THE GOOD WORD

Jackets, Seminoles Meet On Historic Date

Exactly one hundred and two years ago today, Georgia Tech football began. On November 5, 1892, the Rambling Wreck—or, as they were called in those days, the “Tacks”—took the field for the first time to meet another collegiate opponent.

by Mike Finn, Associate Director of Athletics for Communications

In the confines of Macon's Central City Park, the Jackets received their first lesson in humility in a 12-6 defeat at the hands of a more experienced Mercer squad.

Apparently, though, Georgia Tech was a quick study where football was concerned as less than a year later—less than a year by a single day—Tech defeated its arch-rival Georgia for the first time, 28-6, in a game fraught with controversy.

Four national championships and 555 wins later, a struggling Georgia Tech team faces another mighty obstacle this afternoon as Bill Lewis' team takes on the mighty ninth-ranked Seminoles of Florida State.

The last time these 'Noles of Garnet and Gold cavorted on the turf at Bobby Dodd Stadium, led by the incomparable Charlie Ward, they broke Tech's heart in a 29-24 come-from-behind triumph.

The Jackets were 4-1 under Coach Lewis prior to that game, and have managed but a 7-17 mark since. Perhaps this afternoon, in a game where few experts expect the unexpected, Tech can return the favor.

Don't misunderstand, the task is formidable.

In the midst of an ACC-record 22-game conference winning streak, Florida State has barely had to break stride against its family foes.

Tech's 1992 nationally-televised contest still stands as FSU's toughest league test since joining the ACC for the 1992 season.

And this year, led by quarterback Danny Kanell, running back Warrick Dunn and outside linebacker Derrick Brooks, these 'Noles look every bit as talented and belligerent as Bobby Bowden's 1992 contingent, if not more so.

They will face a Tech team which will be a prohibitive underdog, and which, with a 1-6 record, is in need of a victory.

Lewis and his staff have seen injuries deplete their roster as they have had to employ no fewer than 17 freshmen or redshirt freshmen in significant roles to date this year.

Those rookies have seen considerable action, and at times, have played extremely well. Witness C.J. Williams' or Ron Rogers' performances at Maryland two weeks ago, or the efforts of first-year defenders Dan Witherspoon, Patrick Bradford, Zach Piller, Keith Brooking and Ralph Hughes.

These youngsters have shown steady improvement over the past several weeks and could be on the verge of something very positive.

But if Tech is to spring a much-needed upset this afternoon, it will most likely be because of the play of its veteran players, and a number of these have had solid, if not exceptional seasons.

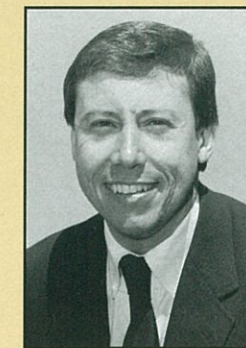

Lost inside of the disappointment of several close losses has been the play of inside linebacker Jamal Cox. The 6-3, 230-pound senior from Baltimore, Md., leads the Atlantic Coast Conference in tackles with 101 hits in seven games.

Cox, who had an amazing 21 tackles against Arizona on opening night, has been a steady force for Tech's defenders who have held three ACC teams—Duke, N.C. State and Virginia—to their lowest yardage totals of the year in ACC play.

Cox's play is made even more impressive when you consider he has often played this year with true freshmen defensive linemen in front of him.

Lewis, for one, recognizes Cox's contributions.

“I don't think there is any linebacker in college football that could be doing more for his football team than Jamal Cox is doing for us right now,” said Lewis.

“He is a tremendous leader and that quality is often overlooked.”

Senior Jason Bender has been another strong bright spot. A double threat for the Jackets as a punter and pass receiver, Bender is quietly contending for all-America honors with his booming punts.

Currently, the Pittsburgh, Pa., native ranks third in the nation, averaging an eye-catching 45.7 yards a kick. To give some historical perspective, that's almost three yards more per kick than the Tech single season record of 42.8 set in 1981 by Jeff Harper.

But Bender's achievements also glow brighter when closely examined. Because he doesn't just punt for the Jackets. As the starting flanker, he's also a threat as a pass receiver, having caught 16 passes—tied for second on the club—for 235 yards, a 14.7 per-catch average and three touchdowns.

The combination of punter and player is a unique one in this era of increasing specialization.

“I think that Jason has all-America numbers,” said Lewis. “He has punted the ball often and for a high average. I also think something that needs to be mentioned in this age of specialists, is that Jason is a valuable part of our offense.”

“He plays a full football game. It would be appropriate to have an all-America punter be a guy who also contributes to your offense.”

Bender and Cox are two of Tech's key contributors who will have to have standout efforts this afternoon if Tech is to have a chance at upending the Seminoles.

Another is junior quarterback Tommy Luginbill, who was on a record-setting passing season of his own before a mild concussion suffered at College Park, temporarily sidelined his quest.

At various times this season, this Tech team has demonstrated itself capable of excellence in a variety of areas—offensively, defensively and in the kicking game. It's downfall, though, has been a lack of consistency and turnovers.

If Lewis and his young club can put it together today, we might witness a historic occasion to rival the one of 102 autumns ago.

After all, in 1984, on this same field, a heavy underdog Tech team put an end to a 20-game ACC win streak owned by Clemson.

