Head Coach

In 1942, Robert Clecker Bowden laid in a Birmingham hospital room for six months as a 13-year-old suffering from rheumatic fever. An outstanding young athlete who literally grew up in the shadow of Legion Field, Bowden was subjected to a frustrating 18 months of confinement with a full year of recuperation needed following his hospital stay.

"The world's not like it used to be," said Bowden. "It was a year of staying in your room with no television, no video games, no computer, just me and my radio." And most of what a young Bobby Bowden listened to on his radio were news accounts of a terrible war being fought seemingly far away. He would listen for hours on end for reports from battles fought in tiny German towns. He would listen to the sounds of planes taking off from airports he'd never seen with names he'd never heard.

"I basically listened to a play-by-play of World War II for a year," said Bowden. "I would imagine what every place looked like. What the terrain of the battlefield was like, what the army units looked like and how the sounds and smells of the war must have been. I had a pretty good map in my head of where things were in Europe and I even began to learn which generals were leading which units.

"I've never lost my fascination for World War II and I read as much about it as I can. The similarities between leading troops in battle and coaching a team are well documented. You face similar tasks of motivation, preparation, teamwork, discipline — most of it really relates.

"I'm sure my interest in coaching, in the real X's and O's coaching, probably stems a lot from listening to those accounts of the war and trying to imagine the movements of the battles. I've not lost one bit of my enthusiasm for putting together a game plan. I still believe that winning is the greatest feeling there is in coaching, but I probably get the most satisfaction out of putting in the strategies and watching them play out."

Now, 55 years after recreating the war with just a radio and his imagination, Bobby Bowden is one of the true legends of college football as he is in his 22nd year with the Seminoles.

Consider the fact that the Seminoles' undefeated regular season and third-place finish in the Associated Press poll last year preserved a stack of records that will likely never be equaled in college football history.

Never before has a school finished in the AP's top four for 10 consecutive seasons. No program has ever come close to FSU's 10 straight seasons of 10 or more wins. Not to mention FSU's record 11 straight bowl wins.

Florida State is the winningest program in the '90s, won the national championship in 1993 and has been ranked pre-season No. 1 four times in the last nine years. The Seminoles are also poised to make another run at the title in 1997.

Bobby Bowden is a man so closely tied with the phenomenal success of his program that he, as much as Rene Gade and the war chant, is Florida State football. Gracious in both victory and defeat, Bowden is a man at peace with himself, a man with rock-solid character and firm coaching principles that date back more than 37 years. It's not enough that his coaching numbers have reached legendary proportions. Bowden also gives Florida State University a proud moral leader, a family man of the first order, a caring disciplinarian and a calming voice in the face of the turbulence surrounding college football.

BOBBY BOWDEN

Perhaps the best tribute to the man is that he is not afraid to change with the times — adapting brilliantly to new ways of winning games, as well as dealing with young student-athletes. From a sense of discipline and control, to a bold switch to the Fast Break offense, Bowden proves you're only as old as you feel.

Like other coaches before him, Bowden has created something of a monster that sits squarely on his shoulders. He has coached his Florida State teams so very close to perfection that the fans expect nothing less. He has won 107 games over the last 10 seasons, including monumental wins over Miami, Notre Dame, Michigan, Nebraska, Penn State, Clemson and others.

In the fickle world of "big-time" college sports, some forget what it is all about. Sure, Bobby Bowden is proud of his national championship, his place among the all-time greats and a chance at a second national title. But as Bowden well understands at this stage of his career, there are things more important in life. That's what makes him "our" Bobby Bowden.

One of Bowden's greatest coaching achievements revolves around bowl games and his team's success in the postseason. Bowden guided the Seminoles to an unheard of record of 11 consecutive bowl wins which ended at the 1997 Sugar Bowl. He also set an NCAA record with his 14 straight bowls without a loss. His 15-4-1 record and .775 bowl winning percentage rank first all-time. Only Joe Paterno (18) has won more bowl games.

The list of coaches who have won more games than Bowden is also getting smaller. Only four names remain ahead of him on the all-time Division I-A coaching list — Bryant, Stagg, Warner, Paterno. Indeed, Florida State's eighth head coach has inked his name on the list of legends over 31 seasons at Samford, West Virginia and FSU. When Bowden first arrived in Tallahassee in 1976, he described his relationship with the school as "a marriage" and was determined to let "no man put it asunder." True to his word, he completed his 21st season at FSU with an undefeated regular season in 1996.

What Bobby Bowden means to Florida State University off the playing field cannot be measured. Respect, sincerity, class, honesty, charisma, charm and humor. Those are the words that describe and define this man — not wins, losses or coaching records.

As if his character isn't enough, his coaching style draws admirers nationwide. A wide-open, gambling style makes Bowden

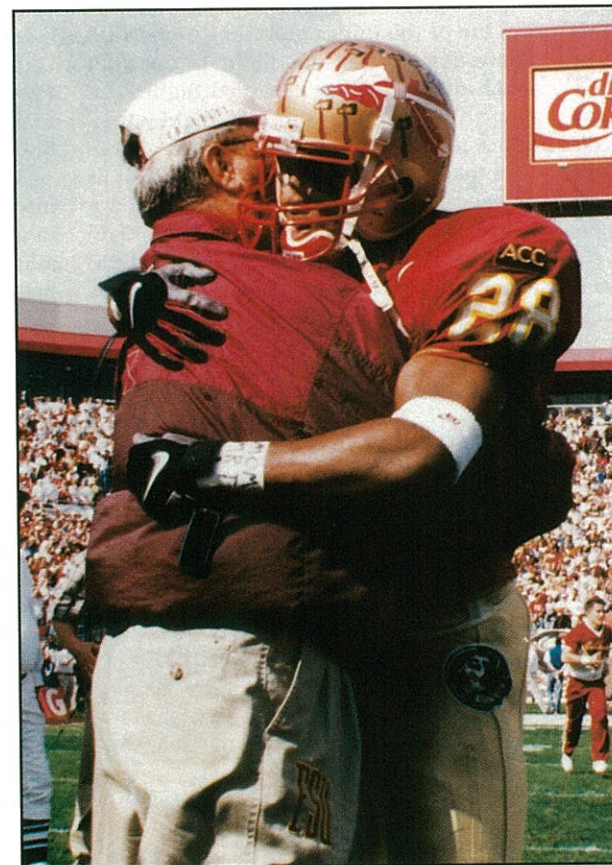

West Virginia to come to Florida State and save the program. Three seasons after he walked on campus, he had taken one of the worst football teams in the country to within one game of a national championship.

