Welcome

We welcome to our campus today the team from the University of Louisville. This coeducational university is supported by funds from the City of Louisville, Jefferson County, the State of Kentucky, and from private funds.

Serving students principally from the Louisville area, the University has an enrollment of more than 5,500 students. The original institution from which the present University developed was founded in 1798.

Co-Captains of the 1952 Florida State University Seminoles: Curt Campbell (left), end, and Vic Szczepanik, tackle.

IN THE PRESSBOX

By FRED PETTIJOHN, Sports Editor, Tallahassee Democrat

Welcome to Doak S. Campbell Stadium, football fans! Consider yourself an honored guest in the home of the Florida State University's Seminoles, one of the nation's youngest and fastest developing football teams.

This is the third year that Dr. Don Veller's Seminoles have played their home games in this handsome 15,000-seat steel structure, surrounded by the ample parking space, thoughtfully provided for your convenience.

During those first two years here in Campbell Stadium a home game meant a victory for the Garnet and Gold Indians because in that 1950-51 stretch the Seminoles flattened 10 straight opponents out on that chalk striped sod.

The question which arises as FSU swings into its 1952 schedule is "how long can this Campbell Stadium charm hold good?"

This is the season, you know, when the Seminoles really test their football wings against rugged opposition.

In an effort to bring you fans a better brand of football than you've enjoyed here in the past, Florida State signed to meet six opponents, Louisiana Tech, Louisville, VMI, Mississippi Southern, Furman and Tampa.

That's a rough job for any club that is still several steps away from being called a real power. And it's particularly rugged for a University entering only its sixth year of inter-collegiate football in the modern era.

Just to keep the record straight, all of the Seminoles' tough games aren't at home. On the road they are tackling North Carolina State, Stetson, mighty Georgia Tech and Wofford. No wonder the wrinkles on the forehead of "Doleful" Don Veller are deeper this season.

Just for a minute, let's take a look back and check the records.

This Seminole team you're watching in action now is the fifth that Florida State has fielded under the capable direction of Dr. Veller, who frequently groans in anguish about his prospects, but always manages to come up with a hard-hitting spirited crew that runs and passes from a solid single wing formation modernized by several features and tagged with the name "Cockeyed T."

Veller, who was brought in here after FSU lost all five of its games in an abbreviated 1947 schedule, takes what Nashville Banner Sports Editor and football authority Freddie Russell calls "the top record in college football" into the current season. During his four years at State Veller's teams have won 30 times and lost only four. One of those wins was over Wofford in Tampa's Cigar Bowl on January 2, 1950.

One of those four defeats was at the hands of powerful Miami in 1951 while the Hurricanes were enroute to a bid and an ultimate victory in the Gator Bowl.

The only other losses the Seminoles have suffered under the skilled Veller, who played his football and obtained his doctorate at Indiana University, were a defeat at the hands of Erskine in 1948, an upset by Livingston State in 1949 and a similar setback by Tampa in the season finale in 1951.

In addition to his won and lost record, Veller has already produced four Little and Middle All-America players at Florida State during his coaching span here. Tackle Hugh Adams was Little All-America in 1948; Guard Jerry Morrical a Middle All-America in 1949; Guard Bill Dawkins a Little All-America selection by the Associated Press in 1951, and this year's Co-Captain, End Curt Campbell, a Middle All-America selection in 1951.

The difference in the "Little" and "Middle" selections lies entirely with the selectors who use varying classifications for schools and schedules when selecting their players.

So much for the past. How about looking ahead at the future?

The outcome of the six games here will, of course, be decided on the field of play and any forecast is a shaky one on the scores. But win, lose or draw, you should see good football here this season.

Some of the fans who sat with you or near you in the past have perhaps grumbled about the lack of opposition, the Seminoles' high-scoring tendencies or other complaints which fans automatically are entitled to once they purchase their tickets.

Judging by the records of the six teams you'll see here, you shouldn't hear any of that talk in the stadium this season.

VMI was co-champion of the Southern Conference last year. Mississippi-Southern won the Gulf States crown. Louisiana Tech is supposed to be loaded up with some fancy freshmen and sophomore talent. Furman has been playing teams in Florida for years and either beating them or scaring the daylights out of them before losing. No one ever underates Louisville since the Kentucky club held Miami to a tie to spoil an otherwise perfect regular season record for the Hurricanes in 1950. And Tampa, well, the Spartans showed their class in the Cigar City last year when they up-ended the Seminoles 14-6.

If the opposition isn't rough here this season the most surprised man in the stadium will be Dr. Don Veller. Watch him pacing the sidelines if you don't believe it.

Come back as often as you can this season, and keep an eye cocked on the Seminoles in the future. They're bringing bigger and better football to you each season, and your support is helping them improve the caliber of the teams they play.

ABOUT THE CARDINALS

By LES MOISE
Sports Publicity Director, University of Louisville

On the arm of one man rides the football fortunes of the University of Louisville. Maybe that statement is a little drastic, but one thing is sure, as Johnny Unitas goes, so goes the 1952 edition of the Coach Frank Camp's Cardinals.

Unitas is only a 19-year-old sophomore, but offsets his youth with spirit and experience. John is the man who took over a thoroughly whipped Cardinal team that had lost four games in a row last season, and led them in a comeback trail that netted four consecutive victories. In the short time of the Cards' comeback, Unitas' trusty right arm fired nine payoff passes.

Next in line in the Cards' offensive plans is big Jim Williams. Jim is the powerhouse fullback who has led Louisville ground-gainers for the past two years. Others to watch for offensive fireworks are pass catching end, Kenny Anderson, and Louisville's speed merchant halfbacks, Wyman Townsel, and Harlan Silliman.

In that offensive wall, which is the true part of a team that makes the rest go, standouts are the Cards' 'ole' warhorses, center, Otto Knop, and guard, Jack Valvo. Both are in line for some national honors.

Defensively, the Cards are a little weak in depth, but they have a good start with two hefty 220-pound tackles, Les Rehtin, and Louisville's own Bob Bender.

Others on the defensive list are ends Byron Smith and Jim Fults, who are counted on to fill

Backing up the line, Knop and Valvo will play double duty to give the Cards two of the best second men the Red and Black have ever had. At the defensive halfback, Junior, Joe Nicoletti, who excels in pass interceptions, is a bright spot.

As of now, early in the season, Coach Camp is not planning on using the two platoon system, but will make only about five substitutions between the defensive and offensive platoons.

Pre-season Cardinal drills have given promise that Louisville may have a fine season. In the last of Louisville scrimmages, Coach Camp split his squad and played a full game type practice. The Whites won 48-6 over the Reds as Unitas found paydirt with his passes five times.

Over all, the program at Louisville has been on the rise ever since the end of the war, when Louisville resumed collegiate athletics. Coach Camp has led the Cards to some great triumphs in that short time. An undefeated season back in 1947, the famous 13-13 tie with Miami in 1950 that spoiled the Orange Bowl Hurricanes' perfect record, last season's great comeback that netted consecutive wins over North Carolina State, Houston, Washington and Lee, and Mississippi Southern are just a few of the highlights. Louisville football teams always play exciting football and this year will be no exception!

Here's an All-American Team that's never been beaten for value!
