Tee Pee Talk

By Wayne Hogan
Florida State Sports Information Director

In this same space on the night of September 10, I raised the question of whether this Florida State football team could overcome the devastation of a 31-0 loss to Miami and get itself back into the national championship picture by year's end.

At that time it seemed a long, long, long shot at best. After all, the Seminoles would have to win at Clemson and at South Carolina, as well as a tough home game with Michigan State.

No one could judge what kind of character this team possessed. It is ironic on that same night, FSU soundly whipped Southern Mississippi, 49-13, and nobody thought much of it.

Only after those stunning FSU victories against Clemson, Michigan State and South Carolina did someone look back to see the Golden Eagles hadn't lost again. Only the Seminoles, and now Auburn, have beaten USM in 1988. I think that was the start of what has proven to be a determined march by the Tribe — a march that can culminate tonight with a victory in a 10-1 regular season and a remaining shot at No. 1.

What an amazing story it would be if the Seminoles can deliver the final peg tonight against their No. 1 nemesis — the Florida Gators. Driving that final nail, though, won't be easy if history is any indication. Florida State hasn't beaten Florida on this field since 1980, and that was by a scant 17-13. The last three battles at Doak Campbell produced Florida victories by 13-10 in 1982, 27-17 in 1984 and 17-13 in 1986.

The Seminoles, you'll remember, ended a dreadful six-game losing streak against Florida last year with a 28-14 win in Gainesville. If history sets trends, then you can count on tonight's game being a close one. The average score in Tallahassee over the decade has been 17-14.

While Florida State's season has been another huge success on the field, the outside ramifications have been great as well. For the second year in a row, the Seminoles have notched a major bowl bid. This year's bowl appearance will mark the seventh straight for the Tribe and 10th in 13 years under Bobby Bowden. For the fourth time, FSU will play on New Year's Day.

Tonight's ESPN telecast is the fifth national appearance for the 1988 Seminoles. College Football Association rules restrict the number of appearances by any team to five — meaning FSU has played out the string completely.

A victory tonight by Florida State would mark the fifth time under Bowden the Seminoles have won 10 or more games in a season. And the Seminoles have had things on a roll over the last two years. Since the 1986 loss to the Gators here in Tallahassee, Florida State has won 21 of 23 games. And if success is measured by polls, consider the Tribe has been listed among the Associated Press Top 10 in 27 consecutive weekly polls.

All of this success can be attributed in great degree to Head Coach Bobby Bowden. He continues to re-assert himself as one of the nation's truly great football coaches. His Florida State record — always an eye-opener — has now reached 110-38-3 (.743). If he wins tonight it will be his 184th overall coaching victory, tying him with Darrell Royal as the 17th winningest coach in collegiate history.

But Florida has always been a personal nemesis for Bowden as well. The Gators are one of just six teams with a winning record vs. the coach since he's been in Tallahassee. For the record, Bowden's teams have played 46 different opponents during his time here. His 5-7 record against the Gators may be disturbing to some, but remember, the team he took over in 1976 was 2-15-1 vs. UF.

In history, this will be the 13th FSU-Florida game in Tallahassee. FSU has won three of those. The Tribe victories came in 1964, 1978 and 1980.

There's never a whole lot to be written by this time of FSU-Florida week. But just when you think everything has been chronicled, here's one for the record.

More than 100 Florida State University athletes along with members of the Golden Key National Honor Society visited area schools here November 14 in the third annual "Say No To Drugs" campaign.

In what has become the most successful anti-drug appeal by college athletes in the country, members of Seminole athletic teams spoke before better than 50,000 elementary, middle and high school students on that day. Each athlete is accompanied by a member of the University's highly regarded honor society.

The message: "Say No To Drugs!"

"Never has an effort of this nature had the impact in a community that this one has," said Florida State Athletic Director Hootie Ingram. "We reached every youngster within driving distance with a message that will stay with them for years to come."

"We started this program three years ago with a dream of making an impact on these kids," he said. "Now, I think we've made an impact on the entire country. This program has been adopted by many others across America and we couldn't be happier."

The original project in 1986 was the brainchild of Charlie Reed, Chancellor of the Florida Board of Regents, who obtained permission from the NCAA and then asked the university to consider the idea. The impact of the program was overwhelming that first year, and Ingram and his staff decided to pursue it annually.

While the project appears simple enough, the logistics involve a great deal of work by numerous athletic staff members. But Associate Director Bob Goin, who heads up the program for the athletic department, insists the project is well worth it.

"I think the most powerful message takes place when those kids sit at the dinner table that night and tell mom and dad what happened at school that day," said Goin.

Now isn't that a great way to kick off the annual war. Here's to a great ballgame and the continuation of a great rivalry.

In any area of life where you accomplish something, you need drive and dedication. A commitment to excellence. An environment that inspires achievement.

Football is certainly a character builder. But that same drive can be expressed in every field.

At Florida Progress, we have what it takes to be the best. Which is why we will continue to progress to the finish.

In five brief years, we have become one of the top 500 corporations in the country. Gaining ground internationally, in business groups ranging from Utility, Energy and Technology to Financial Services, Development and Business Services. Employing more than 8,000 talented people, with a lot of that talent recruited from the business and professional stars of tomorrow we find on Florida's college campuses. Talent that represents a bright legacy for the future of our state.

Certainly, we've an impressive record so far. Yet, you won't catch us holding the ball. We have a lot more games to win. And win last four games of 1978 and the first 11 of 1979 can top the current run. The Seminoles reeled off seven straight wins on three occasions – in 1977, 1980 and 1987.

- Florida State has won 21 of its last 23 games dating back to the 1986 All-American Bowl game. The Tribe's only two losses during that span have come against Miami. That string also includes five victories over teams ranked in the Top 20.

- As sterling as Bowden's home record has been, it is even better when his teams play under the lights. Completing his 13th season, Bowden's record in home night games is 51-9. Ironically, Florida has accounted for three of those night game losses with victories in 1976, 1982 and 1986. The other six home nighttime losses came to Clemson (1976), Miami (1977 and 1983), Houston (1978), Pittsburgh (1982) and Auburn (1984).

- A Florida State victory would mark the fifth time under Bowden that FSU has won 10 or more games in a season. Florida, by contrast, has never reached that mark.

- Florida State will be making its fourth major bowl appearance and its seventh straight post-season trip. The Seminoles will be making their 10th bowl trip in Bowden's 13 years.

- Incredible senior Deion Sanders will be playing his final game at Doak Campbell Stadium this week, and he needs just one more interception to reach the top of the list in that category. His 14th career oskie last week tied ESPN's Lee Corso for second on the alltime list. Only Monk Bonasorte's 15 stands in front of him.

- To say Sanders has been phenomenal at returning punts would be an understatement. He has an excellent chance to lead the nation in average per return. Going into the Florida game, he has returned 29 punts for 469 (16.3) yards and a touchdown. His 469 yards on returns leads the nation and also breaks his own single-season record. Incredibly, his 1,395 career punt return yards has broken David Snell's previous record by 545 yards.

- Florida State will make its fifth national television appearance this week – the maximum exposure allowed under the CFA television package. The Seminoles played Miami and Clemson on CBS and have played Michigan State, South Carolina and now Florida on ESPN. An incredible eight of Florida State's last 15 football games have been seen on national television.

One "Seoul-ful" Summer

By Chris Sears, as told to him by Arthur Blake

"King Arthur", as he's been nicknamed since high school, truly fits Florida State Olympian Arthur Blake. The 21-year-old Blake proved to the world he is heir apparent to the world 110 meter hurdles throne during the 1988 Summer Olympics in Seoul this past summer.

For Blake, the Olympics was his final entrance exam for passage into the track establishment, following a relatively short career spent chasing the sports legends.

Arthur Blake

"I'd pick Arthur Blake as the next great hurdler in the world," 1988 world champion Greg Foster told Track and Field News last winter.

If anyone would know it's Foster, the 110 high hurdling great now reaching the twilight of his career. At the Olympic Trials, Blake defeated Foster, the only opponent he had not previously beaten. The win put Blake on the '88 Seoul squad and established him as one of the best.

Recently, Blake recounted his thoughts and feelings during the exciting process of making the Olympic team and representing the United States. Although six weeks had passed since his return from Seoul, Blake said he remembered everything as if it happened yesterday.

The Trials

July 23 — (Indianapolis, Indiana) My wife went with me and helped me with psychological support. After the first race on the first day, I felt horrible because I ran 13.80. Right then I started having doubts as to whether I would make the team or not. I was really nervous because I knew Greg Foster had broken his arm and if I was in the lane next to him and he fell, he would take me out. So what happens? In the second race Foster is right next to me and I beat him as I ran a 13.40. After that race, I began to feel good. I went home and I iced my legs.

I went out and warmed up with Roger (Kingdom). I led the race for eight hurdles and Roger passed me and I ran 13.25. That was my second best time ever. I knew if I could do the same thing, then I would definitely make the team. I was talking to Renaldo Nehemiah after the race and I told him I was scared to death and he told me he was too. Here's the world record holder who has been in so many meets and he's telling me this is the most pressure he's ever felt at a meet.

Final: I was standing in my lane during the introductions for the final and I realized, 'Hey, I'm the youngest guy in the race by at least three or four years.' I felt good knowing that I'm 21 and I have at least a couple more chances to do this. The gun went off and got out of the blocks, hitting the first hurdle. I went on to hit a few more hurdles, but I just kept running harder. I knew I had to catch Toni Campbell. I finished third and I was so happy. I thought I finished third, but they wanted to make sure by looking at the tape. It was a nerve-racking experience as the officials reviewed the tape. I was so happy, when they announced third place—Arthur Blake and I ran around the track with Roger Kingdom and Toni Campbell.

Farewell to Florida

August 17 — (leaving for Tallahassee) I had been battling a hamstring injury the whole season and it started to act up after the Trials. I took about 14 days off to rest it.

Little did I know the kind of send off I would get in Haines City. The town proclaimed August 17, "Arthur Blake Day". Everybody came down to the community center, shook my hand and then I gave a speech. Channel 8 in Tampa came to Haines City and had a live broadcast that night. There was a reception with the town leaders giving me an Olympic sign that hangs outside the city reading, "Haines City, Florida..Home of Olympian Arthur Blake." I had no idea that many people were pulling for me.

