

WE ASKED BOBBY BOWDEN FOR ONE GOOD REASON WHY HARDEE'S SHOULD SPONSOR FSU ATHLETICS. HE GAVE US 42.

n 1985 alone, 42 students on athletic scholarships graduated from FSU. Their fields of study were as varied as their names and faces, but each shared a common goal: A college education . . . and those athletic scholarships were helping them get it.

Moreover, for many athletes from disadvantaged families, an athletic scholarship wasn't just the best way to an education, it was the only way. Hardee's corporate sponsorship of FSU Athletics is our way of helping these young men and women achieve their goals in life as well as on the field of play. We know that the excitement of a touchdown pass is fleeting, but the benefits of a college education go on and on.

They'll win a lot of their games, lose some . . . but in the end every graduating athlete will come out a winner. And at Hardee's, we think that's pretty special.

FSU vs Florida

It's hard to imagine anything short of a natural disaster overshadowing this annual showdown between FSU and Florida. Last week, it happened.

A week ago Monday was the culmination of a three-month organizational nightmare which just may have been the very best thing ever perpetrated by the state's two largest state universities. It was on that day that athletes from FSU and Florida reached out and touched the lives of more than 70,000 school children in north Florida.

Their message: "Say No To Drugs."

For that one day, FSU and Florida football players took time out from the intense mental preparation and the pressures of the annual battle to give something back to their communities. At Florida State, 79 athletes joined with 70 members of the Golden Key National Honor Society to hit the streets and spread the word.

The result was nothing short of fabulous in Seminole country. The day went without a hitch. The teams dispersed to visit 60 schools in four counties — an endeavor that reached more than 40,000 elementary, middle and high school students.

The project was the brainchild of Board of Regents Chancellor Charlie Reed, who received permission from the NCAA to ask state universities to cooperate in the effort.

"I applaud Chancellor Reed in gaining NCAA approval in sending our athletes into the schools to tell our young people to say no to drugs," said FSU athletic director Hootie Ingram. "Our athletes and members of the Golden Key Honor Society are excited about playing a part in this nationwide attack on drugs."

Virtually from the very day the idea came from the Chancellor's desk, the planning went into full gear at FSU. Golden Key volunteers came together with FSU athletes and a select group of athletic administrators. Weekly meetings were held from early September through the Nov. 17 date.

"This was a great opportunity for our players to use their influence to help young students who look up to them," said head football coach Bobby Bowden. "I think it's great that the universities got together on this. Two is better than one. Kids are searching for heroes and it was a great chance for Florida State and Florida players to set a good example."

From the Golden Key organization, the project provided an opportunity to get involved in the community as one of its fall projects. "We were excited about it (the idea) because it was a new idea on a subject that needed to be covered — the drug issue," said Josephine Mendoza, president of the student organization. "It was an opportunity for the academic and athletic aspects of the university to interact with the community."

The goal for the group was quite simple but the task of putting it all together was not. First, every school, public and private, in the four-county area was contacted and given the date that the students were to come and address the assemblies. Sheets were compiled with location of the schools, assembly times and a contact person at that school.

With 60 sheets in hand, then came the task of placing two students (one athlete and one Golden Key member) at each school. The athletes were chosen based on their willingness to participate and, of course, their ability to fit the time constraints. Many athletes came forward in the early going, having gotten wind of the project.

"It's amazing," said FSU Associate Athletic Director Bob Goin, "a lot of these kids came to us and asked to be able to participate. Some kids who were not in the initial group were upset that they hadn't been picked. In the end, we tried to include everybody who wanted to be a part of it."

Athletes and Golden Key students were paired and introduced at a final organizational meeting. They worked out the transportation, agreed on a time to meet at the Athletic Center and discussed the presentation of their messages.

It was in this setting that something unexpected happened. There were many friendships begun. Athletes and Golden Key students milled around for some time; many agreed to get together socially prior to the big day to further get to know one another and perhaps to further discuss the mission.

On that big Monday, the Athletic Center was alive by 6:30 a.m. The first wave of students were to arrive at 7:00 and head for those early morning assemblies. The FSU students were to check in at the Athletic Center, pick up some specially designed "Say No To Drugs" posters and thousands of "I Say No To Drugs" stickers. The stickers would be placed on the chests of more than 40,000 kids before the day was over.

"It was incredible," said offensive lineman Tim Hebron after he returned from an area elementary school. "You would have thought we were giving away money. Those kids wouldn't leave until they got one of those stickers."

Hebron was just one of dozens of athletes who returned to the campus with heartwarming stories about how they were received.

"I really thought when we got in there all the kids would be talking and not paying attention," Hebron said. "You know how it was when you got out of class for an assembly. It's kind of like fun time. But it was amazing. They listened to every word we said."

Most of the athletes related personal stories of actual people they had known who had become involved with drugs. Many of the athletes related the tragedy of the Len Bias story; a great athlete like themselves, struck down in his prime by drugs.

Following the presentations, players were mobbed by the star-struck kids. Many signed autographs until they suffered from extreme cases of writer's cramp. The teams kept returning to the athletic center, hardly able to restrain their excitement.

"It was great," said punter Louis Berry. "I was really worried about how it would go. If everybody could have seen those kids faces . . ."

In short, the students and student-athletes at Florida State carried out Chancellor Reed's idea to a degree that no one could have ever dreamed. This was a project that should make all of us realize that there are really more important things than who wins tonight's football game.

You can believe that there are thousands of school kids who won't know the score Monday morning, but they'll never forget that big football player who came to their school with a message. And that message — Say No to Drugs — will probably live longer in their minds than any wins or losses ever will.

And now, let's move on to the game at hand.

It should come as no surprise that Florida State is again among the nation's leaders in scoring offense. The Goodbye and Good Luck!

Tonight eight seniors will play their last home game as Florida State Seminoles. These eight seniors have experienced the triumphs of playing in four bowl games and the despair of losing teammate and friend Pablo Lopez. Over the past four years they've laughed and cried together and through this article they share the best and the worst of both those moments.

IIM HENDLEY — CENTER

HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT FIN-ISHING YOUR SENIOR YEAR?

"I'm really going to miss the guys the most. The closer the end gets the more I wish it could continue on. I've really enjoyed my last two years the most. I think I was a little bit homesick my first three years."

WHAT WILL YOU MISS THE MOST? "I'm really going to miss my coaches. Mostly McDuffie (Wayne McDuffie (Offensive Coordinator) and Perk (Jay Perkins - McDuffie's assis-

WHAT WOULD YOU LIKE TO DO FOLLOWING YOUR SENIOR SEASON?

"Well, I'm still considering starting that car wash business in Georgia (Hendley's hometown), but lately I've been thinking about the restaurant business. I want to open up a restaurant where big guys can go and get full."

WHAT'S YOUR MOST MEMOR-ABLE EXPERIENCE AT FLORIDA

"I think it's the death of Pablo. At least that's going to be one of the things I remember the most. You never realize how important one person is until they're not there anymore. Pablo's death affected our whole team. There was a lot of good brought to us from such a tragic situation.'

WHAT'S YOUR FUNNIEST FOOT-BALL EXPERIENCE?

"During our last home game against Southern Mississippi Mark Salva and I were off on the sidelines during the last few minutes of the game. The second team was in and Sammie (Smith) broke for a 62-yard touchdown late in the game. In the meantime Mark and I had slipped a shoelace through Kuip's (guard Jason Kuipers) jersey, and tied him to a bench. The coaches were yelling at us to get in for the extra point and he was dragging a bench behind him."

WHO'S GIVEN YOU THE MOST SUPPORT?

"My mother and father. They've been watching me since I started playing little league sports."

> GERALD NICHOLS -DEFENSIVE TACKLE

HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT LEAV-ING FLORIDA STATE?

"I don't have any regrets. I've never had a dull moment on or off of the field."

WHAT WILL YOU MISS THE MOST ABOUT FSU?

"Saturday nights! I'll miss being able to play in front of such a great crowd. You know, we played in Ann Arbor in front of 104,000 people and they didn't even sound half as loud as Florida State fans."

WHAT'S BEEN YOUR MOST MEM-ORABLE EXPERIENCE AT FLORIDA

"The five bowl games that we've gone to since I've been at Florida State. I found out here that football is a way of life for me. I realized at Florida State that I have the potential to play pro football and if given the chance I probably will."

WHAT'S YOUR FUNNIEST FOOT-BALL EXPERIENCE?

"Besides putting cramagesic and vaseline in people's helmets, socks and jock straps, it would have to be two years ago during a blow-out against Cincinnati. Brian McCrary (former defensive back) started heading off of the field like he'd got his bell rung. So I ran over to him as he was heading out of the endzone and asked him where he was going. He looked at me and said 'the concession stand'."

WHO'S GIVEN YOU THE MOST SUPPORT?

"I'd say it was my mother (Jackie). My mother passed away but she always told me never to quit and those are words that I've tried to live by for a lot of years."

PARRISH BARWICK — OFFENSIVE LINE

HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT LEAV-ING FLORIDA STATE?

"I feel relief that it's about over. Towards the end of the season everybody starts getting a little tired, so I really haven't had a chance to think about how much I'll miss it."

WHAT HAS BEEN YOUR MOST MEMORABLE EXPERIENCE AS A SEMINOLE?

"I would have to say the first time I Cont. on page 60

"A Saturday Night Stake Out"

By Tania D. Giaque, Staff Writer

The name's Bowden, Bobby Bowden (Sergeant Saturday). Tallahassee P.D., Gator homicide . . . DUM DE DUM DUM. The story you're about to see is true but the depth-charts have been changed to protect the innocent . . . DUM DE DUM DUM DUMMM.