Bowden's record at Florida State is 197-50-4. That includes a 105-16-2 record in Tallahassee and a 92-34-2 mark away from home. He has built those numbers against some of the nation's toughest schedules, earning respect for his team, attracting top players to his program and establishing his reputation as a competitor in the process.

Bowden achieved impressive numbers in his previous coaching stops (31-6 at Samford University in Birmingham between 1959 and 1962, and 42-26 at West Virginia from 1970-75), but what he has done at FSU is simply phenomenal. Thirteen times in 21 years his Seminoles have won 10 or more games in a season. Florida State had been to eight bowls in the 29 years before him. Last year, the Seminoles played their 18th bowl game since his arrival, including a string of 15 in a row and 11 "New Year's Day" trips. He is, by far, the winningest coach ever at Florida State as his win total is greater than the previous seven Seminole head coaches combined.

In his 21 years, the Seminoles have become a mainstay in the Associated Press Top 25. FSU has been ranked in all but two of the last 163 polls. Over the last 10 years, Florida State has spent 41 weeks as the nation's No. 1 team, and nearly every poll the Seminoles have been in the top five. The Tribe has spent 42 straight weeks in the top 10 and 129 straight in the top 15.

Florida State is the only school to finish among the Associated Press top four for 10 consecutive seasons. The Seminoles' 11-1 record last season, and third-place ranking in the polls, kept alive the staggering streak. The 'Noles have finished first (1993), second twice (1987, '92), third three times (1988, '89, '96) and fourth four times (1990, '91, '94, '95) since 1987.

teams a treat to watch, a pleasure to play on and a delight to cover. Reverses, flea-flickers, laterals — you name it, here it comes.

A look at the record shows he's done it both ways. The flashy wins may get all the attention, but for every one of those, there are dozens of others spawned from sound fundamental football.

By now it's been well-chronicled how the Birmingham native left the snow and ice of

On the road with the Seminoles

By Rob Wilson
Sports Information Director

This is going to seem like a strange column for Tribe because it deals with being on the road. But traveling with the team to Los Angeles last weekend brought to mind the fact that most of the 80,000 folks in the stands today won't ever get a chance to know what it's like to travel with the Seminoles.

First of all, a road trip to Los Angeles sounds like the ultimate in a sightseeing excursion. You can just picture Andre Wadsworth sliding down the log flume at Disneyland, or maybe Daryl Bush pumping iron on Muscle Beach.

Wrong.

For a football player, a road trip — no matter whether it's from Tallahassee to L.A. or Tallahassee to Lake City — is pretty much the same. They see three things: the airplane, the hotel and the stadium. Little else.

Thursday

FSU's trip to USC began on Thursday evening, which was unusual in that we usually fly out after classes on Friday. The Seminoles travel on a Delta charter flight and this one took off promptly at 6 p.m. Eastern time. One thing about traveling with Florida State football is that everything happens exactly on schedule. The only person that Seminole football would wait for is Bobby Bowden, and we never have to. We'd leave Thad Busby and probably even President D'Alemberte if they weren't where they're supposed to be. (I'd just like to note that I'd be in favor of waiting for President D'Alemberte).

One of the things most fans would find interesting is that the flight is not that much different than a normal flight. The plane is decorated and the flight attendants, most of them FSU grads, wear Seminole paraphernalia, but the rest of it is pretty calm and quiet. We also watched a couple of movies on the flight, "Liar, Liar" and "Murder at 1600." Last week was a little different, however, since Burt Reynolds joined us on the flight out.

Once we touch down at LAX, our buses are waiting on the tarmac. That's one of the cool privileges of the group. No dragging through the airport, it's right on the buses and down the interstate with a police motorcycle escort. Just like "CHIPS."

The six-bus entourage cruises into the Marriott at Newport Beach after some 45 minutes on the road and players are hustled to their rooms, and immediately into a team meeting that lasts nearly until lights out at 11 p.m., which is 2 a.m. by our Eastern biological clock).

Friday

The players enjoy a wake-up call at 8:30 a.m. announcing that they're expected at breakfast at 9. It's a buffet that would drive Shoney's right out of business.

If you're an offensive player, you slip into a meeting for the next couple of hours in a converted ballroom. The defense gets a little free time, then the two sides of the ball switch activities until lunch at noon.

The ABC-TV crew is waiting for Busby, Bush and Wadsworth to choke down their chicken and pasta and does a quick interview with each. Off camera, Bob Griese and Lynn Swann talk football with the three.

2:15 and it's meeting time again. Offense is in for an hour and the defense follows.

Then it's off to practice at a nearby high school for an hour with stars like Ann Margaret, Robert Urich, Burt and Jim Brown looking on.

Dinner is at 6 and you can almost see the players shift into their pregame mood — call it a game face. Dinner is quick and then Coach Bowden steps in front of the team. While everyone talks about a coach's locker room speech, that's so overrated it's funny. It's the night before that Bowden uses to set the tone for the team.

Players get a snack at 10 and its lights out at 11.

Game Day

Wake-up for the USC game is 8:30 and 30 minutes later you'd better be eating breakfast.