August 18-24 — (Tallahassee) I trained for a little bit in Tallahassee, before I left for Los Angeles to catch the charter to Japan. I really started to feel good. I worked for two days on the hurdles right before I left and I ran a meet in LA. I really thought I would be okay after I ran a 13.50.

On the Way

September 5 — We went over in three groups from L.A.; some left on the third, some the fifth and some on the eighth. Not very many big name people were on my flight; most of those Carl Lewis' and Florence Griffith Joyner's were going over three days later. I went over on a charter flight that wasn't completely full. The flight left at 11:00 and I took full advantage of the 11 hours. When I woke up I turned to Thomas Conway, the silver medalist in the high jump. 'How long did I sleep,' I asked. 'about 30 minutes?' He laughed and said seven hours. I must have been out cold for a long time.

Training in Japan

September 6-14 — When we arrived in Japan, we were taken to a training camp way out in the woods. Most of the time, I trained with a lot of the sprinters and the triple jumpers. I talked to Edwin Moses on several occasions. We sat down and talked about issues in track and field.

Edwin (Moses) and Roger (Kingdom) were reassuring, telling me that the rest would do me good. Carl Lewis came in and he stayed for about two nights. They left when they weren't getting any better treatment than anybody else. It was almost like they weren't part of the team.

Being as young as I am, I tried to talk to as many of the older athletes to find out what their downfalls were and what helped them out. It seemed like all the people I talked to were the same athletes I wanted

BOBBY BOWDEN - THE FLORIDA STATE ADVANTAGE

One hundred and one wins! It took Florida State University 20 seasons before it registered its 100th victory. Bill Peterson was the man who secured that milestone during the 1966 season with a 10-0 shutout of Mississippi State.

Yes, 101 college football wins don't come overnight. When you think that in 41 years of playing the sport, Florida State - a darned successful football institution by any standards - has just 250 total scalps.

Then Bobby Bowden steps onto the scene. In three seasons prior to his 1976 arrival in Tallahassee, Florida State had rolled up a whopping four victories. At that rate, it would have taken Bowden 75 years to get 100 wins for the Seminoles, and that would have come in the year 2051.

Smart man, this Birmingham cracker. Realizing that he would have been 122 years old by that time, he revised the timetable. Instead of four wins every three years, he suggested something like 25 wins every three years.

Now this scenario seemed more to the liking of a whole lot of people. After turning 58 last November 8, Bowden has already knocked off a quick hundred. Nothing to it but a little planning. Twelve seasons: 101-37-3. Twelve seasons: nine bowls (more than half of the 17 in FSU history). Twelve seasons: three trips to New Year's Day Bowls. It is fitting that Bowden got his 100th win in 1988 against instate rival Florida and started on his next 100 with his third win in five tries against Nebraska in the Fiesta Bowl.

What this man has done in just 12 short years is nothing short of a miracle. Taking a program mired in mediocrity - literally on the verge of dropping the sport - he has built one of the very best programs in the nation. He has taken Florida State to the doorstep of the national championship three times and he got the runner-up title in 1988. There are those who think that the man who patrols the sidelines for FSU with "Seminoles" scripted across the front of his sweatshirt will get that national championship before he retires.

Bowden, you see, is Florida State through and through. Oh heck, Bobby Bowden IS Florida State. Florida State University is certainly a respectable institution of higher education. It has got a quaint steel-structured stadium where the fans make a lot of noise. It has the nice locker room, the weight room and even Burt Reynolds Hall. But really, Florida State has nothing that dozens of other schools can't offer. Except one thing. Bobby Bowden is the Florida State advantage.

Slowly but surely over these 12 years, America has come to recognize his qualities as well. Of course, America would rather talk of how it loves to watch his teams play. Uh-oh, here comes the reverse. Holy cow, there's the fake punt. Jeez, did he throw the bomb on fourth-and-one? That's Bobby Bowden for you. A riverboat gambler of the first degree.

Bowden continues to climb the ladder among the active coaches nationally. His 174-69-3 career mark is topped only by Michigan's Bo Schembechler, Penn State's Joe Paterno and Georgia's Vince Dooley. His 101 wins at FSU came after he posted a 42-26 mark at West Virginia (1970-75) and a 31-6 record at alma mater Samford (1959-62).

Bowden's 101 wins have not come the easy way. Saddled with the nation's toughest schedule three of his 12 years, he has managed to beat the nation's best teams on the road. "King of the Road" he was once dubbed and his 48-24-2 record away from Tallahassee includes victories at Auburn, Michigan State, Florida and Nebraska in 1987 and previously a Who's Who of college football.

If there's any question about the national impact he's made at Florida State, gander this little fact. In 29 years of football prior to Bowden, Florida State had made the weekly AP Top 20 just 13 times. In Bowden's 12 years, FSU could be found on that list in 118 of 169 weekly polls. Only 31 times since he first got the '77 Seminoles into the Top 20 has he spent a week out of that group. An incredible 48 times under Bowden FSU has been in the Top 10 on any given week. And what about a finish in the Top 20 - eight times in 12 seasons!

A polished speaker, Bowden is in demand. A busy schedule curtails many speaking engagements, but many times he can be found in a Baptist church pulpit on a Sunday morning.

Bowden is adored by the media. You'd be hard pressed to find a better one with the press. Open and candid, he has no secrets from them. His style makes Florida State a dream beat for the reporter.

Bowden was born in Birmingham and was a dandy player at the famed Woodlawn High School there. He went on to Alabama as a freshman quarterback, the fulfillment of a childhood dream after growing up in the shadows of Legion Field. During that one semester at Alabama, he found the true love of his life was back in Birmingham. Ann Estock soon became Bobby's wife and he was soon a transfer student at Samford University there, then Howard College.

Bowden was a "Little All-American" at Samford and would soon start a long Bowden tradition at the school. He returned there to take his first head coaching position in 1959.

Chuck Amato Assistant Head Coach Defensive Line (North Carolina State '69) Seventh Season at FSU

Chuck Amato has been Florida State's defensive line coach since 1982 and was named assistant head coach in 1985, giving him added responsibilities in the administrative area. Since he joined the staff, he has helped to rebuild the Seminole defense into a nationally-ranked unit.

His most recognized player at Florida State was defensive tackle Alphonso Carreker, a 1984 first-round draft choice of the Green Bay Packers, who Amato coached during the 1982 and 1983 seasons.

Amato arrived at FSU from Arizona where he coached the Wildcat linebackers for two seasons. Prior to his work in Tucson, he coached at his alma mater, North Carolina State.

He first joined the N.C. State staff in 1968 as a student assistant coach under former Florida State defensive coordinator Jack Stanton. In 1971, Amato began full-time duty with the Wolfpack, and in 1974, he was promoted to defensive coordinator, a position he held until his move to Arizona in 1980.

The Eaton, Pa. native earned both his bachelor's and master's degrees from N.C. State. As an undergraduate, Amato was a three-year letterman in football and wrestling for the Wolfpack and won a pair of Atlantic Coast Conference titles in his weight class.

Chuck and his wife, Peggy, are the parents of twin daughters-Lugina and Selena.

Mickey Andrews Defensive Coordinator, Defensive Backs (Alabama '64) Fifth Season at FSU

Mickey Andrews became Florida State's defensive coordinator and defensive backfield coach in February of 1984. Since that time, he has returned the Seminole defense to national respectability.

Andrews came to FSU from the Arizona Wranglers of the United States Football League, but the 42-year-old coach was no stranger to the college game. Before taking the Arizona job, he spent 17 years in the collegiate ranks.

Two of those years (1981 and 1982) were spent as the defensive coordinator at the University of Florida. He was also defensive coordinator at Clemson from 1977-80 and was assistant head coach in his final season there.

Prior to his work at Clemson, Andrews was the head coach and athletic director at North Alabama for four years (1972-76).

The Daleville, Ala. native earned second team All-America honors as a running back and defensive back at Alabama between 1961 and 1964.

Andrews was also an All-SEC baseball player at Alabama and received the 1964 Hugo Friedman Award as the Tide's best all-around athlete.

Following graduation, he spent one season as an assistant coach on the high school level and soon moved to his first collegiate job as an assistant at Livingston (Ala.) University. Andrews was named head coach there in 1970 and went on to compile a three-year record of 24-7, winning the NAIA national championship.

Mickey and his wife, Diane, have two children—Ronnie and Shannon.

Wally Burnham Inside Linebackers (Samford '63) Fourth Season at FSU

Wally Burnham, now in his fourth year at Florida State, was added to the staff in 1985 and is in charge of the Seminole inside linebackers.

Burnham watched in 1988 as his star pupil—Paul McGowan—won the Butkus Award that is awarded to the nation's most outstanding linebacker.

Burnham came to Florida State from the Arizona Wranglers of the USFL where he coached the Wrangler linebackers in 1983 and 1984.

Before moving to the professional game, Burnham had spent two seasons as the defensive coordinator at Lamar University in Beaumont, Texas.

The 46-year-old native of Pell City, Ala. was a 1963 Little All-American as a linebacker at Samford, which is also the alma mater of FSU head coach Bobby Bowden.

Following graduation, Burnham spent several years coaching high school football in Alabama before getting his first college job in 1971, when he was named to (FSU defensive coordinator) Mickey Andrews' staff at North Alabama.

He spent six years at that school as defensive line coach, prior to moving to East Tennessee State in 1977, where he served as defensive coordinator for three years. In 1980, he coached the Memphis State linebackers for one season before his move to Lamar.

Burnham and his wife, Barbara, have three children—Patrick, Allison and Shane.

John Eason Receivers (Florida A&M '69) Seventh Season at FSU

Since his arrival at FSU seven seasons ago, John Eason has found himself coaching one of the most talented groups of athletes on the squad. Weegie Thompson (Pittsburgh Steelers), Dennis McKinnon (Chicago Bears), Jessie Hester (Los Angeles Raiders) and Hassan Jones (Minnesota Vikings) are all Eason proteges who have established successful careers in the NFL. Eason joined the Florida State program from Tallahassee's Lincoln High School, where he was assistant principal for student affairs for two years. From 1973 to '79, he worked as assistant football coach at Leon High School, handling offensive coordinator duties.

A native of Ocala, Fla., Eason, played receiver and punter for Florida A&M between 1963 and 1967. He was named MVP of the Rattler squad in both 1966 and '67 and won All-America accolades in each of those seasons.

After his collegiate playing days ended, Eason played two years of professional football with the Oakland Raiders before entering the coaching ranks at Ocala Vanguard High School, where he coached until 1971. The following year, he returned to professional football and played a season with the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League.