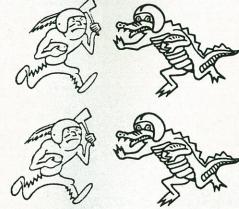

FRIDAY, NOV. 28 — It's a hot day in Tallahassee. My partner Bernie Sliger and I get a call from Holiday Inn Manager, Randy Jones. Apparently Jones has sighted a bus full of Gators pulling up in front of his establishment. Bernie and I head over to investigate the alleged reptile pile-up only to find that they do indeed have reason to be there and that 60 or so of them have made reservations. We talk to Randy and he assures us that the law enforcement doesn't mess around and that the Holiday Inn will be staked out by Tallahassee law enforcement as well as Seminole security. Jones assures us that the Gators will be kept and quarantined in his establishment but only till Saturday. We hope the case will be solved by then and ask no further questions of FRIDAY, 6:00 P.M. — After investigating the alleged reptile pileup on Apalachee Parkway, Bernie and I act on a hunch and head over to a favorite watering hole of these reptiles when they migrate North, the PHYRST. The pieces of the puzzle begin falling into place. At the watering hole manager Bill Mallette meets us at the door, verifies our assumptions and tells us that orange and blue clad football lovers keep filtering into his bar.

"Yea, they showed up here last year too," said Mallette. "By the end of the night I had a war of colors on my hands. The bar was blanketed from back to front with garnet, gold, blue, and orange." On that note Bernie and I each enjoyed some Renegade punch and thanked Bill for his cooperation and headed back to the precinct for the night.

11:00 a.m. Saturday — Bernie and I try to get an early start. We pull into Steve's Ice Cream and notice a huge Pow Wow taking place. We get out to investigate and end up chatting with corporate manager, Debbie Krowder. "They've been here — about 1,500 reptile lovers and Indian fans alike," said Krowder. "We extend a welcome invitation to all, reptile lovers or Seminole fans, it makes no difference to us. We welcome them, serve them ice cream and show them what a true Seminole far is all about."

Bernie asks if she's seen any suspicious or dangerous looking characters. "We see all kinds," said Krowder. "But I do remember a couple of years back there was a man with what looked to be a real gator tail hooked to the back of his pants." Bernie and I head back to the car as Krowder yells out to us, "We like to serve them ice-cream before the game in hopes that it sweetens everybody up."

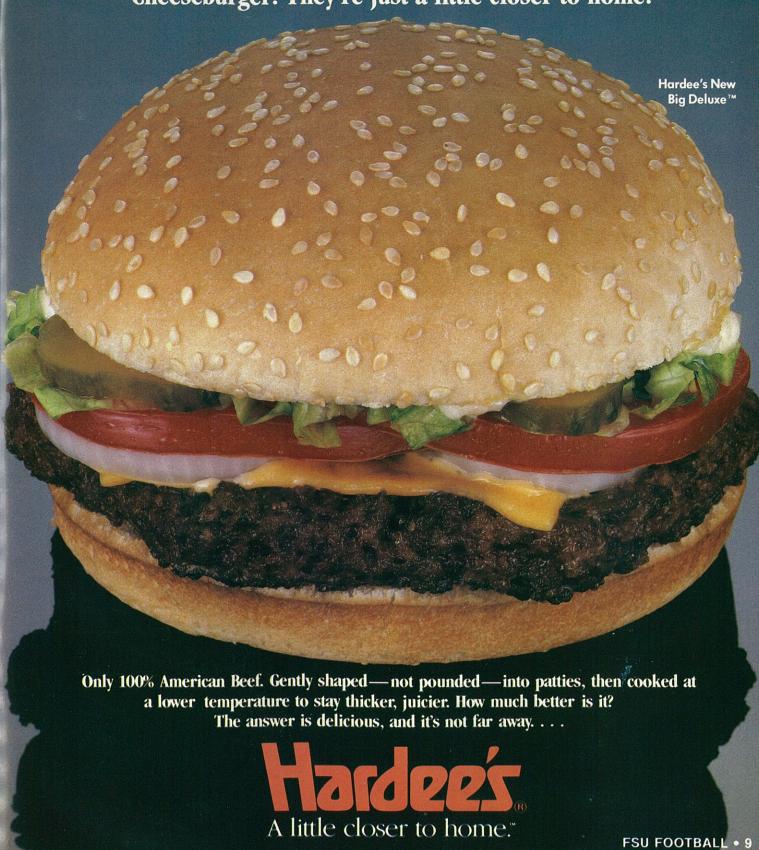

5:00 P.M. — We get a call from Lt. Roy Beard of the Florida Highway Patrol. Apparently Beard has had to set up road blocks and stake out a couple of watch dogs, and 30 auxiliary police officers. The officers seem to be having a little trouble with reptile control. It seems that these "Gators" are crawling under ropes and other police barricades, waving their giant tails and hissing madly at befuddled Seminole fans. We proceed over to Doak Campbell Stadium to see what's what. Bernie and I have never seen anything like it in our lives. It looks like a massive conveyer belt of premature luggage and wallets slithering to the stadium.

University Leaders

Dr. Bernard F. Sliger University President

Dr. Bernard F. Sliger has served as the 10th president of Florida State University since February 7, 1977, following a six-month stint as the University's interim president.

After he joined the administration in 1972 as executive vice president, he assumed the additional duties of chief academic officer, and further served as director of the University's London Study Center during the fall quarter, 1975.

Sliger, a native of Trout Creek, Mich., was born Sept. 30, 1924. He holds three degrees, the B.A. ('49), M.A. ('50) and Ph.D. ('55), from Michigan State University, all in economics. He also has done postdoctoral study in mathematical economics at the University of Minnesota. Sliger has taught at Florida State, Michigan State, Louisiana State and at Southern University in Baton Rouge, La.

Sliger began his educational career as an instructor in Michigan's Interior Township Schools in 1947. Prior to joining Florida State, he worked for 19 years as a professor and administrator at Louisiana State University. During that time, he served LSU as head of the economics department, member and chairman of the graduate council, dean of academic affairs and vice chancellor. In 1969, he organized the Louisiana Coordinating Council for Higher Education.

which is similar to the Florida Board of Regents, and became its executive director.

Sliger holds memberships in a number of professional, scholastic and honor societies, including Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi and Alpha Kappa Psi, Since 1983, he has been a member of the board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta and presently serves as chairman of the Board of Trustees of the American College Testing Corporation in Iowa City, Iowa. He also is a member of the Council of Presidents for the Southeastern Universities Research Association, based in Newport News, Va. He is active in a number of other civic and academic organizations.

Sliger and his wife, Greta, have two sons, Paul and Sten, and two daughters, Nan and Greta.

Committee
Chairman

A professor of Law at Florida State University since 1967, Charles W. Ehrhardt is beginning his third year as Chairman of the FSU Athletic Committee.

Ehrhardt served on the committee from 1969-71, and was reappointed to the board in 1983. He succeeded Dr. James Jones as chairman in 1984, and became Florida State's representative to the NCAA with the appointment.

A native of Elkader, Iowa, Ehrhardt received a bachelor's degree from Iowa State University in 1962. Two years later he earned his law degree from the University of Iowa and went on to become an Assistant United States Attorney in that state before coming to Tallahassee.

A widely-respected expert in the field of Evidence, Ehrhardt holds the Florida State position as the Ladd Professor of Evidence. He wrote the Florida Evidence Code, passed by the state legislature in 1976, which deals with the admissibility of evidence in court trials. Ehrhardt is also the author of a book on evidence, first published in 1977 and scheduled for a second edition soon.

In the spring of 1984, he was voted President of the Metro Conference, a position which makes him chief representative of the league in dealings with the NCAA.

Ehrhardt and his wife, the former Judy Sutton, have three children.

Athletic Director C.W. "Hootie" Ingram

Athletic Director Hootie Ingram and his wife Toni

On one wall of his office at the Coyle E. Moore Athletic Center, Hootie Ingram proudly displays an array of photographs of FSU's facilities. Those pictures hardly resemble those that might have been found when he first occupied FSU's athletic director's chair in 1981.

Needless to say, there's been quite a change.

Following a legislative appropriation in 1981 providing money for state schools to improve athletic facilities, Ingram assembled a committee of staff and boosters to line up the changes needed to be made at Florida State. "We had just come off the good football year of 1980 and we wanted the other sports to prosper as well," Ingram said.

Florida State was able to combine money provided by the state government and a supplement from the Seminole Boosters, Inc. Ingram and the committee went to work. They initiated a total renovation of the Bim Stults Aquatic Center, which Ingram described as being in "horrible shape" before the improvement; built Seminole Stadium, one of the finest collegiate baseball stadiums in the southeast: installed a rekortan surface at Mike Long Track and added vast improvements to the spectator areas; built a new softball facility; renovated Tully Gym offices; expanded and made much-needed improvements to Doak Campbell Stadium; and provided Florida State athletics with a home in the form of Covle E. Moore Athletic Center, which Ingram calls "the heart and soul of Seminole Athletics."

"We had been putting band-aids on all the facilities before and just getting by," Ingram said. He also said that just five years ago Florida State had been at a recruiting disadvantage with the facilities that existed. "When prospective studentathletes come to visit Florida State now, they see nice facilities where they will play and practice. That appeals to them and it helps bring in better athletes," said Ingram.

As overseer of the athletic department operating budget, Ingram took a budget that had been steadily rising and made cuts necessary to keep it in check. But he is quick to share the credit. "To make the cuts we did without losing any sports is a credit to our coaches," he said.

Ingram also said that the success of the football team (four consecutive bowl games) and its many recent television appearances has played a big part in the balancing of the operating budget.

The importance of having reserves to fall back on is another area Ingram has stressed. "We are approaching a sound financial operation, but we need another year like last year and we must continue to monitor all phases of our program," he said. His philosophy recently paid off as FSU finished with a surplus in the athletic fund for last year.