There's a kicking meeting at 9:30, a defense meeting at 10:15 and the "O" meets at 11:30. Pregame meal is 1:00 and there's usually not a lot of chatter.

Team chaplain Clint Purvis holds a well attended devotional at 1:50 and at 2:10 the boys board the bus for the L.A. Coliseum.

At five minutes after five, the Seminoles are stomping in the tunnel as they watch USC charge onto the field. Then, exactly 51 hours and six minutes after leaving the Sunshine State, Florida State hits the field for its 1997 season opener.

Now here's the kicker. After the ballgame, college football teams, including the Seminoles, board a charter flight and head home immediately. I know for a fact that we've made it home from ACC games before people who watched it on TV at the Tallahassee watering holes manage to get home. But, in the case of USC, bleary eyed FSU ballplayers de-plane in Tallytown at 6 a.m. Eastern time — seven hours after the final horn sounded against the Trojans.

All they've got to do on Sunday is check in with the trainers between 1-4 to tend to any injuries and begin preparations for this afternoon's game against Maryland.

Let's see, if you're a player you've seen: the inside of two planes, the inside of two busses, a Marriott and the L.A. Coliseum. Now, the SID may have squeezed in a little more.

Decade of Dominance

A college football dynasty over the last 10 seasons, Florida State has put together a run of football success that has been granted dynasty status by the NCAA.

The Record

- The Seminoles are the nation's winningest program during the span with a 108-14-1 (.882) mark.

- The Seminoles have put together an NCAA record 10 consecutive seasons with at least 10 wins.

The Bowls

- The Seminoles established an NCAA record with a 14-game bowl unbeaten streak during the last 10 years.

- The Seminoles have won nine bowl games in the last 10 years including three Orange Bowls, two Fiesta Bowls, two Sugar Bowls and one Cotton Bowl.

The Rankings

- The Seminoles won their first national championship in 1993 in just their 47th year of football.

- The Seminoles have finished in the Associated Press Top 4 in each of the last 10 seasons, also an NCAA record.

- The Seminoles have finished No. 1 once (1993), No. 2 twice (1987, 1992), No. 3 three times (1988, 1989, 1996) and No. 4 four times (1990, 1991, 1994, 1995) in the last 10 seasons.

- The Seminoles have spent just 10 weeks outside the Associated Press Top 10 in the last 10 years.

The Awards

- Charlie Ward became the Seminoles' first Heisman Trophy winner when he capture the award in 1993. He won virtually every major college football award that season.

- Six Seminoles have won seven major college football awards in the last 10 years including the Heisman (Charlie Ward, 1993), Maxwell (Ward, 1993), Butkus (Paul McGowan, 1987; Marvin Jones, 1992), Thorpe (Deion Sanders, 1988; Terrell Buckley, 1991), Lombardi (Jones, 1992), Johnny Unitas Golden Arm (Casey Weldon, 1991; Ward 1993), Davey O'Brien Award (Ward, 1993).

- Seminole head coach Bobby Bowden was honored as the national coach of the year in 1996, while defensive coordinator Mickey Andrews won the inaugural Broyles Award, honoring the nation's top assistant coach.

The Players

- Thirteen Seminoles, including an NFL Draft record four in 1996, have been taken in the first round since 1988. Sixty-three Seminoles have been chosen overall in that span.

The Conference Domination

- The Seminoles have won five Atlantic Coast Conference Championships in five years since joining the league in 1992.

- The Seminoles have posted a 39-1 record in the ACC in five years of competition.

- The Seminoles have been represented by 36 players on the All-ACC first team in their five years as league members.

The All-Americans

- The Seminoles have had 11 players earn consensus All-American honors 14 times during the last 10 years.

The Home Field Advantage

- The Seminoles have posted a 56-3-1 record in Doak Campbell Stadium since 1987 and are currently riding a 29-game unbeaten streak at home.

No team in college football history can match the run.

Over the past five years, the coach and his teams have adjusted to life as a conference member with Florida State's addition to the Atlantic Coast Conference. In those five seasons, FSU is 39-1 in league games and has claimed five ACC championships while setting the league record for consecutive victories. Bowden picked up his only ACC Coach of the Year honor in 1993.

With 270 career victories entering the 1997 season, Bowden ranks fifth in all-time coaching wins.

Above all Bowden's coaching accomplishments, though, are his credentials as a man. Friendly and outgoing, he is a devoted Christian and family man. He loves people. His personality and charm are bigger than life. He has become somewhat of a folk hero in the south. A polished speaker, Bowden is constantly in demand. His busy coaching schedule curtails many speaking engagements, but any free evening will find him on the speaking circuit. His off-season travel schedule would exhaust anyone. Every free Sunday morning will find him in the pulpit of a church somewhere in the south.

Bowden was an outstanding football player at Woodlawn High School in Birmingham, Ala., and went on to Alabama as a freshman quarterback, fulfilling a lifelong dream to play for the Crimson Tide. During one semester in Tuscaloosa, he found his sweetheart, Ann Estock, and she was enough to lure him back to Birmingham. He soon married Ann and transferred to Howard College (now Samford University) in Birmingham.

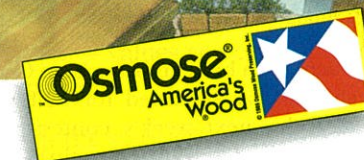

As one writer put it while attending an FSU press conference: "You can't swing a golf club in the south without hitting a football coach named Bowden with it." Indeed, Bobby Bowden can claim another record which will likely never be broken. He and son Terry at Auburn were already the only father-son coaching combo in the history of Division I-A football. Now with Tommy's hiring as the new head coach at Tulane, there are three top-flight football programs led by Bowdens. Steve Bowden, the oldest of the children, is now in private business, but youngest son Jeff is in his fourth year of coaching the wide receivers at FSU. The four boys, daughters Robyn Hines and Ginger Madden, and their families make up the Bowden clan. With the addition of a brand new daughter for Jeff Bowden this spring, the list of Bowden grandchildren has grown to 21.