Eason received both his bachelor's and master's degrees from Florida A&M. He also holds a doctorate in Education Administration from Florida State which he completed two years ago.

He and his wife, Dorothy, have one daughter—Amanda.

Jim Gladden Outside Linebackers (William Jewell '62) 13th Season at FSU

Jim Gladden, now in his 13th year at Florida State, joined the full-time coaching staff when Bobby Bowden arrived in 1976. Prior to that, he had served as a graduate assistant coach for the Tribe for the 1975 season. Gladden has tutored the outside linebackers since his arrival on the FSU campus.

During the last six years, Gladden has been a proficient recruiter, signing several highly sought-after players out of the Central Florida area. Last year, Gladden accepted a new challenge and moved into the Tampa recruiting area where he had great success.

Gladden is also responsible for the punting team and the "block party" image that has accompanied that team during the Bowden years, during which time FSU has blocked 43 punts.

Gladden graduated from William Jewell College in 1962; he was chosen to the all-conference team as an end his senior season. He then spent the next 15 years in the high school ranks, including three years in Kansas City and St. Louis. He moved to Kentucky and was later named high school Coach of the Year in 1970.

After coaching in Tennessee for one season, Gladden took over the Hernando High (Brooksville, Fla.) head coaching job in 1972. Two years later, he joined the Seminole program.

Jimmy Heggins Recruiting Specialist Noseguards (Florida State '78) Third Season at FSU

Former Florida State defensive standout Jimmy Heggins returns to the Seminole staff for his third season as recruiting specialist and noseguard coach.

Heggins returned to his alma mater before the start of the 1986 season after spending a year as an assistant at Southwestern Louisiana in 1985. Prior to that stint, he was running back coach at Eastern Michigan for two seasons and also had full-time duties at Western Illinois for the 1982 campaign.

The 32-year-old Heggins received his start in the collegiate coaching ranks as a graduate assistant at East Carolina in 1980. He had the same assignment at FSU for the 1981 and '82 seasons.

The Salisbury, NC native came to Florida State in 1974 as a highly-touted high school running back. After spending his first two years at fullback, Heggins was switched to noseguard in 1976. He successfully made the transition and was named the Tribe's outstanding defensive player.

Heggins is married to the former Winifred Parker, and they have a daughter, Andrea.

Wayne McDuffie Offensive Coordinator Offensive Line (Florida State '68) Sixth Season at FSU/Seventh Overall

One of three Florida State graduates on the Tribe coaching staff, Wayne McDuffie is in his fifth year as offensive coordinator and line coach.

McDuffie originally served on the FSU staff from 1971 to '73, giving him a total of eight seasons on the Florida State sidelines.

After a season as offensive line coach for the Atlanta Falcons, McDuffie joined the Bowden staff in 1983. Prior to the job with the Falcons, he gained the reputation as an outstanding offensive line coach during the five years he coached the position at Georgia. His line paved the way for Herschel Walker's success and contributed to the Bulldog national championship in 1980.

McDuffie played three positions during his playing career at Florida State—defensive end, center and offensive guard. During that time, FSU played in three bowl games. He played two years in the Continental Football League (1969-70) before returning to FSU as a graduate assistant coach in 1971. McDuffie rose through the ranks quickly, serving as head freshman coach before taking on full-time offensive line duties in 1973.

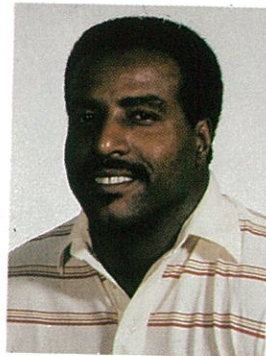

After the '73 season, McDuffie left Florida State for New Mexico and then Oklahoma State where he helped the Cowboys to the Big Eight Championship in 1976. He left OSU the next season to join Vince Dooley's staff at Georgia.

A native of Hawkinsville, Ga., McDuffie received his bachelor's degree from FSU in 1968 and his master's degree in 1971.

Brad Scott Tight Ends (Missouri-Rolla '76) Fourth Season at FSU

Brad Scott joined the Florida State staff in 1985 as its full-time tight end coach and recruiting coordinator after serving as a graduate assistant for one season.

Since taking over Florida State's recruiting efforts, Scott has played a major role in improving the Seminoles' pool of talent. His 1984 group was named best in the nation by Super Prep Magazine and made up the junior and senior classes on last year's Fiesta squad. The 1985 group was judged in Super Prep's top 10 while the class of 1987 was listed eighth in the country and second in the Southeast.

One of Scott's personal recruiting areas—the Jacksonville area—has yielded some of the brightest talent on the squad since Scott first began recruiting there in 1985. Traditionally an area where FSU did not sign many players, Duval and Clay counties began showing up on the Seminole roster.

Scott has also done well coaching the Seminole tight ends. He is credited with the development of Pat Carter, a second-round pick of the Detroit Lions in last spring's NFL draft. Carter was one of Scott's first recruits at FSU.

A native of Arcadia, Fla., Scott played college football at Missouri-Rolla from 1972 to '76. Upon graduation, Scott returned to his hometown as an assistant coach at DeSoto County High School for the 1978-79 season. The next year, he held a similar position at Hardee High School in Wauchula. He got his first college coaching experience in 1981 and '82 at The Citadel. After one year there, he returned to Arcadia as head football coach and athletic director.

Scott and his wife, Daryle, have two children—Jonathan and Jeff.

Tallahassee native and running back coach Billy Sexton enters his sixth season coaching the running backs and 12th overall on the FSU full-time staff. Over the years, Sexton has helped to develop such backs as All-American Greg Allen, who broke 26 school records in his career.

Sexton began his work on the Seminole coaching staff as a graduate assistant in 1976 when he tutored the tight ends. He then worked with the quarterbacks for five seasons until 1982, when he became the head junior varsity coach.

The former Leon High standout played his first three years of college football at Alabama as a backup quarterback before electing to transfer to FSU. After arriving at Florida State, he was a starter for the opening half of the 1973 campaign. One year later, Sexton earned his bachelor's degree in business from FSU and returned to Leon to begin his coaching career. He worked with the offense for the Lions for three years, before returning to FSU as a graduate assistant.

Dave Van Halanger Strength Coach (West Virginia '76) Sixth Season at FSU

Dave Van Halanger, who played under Bobby Bowden at West Virginia, is in his sixth year as FSU's strength coach.

Van Halanger spent several years on the West Virginia football staff before joining the Seminole program in July of 1983. He was the Mountaineers' strength coach for five years and is credited with starting the school's first organized weight training program. After serving as a graduate assistant and head junior varsity coach for two seasons following graduation from WVU, Van Halanger was awarded full-time status in 1978.

As a player, Van Halanger lettered four seasons under Bowden and co-captained the 1975 West Virginia Peach Bowl team. An offensive tackle, he earned All-East honors following his junior and senior seasons and was an honorable mention All-America selection as a senior. He played for the Atlanta Falcons during the 1976 season.

Van Halanger serves as state director for the National Strength and Conditioning Association and is a member of the National Board of Ethics for the National Football Coaches Association. On campus, he teaches several classes on strength training to the Tallahassee community and leads Florida State's Fellowship of Christian Athletes' group.

THIS IS FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY

Florida State University, home of the world's fastest supercomputer, is setting the pace as higher education in the state prepares to enter the 21st century. The FSU Supercomputer Computations Research Institute attracts international attention with scientists from many nations using the University's two powerful supercomputers in their research.

The Department of Physics' Tandem Van de Graaff Superconducting Accelerator Laboratory, ranked in the top four in the nation by the National Science Foundation, houses two powerful atom smashers which also provide unique research opportunities.

Located in Tallahassee, the capital of Florida, FSU is a public, coeducational university and a senior member of the State University System. More than 24,000 students are enrolled, representing all 50 states and 100 foreign countries. The University offers more than 250 graduate and undergraduate degrees in its 15 schools and colleges. Outstanding programs in the colleges of arts and sciences, business, communication, education, engineering, home economics, law and social sciences combine with the schools of criminology, library and information studies, music, nursing, social work, theater and visual arts to make Florida State a nationally acclaimed university.

The Florida State campus, located just blocks away from the state capitol, is beautiful in all seasons. Its 347 acres mirror the picturesque features of the surrounding North Florida region. The buildings are nestled among evergreen live oaks, pines and palms, as well as hardwoods that provide fall color, and dogwoods and azaleas that are covered with a profusion of springtime blossoms.

As an institution, FSU began as coeducational Seminary West of the Suwannee River, approved by the Florida Legislature in 1851 and assigned to Tallahassee in 1857. Name changes over the years included Florida State College in 1901; then in 1905, Florida Female College and, in 1909, Florida State College for Women. Gov. Millard Caldwell signed a bill in 1947 which again made the institution coeducational and changed the name to Florida State University.

The University's location affords excellent research and internship opportunities in government, law and the social sciences. The reputation of Florida State's research programs and the expertise of its more than 1,500 faculty members—including four members of the National Academy of Sciences and four members of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences—represent major strengths of the University. FSU prides itself on pursuing academic quality while maintaining a friendly, welcoming atmosphere.

Programs in music, dance and theater at Florida State have earned well-deserved national recognition. The visual and performing arts exhibited and produced on campus offer students and the community a wealth of enrichment opportunities.

Student activities at FSU create an important balance between the classroom experience and the personal life of the individual scholar. Honors programs, student government, intramural sports and more than 200 organizations are available for student involvement. Furthermore, the Flying High Circus, the world's only all-collegiate circus, makes its home here.

Florida State academic programs extend well beyond Tallahassee. The FSU Marine Laboratory is located on the Gulf of Mexico, 45 miles away. Students participate in professional training programs at the Asolo State Theater in Sarasota and the Burt Reynolds Institute for Theatre Training in Jupiter. The Panama City Campus of Florida State offers upper-level courses which lead to bachelor's and master's degrees. The Center for Professional Development and Public Service, housed in the Florida State Conference Center on the edge of the main campus, manages educational outreach activities from Pensacola to Miami.

The physical growth of the University during the 11-year administration of President Bernard Sliger represents new construction expenditures of more than $100 million. It includes such additions as the University Union expansion project, the new Paul A.M. Dirac Science Library Building, the Jeffersonian-style Village Green project at the College of Law, the new wing of the Rovetta Business Building, and the new FAMU/FSU College of Engineering at Innovation Park.