Maybe, just maybe Tech's lightning can strike twice. □

Yellow Jackets Host High-Powered Seminoles

We're playing a team that has been the class of the ACC since they entered the league," said Georgia Tech head coach Bill Lewis of ninth-ranked Florida State, who visits the Rambling Wreck this afternoon.

"Not only are they the standard in our conference, but one of the top teams in college football over the last 10 or 15 years," Lewis added. "It's a game on the schedule that should excite everyone because of the opportunity it presents our team."

The Jackets (1-6, 0-5 ACC), winless in ACC play following a 42-27 loss at Maryland on Oct. 22, had last week off. Despite its record, Tech has played its ranked opponents close, with three losses coming by a combined 20 points.

Florida State (6-1, 6-0 ACC) defeated Duke 59-20 last Saturday to set an ACC record for consecutive conference wins (22-0 since becoming a member). The Seminoles' only loss this season occurred at Miami.

Tech is coming off its most productive offensive game of the season, having amassed 508 yards at Maryland, 162 of it on the ground. For the third straight game, the Yellow Jackets passed for more than 300 yards, having averaged 323 yards in those three games.

Starting quarterback Tommy Luginbill, who had passed for more than 300 yards himself in two straight games, was limited to 165 yards against Maryland when he was sidelined with a minor concussion. For the season, he has completed 129 of 232 passes (55.6 percent) for 1,583 yards. His 12 touchdowns are the most of any ACC quarterback and he ranks second in the conference in total offense.

Tech's passing game features a well-balanced receiving corps which has given the Yellow Jackets 15 of their 18 touchdowns. Eight players have 10 or more receptions this season, led by split end Charlie Simmons with 23 receptions for 320 yards and four touchdowns.

Flanker Jason Bender is next with 16 catches for 235 yards and three TD's, while tight end Jeff Papushak, H-back Cedric Zachery, split end Omar Cassidy and fullback Michael Smith are also in double figures. Donnie Davis, converted two weeks ago from quarterback to flanker, became an integral part of the aerial attack with five receptions and a two-point conversion catch against Maryland.

Tech's ground game also got a boost from another position switch. After moving from a reserve cornerback position at the same time as Davis, redshirt freshman C.J. Williams gave the best performance by a Tech back this season, carrying 22 times for 80 yards and converting a screen pass into an 80-yard touchdown. Williams may start against Florida State.

Defensively, inside linebacker Jamal Cox continued to build on an all-America caliber season with 13 more tackles at Maryland, giving him an ACC-best 101 for the season and 352 for his career.

Rodney Wilkerson, Cox's linebacker mate, also has performed well this year with 84 tackles, while strong safety David Hendrix has 72. Tackle Bill Neuss and outside linebacker Freddie Coger anchor a defensive front which is employing three true freshmen.

Always explosive offensively (494.2 yards per game), the Seminoles lead the ACC in passing offense (329.9) behind quarterback Danny Kanell and a speedy group of receivers.

"We're facing a talented, speed-oriented offensive attack," said Lewis. "From a defensive standpoint, you truly have to be ready to stop two dimensions. The one difference you see is that their quarterbacks are not making the big scrambling plays as Charlie Ward did. But they do as good a job throwing the ball."

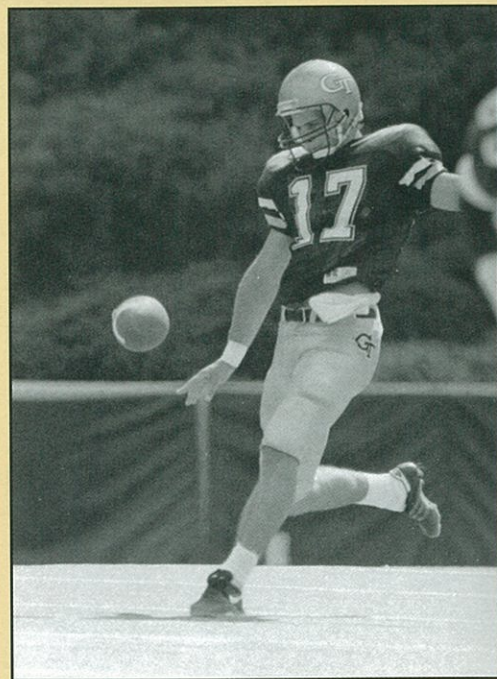

Kanell has completed 59.7 percent of his passes, thrown for 12 touchdowns and ranks eighth nationally in total offense with 261.6 yards per game. Nine Seminoles receivers have 11 or more receptions, led by split end Kez McCorvey (38-568 yards, 4 TD) and flanker Andre Cooper (22-307 yards, 3 TD).

Warrick Dunn (519 yards, 6.9 per carry,) and Rock Preston (258 yards, 7.8 per carry) lead the ground attack, along with fullback Zack Crockett, who has 10 touchdowns.

All-America Derrick Brooks leads a defense that allowed just 93.2 rushing yards per game.

"Defensively, there's no change," Lewis said. "They come at you with four people screaming up the field. They let their speed work for them, and their great tacklers."

Tech leads the series with Florida State, 7-2-1, but has lost both of its meetings with the Seminoles since they joined the ACC. The Yellow Jackets nearly pulled off a major upset two years ago, leading late in the fourth quarter before falling 29-24. The Seminoles took a 51-0 victory last season in Tallahassee. Tech's last win in the series was a 30-0 decision in 1975, at Bobby Dodd Stadium.