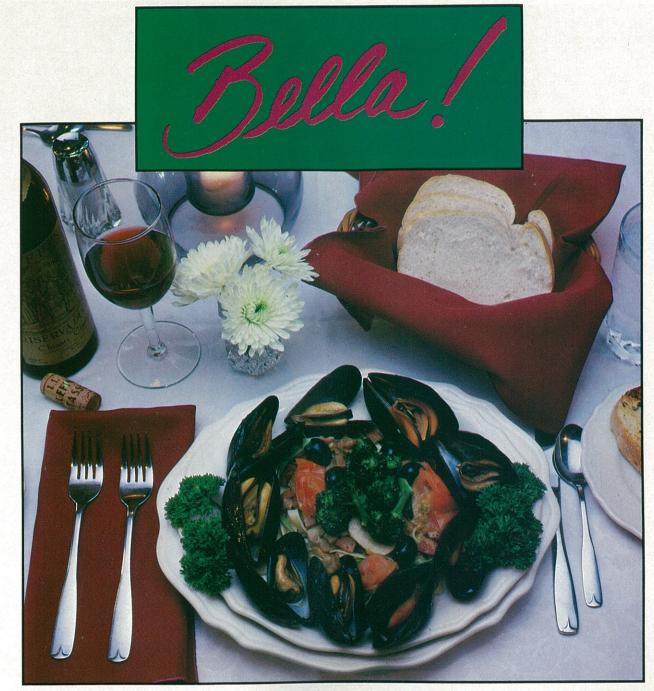

Aside from his accomplishments at Florida State, Ingram also serves the University on a national level as a representative on the College Football Association Television Committee and as a representative on the NCAA Council. "It's a great experience and hard work, but I'm pleased that our University can contribute answers to national problems," he said.

Ingram's duties on the CFA television committee, where he represents southern independent schools, center around negotiating television contracts with ABC and ESPN.

As a member of the 44-member NCAA Council, Ingram is the chairman of the nominating committee which nominates the major officers of the NCAA and makes decisions on new council members when nominated. Being on the Council helps him keep up with rules and regulations that need to be known. "It's like the Supreme Court of the NCAA," he said.

During his college athletic career, which spans a period of 25 years, Ingram has seen how it works from all sides. He played at the University of Alabama from 1951 to 1954 and was named all-SEC as a sophomore when he led the nation in pass interceptions. He has coached on the high school level as an assistant at Bradenton (FL) Manatee High School and served as head coach at Tuscaloosa (AL) Brookwood High School. He then moved into the college coaching arena as an assistant at Wake Forest and later worked at Virginia Tech, Georgia and Arkansas before accepting the head coach job at Clemson in 1970, where he served for three Ingram then moved into administration, accepting a job with the Southeastern Conference as Assistant Commissioner in 1973. His duties included supervision of football and basketball officials, rules interpretation and eligibility. After five years as assistant commissioner, he was named associate commissioner in 1978 until 1981 when FSU called upon him to lead its department.

What Bobby Bowden gives Florida

ritory in 1976, Bowden's Florida State teams have played 117 games. He has won 83 of those. And nobody, but nobody, has played a consistently tougher schedule. But this isn't a story of wins and losses. Those figures are well-documented. This is the story of Bobby Bowden the man.

State goes much deeper than just a football coach. Encompassed in this 56-year-old fireball is the very essence of Florida State football. He is the spokesman, the personality, the heart and soul of the program he has built into a national power. Never assuming that he is bigger than the program itself. Bowden has been able to mold it into a family that reflects his philosophy.

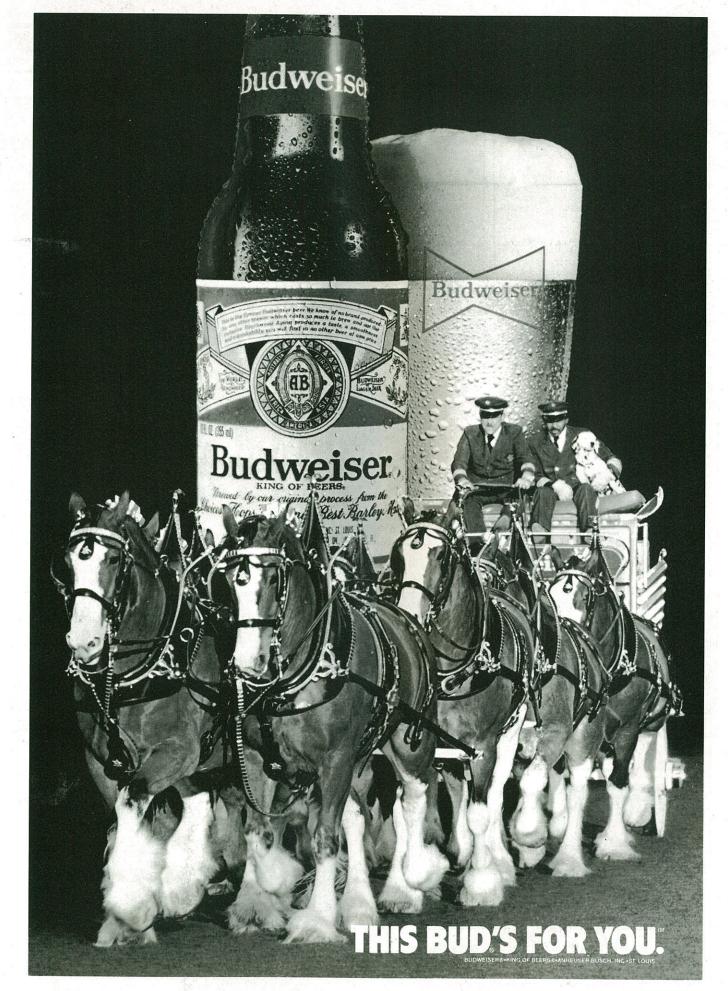

Quite simply, what he does on the football field is only a small portion of what makes this man tick. With a never-ending supply of energy, Bowden, it seems, has never slowed down since the family doctor whacked him on the fanny on Nov. 8, 1929 in Birmingham, Ala.

As good as Bowden has become at winning football games, he just may have missed his true calling in life. He would be an absolute gem as a (1) public relations man; (2) salesman; (3) motivational speaker; (4) golf pro; (5) politician; (6) teacher; (7) minister; or (8)comedian. It just might be that the right combination of all of those Bowden traits is what makes great football coaches.

Bobby Bowden loves people. He thrives on public contact. He loves to talk and he's darn good at it. Most of all, he loves to talk with whomever will listen. There are no status lines with this man. President Reagan may very well have a 15-minute wait outside the coach's office while he finishes his interview with the Gadsden County Times. But even Ronnie would find it worth the wait. From the moment Bobby stands up from his chair with the familiar "Hey, buddy," you feel like you're the first human he's seen in weeks. It's a rare man indeed who can make everyone seem just a little bit special.

How about this revelation: Bobby Bowden gets along fantastically with the media. Let's take it a step further. Bobby Bowden likes the media. He studies and understands the media and its function. He is, very possibly, as comfortable in a room full of sportswriters as in a coaches' meeting. In some ways, talking to the press has become therapy for him-a way to unwind after a big game or relax before

His magic has touched the press. He is painfully sincere with them. He goes out of his way to accommodate them. And he does it in a way that is not phony. You can't fool these people over a long haul. Journalists are perhaps the most skeptical of all breeds and yet those who have dealt with Bowden not only respect him.

Tim Hebron: Mr. Nice Guy

By Nick Gandy, Staff Writer

Anyone who does not know 6-6, 275 lb. Seminole offensive tackle Tim Hebron would probably say, "I hope I never run into him in a dark alley."

But the truth of the matter is that if you were to meet Hebron in that particular location, he'd probably ask; "What are you doing in this dark alley? It could be dangerous here. Let's get out of here as soon as possible!" And then to top it off, he would probably be more worried about your safety than his own.

To put it plainly, the fifth-year senior from St. Louis is a nice guy who enjoys people. "I get fulfillment from helping people," says Hebron. "I don't mind helping others with problems. That's off the field; but on the field my attitude must change."

Reviewing Hebron's career, he could provide the Seminoles with a classic case of a disgruntled player. Instead, he gives the team a standard of maturity and leadership for younger teammates to follow. Hebron has experienced many hardships since arriving at FSU in 1982 as a highly-touted lineman who chose FSU over Notre Dame and UCLA. He has endured injuries to his hand and knee, undergone an appendectomy operation, played on scout teams, moved to defensive line and returned to offense and has played behind and shared time with various Seminole linemen. Enough to get to a guy? Not Tim Hebron.

"Tim has never lost his fire or hung his head," says Jay Perkins, a graduate assistant coach who works with the offensive line. "Nothing affects him; he is mature and does not complain. Tim is also invaluable with helping the younger players. He knows the line and motivates and helps the other players. This is all unbelievable because here is a fifth-year senior in a huddle at practice with the second team offense. He is a leader and a voice."

"I just take things upon myself that a senior or leader should," Hebron explains. "Little things that should be pointed out to keep people in line."

To prepare himself for his senior year, Hebron voluntarily worked out last summer. He and fellow senior offensive lineman Jim Hendley had a daily regiment of running and lifting weights. "My biggest problem was that I never felt that I was in top condition," he says. "I went into fall practice in shape with confidence and knowing how hard I had worked."

His preparation had apparently paid off when Hebron found himself splitting time with Pablo Lopez at the beginning of the season. Critics who had earlier expressed doubt in the FSU offensive line following the loss of Jamie Dukes and John Ionata were now giving it a bit more credit.