It is not only the academic programs and facilities of Florida State, but also its people—students, faculty, alumni, administrators and staff—who make this University such a proud monument to learning.

UNIVERSITY ADMINISTRATION

DR. BERNARD F. SLIGER
President, Florida State University

Dr. Bernard F. Sliger was named the 10th president of Florida State University February 7, 1977, following six months as the University's interim president.

After joining the administration in May 1972 as executive vice president, he assumed the additional duties of chief academic officer, and served as director of the University's London Study Center during the fall quarter, 1975.

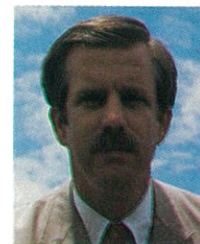

Formerly executive director of the Louisiana Coordinating Council for Higher Education, Dr. Sliger's background as an educator includes 19 years as a faculty member and administrator at Louisiana State University. During that time, he served LSU as head of the economics department, member and chairman of the graduate council, dean of academic affairs and vice chancellor. Taking leave of absence from LSU in 1969, he organized the Louisiana Coordinating Council for Higher Education, and became its executive director, a position equivalent to the chancellorship of the State University System of Florida.

An economist and scholar in the special fields of economic theory and public finance, he frequently has served as a consultant to private and public commissions and organizations. Dr. Sliger also served a year as Louisiana Commissioner of Administration and Chief Budget Officer.

Dr. Sliger's administrative and consulting experience extends beyond the states of Florida and Louisiana. In 1987, he was appointed to a four-year term on the NCAA President's Commission. Since 1983, he has been a member of the board of directors of the Federal Bank of Atlanta, Ga. and is also a member of the Council of Presidents for the Southeastern Universities Research Association and the Executive Committee of the University Research Association, Washington, D.C.

Born September 30, 1924, the native of Trout Creek, Mich., holds three degrees—the B.A. ('49), M.A. ('50) and Ph.D. ('55)—from Michigan State University, all in economics. He has taught at Florida State, Michigan State, Louisiana State and at Southern University at Baton Rouge, La. He holds memberships in 10 professional, scholastic and honor societies including Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, Omicron Delta Epsilon and Alpha Kappa Psi.

Dr. Sliger and his wife, Greta, have four children, Nan, Paul, Greta and Sten.

CHARLES W. EHRHARDT
Faculty Athletic Committee Chairman

A professor of Law at Florida State University since 1967, Charles W. Ehrhardt is beginning his fifth year as Chairman of the FSU Athletic Committee.

Ehrhardt served on the committee from 1969-71, and was reappointed to the board in 1983. He succeeded Dr. James Jones as chairman in 1984, and became Florida State's representative to the NCAA with the appointment.

A native of Elkader, Iowa, Ehrhardt received a bachelor's degree from Iowa State University in 1962. Two years later he earned his law degree from the University of Iowa and went on to become an Assistant United States Attorney in that state before coming to Tallahassee.

A widely-respected expert in the field of Evidence, Ehrhardt holds the Florida State position as the Ladd Professor of Evidence. He wrote the Florida Evidence Code, passed by the state legislature in 1976, which deals with the admissibility of evidence in court trials. Ehrhardt is also the author of a book on evidence, first published in 1977 with a second edition published in 1984.

Ehrhardt is frequently called on for lectures and speaking engagements. He is also asked to do private consultations with lawyers and judges nationwide on evidence matters.

From 1984-86, he was president of the Metro Conference which made him the league's chief representative to the NCAA. He is still active in conference administration, serving on the editorial budget committee.

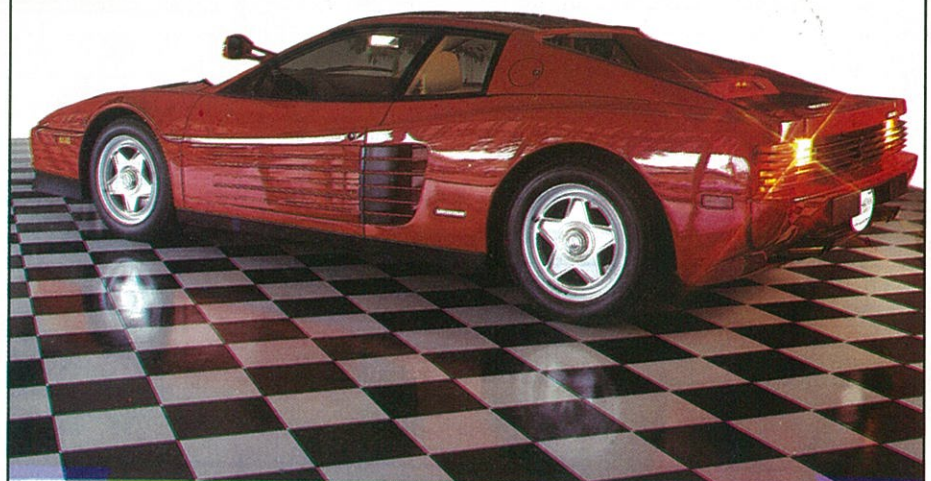

Ehrhardt and his wife, the former Judy Sutton, have three children.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR, HOOTIE INGRAM

Cecil Ingram, known to his friends and associates as "Hootie," has headed Florida State's athletic department for the past eight years. He came to FSU in January of 1981 after eight years with the Southeastern Conference.

Upon arriving in Tallahassee, Ingram initiated a $10 million dollar building program for athletic facilities. The building program included construction of the Moore Athletic Center, and completion of Dick Howser Stadium as well as renovations to Doak Campbell Stadium, the Bim Stults Aquatic Center and Mike Long Track.

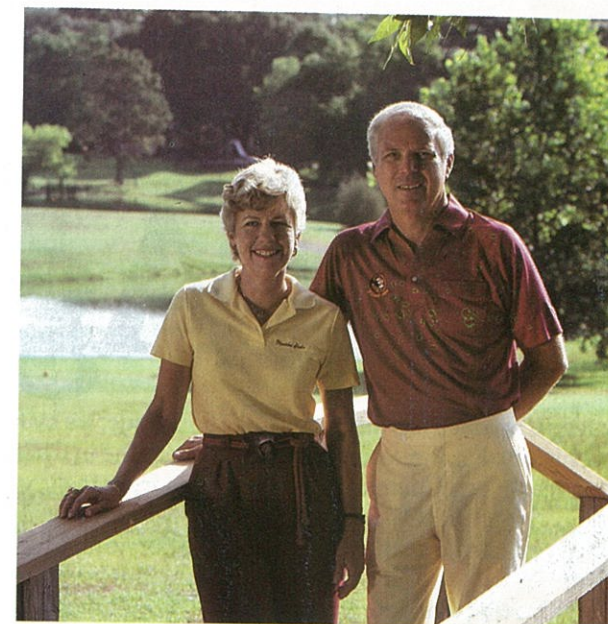

Ingram is in his third year of a four-year term on the prestigious NCAA Council. As an elected member of that body, he is one of 22 representatives from Division I schools. Ingram is also a member of the College Football Association (CFA) television committee, chairman of the NCAA nominating committee and chairman of the major independents.

A native of Tuscaloosa, Ala., Ingram played football for the hometown Crimson Tide from 1951 to 1954. He was named All-SEC as a sophomore when he led the nation in pass interceptions. He was a member of both the 1953 Orange and 1954 Cotton Bowl squads, and also lettered for the Alabama baseball team as an infielder.

After graduation and an Army stint, Ingram began his coaching career in 1956 as an assistant football coach at Bradenton (Fla.) Manatee High School. The next year, he became head coach at Tuscaloosa Brookwood High School.

Ingram moved into the college coaching arena in 1960 as an assistant at Wake Forest. He also made coaching stops at Virginia Tech, Georgia and Arkansas before accepting the head coaching job at Clemson in 1970, the only collegiate head coaching job he held. Three years after taking the position, Ingram left Clemson to join the SEC as assistant commissioner.

Ingram and his wife, Toni, have a son and two daughters.

4x4 of the Year. Again.

Jeep Cherokee has just made 4x4 history. For the second time in four years, Jeep Cherokee has been named 4-Wheel & Off-Road magazine's "4x4 of the Year." It's a feat no other vehicle has ever accomplished. And it's a title that doesn't come easily to anyone.

From an impressive field that included Ford, Chevrolet, and Toyota among others, the magazine chose Jeep Cherokee the best all-around 4x4 of the year. And as they explain it, "This isn't domestic versus import. This isn't pickup versus sport/utility. This is quarter-mile times, horsepower to weight, and day after day of off-road driving."

If any single thing won the day for Jeep, it was Cherokee's optional 4.0 litre 6-cylinder engine. With 177 horsepower and 224 foot-pounds of torque, it's by far the most powerful engine in Cherokee's class. And not surprisingly, we made quick work of winning the quarter-mile acceleration test.

But beyond Cherokee's engine is a lot more that sets this vehicle apart. Like a choice of two or four doors. A choice of two shift-on-the-fly four-wheel drive systems. And room for five adults.

Go over Cherokee's advantages and it's easy to see why it is 4-Wheel & Off-Road magazine's "4x4 of the Year" again. Because in Cherokee, we've found the winning combination. The combination you'll find only in a Jeep.

Nobody's Done It Better

By Rob Wilson

How you think of him depends on how you first come in contact with him. If you meet Florida State's All-America cornerback Deion Sanders off the field, his flashy smile, stylish clothes and numerous gold chains are overshadowed only by his charismatic personality. If you see him on the practice field, his determined work habits and constant coaching from his cornerback spot leave an impression. If you see him in a game, you'll take home memories of his blinding speed, constant playing to the crowd and powerful presence.

Deion Sanders, also known as Prime Time, is playing his last game in Doak Campbell Stadium. Take advantage of this opportunity. You just might be watching the finest football player in Florida State history. Be assured you are watching one of those special athletes who comes along but a few times.

Deion Sanders

Telling someone to watch Deion is about as unnecessary as telling someone to hush when E.F. Hutton talks. No one has grabbed the attention of football fans like Prime Time. He makes the football field his private stage and, at times, appears to control all the actors. To see him stand, feet wide apart, arms stretched like a gothic statue, head raised to the sky as he stalks the field waiting for a punt, is to realize this is an athlete who is almost bigger than the game itself. The excitement is nearly palatable. Fans stand and exhort, teammates rush for a view, opponents yell last second instructions, media crane necks and reach for binoculars. Soaking it all in is Deion.