Jason Bender ranks second in the nation in punting with a 45.7-yard average and is tied for second on the team with 16 catches.

300 Yards, No Problem

Prior to this season, Georgia Tech had only 12 games in its history with 300 or more yards passing. The Yellow Jackets' season-high 346 yards passing against Maryland was the fourth such performance this season.

Quarterback Tommy Luginbill, who has a shot at Georgia Tech season records for total offense, passing yardage, completions and passing touchdowns, accounted for two of those himself, with 313 yards against North Carolina and 310 yards against Virginia.

He had 165 yards against the Terrapins, with backup Graham Stroman adding 181. Against Duke, Luginbill accounted for 205 of Tech's 318 passing yards.

C.J. Breathes Life Into Ground Game

Showing a combination of swiftness and power, C.J. Williams may be giving the Yellow Jackets a new dimension on offense.

The redshirt freshman, who played as a reserve defensive back in Tech's first five games, moved to tailback the week of the Virginia game and gave the Jackets their best effort by a back this season against Maryland.

His 22 carries were a season-high, and his 80 yards were the second-most. Meanwhile, the Jackets rushed for a season-high 162 yards.

Williams also took a screen pass and raced through the Terrapins secondary for an 80-yard score, the longest pass play involving a running back in Tech history.

Lincoln Enters Top 10

Jimmy Lincoln, who rushed for 57 yards at Maryland, advanced to No. 10 on Georgia Tech's all-time rushing yardage list with 1,603 yards. The Pittsburgh, Pa., senior surpassed Cory Collier (1,590) and Malcolm King (1,576), and now stands 87 yards behind ninth-place Bill Teas (1,689).

Three Reunions

Tech senior defensive tackle Raleigh Boulware will get a visit this weekend from his brother, Peter, who is a freshman reserve defensive end at Florida State.

Head coach Bill Lewis also will be reunited with a member of his East Carolina staff in Mark Richt. Richt was Lewis' offensive coordinator at ECU in 1989 before moving to FSU to coach quarterbacks. He was elevated to offensive coordinator prior to this season.

Another FSU player, center Clay Shiver, is the younger brother of former Tech standout pitcher Todd Shiver (1984-87).

Double Digits

So far this season, eight different Georgia Tech receivers have made 10 or more receptions, same as in Bill Lewis' first season at Tech in 1992 and one short of the all-time high of nine in 1991.

The Jackets have a chance to beat the mark of nine in the coming weeks. Tight end Carlos Smith has nine receptions this season, and the oncoming Donnie Davis has six, five of those in Tech's last game against Maryland.

Luginbill Takes Aim At Tech Marks

Tommy Luginbill's 785 passing yards over the last three games have put the senior in position to challenge for several Tech season records.

BILL LEWIS

At Tech (2 years)
10-12 (.455)

Overall (8 years)
45-44-2 (.504)

Developing a reputation as one of the nation's premier football coaches, Bill Lewis draws upon an extensive depth of experience as just the ninth full-time head football coach in Georgia Tech history.

In each of his first two seasons at the helm of the Yellow Jackets, Bill Lewis has produced record-setting offensive teams that have come literally within a play or two of winning records and post-season bowl bids.

His first Tech squad, despite a series of debilitating injuries, posted a 5-6 record that included Tech's first back-to-back triumphs over Top 25 foes in a quarter of a century.

Lewis' second Yellow Jacket team also managed a 5-6 mark, coming within just eight points of a seven-win season with close losses to N.C. State (28-23) and Clemson (16-13). Tech's 1993 Jackets, though, finished strong down the stretch, winning three of its final four games, averaging 33.5 points a game during that run.

In his first two seasons on The Flats, Lewis' teacher's mentality and attacking on-field coaching philosophy resulted in offensively-potent teams that set school marks for passing yardage and produced the second-best total offense mark in Tech history.

Association and UPI after guiding East Carolina to a school-best 11-1 season, the 52-year-old Lewis was tabbed on Jan. 6, 1992 to succeed NFL-bound Bobby Ross.

Though hampered by extensive injuries in his first season on the Flats, Lewis was still able to steer the Rambling Wreck to wins over Clemson and N.C. State, and he brought Tech within seconds of victory on three other occasions, dropping hard-fought heart-breakers to Florida State, Baylor and Georgia.

His offense set single-season school records for most yards passing (2,580) and pass completions (206), while two of his players, defensive tackle Coleman Rudolph and place-kicker Scott Sisson, were both named first-team all-Americans by the Walter Camp Foundation.

Lewis capped off his first season on the Flats with a highly-regarded class of 20 football recruits tabbed as one of the Top 10 in the nation by Blue Chips Magazine and the Tom Lemming Report. Lewis' success in recruiting was seen in Tech's remarkable success in the state of Georgia, which included five of the Top 11 prospects in the state according to the Atlanta Journal-Constitution.

Last winter, Lewis' recruiting efforts were again rewarded as the Jackets corralled their second straight Top 20 recruiting class which included Tech's second USA Today first-team all-America in defensive tackle DeShaan Simmons of Duluth, Ga. Additionally, Tech's recruiting class of defensive linemen and quarterbacks were both rated among the nation's best by Blue Chips Magazine.