THAD BUSBY

Right on track for his senior year

By Joe Hornstein

If history serves us best, then Thad Busby should have a senior season to remember.

In the modern days of Seminole football or what is commonly known as the "Bowden Era," junior quarterbacks have always been suspect to criticism only to return for a standout senior season.

As a junior starting quarterback in 1996, Busby was an integral part of a Florida State team that celebrated its fifth straight Atlantic Coast Conference title, its second-ever undefeated regular season — capped by a victory over then-No. 1 Florida — and a place in the national championship game.

Yet, Busby's performance was usually a topic for discussion, from the season opener with Duke on throughout the year. If it wasn't his confidence or consistency that was being questioned, it was something else that was lacking.

"I didn't think that I had that bad a season," said Busby, a 6-3, 220-pound senior from Pace, Fla. "But people are going to say what they're going to say. I just go out there and play ball. I don't let that worry or bother me a bit. My numbers followed the numbers of the junior quarterbacks here in the past."

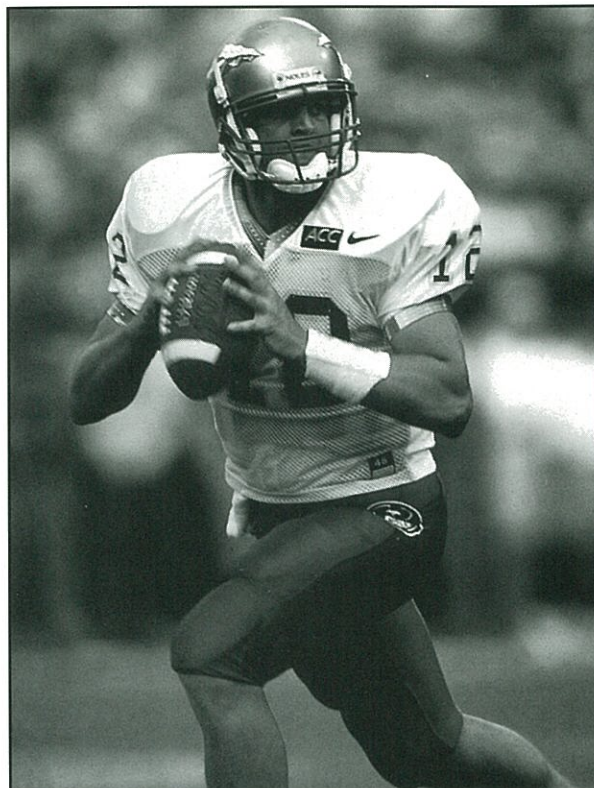

In the beginning, a sore arm coupled with a Warrick Dunn-oriented game plan left Busby with two sub-100-yard passing performances in the first month of the season. While Dunn was rushing his way into the record books, Busby's role became more supporting than starring.

When the strength in Busby's arm returned, he had two 300-yard passing games within a three-week span. The stretch included Florida State's 34-16 win over Miami in the Orange Bowl.

"That game was a total team effort," said Busby, who scored on a late one-yard touchdown run to seal the victory.

It had been 12 years since an FSU team went into the Orange Bowl and beat Miami. He became the first Seminole first-year quarterback to beat the Hurricanes since Peter Tom Willis in 1989.

"It seems like those are the games we play the best, and as a quarterback, those are the kind of games you dream about," added Busby.

Florida State quarterback Thad Busby led the Seminoles to an 11-1 record in his first season as a starter in 1996.

He fractured a bone in his wrist at Georgia Tech and was sidelined for half that game and the next week's contest with Wake Forest. In his return, he threw for more than 300 yards against Southern Mississippi. Busby suffered a knee injury against Maryland and his status for the much-anticipated showdown with arch-rival Florida just six days later was up for speculation.

In that heated No. 1 versus No. 2 matchup, Busby, Dunn and the Seminole defense dismantled the previously undefeated Gators, 24-21, in what was FSU's biggest home victory during Bowden's tenure.

If you ask Bowden, he might tell you it's kind of like déjà vu.

Bowden has seen 11 junior quarterbacks start during his tenure, from Jimmy Jordan, Wally Woodham and Danny McManus to Casey Weldon, Brad Johnson, Charlie Ward and Danny Kanell. The one constant throughout those seasons, even though Florida State enjoyed great success, was questioning the play of the quarterback.

Sound familiar?

In 1978, Bowden "platooned" the junior tandem of Jordan and Woodham in and out of the Seminole lineup. When the pair were seniors, FSU played in its first New Year's Day bowl game.

McManus averaged just one touchdown per game as a junior starter in 1986. His 1987 success included an 11-1 record, an Associated Press No. 2 final ranking and a victory over Nebraska in the Fiesta Bowl.

Casey Weldon and Brad Johnson split the 1990 season as juniors and in 1991 Weldon won the Johnny Unitas Golden Arm Award as the nation's top quarterback. Johnson didn't do too poorly, as the Minnesota Vikings saw something in the seldom-used senior to make him a ninth-round draft pick. He is now their current starting QB.

Charlie Ward threw eight interceptions in his first two games and a program-high 18 overall as a junior starter in 1992. Ward went on to become college football's most decorated player ever, winning the Heisman Trophy while leading Florida State to the 1993 National Championship.

Danny Kanell had a shaky start in 1994, throwing nine interceptions in the first four contests. The following year, Kanell guided the 'Noles to their biggest bowl game comeback ever over Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl and finished his career as the program's all-time leader in touchdown passes.

So what lies ahead for Busby's Seminoles in '97?

With the loss of both the starting tailback and fullback from 1996, the Tribe will have a less experienced look running the ball.