He's a player who has reached individual acclaim in a sport which emphasizes the team. He has done it by remaining the consummate team player. There is not a more popular player among his teammates than Deion Sanders.

With his bravado, style and passion for life, Deion was bound to offend some. Yet even those who find his act hard to swallow must admit he is one of a few people talented enough to back his talk. He has alienated some members of the media who feel he is using them to promote himself. The question of who is using whom arises when they rush to his locker for some post-game quips, yet choose to ignore the fact he has championed the "Say No To Drugs" campaign at Florida State. Some reporters have looked for a chance to burn Sanders for the better part of the last three years, but, as usual Deion has backed up all he says. This summer, the media pounced on an academic faux-pas like it was a political scandal, however, Deion managed to steal the show once again.

So much has been written, and so much achieved by Prime Time, just another interview seems inappropriate. It seems the one person who can really do an interview with FSU's most interesting subject is himself. There really are two Deion's. They are tied by a need to break with the norm, but both are different. Prime Time is the guy in the uniform with 60,000 people screaming and cameras trained on him. Deion Sanders is a young man who approaches life with a great sense of humor and doesn't crave the spotlight - well, OK maybe a little.

Deion — "Prime Time, I've seen a lot of great players — played against a lot of great players — but I have never seen anyone talk as much as you or showboat as much as you do on the field. Why do you play like that?"

Prime Time — "That's just me. That's the way I am. I really play to the crowd and talk to other players for two reasons. Number one — it gets me up for the game. The more talking I do, the more intense I get. Half the time I'm talking to myself anyway. The second reason is to work on the opponent. If I get the wide receiver, or the offense concentrating on me, wondering where I'm going to be and what I'm doing, trying to make me look bad, then I'm stealing away their concentration. That opens things up for my teammates. What about you? You wear the gold chains, drive the fancy car and wear the nice clothes. Aren't you doing the same thing I am?"

Deion — "I guess in a way I am trying to say I'm 'Deion' when I step out in some nice clothes and gold chains, but I'm just being me too. I've always tried to look my best and style. But there is something else. A lot of times I see guys walking around dressed nice and showing gold and driving a big car, and they are just dope dealers trying to make people think drugs are the way to feel good. I want people, kids especially, to know you can have nice things and be successful without selling drugs."

Prime Time — So you think you owe the public something?

Deion — "I don't owe them anything. I just feel like anyone who is in the public eye, and I have put myself there, should realize they are responsible. They have people watching them. They are role models. I don't ever want someone to see me with drugs or with a drink in my hand. I don't do that. That's why the 'Say No to Drugs' day we have at Florida State is so important. To get out with the young people and tell them drugs and alcohol are not the way. Do you feel any responsibility?"

Prime Time — "Everytime I set foot on a football field, I try to do my best. Doesn't matter if it is practice or a game. If I'm in the game my man is not going to beat me. If I do my job, it makes my teammates jobs easier. It doesn't matter how good you are, you won't be anything without solid teammates around you. I have had that at Florida State. What about you, have you enjoyed FSU?"

Deion — "No question about it. I love Florida State. It's been tough to juggle school and sports, but I haven't regretted any of it. My teammates are the strongest memory I'll have. I would love to split up my money between my teammates, because without them I couldn't have achieved the things I have and our team couldn't have been as successful. Now that it's almost over, how have you felt about playing for Coach Bowden?"

Prime Time — "Coach Bowden - not a coach like him in the world. Boy, he's got guts. That call at Clemson showed it, but you never know what he's going to do. I'd hate to defend our offense. Coach Bowden and I are about as different as two people can be, but he's the boss. No question about that. I've gotten out of control before — got carried away with myself and did and said some things I shouldn't have. Believe me, he's called me in. When Coach Bowden wants to see you, he doesn't call you up there for trivial things. When he calls you, it's time for business. He let's me know when I'm out of line. I usually know it, but he puts it in no uncertain terms. The best way that I can put it is he's the kind of man you'd want your brother, or your son, to play for. Despite your reputation, you're not the highest profile person in Tallahassee, are you?"

Deion — "Naw, I guess not. I go out some, but I usually prefer to hang around with friends. When I'm at a party and people start talking to me before they know who I am, they always remark about how quiet I am. I guess they want me to stand in the middle of the room and spike the soda pop bottles. Really, I just like to be with teammates and friends. Now, what gives you the biggest thrill in football?"

Prime Time — "Well, I do love to pick off a pass, but the punt returns are the most exciting. I'm standing back there and the other team is yelling at me and I'm talking back to them. I try to get the crowd going because I want that punter to feel the pressure. Punting against Florida State is not a real pleasurable thing. If we don't block it, I get to try and run it back. Anyway, when I hear that ball kicked I know every eye, every person in the stadium and watching television, is focused on me. It's prime time. Talk about your Yankees deal. Why did you decide to play last summer?"

Florida State's Deion Sanders cannot be called shy. Fans respond to his plea for noise as he takes the field to make a punt return.

Deion — "First of all, everyone thought playing baseball was just a publicity stunt, but I took it very seriously. I was determined to do my best, and I had a lot of success. I made it to Triple A and learned a lot on the way. It's not just a gag. I'd like to pursue it after college. I have to admit the money was a factor in the decision. My mom sacrificed so I would have the best as I was growing up, so I wanted to take care of her. I wanted to buy her a real nice car, but she wanted to pay the bills. So we used the money to pay a lot of our household bills. I did manage to stow some of it away to keep my wardrobe up to date. How about your future? You'll be a lock as a first round draft pick and will have a big contract. Where would you like to play next season?"

Prime Time — "Oh, I would love to play for Tampa Bay. It's close to home and I could be on every commercial on television. Plus, the Buccaneers pay the bucks and that's what the professional game is all about. I can't wait to get to the NFL. I know it's going to be different than college, but it will be a challenge and that is exciting. Tell me something, how do you want to be remembered at Florida State?"

Deion — "I guess maybe that's the whole point. I haven't spent my career here at FSU trying to leave some kind of impression or trying to be something I'm not. I've just been me, and I'm satisfied with things. I would hope the people who I've met and gotten to know in classes and in a social atmosphere consider me a nice person. Somebody who enjoys being around people. You ever think about how you want to be remembered?"

Prime Time — "I want to be remembered as the best. The best that ever played for Florida State. That is what I have worked for all along. But I also want to be remembered as a team player — as having played on Florida State's best teams. You can't do anything by yourself on a football field. It's a team effort. I've had great teammates like Sammie (Smith), Tracy (Sanders) and Alphonso (Williams) who have made it a lot of fun to be a Seminole. I like to think I've made them better players and they've made me one."

For Seminole fans, there has never been a four-year period like the one dominated by Prime Time. Deion has done it all in his career at Florida State, and if there was ever a Seminole who deserved a standing ovation, no matter how much he demands it, it's Prime Time. Or better yet, it's Deion!

Rob Wilson is in his second year as an assistant sports information director for the Seminoles.

Seminoles Make Community Effort

By Mark Ziegler

One Friday morning in late October, Brad Johnson, a redshirt freshman quarterback from Florida State, returned from class as usual. One might expect he would grab a nap or a bite to eat. But on this day, Brad travels 50 miles down the road to Perry Primary School in Perry, Fla. to help a kindergarten class carve a jack-o-lantern for Halloween.

As he enters the class, the twenty-six youngsters are attempting to sit still. But the excitement becomes uncontrollable as Brad enters the classroom with a football under one arm and a pumpkin under the other.

The visit proceeds with a pumpkin cutting, an autograph signing session and a game of catch, with each child catching a pass thrown by someone they usually watch on television. Why did the personable Johnson take time out of his busy schedule for this?

"Well, it's simple," Johnson explained. "It is important for young kids to have someone to look up to, and it's fun for them to meet those people."

Actually, the kindergarteners got several benefits from the visit besides a fun day and a chance to meet a real "football hero", according to their teacher, Dana Clemons.

"Several of the students have become more interested in school because Brad Johnson took the time to show interest in them and tell them how important it is for them to do their best," Clemons said.

Johnson's visit is only one example of a Seminole athlete in the community doing something to make a child's day brighter. In addition to Johnson, FSU footballers Ronald Lewis and Dexter Carter have visited area schools this season, encouraging students to work hard in school to succeed later in life.

used to change a child's life. Many times, the most publicized aspects of athletics are the pitfalls and stumbles athletes take, the most negative areas. The stories not told are those of many FSU athletes actively involved in the community, speaking to and encouraging area youngsters.

The hallmark of the Seminole community involvement is the annual "Say No to Drugs" campaign run jointly with the Golden Key Honor Society. Now in its third year, the program matches Seminole athletes with honor students — the pairs then travel to area schools delivering an important message.

"Kids everywhere are looking up to you," FSU Associate Athletic Director Bob Goin told the student-athletes and Golden Key members. "Many athletic departments and college students don't choose to do anything in the community, but we are putting you out into society to do something good."

This year's "Just Say No" day was held Monday, Nov. 14 with 99 athletes and 58 Golden Key members delivering the "I Say No to Drugs" message to 55,000 young people in 58 schools and 81 presentations in Leon, Wakulla, Gadsden and Jefferson counties. The groups took posters and stickers to each school, with the first groups leaving the Moore Athletic Center at 7:15 a.m. For most, the effort involved taking an hour and a half out of a busy day, but for some, it involved much, much more.

Florida State linebacker Kelvin Smith, for example. He signed up to participate, but before the organizational meeting decided he would drop out because of a busy class schedule that Monday. However, hearing Goin inspired Smith who decided he would go out.

The day arrived and Smith came to the Athletic Center at about 8:30 a.m. to hook on with a group. He, Seminole basketball player Joey Barnes, and footballers Johnny Clower and Tracy Sanders travelled to Quincy Shanks High School where they spoke to a large group. After making two presentations there, they arrived back at the Athletic Center at 12:45 where "Just Say No" staff members were frantically searching for a player to go to Havana Northside High School.

Who did they find but Kelvin Smith. Five minutes later, he, running back Paul Moore, and basketball player Michael Polite were on their way to Havana. This presentation went over so well, they were asked to stay on for a long question and answer session. By the time Kelvin arrived back at the Athletic Center again, it was nearly 4 p.m.