Lewis' emphasis on academics as well as athletics could be seen as Tech was cited by the College Football Association (CFA) as one of the Top 10 schools in America in graduating its athletes in 1993.

An intense competitor, Lewis' philosophy with regard to football is simple.

"There are only so many plays in a football game," says Lewis. "If you are not in an attacking situation on every play, you are wasting a down whether it be on offense, defense or the kicking game."

"I believe the offense should be in an attack mode, because the name of the game is to score. There shouldn't be anything on your mind on offense except that we are totally attacking these people on every down to get that ball to the end zone as quickly as we possibly can."

"Defensively, and a lot of my background has been on defense, I've always believed that you don't play defense if you aren't in an attacking, aggressive, intense situation."

Lewis' philosophy was in full evidence in 1991 at ECU as the Pirates featured a pyro-technic offense that was ranked fifth nationally in passing, 12th nationally in scoring and 16th nationally in total offense.

East Carolina's never-say-die attitude was typified in its 37-34 win over N.C. State in the 1991 Peach Bowl. ECU entered the final quarter trailing 34-17, but the Pirates thrilled a sellout crowd and a national television audience by scoring 20 unanswered points to record the most dramatic victory in the history of the Atlanta football classic.

Lewis' wide-open style of offense allowed the 1992 Georgia Tech team to shatter the school record for passing offense, as Tech threw for 2,580 yards last fall in just 11 games. The old mark of 2,547 was set in 12 games in 1991. More impressively, Lewis' new offense helped Tech set a single-season yardage mark while cutting the Yellow Jackets interception total almost in half.

And last season, the Yellow Jackets compiled the second-best total offense figure in school history, averaging just shy of 400 yards (399.8) a game in total offense. Tech also accumulated three of the top 10 total offense days in school history, managing 610 yards against Maryland (third), 593 yards against Duke (fourth) and 561 yards against Furman (tie for sixth).

A 30-year veteran of collegiate coaching, during which time he has participated in 13 bowl games, Lewis compiled a 21-12-1 record (.636) in three seasons at East Carolina. His overall coaching mark for eight seasons as a head coach—including a three-year (1977-79) tenure at Wyoming—is 45-44-2 (.506).

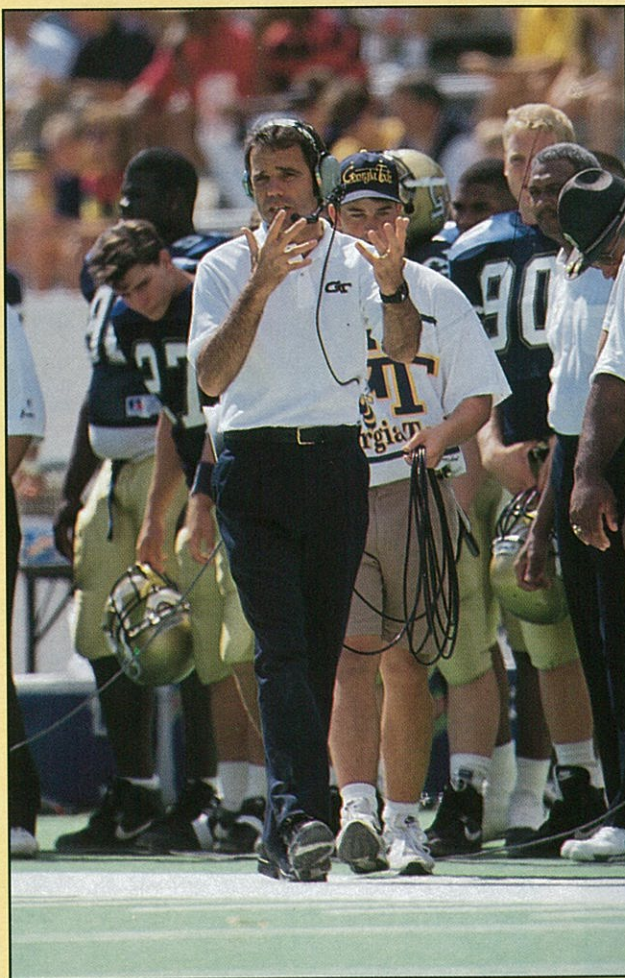

A native of Bristol, Pa., Lewis graduated from East Stroudsburg State in 1963 with a B.S. degree in Health and Physical Education. He earned Little all-America honors as a quarterback and team captain at East Stroudsburg, lettering four times in both football and baseball.

Lewis left college to play in the Detroit Tigers' minor league organization for two years as a pitcher before returning to his alma mater to work on his graduate degree and serve as a part-time football coach. While in the Tiger's farm chain, he reached the AA level, playing with many of the same players who were the basis of Detroit's 1968 World Championship team.

Lewis began his coaching career at East Stroudsburg (1963-65) under his college coach, Jack Gregory—currently the Athletic Director at Bowling Green—and continued as an assistant for Dave Hart at Pittsburgh (1966-68), for Cal Stoll at Wake Forest (1969-71), for Bud Carson and Bill Fulcher (1971-72) at Georgia Tech and for Frank Broyles at Arkansas (1973-76).