"We're going to have to rely on the passing game until we get the running game going," said Busby. "That's what FSU football is all about, throwing the ball. That is why I came here."

If 1996 is any indicator or starting point, Seminole fans making the bowl trek may want to bring some suntan lotion and a swimsuit with them for New Year's.

KEVIN LONG

Senior captain provides leadership to young offensive line

By Jeff Purinton

The role of senior captain goes far beyond calling heads or tails at the 50-yard line before each game. A captain is expected to set the standard for the underclassmen and keep the team together as a unit. This is especially true for offensive captain Kevin Long.

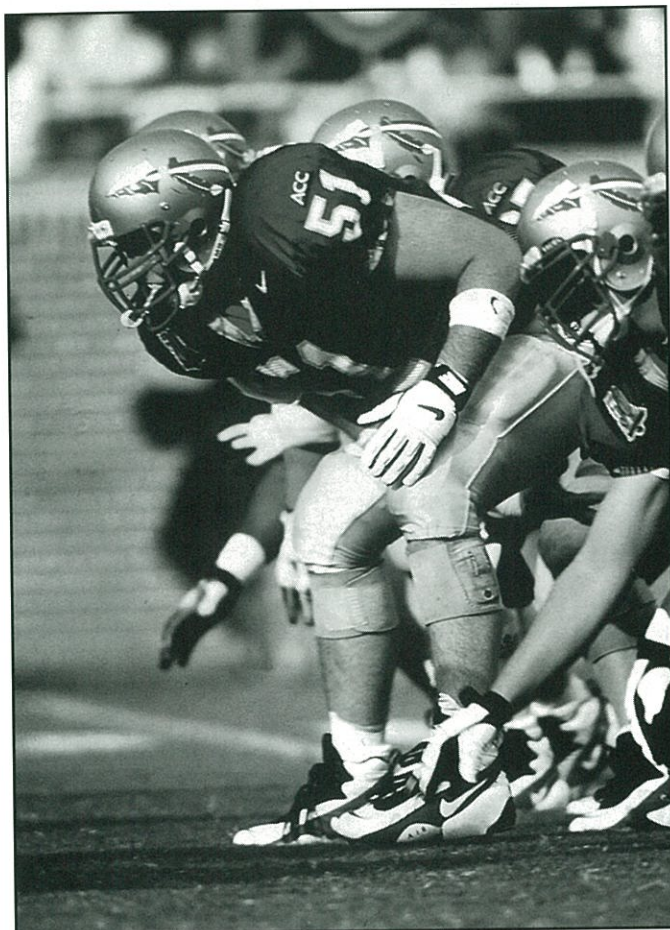

"It's an honor for me to be selected as a team captain. It tells you what the coaches think about you," said Long. "It's something that I will never forget and can always look back on. It really makes you appreciate it when you consider that you are a captain on one of the greatest programs over the last decade."

Long, who was named the offense's most dominant player in the spring, is the starting center for a Seminole offense that annually ranks among the nation's elite. This year, he is one of only two returning starters (along with tackle Tra Thomas) on the offensive line and was faced with the challenge of helping a young supporting cast prepare for one of the toughest road openers in Bobby Bowden's FSU tenure. The Seminoles started a pair of freshmen and one sophomore in the season opener against Southern California alongside Long and Thomas.

Long used the summer to teach the fundamentals to younger players before the start of two-a-day practices during voluntary workouts. Hopefully, the guidance will pay off as FSU tackles its most demanding schedule since 1981.

"When you have a young offensive line like we do, you try to get them to concentrate and stay focused on each play with as few missed assignments as possible," said Long. "I want to keep the intensity up and keep them motivated as far as being a vocal leader. You have to understand why we do things during practice and carry it over into game situations."

The senior follows in the footsteps of another great Seminole center, All-American Clay Shiver. Shiver was a four-year starter for the Tribe and is currently starting for the Dallas Cowboys. Long took over as a sophomore when Shiver went down with a knee injury at Florida in 1995. He impressed coaches with his performance in that game and in FSU's subsequent Orange Bowl victory over Notre Dame.

"Clay was a great leader on the field," said Long. "He really understood what his job was and had great technique. It shows in the NFL how good he is. If I can even be compared to Clay, I would be proud."

The center position at Florida State is one of the most demanding in the country as the Seminole offense operates from conventional and shotgun formations. The challenge is one of the reasons Long chose to attend FSU. One of the top high school linemen in the nation, he had his choice of schools in continuing his football career.

"I was fortunate enough that God gave me the opportunity to pick a school that was right for me," said Long. "It came down to Florida State and Georgia. I fell in love with the people in Tallahassee, the coaches and the town itself. I felt comfortable with the guys on the team and this is where I thought I would fit in best."

The South Carolina native went from one legendary coach to another when he came to FSU. At Summerville High School, Long played for the nation's all-time winningest high school coach, John McKissick. McKissick, who has won 13 state championships in his career, is the man whom Long credits with his early development in the game.

"There are a lot of similarities between the two coaches," said Long. "They both love the game, are good people and would like to coach as long as they can. They are friends and Coach McKissick has come down to speak at some of Coach Bowden's clinics."

Long is also quick to point out the influence his mother and stepfather (Diane and Bryan Thomas) have had in his athletic career.