However to Kelvin, and his teammates, it was a day well spent. "It is gratifying to go out and get that kind of response," he said. "I came back tired, but it was worth it."

Football players Jim Bekas and John Brown, along with baseball player Marc Dunbar, went to Chaires Elementary School with 800 stickers and 28 posters to help them get their anti-drug message across.

"I just want kids to know about the drug problem," Bekas said, "and that they can avoid it just by saying no."

Brown and Dunbar shared poignant testimonies of friends who had ruined their lives with alcohol and drug abuse. The children could not help but listen closely during this portion of the presentation.

The visit was not without its lighter moments, though. One boy asked, "would you do the Seminole Rap?", referring to the pre-season recording hailing the merits of this year's football team. Brown quickly grabbed the microphone, and rhythmically quipped, "I play on the line, my name's John Brown..."

Gators Up and Down Season Ends With FSU, Bowl Bid

By Steve Koppel

Young, inexperienced and lacking depth. At the beginning of the 1988 season, these were seen as trouble spots that could keep the Florida Gators from reaching their potential. When Florida got off to a quick start, people around the state forgot about the warnings of the coaching staff and began to mention the team in the same breath as the top teams in the nation. As quickly as the talk surfaced though, it disappeared when the Gators hit a mid-season skid that saw them lose four consecutive games and take them out of contention for the Southeastern Conference title.

The Gators opened the season with a resounding 69-0 win over Montana State at Florida Field. The 69 points was the most scored by Florida since the Gators 72-14 win over West Texas State in 1982, and extended Florida's home opener unbeaten streak to 17 straight (14-0-3).

Running back Emmitt Smith rushed for a game-high 148 yards on 19 carries, and redshirt freshman quarterback Kyle Morris hooked up with wide receiver Stacey Simmons early in the second quarter for a 93-yard touchdown pass. It was the third longest touchdown pass in Florida history, and gave the Gators a comfortable 17-0 lead.

At the beginning of the season, Florida Head Coach Galen Hall said the Gators had three key games on their schedule. The first was Florida's first road contest against Mississippi in Jackson. Hall said the Gators needed a total team effort to come out of Jackson with a win, and he got that effort as the special teams sparked the Gators to a 27-15 victory.

Starting the second half ahead 3-0, Simmons returned the opening kick-off 85 yards for a touchdown and a 10-0 UF lead. Florida's Tim Paulk also blocked his second punt of the season to set up a score for a 20-8 margin.

"We got excellent play out of our special teams," said Hall. "Stacey's return gave this team a boost after a slow first half. I was pleased to see the team respond like that."

Florida returned to Gainesville and made it three wins in a row with a 58-0 win over Indiana State. Morris passed for a freshman record 299 yards on 15 of 21 passing and two touchdowns. Smith also made the record books, rushing for 109 yards on 21 carries. It was Smith's sixth straight 100-yard game, tying his own Gator record for consecutive 100-yard games.

The Florida defense came to the forefront with its third shutout of the year and first blanking of an SEC opponent at home since 1978 with a 17-0 win over Mississippi State. It was also the first time since 1960 the Gator defense recorded three shutouts in a season. In addition, Florida held the Bulldogs to just 23 net rushing yards, the third best performance by a Gator defense in school history. Leading 10-0 in the third quarter, Smith closed out the Florida scoring with a 96-yard touchdown run, the longest in Gator history.

By now, Florida had climbed to 17th in the polls and was gearing itself for a matchup with the 14th-ranked LSU Tigers at Florida Field. A win over LSU would put the Gators at 5-0 for their best start since 1969.

Gator cornerback Richard Fain intercepted LSU's Tommy Hodson twice, returning one for a 32-yard touchdown, as the Gators turned back the Tigers 19-6 in a nationally televised game. Hodson had not been intercepted in 106 attempts before Fain picked off his next two. Florida's conference-leading defense held the Tigers to 197 total yards, only 63 rushing. The Gator defense harassed LSU throughout the day, registering seven tackles for loss.

"The defense played excellent," said noseguard Jeff Roth after the win. "We played against one of the best quarterbacks in the country and we contained him and the team as well. The key was the pressure we put on Hodson. He had not been pressured much this year and when we were able to get to him early, it got him a little rattled."

Smith reached another milestone against the Tigers as he rushed for 132 yards to push him over the 2,000-yard career mark, the 12th sophomore in history to reach 2,000 yards. But the win also had its disastrous moments for Florida as Simmons suffered a season-ending knee injury on a punt return. Also lost for the season with a knee injury was tight end Harvey Thomas.

The win pushed Florida to 14th in the polls, and the talk of a possible Sugar Bowl bid began. All the talk about the Sugar Bowl and a national championship was erased in the weeks to follow.

Memphis State came to Gainesville next and left with a stunning 17-11 upset win. The injuries continued to pile up for Florida as both Smith and Morris left the game. Smith suffered a knee sprain and would miss the next two games. Morris broke the little finger on his left hand and was sidelined for the remainder of the SEC season.

The downward slide continued with consecutive losses to Vanderbilt, Auburn and Georgia. During the slump, the Gator offense struggled with inconsistency while the defense stayed among the best in the nation.

Florida somewhat salvaged its season with a conference ending 24-19 win over Kentucky in Lexington, putting them at 4-3 in the SEC, 6-4 overall. Morris came off the bench to spark the offense, leading Florida to 24 second half points. The win also insured a bid to the All-American Bowl in Birmingham, AL Dec. 29.

Up next for the Gators is tonight's game with the Seminoles. Hall wasted no time in saying this game will be the toughest of the season for the Gators.

"Florida State presents the biggest challenge we've faced this season. I doubt if there's a better football team in the country right now. They have more talent down through the lineup than any team we've seen and there are people on their second and third teams who could start for most schools."

Steve Koppel is a student in the Florida Sports Information Office.

Florida's Emmitt Smith reached the 2,000 career yards mark in the fifth game of his sophomore year.

Williams "Wham's" Way Into Record Book

By Kimberly Axtell

It is third and goal. The ball is on the one, or the two, or the three yard line. Not that it matters. Everyone in the stadium knows who will get the call. The ball is snapped into the quarterback's hands who whirls and hands off into the arms of number 49, who cradles the ball and follows the blocks of his tackle and tight end into the end zone.

Dayne Williams

This scenario was played time and time again last season. Each time, it resulted in six points for the Seminoles. Opponents simply could not stop the "Wham" and Dayne Williams, who scored 15 times on the play and became a favorite of Seminole fans.

Although the fans knew Williams could score touchdowns with the best, few knew that except for his timing, Williams might now be a catcher for Mike Martin's FSU baseball team.

He began his college sports career as the catcher for the South Florida Junior College baseball team. He planned to make baseball his major sport in college. Things didn't quite work out that way as Williams completes his final season as the starting fullback for the Seminole football team.

Williams entered Florida State in the spring of 1985 and talked to Mike Martin, head coach of the baseball team, about playing baseball. But in order to join the baseball team, a player has to attend fall practice. Having already missed that, Williams decided to give football a try.

"Back home, a lot of people were supporting me, and wanted me to play football," Williams said. "They thought I could make it at FSU on the football team and pushed me to give it a try."

Williams did succeed in spring practice as a walk-on and played on the scout team the following fall. His performance during the year earned him a full scholarship in the spring of 1986.

"I never dreamed all this would happen," Williams said. "My goal when I came in was to make the traveling team. I never thought I would start as soon as I did."

Part of the reason Williams was not expecting quick success was that in high school, he played offensive guard and defensive back, not running back.

"I had to learn the fullback position from scratch," he said. "Being a walk-on was one of the hardest things I've ever done. The coaches have to give their attention to scholarship players. Walk-ons have to earn attention from the coaches."

Williams said he earned the attention by "just keeping quiet and minding my own business", but it was more than those qualities which caught the coaches' eyes.

"Dayne is a very good blocker. He does a good job with pass blocking and run blocking," said running back coach Billy Sexton. "He is consistent and rarely injured."

Since then, Williams has become something of a star with his short yardage touchdowns. "34 Wham," the play that made him famous, was first used in the 1987 season.

"Last year was the first time we tried it and we had great talent," he explained. "Pat Carter and Tom O'Malley (the FSU tight ends) did a great job."

"The play was designed for a fullback," said Sexton. "The play doesn't take a real fast person. Dayne does a good job reading the defense. He knows how to pick the right hole."

Even though Williams has gained most of his notoriety from the "34 Wham" play, he considers his best play one in which he caught the ball.

"In the Miami game last year, I caught a screen pass and gained 15 yards on the play," Williams remembered.

Williams feels playing football for Florida State has helped him develop qualities that will help him in the real world.

"Playing college football gives you a competitive attitude and personality," Williams said. "You develop mental toughness. At practice, you get tired mentally and physically. You want to quit, but no matter how bad it gets, you don't."

Williams is nearing the completion of his degree in economics and business. After graduation in December, he plans to stay in Tallahassee during the spring to work part-time in the insurance business.

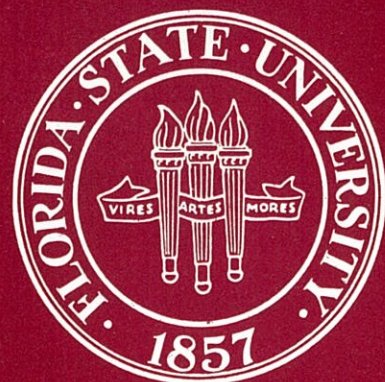

"Football won't last a lifetime so I've put a lot of weight on my grades," Williams said. "I've prepared myself to go out and start a career."

Even after he's out pursuing that career, Williams would like to be remembered for his blocking and short yardage run ability. The Seminoles are glad Dayne chose to give up baseball for football. He has excelled at his fullback position and will no doubt be remembered exactly the way he hopes.

Kimberly Axtell is a public relations major from Lancaster, Pa. who works as a student intern in the FSU Sports Information Office.

One of 18 seniors playing his final home game for Florida State tonight, Dayne Williams is FSU's fourth leading rusher this season and has 22 career rushing touchdowns to his credit.

SEMINOLE SPIRIT

The Marching Chiefs

The Marching Chiefs, almost 400 members strong, are the band behind the Florida State fight song. They are as much a part of college football in Tallahassee as the game itself.

Since 1951, the Chiefs have provided football fans with the best in upbeat musical entertainment in their pregame and halftime shows.