During his first stay at Tech, Lewis, who coached the Yellow Jackets' defensive secondary, was part of a heralded coaching staff that has since produced seven head football coaches including Steve Sloan (Vanderbilt, Texas Tech, Mississippi, Duke), Jerry Glanville (Houston Oilers, Atlanta Falcons), Maxie Baughan (Cornell), Dick Bestwick (Virginia), Tom Moore (The Citadel) and the late Rex Dockery (Memphis State), as well as two athletics directors (Sloan-Alabama, Bestwick-South Carolina). While at Tech, Lewis helped the Yellow Jackets to back-to-back bowl trips in the 1971 Peach Bowl and the 1972 Liberty Bowl.

In Lewis' first two seasons at Tech, the Yellow Jackets broke the single-season record for passing and produced the second-best total offense mark in school history.

As an aide to both Carson (1971) and Fulcher (1972), he tutored two of the best defensive backs in Tech history, including the Institute's only three-time all-America in cornerback-free safety Randy Rhino, as well as cornerback Jeff Ford. Until 1991, when Willie Clay shattered Tech's career interception record book, both Ford and Rhino were tied for Tech's career pass interception lead with 14, while a third Lewis pupil, cornerback Rick Lewis, still ranks 11th on the all-time Tech list with 10 career interceptions.

Lewis left Fulcher's staff in 1972 for a chance to work with another former Tech assistant coach, the legendary Frank Broyles at Arkansas. During his time with the Razorbacks, Arkansas captured the 1975 Southwest Conference championship and defeated Georgia in the Cotton Bowl. Also on the Arkansas staff at the time, and a close friend of Lewis', was former Dallas Cowboy head coach Jimmy Johnson. Lewis left the Razorbacks in 1976 for the head coaching position at Wyoming.

After three seasons with the Cowboys, where he coached all-Americas in linebacker Ken Fantetti and offensive tackle Dennis Baker as well as 16 all-Western Athletic Conference players, Lewis joined Vince Dooley's staff at Georgia and coached the defensive secondary during the Bulldogs' National Championship season in 1980.

He ascended to the defensive coordinator position at Georgia in 1981, helping the Bulldogs to nine straight bowl games and three Southeastern Conference titles. While in Athens, he coached 23 all-SEC honorees and seven all-Americas.

He left Georgia in 1989 to take over an East Carolina program that had not had a winning season since 1983. His first Pirate squad posted a 5-5-1 mark and his second finished 5-6, but they were within 11 points of a winning campaign.

The 1991 ECU team captured the imagination of the entire nation. Led by all-America linebacker Robert Jones—a Butkus Award finalist—and quarterback Jeff Blake, the Pirates capped off a Cinderella-like season with the stunning, 37-34, come-from-behind victory over in-state rival N.C. State in the Peach Bowl.

Shortly thereafter he accepted Tech's offer to return to Atlanta.

"In collegiate athletics today, I see an increased emphasis on academics and graduation rates," said Lewis. "I see a raising of standards. In my opinion, Georgia Tech represents one of the national leaders in that area. As we continue into the 90's and the turn of the century, I think Georgia Tech will have an opportunity to be one of the national leaders in academic excellence as it relates to the student-athlete.

"I believe in intercollegiate athletics. I believe in the game of football. I believe it's the greatest team sport played. I also believe that you have your most enjoyment, your most satisfaction in playing a team sport when you win.

"As we head into these next few years, I believe that Georgia Tech is among the very best nationally in success in both academics and athletics. I believe that we are on that level now."

An avid jogger, Lewis takes regular

Lewis and his wife, Sandy, are the parents of three sons. Mark, a graduate of the University of Georgia School of Law, is an Associate at King and Spalding and resides in Atlanta with his wife, Wendy, also a University of Georgia graduate. Gregg is a 1992 graduate of the United States Air Force Academy and is currently a 1st Lieutenant and helicopter pilot stationed at Hill Air Force Base in Ogden, Utah. His wife, Laurel, is a 1994 graduate of Mississippi University for Women with a degree in nursing. Geoff is a 1994 graduate of the University of North Carolina with a degree in Biology. He resides in Atlanta with his wife, Lisa, also a 1994 UNC graduate with a degree in Journalism and Mass Communication. Geoff plans to continue graduate work at Georgia State University. □

OFF THE FIELD...

- College Football programs provide an economic impact that creates significant income for the local community and serves as an effective source for rallying alumni.
- Communities with a population of less than 100,000 produce 55% of today's players.
—1991 CFA Player Survey
- College Football players graduate at a rate higher than the male student population in general. The average graduation rate for CFA players in 1992 was 59%. The national average for men, according to the NCAA Report 1991–1992 Division I Graduation Rate Summary, is 54%.
- A U.S. Department of Education study found that at age 32, former varsity football and basketball players had the highest rate of home ownership (77%), the lowest rate of unemployment and had earnings that were ten percent above the mean for all former students who attend a four-year institution. —Light and Shadows of College Athletics
- Nearly four of every ten Americans consider themselves a college football fan, which calculates to nearly 100 million fans.
—1990 CFA Gallup study
- The average size of a CFA member football squad is 113 players and averages 29 walk-ons.

What could these two possibly have in common?

The Joint Tech-Georgia Development Fund and the best students in the state of Georgia!

Nowhere else will you find two "rival" universities forming one organization for the equal benefit of both except in Georgia through the efforts of the Joint Tech-Georgia Development Fund.