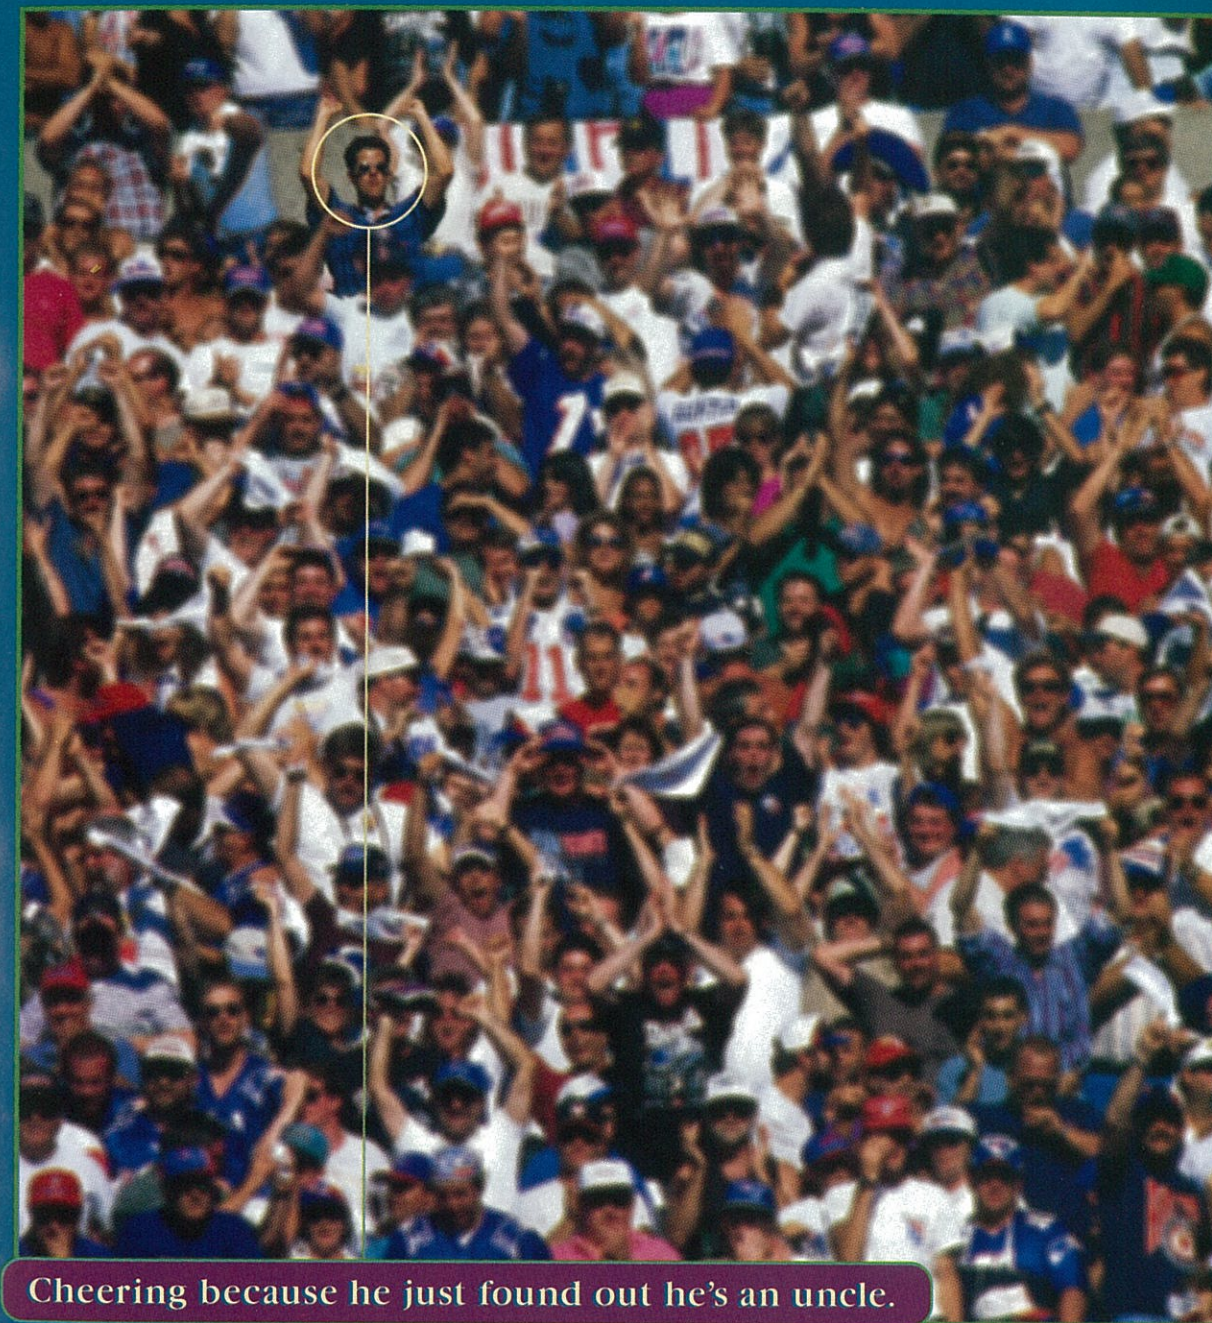

"My family has been key in my success," said Long. "They have always followed me and supported me in whatever I do. They always come down for a week during two-a-days and make sure we take care of ourselves. I owe them a lot for what they've done for me."

Long and the 1997 Seminoles face the challenge of carrying on a decade of top-four finishes and 10-win seasons.

"Our number one goal is to go undefeated and win it all," said Long. "Everything else will fall into place if that happens. I want to be the best leader I can be on and off the field. I hope to have the best year of my career."

With the senior center leading the way as a team captain, those goals seem well within reach.

FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY

Among the Nation's Elite Academic Institutions

Florida State University, celebrating its golden anniversary as a coeducational graduate research institution in 1997, has joined the nation's elite in both academics and athletics. Located on the oldest continuous site of higher education in Florida and building rapidly on the framework of a highly regarded liberal arts college for women, the University has emerged over the past 50 years as an institution of national and international esteem.

The Carnegie Foundation's recognition of FSU as a Research I University places the institution in the top three percent of American universities and colleges. FSU is one of only seven institutions to earn the distinction without a medical school, reflecting a broad base of strength in research and graduate studies.