Following the opening win over Toledo, Hebron was stricken with appendicitis, leaving one more spot to fill. Lopez' untimely death soon created another scramble in the line. Those events all helped to lead to negative press, the kind which Hebron says the offensive line is more likely to receive. "The offensive line never gets any ink unless it is doing badly," he says. "That's when it's evident; quarterbacks get sacked and it's more visible. Since then we have reached a consistency and there hasn't been a word said."

Through all the trials and tribulations of the 1986 season, the offensive line has survived because it has a common goal and because of the simple fact that the linemen like each other. "You could take the whole group of linemen and put them in a bag and shake them up," Perkins says. "When you took them out one by one there would be some guys who had more athletic ability, some who ran faster and some who did things better than others. But there would be no personality conflicts. Take this situation; you've got Hebron, a fifth-year senior, white kid from St. Louis and Hayward Haynes, an 18-yearold, true freshman, black from Bartow. These are two different kids from two different worlds, but they'll be running Cont. on page 96

Florida State Spirit... Color, Drama, and Spectacle!

Seminole Saturday Night Fever

Garnet and Gold balloons fill the stands at Doak Campbell Stadium as 60,000 fans await another action-packed Saturday night of Seminole Football.

Suddenly all heads turn to the north endzone as the Seminoles, led by head coach Bobby Bowden, burst out of the tunnel from the locker room onto the playing field following Chief Osceola and Renegade.

Renegade, a large Appaloosa horse, gallops the length of the field. Perched atop Renegade, holding a 10-foot flaming spear, is Chief Osceola. The Chief wears an authentic costume designed specifically for Florida State by Seminole Indians. His face is covered with greasebased makeup, giving him an Indian-reddish tint. Garnet and Gold stripes have been added in FSU Seminole fashion.

The 16 Seminole cheerleaders encourage the Campbell Stadium crowd as mascot Tommy Hawk pounds an intimidating beat on Big Sam, the Seminole Victory Drum. The fans move their arms in unison to the Scalp 'Em cheer following the beat of the drum. Renegade fidgets and shakes his head from side to side, awaiting the end of the coin toss proceedings. Chief Osceola shakes the spear over his head and the crowd roars its approval.

The game captains and referees leave midfield. The excitement of the crowd is reaching its peak. Renegade and Chief Osceola gallop to the 50-yard-line. Renegade rears up on his hind legs and Chief Osceola plants the fiery spear into the turf. This is what the crowd of 60,000 has been waiting for.

The roar of the crowd is deafening. The moment the spear hits the ground, thousands of balloons are released, filling the Tallahassee sky with garnet and gold while the Marching Chiefs play the FSU fight song in the background.

It is one of college football's greatest opening shows. But, it's just another Seminole Saturday night that has become the heart and soul of Seminole football

ALMA MATER

High o'er the towering pines our voices swell, Praising those Gothic spires we love so well, Here sons and daughters stand, faithful and true. Hailing our ALMA MATER, FSU.

FIGHT SONG

©Music by Thomas Wright
Words by Doug Alley
You've got to fight, fight, for FSU.
You've got to scalp 'em Seminoles.
You've got to win, win, win, win this game and roll on down to make those goals.
For FSU is on the warpath now and at the battle's end, she's great
So fight, fight, fight to victory, our Seminoles from Florida State.

Florida State! Florida State! Florida State! (Repeat Song)

The Marching Chiefs

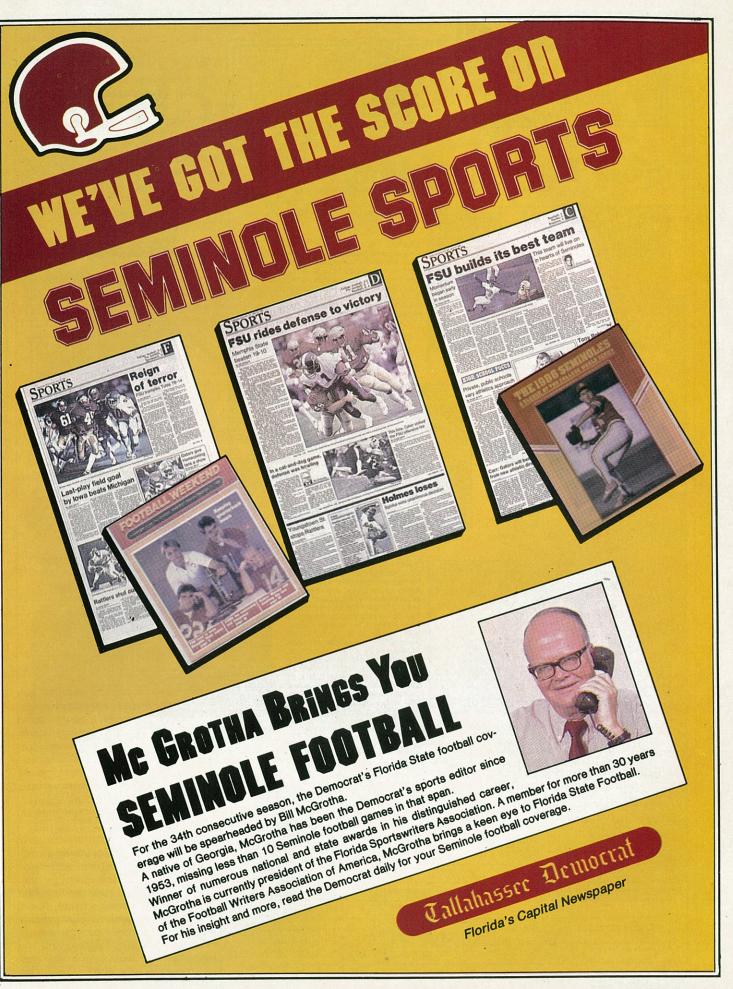

The Marching Chiefs, some 350 members strong, are the band behind the Florida State fight song. They are as much a part of college football in Tallahassee as the game itself.

Since 1951, the Chiefs have provided football fans with the best in upbeat musical entertainment in their pregame and halftime shows.

The Chiefs' entourage includes feature twirlers, majorettes and flag girls representing every school and college in the university. In addition to home game performances, the Chiefs have traveled to many out of town games to cheer on the Seminoles. FSU's regional and national TV appearances have also put them in the living rooms of millions of viewers, including thousands of Seminole alumni across the country.

Under the direction of Bentley Shellahammer, director of the Chiefs; Charles Carter, associate director and arranger; graduate assistants David Legette and Jim Taylor; and graduate staff assistants Rich Greenwood, Jim Byo, Dean Cirkle and Jay Kloecker, the 1986 Marching Chiefs will greet Seminole fans with the familiar style that has entertained millions in the past.

Partners in Progress: helping Florida solve its problems.

By Cindy Mooy, FSU Media Relations Office

In the athletic arena, there are some serious confrontations going on in Tallahassee during this Thanksgiving weekend. But in the academic fields, Florida State University and the University of Florida are demonstrating that their common interest and concern lies in their common name - Florida.

Florida State is hosting the second joint FSU/UF Legislative Appreciation Weekend with representatives from UF and many of Florida's state legislators and their spouses as our guests. The inaugural event was held last year in Gainesville.

Centered around the FSU/UF basketball game last night and the FSU/UF football game tonight, officials of both schools are meeting with legislators to demonstrate that both schools, while rivals athletically, are academically "Partners in Progress: Helping Florida Solve its Problems."

"The Florida Legislature has endorsed the efforts of higher education in many ways, including a fine appropriation for the current year," said FSU President Bernard Sliger. "This joint venture is a way of showing our appreciation, while acquainting the membership with the many programs we have which benefit all Floridians."

The Tallahassee Area Chamber of Commerce kicked off the weekend with a buffet reception last night in the Florida State Conference Center. Following this social gathering, many legislators and their guests attended the basketball game in the Civic Center or a special musical review staged by the FSU School of Music in the Housewright Building.

At a breakfast at the Civic Center this morning, legislators viewed a special video presentation showing how the two universities are helping the state solve its problems. After the breakfast, a special series of programs was presented to the legislators displaying some of the important roles both universities are playing in Florida's progress. Highlighted were the FSU and UF Colleges of Law; the FSU Supercomputer Computations Research Institute; the FSU Institute of Science and Public Affairs programs; materials science research by FSU's MARTECH and UF's Microfabritech; and Atmospheric and Oceanic Sciences programs.

Following a tour of the FSU College of Law, legislators and university of ficials attended a pre-game reception at the Governor's Mansion and today's football game at Doak Campbell Stadium.

Behind the Scenes in the Radio Booth

By Andy Surratt, Guest Writer

Have you ever wondered what goes on in the radio booth during a Florida State football game? How can Gene Deckerhoff possibly know all that information about a play in a matter of minutes? How does his partner, Vic Prinzi, know the Notre Dame score out of South Bend?

No, Deckerhoff and Prinzi may be good at their jobs, but they're certainly not magicians. At every Florida State football game, there are five people in the radio booth who are directly responsible for making the broadcast run smoothly.

Of course Deckerhoff is the main man; he is responsible for all the playby-play announcing. He must know where the ball is spotted after every play and who is carrying the ball and what he does with it. In addition to the obvious description of each play, Deckerhoff must repeat the score and the time remaining on the clock — two of the most important aspects of his job. "My son Eric tapes all the games so that I can hear if I give the score and time at least once every three minutes," says Deckerhoff, who has won 10 awards as Florida's Sportscaster of the Year.

While Deckerhoff handles the playby-play, color analyst Prinzi has the responsibility of using his expertise and telling the listener how the play developed. Prinzi, a former FSU quarterback, also updates the scores of other games. Both Vic and Gene do half-time interviews.

Three other people — all silent during the broadcast — are present in the booth. They are the engineer, statistician and the spotter.