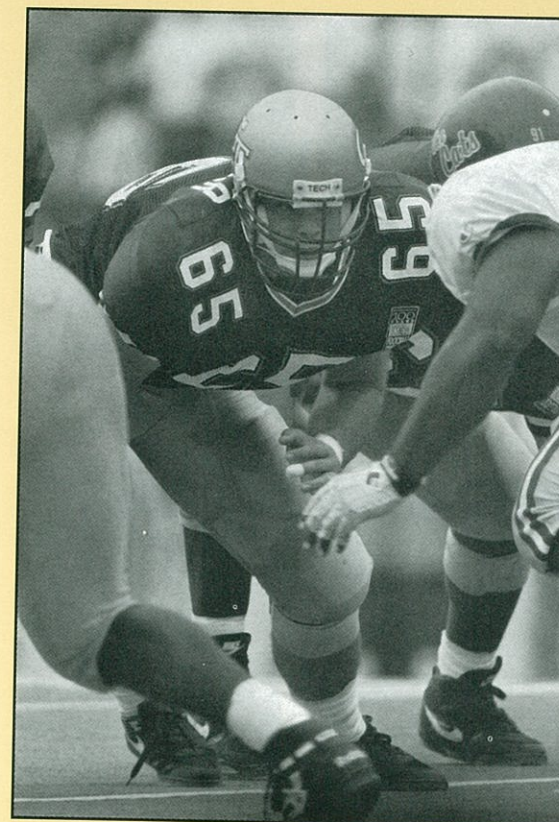

The individuals who founded the Joint Fund almost 40 years ago agreed on one basic truth: what's good for the University of Georgia and Georgia Tech is good for our state. Since 1956, approximately $20 million has been raised by the Joint Fund from Georgia's business community for equal distribution between the two schools. These are unrestricted funds that can be put to use wherever the schools need them most.