While programs like the National High Magnetic Field Laboratory — the world's preeminent facility — bring recognition to the sciences, FSU has long been known for its strength in the arts. Programs in music, theatre, dance and film are all ranked among the nation's elite.

A senior member of the 10-member State University System, FSU was founded as an institution of higher learning in 1851 by legislative act and began in Tallahassee with its first students in 1857.

Today, FSU's operating budget is $474.3 million. Faculty and administrators generate more than $102 million annually in external funding to supplement state-sponsored research. Three direct-support organizations serve to bolster the University: FSU Foundation, which raises millions in private gifts to support academics, Seminole Boosters and the FSU Alumni Association.

The main campus is spread over 451.6 acres in Tallahassee; Florida State, which has one of the smallest campuses in the SUS, has been actively acquiring land in the 1990s after years of being landlocked at 347 acres. FSU also owns 1,281 acres in Leon, Bay, Franklin and Sarasota counties.

For years FSU has reached far beyond Florida through international programs in Switzerland, France, Panama, Costa Rica and the Caribbean. FSU's study centers in Florence, Italy, and London, England, are considered by many to be the nation's best in Europe. Florida State offers 286 graduate and undergraduate degree programs through its eight colleges and eight schools.

With 1,655 members, the FSU faculty has included nine National Academy of Sciences elected members, nine American Academy of Arts and Sciences fellows and five Nobel laureates. It is backed by 2,887 administrative/professional and support staff.

Graduate students, who number more than 5,929, pursue advanced degrees in fields as diverse as business administration and theoretical particle physics. A majority of research done at FSU is the direct result of student effort, culminating in numerous books, monographs and journal articles relating to the whole spectrum of intellectual interests and the practical needs of society.

FSU, a residential campus, places a high priority on its 30,264 students and their needs and interests (of the student population: 45 percent are male; 55 percent are female; 20.1 percent are minorities; and 2.5 percent are foreign students). The University Honors Program, Disabled Student Services, International Student Center, Student Government, Flying High Circus and intramural sports are among more than 200 organizations and activities in which students may participate.

Florida State continues to progress and grow — from its pre-Civil War foundation as the Seminary West of the Suwannee, through the early 20th century as the academically respected Florida State College for Women, returning to coeducational status as a university in 1947, to its modern development as an acclaimed research institution, a top-ranked competitor in intercollegiate athletics and as a standard-setter in the basic sciences and the performing arts.

In all areas of its mission — excellence in teaching, research and public service — Florida State University is advancing boldly toward the 21st century.

SAMARI ROLLE

Ready to carry on the tradition of Cornerback U.

By Greg Hulen

This season will be the last that Seminole fans will see the jersey No. 2 roaming through the Florida State secondary. No more interceptions or big plays. The prestigious number that has adorned the jerseys of Seminole All-Americans Deion Sanders and Clifton Abraham will be retired at the end of the season in honor of Sanders' accomplishments.

Senior cornerback Samari Rolle would like to use 1997 to put his name in the same company as those other Florida State stand-outs. He took over jersey No. 2 as a sophomore after Abraham graduated following the 1994 season. When FSU retired Sanders' number prior to the Seminoles' 1995 game with Miami, Sanders gave Rolle permission to keep wearing the number until his career at Florida State was finished.

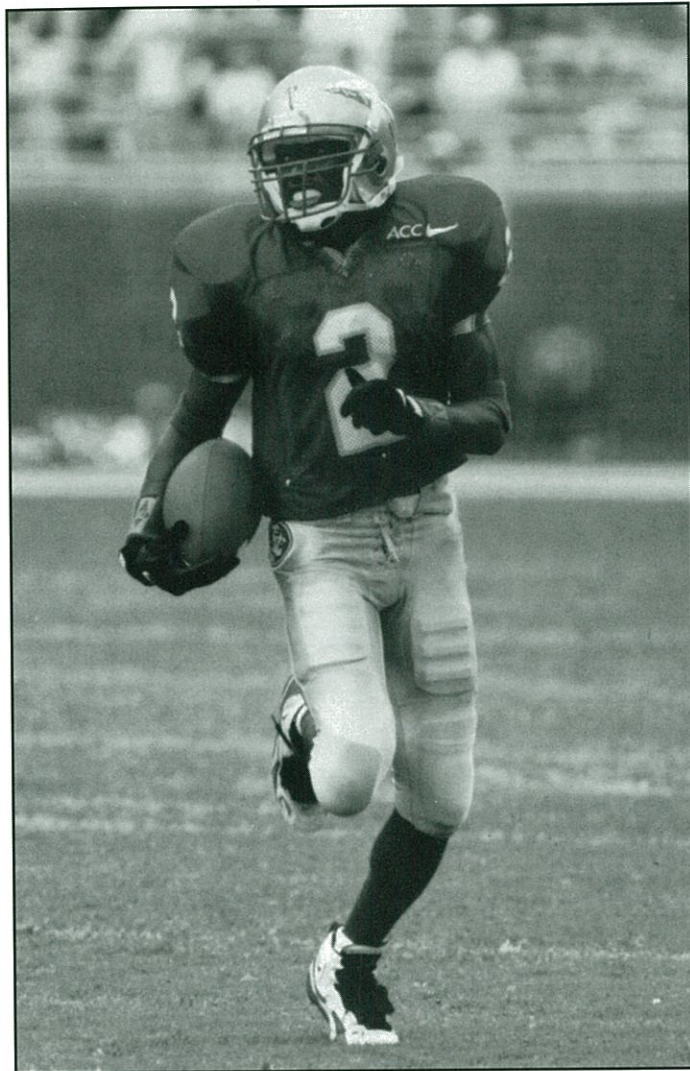

While wearing the number is a great honor, it also means living up to the highest expectations — created by players such as Bobby Butler, Sanders, LeRoy Butler, Terrell Buckley, Abraham and Corey Sawyer, who established Florida State's reputation of Cornerback U. Those expectations have shadowed the talented Rolle since his arrival at FSU in the fall of 1994.