Mark Johnson, an employee of WTNT Radio, is the first of the crew to arrive at the stadium - about three hours before kickoff. As engineer, he sets up all of the electronic equipment, making sure that all of the head sets are in proper working order. If they are not, he must do some quick maintenance in order that they function properly. Johnson has other duties that he performs throughout the broadcast. For example, he has direct contact with the satellite folks in Orlando to make sure there are no problems with the feed (through two phone lines) to the stations in the Seminole network. Johnson can also be called the producer of the broadcast since he is in charge of putting the commercials in their specific time slots. "The most frustrating part of airing a commercial during the game is when the game resumes and we are still in the break," says Johnson. "There is a chance of missing the big play." Johnson is also the source of the mystery scores; he has an extra phone line where he dials WTNT in Tallahassee for a scoreboard update.

Lee Bowen is the statistician for home games while Lisa Franson of the sports information office generally serves in that position on away weekends. The statisticians have a very important role in the broadcast; they keep all the individual and team statistics and scoring drives, feeding them to Deckerhoff and Prinzi for use without a delay in the broadcast. The statistician also helps with the yardage covered on a play through a series of hand motions. The tough days for the statistician are one-sided games. Says Bowen, "When Cont. on page 95

With some health care programs you never know who your next doctor may be.

Can we afford to leave our personal physician behind? That's the question most often asked when an employer considers switching to an alternative form of health coverage.

For the employer or benefits manager weighing these choices, MetLife HealthCare Network[™] of Florida, Inc. has a solution.

The answer: Bring back the neighborhood physician. Establish a network of doctors your people can trust. Offer employees their own personal physicians with convenient office locations. Offer them freedom of choice.

Meanwhile, offer this service—and many more—at a price employers can afford.

MetLife HealthCare Network has many more ways to personalize your company's health plans. To find out how individual you can be, call Burt Bevis at 386-6595. You will be amazed at your options, and pleased with how affordable we can be.

Game Plan for Progress.

In just three short years, a game plan that commits us to Florida as our home field has made Florida Progress one of the largest publicly-held corporations in the state.

We're over 8,000 employees strong. We're members of the Fortune 500, listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Our team of affiliates is helping to create a new Florida in a wide range of fields including manufacturing, agriculture, mining, energy, chemical separation, financial services, business forms and packaging. Our Talquin Corporation, for example, is developing Gadsden Station, a business park for the entertainment and light manufacturing industry, just minutes from the University campus at the intersection of I-10 and Hwy. 90. And our coverage goes beyond state lines, throughout the sunbelt from Texas to Virginia, and internationally into Japan and the Netherlands.

We're one of a number of companies who see progress today as a home game. We're drafting Florida talent, to help build Florida's future.

We invite you to join us in moving toward your goals by making Florida an important part of your game plan.

It's smart. It's effective. And everybody wins.

Building a brighter future every day.

A House Divided . . . Still Stands

By Chris Sears, Staff Writer

Brother vs. brother. Family loyalty divided. Does this sound like a Margaret Mitchell novel about the strifetorn South during the Civil War?

No, it's just the situation that divides my family during the FSU-Florida game. You see, I am a junior student assistant in the Florida State Sports Information Office, while my younger brother Sam is a freshman walk-on wide receiver for Florida. Despite what one might think, this has not brought a strain on our relationship during the other 364 days of the year.

Ironically, Sam and I are very close, especially since we grew up together in Longwood, where we both wanted to go to Florida. I can remember anxiously awaiting the 2½ hour ride to Gainesville on the way to our grandmother's house, so we could load up on orange and blue apparel. The highlight of the fall was always going to see at least one Florida game; to see our favorite players like Cris Collinsworth or Wes Chandler.

But as the years passed, and it came time to choose a college, my desire to attend Florida faded. Once I visited the Florida State campus, I knew Tallahassee was where I wanted to spend my college years. Sam was supportive of my decision and he made the 41/2 hour drive to Tallahassee on a number of occasions. I really thought I had him convinced to come to Florida State and be a student until the years of football practice paid off during his senior year at Lake Brantley High School. He made 38 receptions to place second in Central Florida, but no major colleges were clamoring for him to sign a letter-ofintent. Sam is an overachiever who substitutes dependable hands and intelligence for 4.4 speed.

Then one morning Florida assistant Mike Heimerdinger called Sam, who he had remembered from the seven Florida summer football camps he attended. That phone call to offer Sam an official visit to Florida was all that was needed to convince him that fate led him to be a Gator.

Where does this leave my parents with one son at Florida and one at Florida State? I really thought I had my parents on my side because I had a two year jump on Sam. Especially since my mom went to Florida State and my dad grew up 60 miles east of Tallahassee in the small north Florida town of Jasper. Sam was more successful than I ever imagined, as he brought my parents to favor both schools. When I heard my mom say, "we'll spend our last dime to go see the Gators, if they go to a bowl game," I knew Sam got to them.

But my parents aren't the only ones who have fallen victim to Sam. Whenever Florida State has the week off, Sam's girlfriend, Staci (an FSU student) and I pack the car and make the trek down I-75 to Gainesville to spend time with Sam and my parents before the Florida games. This year alone I've seen Florida play Miami, Georgia and Auburn. I even find myself wanting Florida to do well.

But there have been consequences through the support of my brother's endeavors. I have become known by friends and office workers as a Gator lover. Just the other day, someone in the SID office pinned orange and blue balloons along side a picture of Florida quarterback Kerwin Bell that they had signed, "To Chris, A great Gator, Kerwin Bell."

I am also constantly reminded by our Associate Director, Lisa Franson, of an incident that appeared in the papers last year at the University of Kentucky. It was reported that a Kentucky sports information student assistant was fired because he was such an avid fan of archrival Louisville.

The kidding I get in the office really doesn't bother me, because as the Florida-Florida State game approaches, there's only one team I want to win — Florida State.

Even though Sam will not play because he is redshirted this year, the rivalry in our household will not be diminished. Like every year, the loser of tonight's game will have to take the garbage out during the three week Christmas break. I've had to take the garbage out for the last five years, now it's Sam's turn.

The HOUR GLASS
Market Square • 893-HOUR

Some people set higher standards for themselves. They come out early. And stay late. Funny, how they're usually the winners.

At Ricoh, we set higher product standards. And we put in that extra effort. Maybe that's why Ricoh's line of copiers, digital facsimile, laser printers, and shredders are setting new standards of performance in today's modern office. And that's why Ricoh cameras are winning the attention of amateurs and professionals alike in the world of photography.

Be a winner. Demand that extra effort. Ask for Ricoh. We Respond.

RED · WHITE · & · YOU

The fact that both of these Corvettes are on Goodyear Eagle street radials is no coincidence.

The 1986 Corvette Convertible. Factory specified tires: Goodyear Eagle VR "Gatorback" street radials.

Every Corvette made since 1984 comes with just one make of tire: the Goodyear Eagle VR "Gatorback" street radial.

Which is no coincidence.

Because the Eagle VR
"Gatorback" was developed specifically for the Corvette's tremendous cornering, handling and speed capabilities.

Considering the performance of the Eagle VR "Gatorback," it's not surprising that successful

SCCA Showroom Stock Endurance racing teams like Rippie/Anderson also choose an Eagle street radial:*

The Eagle VR S "Gatorback," a version of the Eagle VR "Gatorback" made for ultimate grip rather than ultimate treadlife.

The success of both the Eagle VR and VR S "Gatorbacks" has a common source:

Goodyear's ability to engineer better high-performance radials. For virtually every performance car.

So it's really no coincidence that the Eagle VR is to be found on every Corvette made.

Or that the Eagle VR S is the favorite tire of people who race Corvettes in the SCCA Showroom Stock Endurance Series.

In fact, when you think of how the Eagles perform, it's no coincidence at all.

*Tires shaved to racing depth. Before you race on Goodyear street radials, write the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, P.O. Box 9125, Akron, Ohio 44305 for preparation recommendations and procedures.

YOU EITHER HAVE GOODYEAR EAGLES. OR YOU NEED THEM.

Florida Scouting Report

By Scott Burson, UF Sports Information Office

Florida, picked as high as 12th in some pre-season publications, entered the 1986 fall campaign with high hopes, but realistic expectations. The school's first and third-career leading rushers had graduated to the NFL, leaving a talented, but untried group of runners.

Scholarship limitations due to NCAA sanctions were bound to take a toll, especially in light of the upcoming schedule. Seven of the 11 games would come against Top 20 teams, a schedule Georgia Coach Vince Dooley called "the toughest in the nation."

The Gators opened with a 38-14 trouncing of defending Division I-AA champion Georgia Southern. Bell got out of the gate quickly, throwing for three touchdowns and running for one.

It was billed as a Heisman matchup. The Miami Hurricanes, on the strength of Vinny Testaverde's arm, came to Gainesville to avenge their only regular season loss in 1985. The staunch Gator defense held Testaverde to the lowest output of his career . . . 163 passing yards, three interceptions and minus 17 yards rushing. It wasn't enough, however, as Miami still hung on for a 23-15 victory. It's the closest anyone has yet come to the No. 1 team in the nation this year.

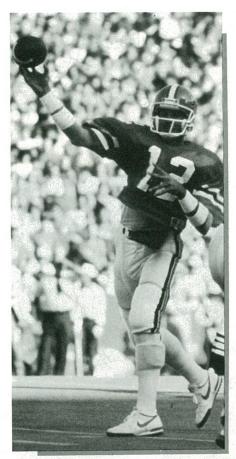

Things didn't get any easier with Alabama at Florida Field. The Gators took a 7-0 lead into the lockerroom at halftime, but an inspired 'Bama offense ground out over 160 yards of turf in the second stanza, scoring three touchdowns and a 21-7 victory.

