percentage. (in the ACC) appeared in all seven matches and made two starts...scored three goals on four shots on goal...her offensive production helped FSU to achieve its best conference record since joining the ACC in 1995. (in the NCAA) appeared in both postseason matches...recorded her first ever point on the NCAA Tournament. (2001 Highlights) had her first game-winning assist of her career in her first game as she helped FSU down George Mason...notched the first goal of her career versus College Cup participant Portland...in just her second start, she moved FSU to 2-0 in the ACC by scoring both goals in an overtime win versus NC State. Ratliff staked FSU to a 1-0 lead just two minutes into the game and she then ended the contest in the 96th minute tally-