We're Helping America Know When To Say When.™

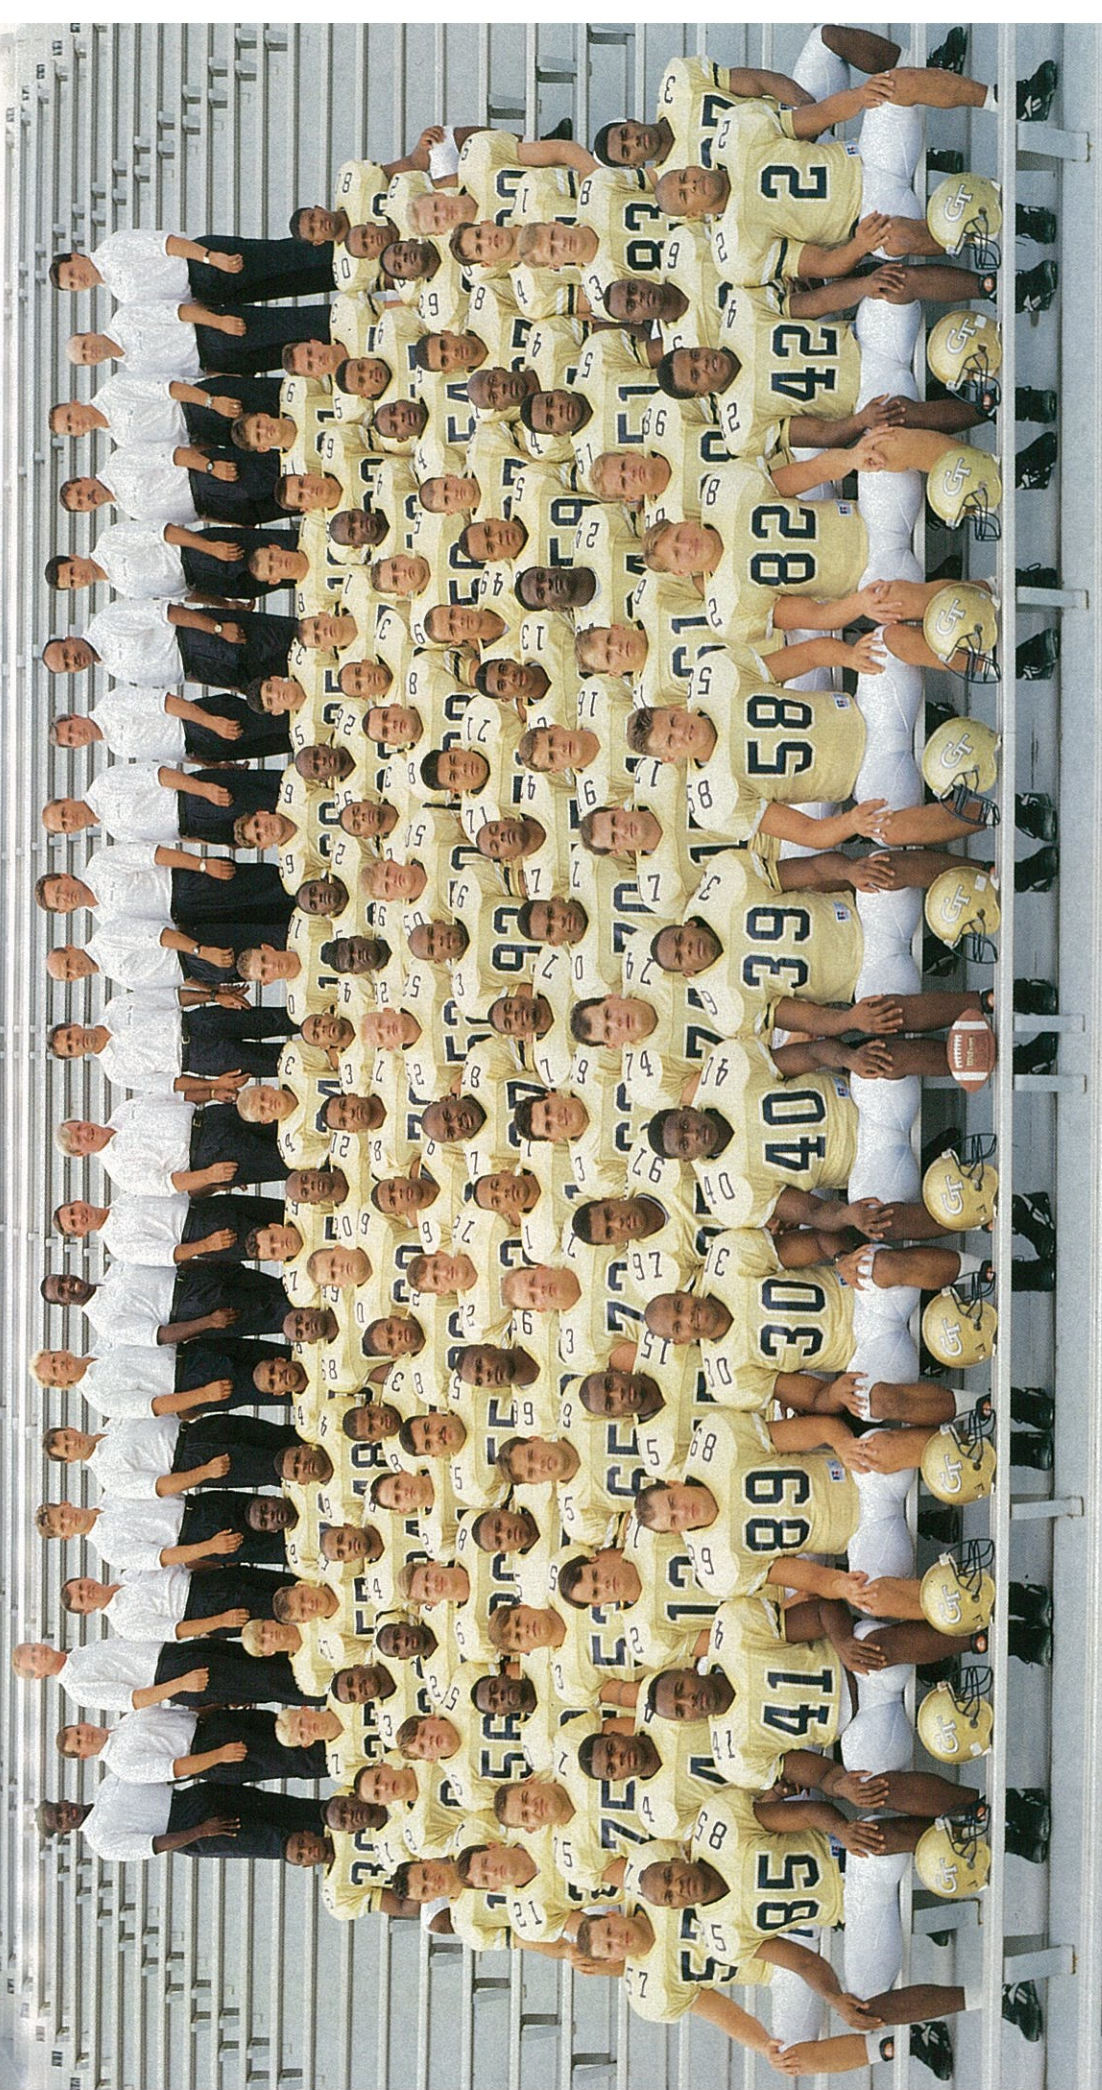

Behind every bottle, can or glass of Budweiser®, there's a commitment to a quality product. And a dedication to make sure that product is always enjoyed with good sense. That's why we're continually working to promote, through education and awareness programs, responsible consumption of all alcohol beverages.

As part of this effort, we've developed or support effective programs such as Alert Cab, T.I.P.S.® (a server education program), "I'm Driving" (a designated driver program), "Family Talk About Drinking," and our well-known, "Know When To Say When" national advertising campaign.

Beer is a time-honored refreshment and one of life's simple pleasures.

Together we can keep it that way.

Florida State University

Florida State University, nearing its golden anniversary as a coeducational graduate research institution, is poised on the brink of joining the nation's academic elite.

A senior member of the 10-member State University System of Florida, FSU was founded as an institution of higher learning in 1851 by legislative act and began operating in Tallahassee with its first students in 1857.

Today, Florida State's operating budget is $415 million. Faculty and administrators generate more than $100 million annually in external funding to supplement state-sponsored research. Three direct-support organizations serve to bolster the university: the private, non-profit FSU Foundation, which raises millions in private gifts to support academics, the Seminole Boosters and the FSU Alumni Association.

The main campus is spread over 418 acres in Tallahassee; FSU, which has the smallest campus in the SUS, acquired about 58 acres in 1991-92 after many years of being landlocked at 347 acres. The university owns a total of 1,248 acres in Leon, Bay and Franklin counties.