The Gators took their first road trip to Starkville, Miss. The Bulldogs were riding the crest of the wave with wins over Syracuse and Tennessee. First-year coach Rocky Felker had quickly guided his team into the Top 20 and Florida fell victim for the third straight time, 16-10, coughing up the ball four times. The only Gator touchdown came on an interception return by safety Adrian White.

There were signs of life in the offense as the Gators marched 80 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter against LSU the next week. It was the first offensive-generated scoring drive generated since the Georgia Southern game. Florida, however, turned the ball over eight times on the afternoon, twice on the LSU goal line. The result — a 28-17 setback, the Gators' fourth straight loss. Even more was lost when Bell went down with strained ligaments in his left knee. The diagnosis — out four-to-six weeks.

"I don't like missing any game," shared Bell before the contest. "I hate being on the sideline when I know I can contribute. But I would rather play against an Auburn or Georgia (than Kent State or Rutgers), this is what it is all about."

Junior Rodney Brewer took over at the helm and guided the Gators to two victories. In a homecoming massacre of Kent State, 52-9, Brewer led a Gator offense which racked up 573 total yards . . . the sixth best output in Florida history. A trip to the New York City area the following week resulted in a 16-3 win over Rutgers.

Kerwin Bell

Auburn was next and highly favored over the 3-4 Gators.

"It was extremely disappointing to be knocked out of the race so early," mentioned Gator head coach Galen Hall after the setback. "But I'll tell you one thing, this is a good football team and we will become a factor in the conference. We will still help decide who wins the SEC."

Hall's words came to pass and Bell got his wish . . . an upset of SEC leader Auburn and Bell was back in the pocket to stay.

The junior signal caller from Day, Fla., entered the game in the second quarter to help the sputtering offense. By the end of the third quarter Auburn held a commanding 17-0 lead and then Bell began to perform the miracles that earned a national reputation.

On a still shaky knee, he marched his squad to a field goal, and into the end-zone twice . . . running for one TD and passing for another. To top it off, he scrambled for the game-winning two-point conversion.

"When it comes to improvisation in the passing game, Kerwin Bell might very well be the best I've seen," says Florida State head coach Bobby Bowden. "He is superb at making the big plays on the run in the heat of the battle."

Florida held on for the 18-17 victory despite a last second 52-yard field goal attempt by the fifth-ranked Tigers. The Gator defense was as stingy as ever, holding the explosive Auburn offense to just three points in the second half.

Florida put it all together the following week by upending Georgia in the Gator Bowl, 31-19. It was only the fifth time a Gator team had ever beaten Auburn and Georgia back-to-back.

"Florida quarterback Kerwin Bell is just what everyone's been saying — a Heisman Trophy quarterback," said Georgia head coach Vince Dooley following the game. "He had that type of performance last week against Auburn and again this week against us."

It was once again the Bell-to-Ricky Nattiel show. The Gator quarterback connected for 272 yards via the air, his best output of the year, while Nattiel, still hampered by a separated shoulder from the Auburn game, hauled in seven catches for 97 yards and three touchdowns, which equaled a school record.

The Gators struggled the following week at Kentucky in Lexington's near freezing temperatures. The Wildcats downed an emotionally drained Florida squad, 10-3, shattering the Gators' hopes for a bowl appearance.

Florida heads into the Florida State showdown with a five game winning streak over the Seminoles. "It won't be hard to get ready for Florida State," assures Florida's leading tackler Scott Armstrong. "The game will mean the difference between a winning and losing season. And that's as important as a game can get."

7:30 P.M. - Bernie and I slip into Doak Campbell Stadium to witness the game of games, the rival of rivals. We flashed our badges and bullied our way into two seats in the North end of the stadium. We then switched our police radios to the Seminole network just in time to hear the toofamiliar voice of the Seminoles' Gene Deckerhoff say . . . "Folks this is what college football is all about in Florida. This is the biggest rivalry in the state of Florida, professionally or otherwise. Maybe one of the biggest in the country."

The rest of Deckerhoff's narration was drowned out by the boisterous chants from Gator/Seminole fans. Bernie and I settled down to a coke and a hot dog but that's not the end of the story. The real story is about to unfold before your very eyes . . .

ever played which was at Pitt in 1982. Playing in that game enlightened me to the fact that I could play college football. It was a good feeling to know that I was a member of a team that was one of the best."

WHAT DO YOU INTEND TO DO AFTER FINISHING SCHOOL?

"I'd like to go to law school wherever I can get accepted."

WHAT'S YOUR FUNNIEST FOOT-BALL EXPERIENCE?

"The funniest thing that comes to mind right now is going through what the offensive line goes through (6:00 a.m. meetings, drills an hour before regular practice) and still maintaining a sense of humor."

TIM HEBRON — OFFENSIVE TACKLE WHAT IS YOUR FUNNIEST FOOTBALL EXPERIENCE?

"That's easy! I was paying Perkins back for wrapping my head with tape. We were on a road trip and I sneaked in his room and squirted a bottle of Colgate underneath his pillow. I had visions of him rolling around in the white goop. It ended up that he picked the pillow up and hunted me down."

WHAT WAS YOUR MOST MEMORABLE EXPERIENCE?

"Playing against Michigan. There's so much tradition built into that stadium."

WHAT WILL YOU MISS MOST ABOUT FSU?

"The comraderie of my fellow teammates."

WHAT WILL YOU DO FOLLOWING GRADUATION?

"I'm majoring in economics and I'd like to work for a corporation someday."

LOUIS BERRY — PUNTER

HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT HAVING YOUR SENIOR YEAR COME TO AN END?

"I have a lot of mixed emotions. I feel like now I can get out and move on to bigger and better things, but in a way it's scary because I know I'll be on my own. After this year there will be nobody to oversee all my activities. It's going to be different."

WHAT ARE YOUR INTENTIONS UPON GRADUATION?

"I'm hoping to play pro ball. I feel like I'll get the chance but it's just a matter of proving myself once I'm there. If playing football doesn't work out for me I'd like to go into business. I'd like to work for a bank and Tanner (Holloman - fullback) tells me they're hiring a lot more economics majors now."

WHAT'S YOUR FUNNIEST EXPERIENCE AS A SEMINOLE?

"It was the day before the game at Auburn last year. I was kicking deep out of the endzone and I kicked one real high. Tim Ashley, our manager, was down at the other end of the field shagging the balls and before he had a chance to warn Coach Bowden, the ball shot right down on Coach's head. It had to hurt. I probably shouldn't have told that story; now he'll know who did it.''

WHAT'S BEEN YOUR MOST MEM-ORABLE EXPERIENCE AT FSU?

"Setting the Gator Bowl record. The record was 47.3 and I averaged 47.5 that day. I remember my dad mentioning something to me after the game (he always keeps track of my averages) but usually his stats don't match up with the official stats. But on that one occasion they happened to correlate."

WHO GIVES YOU THE MOST SUP-PORT?

"My parents." (James and Virginia Berry.)

FRED JONES — INSIDE LINEBACKER

WHAT'S YOUR FUNNIEST EXPER-IENCE AT FLORIDA STATE?

"Just picking at the opponents. It's great on extra points to go into your stance and look across the line and whisper at them, 'You've got some big old eyes'."

WHAT WILL YOU MISS THE MOST ABOUT FSU?

"Probably having my food prepared for me three times a day! I'll miss the guys and just being a Seminole. I'll miss Coach Van Halanger (strength coach) and Ken Smith (team chaplain); they've been very influential in my four years at Florida State."

WHAT WILL YOU DO AFTER GRADUATING FROM FLORIDA STATE?

"I'm striving to play pro football. I don't really care where I go. I just want to play and I'll go wherever I'm needed the most."

WHAT'S YOUR MOST MEMORABLE EXPERIENCE?

"Coming in and being able to compete on a high level with good athletes. The guys on the team are great; I'll remember them the most."

WHO'S GIVEN YOU THE MOST SUPPORT?

"My whole family has but especially my two younger brothers. They love me and they love football. They're a lot of the reason why I play besides I enjoy it personally."

BRUCE HEGGIE — DEFENSIVE TACKLE/ SPECIAL TEAMS

HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT FIN-ISHING YOUR SENIOR YEAR?

"I feel like I'm running the Boston Cont. on page 100

STAYING IN SHAPE IS HELPING TRIM INSURANCE COSTS.

Better physical fitness can have a healthy impact on the cost of group health insurance. That's something we at Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Florida think every employer—and employee—will be glad to know.

And to help, we've developed a whole series of new programs designed to promote wellness and contain costs. Like our Hypertension Control Program, our On The Move aerobic exercise program and our Lighten Up stress management program.

These new health improvement programs are one more way we're working to make your health insurance work better here in Florida. Ask Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Florida or your employer how your company can get involved. It'll be worth it in the long run. For more information, call 1-800-228-2071.

Seminole Boosters

Seminole Boosters, Inc., the University's athletic fundraising arm, is the financial cornerstone of the Tribe's athletic program. Raising over three and a half million dollars in 1986, and setting new fundraising records, Seminole Boosters continues to rank among the top six college athletic fundraising organizations in the country.

Bill Parker is 1986 National President of the Boosters. He is President of Crest Products, headquartered in Clearwater, and is the first ever Booster president to come from outside Leon Coun-

"It is appropriate that in this first year of having an "out-oftown" president, the greatest portion of our contributions—for the first year in our history-has come from outside the Tallahassee area. This is especially exciting because contributions from Tallahassee and Leon County are their highest ever. Our other big areas—Jacksonville, Orlando, Palm Beach, Pinellas, Tampa, Pensacola, etc. — are just beginning to show what they can do. Seminole Boosters is becoming a truly state-wide and nation-wide organization of Seminole supporters."