The Chiefs' entourage includes feature twirlers, major-ettes and flag girls representing every school and college in the University. In addition to home game performances, the Chiefs have traveled to many out of town games to cheer on the Seminoles. FSU's regional and national TV appearances have also put them in the living rooms of millions of viewers, including thousands of Seminole alumni across the country.

Under the direction of Bentley Shellahammer, director of the Chiefs; Charles Carter, associate director and arranger; administrative assistant Roger Duncan; graduate assistant Christopher Johnson; staff assistants John Carmichael and Bill Faucett; and drum major Tyrone Adkins, the 1988 Marching Chiefs will once again greet Seminole fans with the familiar style that has entertained millions over the past four decades.

SCOUTING REPORT

I've worked with the Ford Dealers here in Florida and South Georgia for a lot of years. But, I've got to tell you, I have never seen them so strong right down the line. Just check out the sales stats on this lineup ...*

- Escort – #1 in its class
- Taurus – #1 in its class
- Thunderbird – #1 in its class
- Mustang – #1 in its class
- Ranger – #1 compact pickup

- F-150 – #1 full size pickup
- Aerostar – #1 compact wagon

The list goes on and on. No wonder the Ford Dealers here are #1 in combined car and truck sales. And that record can only get better. Because now they're introducing the sporty new Ford Probe – if that's not a touchdown waiting to happen I don't know what is!

Scout it out for yourself. See all the great new Ford cars and trucks at your Florida and South Georgia Ford Dealer today. And for a real thrill, test drive the new Probe – it's my pick for car of the year!

Former Seminole Stars Making Mark in NFL

By Nick Gandy

With the elevation of Florida State football into the nation's elite, it is natural the next highest level of football, the National Football League, would set its sights on Seminole stars of the gridiron. Tom Feamster, a 6-7 lineman, started the trend of Seminoles in the professional ranks when he signed with the Baltimore Colts in 1956 as a free agent. Since that time, 65 NFL players have come from Florida State, including 30 to have played under Bobby Bowden.

At one point, it was only FSU receivers who proceeded into the pros from the pass-happy Seminole teams of the 1960s and early 1970s. Several former FSU receivers currently hold starting spots on NFL rosters, but there are also linebackers, offensive and defensive linemen and punters gracing television screens around the United States on Sunday afternoons.

Keeping true to the tradition started by former NFL, and FSU, receivers Fred Biletnikoff, Ron Sellers and Barry Smith, several recent FSU pass-catchers are starting for their respective teams.

Dennis McKinnon (1980-82) is the leader among former Seminoles. As a starter for the Chicago Bears, McKinnon has hauled in 30 passes for 416 yards and two touchdowns this season.

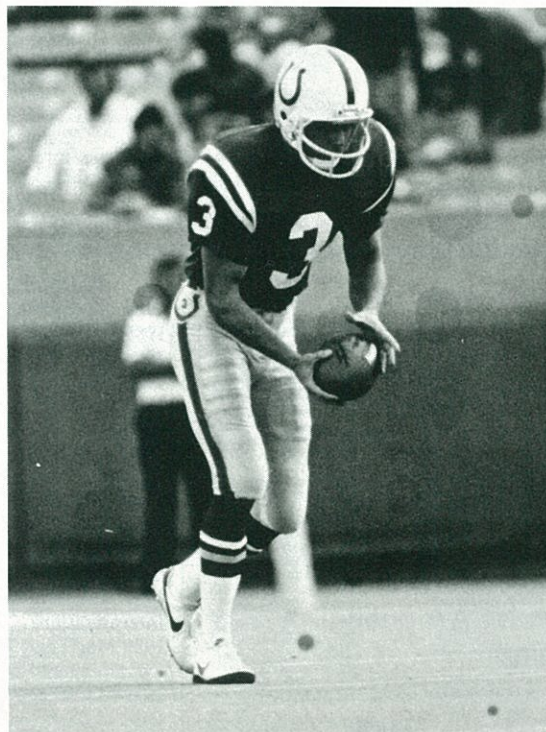

A NFC Central foe of McKinnon's making waves in Minnesota is Hassan Jones (1982-85). Jones has earned a starting berth this season, and now has 27 catches for 529 yards and three touchdowns. Two of his TD catches came on a recent ESPN Sunday night telecast against Dallas.

Although Weegie Thompson (1981-83) and Jessie Hester (1981-

84) don't have as impressive numbers as McKinnon and Jones, the two have plenty of NFL experience. Thompson, a five-year veteran of the Pittsburgh Steelers, has recently moved into a starting spot opposite Louis Lipps. The team's third leading receiver, Thompson's 6-5 frame has helped him make 14 catches for 343 yards. Hester, who was traded to the Atlanta Falcons earlier this season, has caught eight passes for 126 yards.

The Atlanta Falcons have reaped great benefits from another pair of Seminoles, Bobby Butler (1977-80) and Jamie Dukes (1982-85). In Butler's eight seasons with the Falcons, he has accumulated 25 interceptions to rank fourth on the club's all-time list. Dukes, who started 48 games during his tenure at FSU, has impressed Falcon coaches with his durability and has even been used as a blocking back, a la William "The Refrigerator" Perry.

Another former Seminole offensive lineman, Ken Lanier (1977-80) has shown his durability in the trenches for the Denver Broncos. Besides playing in the last two Super Punter Rohn Stark is in his sixth year with the Indianapolis Colts and has twice been named to the AFC Pro Bowl squad.

Bowls, Lanier will make his 100th consecutive start in week 12 of the 1988 season. The streak dates back to 1982 and is the longest on the Bronco team.

On the defensive side, Alphonso Carreker (1980-83) and Gerald Nichols (1982-86) have introduced themselves to many a back in the last few seasons. Carreker, a number one draft pick by the Green Bay Packers in 1984, suffered a knee injury in training camp but has worked his way back into a starting role at defensive end.

Nichols, a seventh round draft pick by the New York Jets in 1986, has seen playing time at nose tackle and defensive end in substitution situations.

"The coaches like Gerald very much," said Frank Ramos, director of publicity for the Jets. "Bud Carson, our defensive coordinator, appreciates his attitude and hustle. He's got a good career ahead of him."

Splitting time between blocking and pass catching at tight end are Zeke Mowatt (1980-82) and Pat Carter (1984-87). Mowatt, a free agent signee for the New York Giants in 1983, teams with Mark Bavaro to form the consummate tight end. The duo has teamed to catch 51 passes for 633 yards and three touchdowns. They also help clear the way for Joe Morris out of the Giant backfield.

Carter, a second round pick by Detroit last season, has cracked the starting lineup in his rookie season. After sustaining a back injury in training camp, he has rebounded to start nine of 10 games, making 10 receptions for 110 yards.

Carter's batterymate from last season, Danny McManus, has yet to see the success he gained at FSU. He is just glad to be where he is now.

"I'm mainly learning from the starters (Steve DeBerg and Bill Kenney)," said McManus, in a telephone interview. "Each week I get to be a different quarterback on what we used to call the scout squad, but in the NFL it's called the look squad. One week I was Boomer Esiason, the next Ken O'Brien."

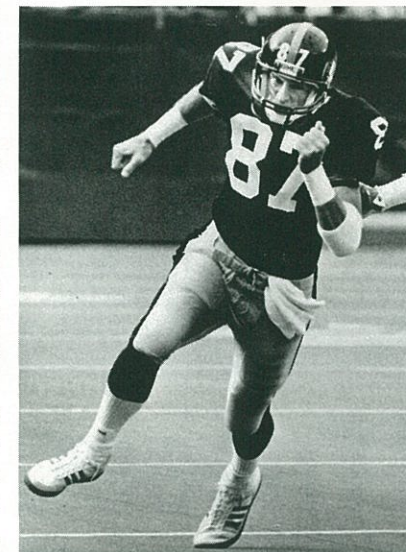

Of course, McManus has experienced quite a change from the college life to the professional lifestyle.

"There are some big differences," he said. "There's a lot of pressure, each week I must produce. I've got to make my impression during the week, not during the game."

McManus plans to return to Tallahassee following the season to continue his education in graduate school.

"I want to have something to fall back on," he said. "You never know what's going to happen. I could get injured or there could be another hot shot quarterback come into camp next year."

On the other end of the playing time spectrum is Indianapolis Colts punter Rohn Stark (1978-82). A two-time All-

Virginia native Weegie Thompson has found a football home in Pittsburgh, earning a starting position in his fifth year with the club.

America selection as well as an Academic All-America at FSU, Stark was selected to play in the NFL Pro Bowl in 1985 and 1986, when he led the AFC in punting. This year he ranks third in the conference with a 44.7 average.

Also making his mark on special teams is Garth Jax (1982-85) for the Dallas Cowboys. Jax' 16 special teams tackles rank him second on Cowboys special teams. Jax began the season as the starting right side linebacker and is still seeing plenty of action at that spot.

A relatively obscure Seminole linebacker who has gone on to NFL stardom is Jesse Solomon of the Minnesota Vikings. After accumulating only 96 career tackles at FSU, Solomon went in the 12th round of the 1986 draft.

"We knew about Jesse Solomon," said Neil Schmidt, a scout for the San Francisco 49ers. "There was some question about his work ethic when he was at Florida State, but some teams are willing to take a chance, and in his case it paid off for Minnesota."

While the Vikings are in the midst of a playoff chase, Solomon leads the defense with 73 tackles. Because of his speed, he is in the game for most defensive sets and sees more time than the rest of the Viking linebackers.

"Right now, we are two games behind the Chicago Bears in the NFC Central division," said Solomon. "But we've got them in the last week of the season on Monday night. I think it's going to come down to that game."

Solomon noted the rising number of ex-Seminoles now lining up against him, although he said there's really not much time to spend with them prior to a game.

"It's a good feeling to play against guys that you once played with. It says a lot for the program."

With Florida State assured of another New Year's Day Bowl in 1989, scouts have flocked to the Seminole practice field and film room to view the outgoing group of seniors.

"We've certainly had our eye on Deion Sanders and Pat Tomberlin," said Schmidt. "They've got to be everybody's top choices around the league."

Draft days, pro scouts and keeping up with former Florida State players and their pro careers is all part of a pleasant problem the Seminole program has faced along with its growing success.

Cornerback Bobby Butler is one of three former FSU standouts now playing for the Atlanta Falcons. Jamie Dukes and Jessie Hester are the other two.

This brought all the kids to their feet, screaming in approval.