Within the state, FSU maintains facilities at its 25-acre campus in Panama City, its Marine Laboratory on the Gulf of Mexico and the Appleton Museum in Ocala. The university's graduate theater and film professional-training programs, the FSU/Asolo Conservatory of Professional Actor Training and FSU/Asolo Conservatory of Motion Picture, Television and Recording Arts, are both located in the Asolo Performing Arts Center in Sarasota. The Center for Professional Development and Public Service, housed in the Florida State Conference Center, provides extensive credit and non-credit continuing education programs statewide.

FSU reaches far beyond Florida through international programs in Switzerland, France, Panama, Costa Rica and the Caribbean. FSU's study centers in Florence, Italy, and London, England, are considered by many to be the nation's best in Europe.

Florida State offers 273 graduate and undergraduate degree programs through its eight colleges—Arts and Sciences; Business; Communication; Education; Engineering; Human Sciences; Law; and Social Sciences—and eight schools—Criminology and Criminal Justice; Library and Information Studies; Motion Picture, Television and Recording Arts; Music; Nursing; Social Work; Theatre; and Visual Arts and Dance.

With 1,558 members, the FSU faculty currently includes five members of the National Academy of Sciences and eight of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and has included five Nobel laureates. It is backed by 2,915 administrative, professional and support staff.

Library holdings at Florida State include 2.03 million book titles, 18,420 serials and 4.1 million microforms. The main facility, the Robert M. Strozier Library, is linked via a computerized information system to other state university and national research libraries. The Paul A.M. Dirac Science Center Library is located at the heart of the university's main science research complex. FSU also maintains extensive music, library science and law libraries, and the Mildred and Claude Pepper Library houses the personal and professional papers of one of Florida's best known political couples.

On the top floor of the Dirac Library is the headquarters of the Supercomputer Computations Research Institute, a multidisciplinary, multinational program that brings together some 50 scientists, engineers and technicians.

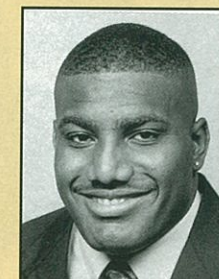

Also providing unique research opportunities is the physics department's tandem Van de Graaff Superconducting Accelerator Laboratory, which houses two powerful atom smashers and is ranked among the top four nuclear research centers in the nation by the National Science Foundation.

In its mission of excellence in teaching, research and public service, Florida State University is advancing boldly into the 21st century. □

Head Coach Bobby Bowden

In 1976, when Bobby Bowden came to Tallahassee from West Virginia, there were few clues that the Birmingham, Ala. native would transform Florida State into the football power it is today. He inherited a team that had won just four games the previous three seasons.

Bowden returned to FSU, where he had been an assistant coach under Bill Peterson from 1963-65, after a six-year stint at West Virginia during which he compiled a 42-26 record.

In Bowden's 18 seasons at Florida State, the Seminoles have won 10 or more games 10 times and been to 15 bowl games, including a string of 12 in a row and eight New Year's Day trips. Under Bowden, the Seminoles have spent 127 weeks in the Associated Press Top 10. In the past seven seasons, FSU has finished no lower than fourth in the final poll.

Only four coaches in the history of Division I-A football have more wins than Bowden—Bear Bryant, Amos Alonzo Stagg, Pop Warner and Joe Paterno.

Only Bryant and Paterno, with 15 each, have claimed more bowl wins than Bowden's 13. His 13-3-1 bowl record and .794 win percentage are unmatched in the history of college football.

Bowden was an all-star quarterback at Birmingham's Woodlawn High before going to Alabama, fulfilling a lifelong dream to play for the Crimson Tide. But after one semester in Tuscaloosa, he transferred to Howard College (now Samford University) in his hometown and was a little All-American quarterback in 1951.

After graduation in 1953, Bowden stayed at Howard as an assistant coach for two years before becoming head coach at South Georgia Junior College in Douglas, Ga. There, he compiled a 22-11 record and then returned to his alma mater as head coach in 1959, going 31-6 in four years at Samford. Following his stint at FSU, Bowden moved to West Virginia as an assistant for three years and was subsequently promoted to the top job.

Bowden and son Terry, the head coach at Auburn University, are the first father-son duo to lead Division I-A programs. Terry's brother, Tommy, is on his staff at Auburn, as is brother-in-law Jack Hines. Youngest son Jeff joined the Florida State coaching staff in 1994 as the wide receivers coach.

MEET YOUR KID'S NEW ROMANTIC LIT TEACHER.

His passion for sacking quarterbacks is surpassed only by his love of Milton and e.e. cummings. Don't be too surprised. A good number of top people in the academic field have come straight from the football field, and with the shortage of teachers, we could use a lot more.

That's why the "Hitachi Promise of Tomorrow" program is giving $335,000 in teaching scholarships to the most motivated men and women in football programs across the country. They could be student managers, trainers, or even wide receivers with a love of physics. Just as long as their school is a member of the College Football Association, and they have the same passion for teaching that they displayed on the field.

What's more, Hitachi is also providing awards to the high schools of 24 College Football Association players, based on their ability in the classroom as well as on the gridiron.

There will always be tough challenges to face in education. But at Hitachi, we're making sure there'll be teachers who are ready to tackle them.