Parker has been particularly impressed with the Seminoles' vast network of volunteer fundraisers and booster club officers who lead the ten-thousand-member organization. "Our volunteers are the most important element of our operation. We employ superior professional fundraisers, and they are able to gather around them and organize the most loyal and enthusiastic alumni who devote generous amounts of their time to the program."

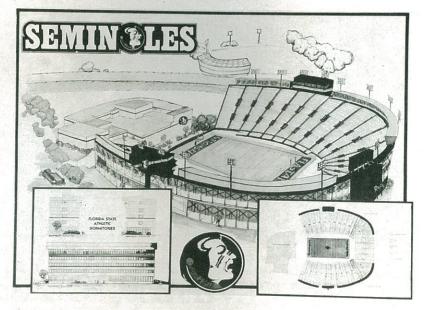

Seminole Booster funds have financed four stadium expansions in the last decade, and the construction of the Seminole Boosters' SKYBOX in 1982 has already generated hundreds of thousands of dollars in support of the athletic program.

A multitude of Seminole Booster Clubs now cover the three state area, and our Jacksonville Seminole Booster Club is the largest such club representing any school in any city in Florida. New Booster Clubs are being chartered in Newport Beach, Virginia; Dallas; Houston; and even in California.

In addition to raising annual cash contributions and maintaining the stadium gift shop and concessions operations, the Boosters are aggressively pursuing three main goals for the forseeable future: the endowment of all athletic scholarships; the completion of a first class athletic apartments complex; and the eventual bowling-in of Doak Campbell Stadium.

This year, President Parker is aided by Vice-President Mike Fields (President, Southern Bank in Tallahassee); Secretary Andy Haggard, prominent Dade County attorney; and Treasurer Ken Cashin (President, Florida Mobile Home Supply).

Members of the Executive Committee include Athletic Director Hootie Ingram; admiministrator Phil Fordyce; Regents representative DuBose Ausley; past President George Langford; Panama City television executive Rob Doll; Lake County banker Ed Brooks; entrepreneur Rod Brim; and Board Counsel Ted Steinmever.

Florida State University...

Florida State University, a coeducational institution and a senior member of the nine universities in the state system, is in Tallahassee, Florida, the state's capital.

Located just a few blocks from the Capitol, the Florida State campus is considered to be one of the most beautiful in the Southeast. The 347-acre campus is covered with hardwoods, pines and palms as well as springtime greenery that combines the blossoms of camellias, azaleas and dogwoods.

The approximately 22,500 students currently enrolled at Florida State learn from a faculty of over 1,500, which includes four members of the National Academy of Sciences.

FSU was established in 1857, when the governor of Florida, James E. Broom, signed a bill establishing the Seminary West of the Suwannee River in Tallahassee. The school consisted of one building located on 10 acres of land.

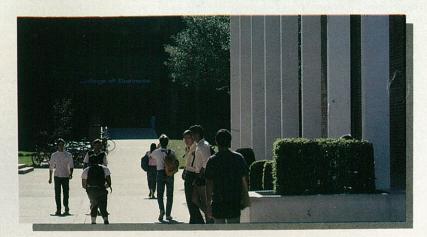

By 1860, the school, not yet a college, had an enrollment of 250. The president of the seminary organized the school into a four-year liberal arts college in 1887. At its first commencement in June 1891, degrees were conferred on two women and five men. Ten years later, the institution was renamed Florida State College. In 1905, it became Florida Female College, and in 1909 the name was changed to Florida State College for Women.

In 1945, FSCW took on the additional title, Tallahassee Branch of the University of Florida (TBUF), due to the fact that GIs stationed nearby were attending classes at the women's school, but, as men, couldn't legally enroll.

Gov. Millard Caldwell signed a bill in 1947 making both the University of Florida and FSCW coeducational. FSCW became Florida State University.

Florida State now offers students the opportunity to choose from more than 100 career options in arts and sciences, business, communication, criminology, education, engineering, home economics, law, library and information studies, music, nursing, social sciences, social work, theater and visual arts. Honors programs are available for top students.

The University has been recognized by the Board of Regents for its continuing leadership at the graduate levels of education. Home of the Seminoles

Overseas study programs in fields ranging from law to hotel and restaurant administration are offered in Florence, Italy; Oxford and London, England; Switzerland, Yugoslavia, Costa Rica and the Panama Canal Zone.

The University's location in the state capital affords excellent study, research and internship opportunities in the areas of government, social sciences, law and policy sciences.

Florida State is setting the pace as higher education in Florida prepares to enter the 21st century. One of the few institutions of learning in the United States with its own supercomputer, FSU is attracting researchers from around the globe.

The Bay County Commission purchased 21 acres, 16 of which make up Phase I of the new campus. The remaining acreage will be available for expansion into technical degree programs such as engineering and science.

Social life for many students in Tallahassee centers around 24 fraternities and 20 sororities. Wind surfing, swimming and sunning are among the activities to be enjoyed at FSU's lakeside "Reservation" or along the sandy beaches of nearby coasts. In the fall, the campus goes wild for football, supporting the Seminoles both at home and away.

When it comes to intercollegiate athletics, Florida State has established a winning tradition. Both the men's and women's athletic programs are among the nation's best.

A unique extracurricular activity is the Flying High Circus, the nation's only all-collegiate circus. Students from every academic major can become stars on the flying trapeze or highwire, or in clown acts.

Florida State is growing. Construction has begun on the Florida A&M University/FSU College of Engineering Building, located adjacent to Innovation Park, two miles southwest of the FSU campus. It is expected to be completed by October 1987.

Construction began last fall on the new student union complex and construction is expected to be completed in 1987 on the Science Center Library.

Plans are also underway for a $12.1 million multipurpose student gym, approved by the 1986 Legislature, as well as improvements to the central utility plant and renovation of the old Music Building (Music School South).

The College of Law's Village Green project has begun. When completed, the $3.8 million project will feature four restored historic homes to be used as study, meeting and reception areas.

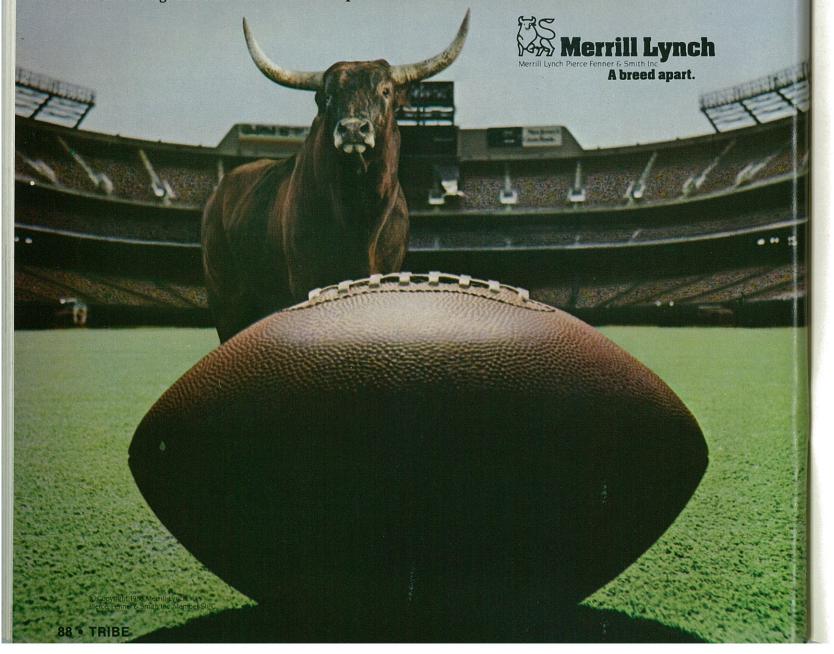

FSU President Bernard P. Sliger takes pride not only in the programs, but also in the people—students, faculty, administrators and staff—who make Florida State a successful monument to learning.

FSU Foundation Records Record Year

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida State University Foundation recorded its best fund-raising year in its 25-year history during 1985-86.

The Foundation also has reported its largest monetary gain for a single year and a percentage increase unequaled in recent years.

For fiscal year 1985-86, the Foundation had more than $12.9 million in total receipts and receivables - increases of more than $4.9 million and 61.4 percent over 1984-85.

"We express our gratitude to all the donors who made 1985-86 a record year for the Foundation," said FSU Vice President for Development Hal Wilkins. "I believe our donors increasingly are contributing to further the great strengths they see at Florida State excellent students, faculty and programs. We look forward to another good year in 1986-87.'

A noted increase over the previous year was shown in the area where donors designate gifts for a variety of purposes including eminent scholar chairs, named endowment funds, and property, plant and equipment. Other purposes with increases include research and development within academic divisions, student scholarships and fellowships, University libraries, and alumni and student services.

"Much of the credit for these gifts goes to our volunteers, the faculty members, students and board members who worked so diligently in assisting our efforts," Wilkins said. "We also were able to strengthen our internal organization, and our 25th Anniversary Campaign was a major success because of our volunteers and professional staff members."

The number of new donors also increased sigificantly in 1985-86. As a result of that increase, the Foundation received $38,880 in matching funds from the State University System New Donors Challenge Grants Program.

For the record, the Foundation's grand total was $12,907,790.12 this year compared to $7,995,847.37 last

... We Are the World

A multi-million-dollar educational program at Florida State University ensures that adults and children in developing countries learn skills in order to enjoy a better quality of life. The program, Improving the Efficiency and Educational Systems (IEES), helps gear public education in developing countries to the needs of their citizens.

"Educational needs in these countries range from survival training in nutrition, hygiene and child care to highlevel training for academic administrators," said Dr. Robert M. Morgan, director of the Learning Systems Institute, which runs the program.

Sharing American knowledge and technology, he said, can give developing countries shortcuts to solving their problems. "For example, we'd like to save them the 150 or 200 years it took the United States to set up transportation systems and clean water supplies."