Adelle Smith, a third grade teacher at the Developmental Research School on the FSU campus, knows how powerful an influence an athlete can have on youngsters. She recently coordinated a field trip to the Moore Athletic Center so her students could tour the lockerroom, walk on the football field and see where the Seminoles prepare for each game. Two members of the Marching Chiefs band (Jeff Rosen and Dawn Newman) and several football players (Richie Andrews, Shelton Thompson and Johnson) met with the class.

"It gave the children a chance to feel they are a part of what is going on here at FSU," Smith said. "It was a social studies unit that was a great experience, without even using a textbook."

Seminole athletes have a powerful effect on youngsters in Tallahassee and surrounding areas. It helps the kids to see there is more to life than football games and winning, motivates them to do their best and provides the children with a chance to meet their heroes.

For Florida State University, this type of volunteer work promotes the positive image Bobby Bowden and other Seminole coaches have worked hard to create. Few athletes will deny brightening a child's day and acting as a positive role model is one of the best contributions they make while wearing the Garnet and Gold. These few examples of Seminole student-athletes in the community show their focus is on more than the next game.

Mark Ziegler is a student assistant in the FSU Sports Information Office who participated in the "Say No To Drugs" program this year as a member of the University's Golden Key Honor Society.

to talk to when I was in high school. Now I can sit down and talk to them.

At first, I didn't know if anybody knew who I was, and then they would talk to me and know my name. I was amazed that any of these great athletes even knew my name. They'd just sit down and talk to me and say, 'Arthur, this and that can help you out.' And you know I listened to all of them, because everyone of them can tell you something good that you can put into a complete package and help you.

The first day in Japan my hamstrings started to flare up again. I wasn't able to train and I was in the training room three times a day, right after practice, right after lunch and right after dinner. I did nothing for two weeks. I was so depressed and mad that I wrote my wife a letter saying, 'If I don't do good, if I don't get to the finals, it's not because I'm not good enough, it's just that I haven't been able to train.'

Life in Korea

September 15 — Soon, I left for Korea and for a solid week I rested my hamstrings. At this point, my confidence was shot. I started to work out with Renaldo (Nehemiah). I started to do a little more on the 16th and I took two more days off.

Most of the time I was eating American food. They were preparing a menu that most of the countries could deal with. They did tell us not to go out on the street and eat anything prepared by the Koreans. But we all went to Pizza Hut or Wendy's. I went downtown a lot.

As for the living accommodations, I was living in a five bedroom town house; I was supposed to room with sprinter Roy Martin, but he stayed in a hotel, giving me my own room.

September 20 — What a big relief it was for my wife to finally arrive in Seoul. We shopped together downtown. I was able to buy three big blankets, a silk suit, a regular suit and a trenchcoat. The people in Seoul were so nice. There were thousands of people downtown shopping. Nobody was worried about terrorists.

September 21 — Today was the first day I was able to do anything with the hurdles in about three and a half weeks. I felt very funny during my warm-up. It took me at least 45 minutes before I felt comfortable going over the hurdles. I thought to myself, 'I'm in trouble,' because when I take that amount of time off, there's no way I can compete. At this point, I didn't have any idea how well I would do.

The Olympics Begin

September 17 — The opening ceremonies were quite a sight. We were one of the last teams to enter the stadium and you could feel the excitement. It's almost cliché, but chills went up my spine at least four times. The Olympics happen once every four years and it is special when the world comes together.

Tune in before, during, and after the game!

Weekend Offers Rivalries, Respect, Appreciation

By Kevin Bloom

The annual no-holds-barred Florida State University–University of Florida football game also provides a showcase weekend for mutual cooperation and appreciation by the state's two oldest, tradition-bound institutions of higher learning.

Together the schools sponsor the annual Legislative Appreciation Weekend, with the clash between their football teams as a backdrop.

The competition on the gridiron makes for one of the nation's most intense intra-state rivalries, a contest during which supporters of both sides vigorously proclaim loyalty to their alma mater. But a more intense competition goes on year-round, and it is a rivalry that has helped bolster the national reputation of Florida's public universities. Unlike a football game, which pits school against school, the race to keep Florida's best and brightest high school students in the State University System is one that unites the two schools with a common goal.

There is some evidence to show that the combined academic recruiting skills of FSU and UF are a powerful draw: A poll by a major Florida newspaper earlier this year found when the 520 top high school scholars in the state were asked where they would attend college, 139 listed UF or FSU as their first choice.

The ability to keep home-grown National Merit Scholars in state schools, and the escalating competition for a place in the college classroom have raised the academic caliber of incoming freshmen at both universities.

A typical freshman at either school has a grade point average above the 3.05 benchmark for the State University System and entrants on average have Scholastic Aptitude Test scores above 1,000.

Combined, these factors have earned the State University System recognition as one of the top 10 in the country. The state of Florida has the nation's fifth largest university system and the fourth highest number of Merit Scholars enrolled in its public universities. The percentage of Florida's top high school students choosing to pursue a degree in the Sunshine State rose from 39 percent in 1986 to 45 percent in 1987.

Both Florida State and the University of Florida have students representing every county in the state, every state in the union and more than 100 foreign countries.

The state's higher education climb to national excellence would not have taken place without the help of Florida legislators. The annual appreciation weekend is primarily a joint effort of FSU and UF to thank legislators for their efforts.

In past years, the universities expressed thanks for legislative initiatives. This year, the objective is to familiarize the legislative leaders with the cooperative spirit between the two major research institutions that have statewide missions.

Florida State University and Its Students

The average FSU student is a 23-year-old upperclassman enrolled as a full-time student; the most popular major is business. The average student would have arrived at FSU with a 3.1 grade-point average from high school and an SAT score of 1,054.

There are 26,000 students enrolled at Florida State, 53 percent of whom are women and 47 percent of whom are men.

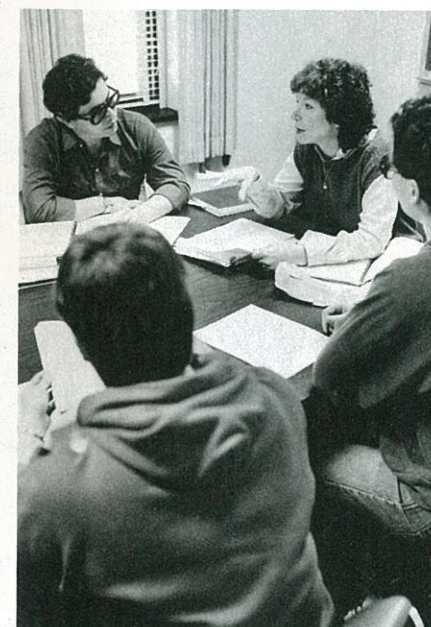

While at FSU, a student will have the opportunity to learn from one of the pre-eminent faculties in the country, a faculty that counts among its professors: four members of the National Academy of Sciences, four members of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, a member of the British Royal Society of the Arts, and visiting scholars who have won the Nobel Prize.

The typical FSU student has the chance to participate in research and development programs that are among the best-funded in America. Included in a list of top research programs at FSU are those in chemistry, environmental sciences, mathematics, physics, psychology and the social sciences.

In a 1984 report to the president of the Florida Senate, the chancellor of the State University System reported that FSU had seven programs with potential in the near future for national prominence and 18 programs rated as outstanding.

National rankings earned by FSU programs include: theater, rated as one of the nation's top five; criminology ranked among the country's top three; education, with four programs in the top 10 nationally; hospitality administration, fourth nationally; music, third in the country for doctoral programs in music education; and accounting, among the country's top 20.

The high level of excellence is no fluke at FSU. It was the first institution in Florida granted the right to establish a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, the oldest scholastic honorary society in the nation.

Academic excellence is the rule, rather than the exception at FSU. One reason is the commitment of faculty to the students. Here, Dr. Marilyn Young, associate professor of communication teaches a class.

Access to the latest technology is an essential component of higher education at Florida State University. Students learn to use computers in order to compete successfully in an ever-changing world.

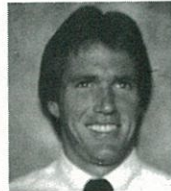

Kevin Bloom is the assistant director of the Media Relations Office at FSU.

September 23 — Once the track events started, I was at the track most of the time. When I wasn't at the track, I watched the remainder of the events on television. It was just too much of a hassle to fight the traffic for at least an hour to see any other events in person. Sure I was here to run, but I also wanted to have fun. I might not make it back.

My Turn

September 25 — My first race was on Sunday. After I ran the first two rounds, I had no idea how well I'd do. My wife just told me, 'what ever you do, just don't give up.' That's all I can do at this point. I won my first heat, running a 13.66 to advance.

About 50,000 people were in the stands during the first race. That's the biggest crowd I've ever run before. I advanced to the semifinals on the 26th. After the day's heats, I had the eighth fastest time, and I knew I had to beat somebody in the semifinals the next day to make it to the finals. If somebody has a good race, I'm not going to make it.

September 26 — I knew it would be tough. I had Roger Kingdom and Mark McCoy in the heat. I didn't save anything; it was now or never. I started out in fourth place, but I started to make a move between the fifth and sixth hurdle and moved into second place. My time (13.57) was the fourth fastest going into the finals.

I was so happy, I kept saying to myself, 'I'm in the final and it's coming up in two hours.' I rested for about 30-45 minutes and we got the lane assignments, which just happened to be the same one I had at the Olympic Trials. Even though I hadn't practiced the last 3-4 weeks, I really thought I had a chance to earn a medal. I would have to pull a rabbit out of a hat.

The Final

In the final, I false started, but the official didn't call it back. I was gone. I was going to take full advantage of it. I didn't see anybody for the first four hurdles, nobody. I was thinking I could win. You'd be amazed how many thoughts go through your mind in such a short span of time.

Finally Roger (Kingdom) pulled up next to me and I was running faster than I ever have in between hurdles. Then the hurdles started coming so fast and my knee hit number seven, throwing my timing off altogether. Hitting the hurdle forced me just to jump over the next hurdle, I just coasted in the rest of the way to finish in eighth place.

I felt so much relief at the conclusion of the race. I congratulated Roger (Kingdom), the gold medalist, in the Olympic Village the next day. He was so nice and congratulated me for making the final. The more and more I think about it, I think I would have broken 13.1 had I not hit the hurdle. It is exciting to know I came so close.

A graduate assistant in the FSU Sports Information Office, Chris Sears also serves as the primary contact for the men's and women's track teams.