Morgan said enrollments in developing countries are typically heavy in elementary schools, but drop sharply after that. "For youngsters who get all their education in about six years of school, we must ensure that they learn things that are crucial to adult living."

Robert M. Morgan

Morgan calls FSU the top institution in the field of international educational development. He explained: "When IEES leaves a country, we leave behind citizens who can run their educational system themselves. Developing such people for leadership positions is a prime aim of these countries, but they can't generate leaders overnight."

The Learning Systems Institute is midway into a five-year, $30-million project funded by the U.S. Agency for International Development. Faculty and staff serve abroad for three to five years as resident technical advisers. Foreign countries in the program are Botswana, Somalia, North Yemen, Zimbabwe, Liberia, Haiti, Nepal and

Morgan, who has been working with educators in other countries for more than 20 years, noted that developing countries are more ready to undertake educational reform than is the U.S. "They are starting from a more elementary place," he said. "Their problems are more urgent and their needs are more severe."

Super Network

The establishment of a 12-state communications network by the National Science Foundation will expand Florida State University's involvement with supercomputers. NSF has awarded more than $1.4 million to the Southeastern Universities Research Association for the construction and operation of a new multistate network. Florida State will serve as the institution in Florida through which other universities can access the network, allowing researchers to collaborate on research questions without leaving their home institutions.

the second and third team comes in the game, it's very hard to keep up with the individual stats since the players are shuttled in and out of the game consistently. The math becomes hectic because of all the yardage being gained."

The spotter is equally important. He must let Deckerhoff know who is in the game, who makes the tackle, who makes the catch and who scores the touchdown. This is all done with the aid of a pair of binoculars and Deckerhoff's "spotting charts". The charts are actually two boards — one for FSU and one for the opponent - with a simulated line of scrimmage on them. At each position Deckerhoff has the player's name, personal information and football stats listed for quick access. The offense is on one side of the board, the defense on the other. The spotter simply points to the player as Deckerhoff speaks; for instance, when Gene says "tackle by . . . ", the spotter has already pointed out the player. "A good spotter and statistician can make a play-by-play announcer sound good," says Deckerhoff. "They are vital personnel."

To put the show on the air takes approximately 15 to 20 hours of preparation on the part of Deckerhoff. Research on the opposing team — through the newspapers, press releases and talking to Coach Bowden — is essential in covering a game. Composing the spotting charts also takes time.

Everything seems to run smoothly at home games because the crew knows what to expect, but on the road difficulties can loom. That was the case in the 1983 Peach Bowl. Deckerhoff expected to be broadcasting from a normal facility — but instead a surprise was in store. He remembers one of the coldest days of his life. "We were placed on a flat slab of wood with two folding chairs out on the press box roof!" he says. "The temperature was right around freezing." Prinzi, who had not dressed for an outdoor broadcast, said it was impossible to do the game under extreme circumstances. But he was able to borrow an overcoat, a scarf and gloves from coach Gene McDowell.

Another instance occured in the Orange Bowl in 1982 while the Seminoles played the Hurricanes. The booth was so small that no one could stand up to stretch. This year's game was not too much different. "It's always a very difficult game to announce," says Deckerhoff of the claustrophobic Orange Bowl booths.

Despite the obstacles, Florida State's radio crew has always managed to get the job done. When it's air time, the radio team is ready to bring the Seminole show to you.

Editor's Note — Andy Surratt, a member of the sports information office's part-time staff, serves as the spotter for all Seminole home games.

Deckerhoff's spotting charts are an essential tool in Seminole broadcasts.

off the practice field and Hebron will be doubled over laughing about something that Hayward has said."

"I just take things upon myself that a senior leader should." - Tim Hebron

Among this bunch of loose and wacky cut-ups, center lim Hendley says that although Hebron fits into the group, he projects an image of maturity not seen in anyone else. "He just seems older than everyone else." he says. "He is like a father figure, but not standoffish. It's just an appearance of being more mature.'

Hebron's on-field effort has recently been carried off the field. He was one of 79 FSU athletes who participated in the "SAY NOT TO DRUGS" campaign. (See TeePee Talk - page 2) After speaking to a group of elementary school children, Hebron said that if his message reached just one child, then his visit was worth his effort. He was also surprised on how attentive his audience was. "I thought that with such young kids they would be real fidgety," he says. "But their response was great; I was very surprised by the way that they paid attention."

Even though Hebron has not piled up a collection of awards at FSU through his athletic performance, he will leave Tallahassee in the spring with a degree in economics. Perkins calls Hebron a person who has learned to appreciate his education. "He is a good student and is looking forward to graduation," Perkins says. "He will be a fine young guy out on his own."

Following graduation, Hebron plans to return to St. Louis and pursue a job in sales with one of the major corporations based there. "I really like St. Louis and most of my family is there," he says. "There are plenty of job opportunities there with big corporations; Anheuser-Busch and McDonnell-Douglas are located in St. Louis."

Hebron has some good qualities which he picked up at FSU that he will take into the job market with him. "Playing for Coach McDuffie, who is a perfectionist, has made me become disciplined in my work habits both on the field and off," Hebron says. "You have to do certain things a certain way to be a better person.'

At Florida State, Hebron has done most things the right way!

1986 Seminoles rank fifth with an average of 35.3 per game. But Bobby Bowden's teams over the long haul have consistently been among the highest scoring. Bowden has coached 127 games at Florida State and his teams have scored 3,726 points or an average of 29.3 per game. If you eliminate Bowden's first season in 1976 when the Seminoles went 5-6, the team has averaged an incredible 30.3 points a contest. And most amazing yet, in the last five seasons, spanning 58 games; FSU has posted 33.8 per outing.

Along those same lines, Florida State will need 37 points against Florida to become the all-time highest scoring FSU team. The record for total points is 389 scored by the 1984 Seminoles. That figure does not include points scored in bowl games.

How have Bowden's Seminoles done in the scoring column against Florida? Well check this trend. In the first five games of the series under Bowden, the Tribe averaged 29.0 points against the Gators and was 4-1. But in the last five meetings, FSU has managed just 58 points for an average of 11.6, and the Seminoles are 0-5.

Though the Gators are on a winning streak vs FSU of five straight, their longest was nine in a row between 1968 and 1976.

Florida State certainly has to like its advangtage of playing at home under the lights. Under Bowden, the Seminoles are 49-12-1 at home, including a 44-8 mark at night and a mere 5-4-1 daytime record. Florida, however, has solved some of the nighttime mystery and has a 2-1 record against FSU in Doak Campbell at night.

Florida State's Victor Floyd has now caught 21 passes for 231 yards and two touchdowns. The last Florida State back to catch 20 or more balls in a season was Michael Whiting, who caught 25 for 203 yards in 1980. You had better get a program to figure this one out. There will be 10 players in tonight's game with the last name Williams. There are two Anthony Williams on the field. Four of the Williams will wear two numbers. FSU's No. 26 is Alphonso ''Alley Cat'' Williams while UF's No. 26 is Jarvis Williams. FSU's No. 73 is Anthony Williams while UF's No. 73 is David Williams. Got that?

Florida State's individual statistics can't possibly get much longer or they'll run off the page. An incredible 17 Seminoles have run the football from scrimmage, 18 have caught at least one pass and four have thrown passes. But if you talk about getting everybody into the act, how about this one? Twenty different FSU players have scored points in 1986.

Florida State is headed for its highest season attendance in the school's history. The Seminoles have drawn 281,528 fans in five home games for an average of 56,306. The FSU-Florida game will draw more than 61,000, eclipsing the old total of 330,000 set in 1985 and the old record for average (56,000) set in 1984.

Marathon and I've run 25 and a half miles and I'm about to hit the ticker tape and start a new 26."

WHAT WOULD YOU LIKE TO DO FOLLOWING GRADUATION?

"My major is physical rehabilitation but I'd like to go and get my master's in physical therapy. Later down the line I'd like to have my own sports clinic. I love sports and would never want to give it up but I also know that playing football is something I wouldn't do my whole life. I've known for a long time what I've wanted to do, and that's tieing my sports knowledge in with my occupation."

HOW HAS FOOTBALL HAD AN IMPACT ON YOUR LIFE?

"Football has strengthened me character-wise. It's kind of a microism of society. In the real world you get knocked down and you get back up. You have high hopes and then you have downfalls. I feel that I'm a stronger person because of football and especially after Pablo's death I appreciate each and every day that I live. Pablo's death made me more aware!"

WHAT WILL YOU MISS THE MOST?

"Just the everyday struggle. I love to work hard. I'm happiest when I have a set pattern, a sort of structured lifestyle."

WHAT'S BEEN YOUR FUNNIEST EXPERIENCE AT FLORIDA STATE?

"Joey Ionata has this rug that hangs on his wall. It looks like a sheep dog. Last year he'd go out and stand in front of Coble Terrace (football dormitory) with that fur wrapped around his arm. From a distance it looked like a real dog. Joey would start off by petting it and then he'd simulate a dog attacking him. His arm and head would flail and people driving by would slam their brakes on to see what appeared to be a dog attacking one of the football players. One day he even got another one of the guys out there and had him hitting the fur with a broom."

TANNER HOLLOMAN — FULLBACK WHAT WILL YOU MISS MOST ABOUT FLORIDA STATE?

"The games on Saturday night and just being with the guys afterwards. The thing I'll probably miss the most is my brother (Darrin)."

WHAT DO YOU INTEND TO DO UPON GRADUATION?

"I'll be looking for a job in the financial arena. I'd especially like to work for a brokerage firm or an investment banking operation."

WHO'S GIVEN YOU THE MOST SUPPORT?

"My parents. They've been very supportive of me and my brother. They follow us everywhere we go every chance they get."