"I want to establish myself as one of the great players at Florida State," said Rolle. "There is a lot of attention on me because of the number I wear. I want to prove to people that I have the ability to be one of the best to play here."

In order to accomplish those goals, Rolle took on a more serious attitude in preparing for his final season.

"In the past, I practiced so-so and wasn't mentally into it," said the Miami native. "It's now or never for me. There is a big sense of urgency. I feel it's time for me to do what I have to do and be a leader in the secondary."

Despite having to battle ankle, neck and shoulder injuries during the preseason, Rolle has shown Seminole defensive coordinator and defensive backs coach Mickey Andrews that he is a different player.

"This year he has a whole different attitude," said Andrews. "He is really sincere about wanting to be great. If all indications are true and he can stay healthy, Samari has a chance of having a really big year for us."

As Florida State's leading returnee in career pass break-ups (14) and interceptions (5), Rolle has enjoyed a solid, if not spectacular, first three years in Tallahassee.

Since he set foot on the Florida State campus, he has been a regular contributor. Rolle played in five games in the secondary during his freshman year while also returning punts. His time increased as a sophomore in 1995 when he started every game and led the team in interceptions with three. In 1996, Rolle split time with senior James Colzie and recorded 23 tackles and broke up a team-leading seven passes.

His 4.32 time in the 40-yard dash and 39.5 inch vertical leap are the type of skills that match up well with most opposing wide receivers. It is those skills that have led to preseason All-ACC honors from several publications and mention as one of America's top 20 cornerbacks.

With all the tools to be successful, coaches and fans feel this is his year to step up from solid contributor to star player and take his place among the other all-time Seminole greats.

"He's got a world of talent," said Andrews. "We are expecting maturity, focus and a sense of urgency from Samari. When he does those things, he can be an outstanding football player."

Getting the job done this season will also include being a leader on and off the field. Rolle and 1996 big-play man Shevin Smith are the only two seniors in a secondary that is filled with freshmen across the depth chart.

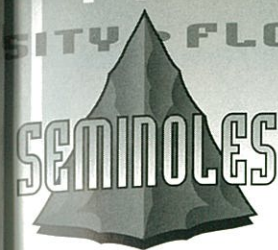

Part of his leadership role will include serving as a mentor to highly regarded freshmen Abdul Howard and Clevon Thomas. It is a situation similar to that of Rolle's freshman year in 1994 when he was the young backup to Abraham.

"It is similar. However, those guys (Howard and Thomas) are much more physically prepared than I was when I came to school," Rolle said.

Now, as the sands in the hour glass that are Samari Rolle's career run out, it is his moment to shine as a player and a team leader, and help push Florida State to another outstanding season.

Senior communications major Greg Hulen is in his third year as a student assistant in the Florida State sports information office.

GREG SPIRES

Out to make a name for himself

By Craig O'Halleran

Questions have circulated around the Florida State campus about replacing 1996 Seminole All-America defensive ends Peter Boulware and Reinard Wilson. Arguably one of the best pair of defensive ends in college football history, they finished last season with a combined 32.5 sacks. Both were first round picks in last April's National Football League Draft and both are starting in their rookie NFL seasons. However, this is a different football season and a different Florida State defense. There is one player who isn't seeking to replace, but rather setting out to make a name for himself. That player is Greg Spires.

"Boulware and Wilson were great defensive ends, but Andre (Wadsworth) and myself are not trying to match what they did," Spires said. "We are just looking forward to making a name for ourselves this year. I really don't think there is any added pressure on us after what they achieved last year."

Spires, a fifth-year senior from Fort Myers, Fla., played both defensive end positions last year behind Boulware and Wilson. He finished the year with 34 tackles and six sacks while also contributing on the special teams units. Entering his first season as a starter, Spires is expected to team with Wadsworth to form one of the best defensive end tandems in the country. Wadsworth, also a senior, moved from defensive tackle to defensive end in the off-season.

"Andre and I talk a lot and really push each other to get better," commented Spires. "He is a great player and he makes me work harder. It's like a friendly competition out there, to see who can make the most plays."

Great things were expected from Spires this fall; however, an injury has kept him out of action. He suffered a fibular stress fracture in the left leg a week before the season-opener at Southern California. The injury, according to head trainer Randy Oravetz, could be attributed to off-season surgery that weakened Spires' left ankle.

"The injury happened at the end of two-a-days," said Oravetz. "I think that it was a combination of the surgery in May and the stress from two-a-day practices. He should be back in time for the Miami game."

Greg Spires will move into a starting defensive end role when he returns from a left leg fracture.

After three years as a reserve, the injury was especially disheartening for Spires, as well as the FSU coaching staff.

"He is a big loss," said head coach Bobby Bowden. "He is our big-time pass rusher."

"I really came in this year in good shape," stated Spires. "I was having a good fall and this happened. I guess everything happens for a reason. I just have to stay positive and remain focused."

One of the hardest workers on the team, Spires improved his bench press by more than 30 pounds in the off-season and maintained 4.6 speed that will enable him to speed rush the passer.

"He's a very physical player, (he's) strong and blends it with very good quickness," said Seminole defensive ends coach Jim Gladden. "I am expecting big things from Greg this year. The disappointment I have is that he has waited so long to be 'the' guy."

Although he missed the USC game, will sit out today and probably next week at Clemson, Spires has maintained the lofty goals that he set out to achieve. He would like to set the school record for sacks in a game (currently five) and single-season sacks (19, set last year by Boulware).

"I still think that I can achieve those goals," said Spires. "But for right now my goal is to get healthy. This is just another obstacle that I need to cross over."

Spires is also very cautious about coming back from this injury too soon.

"I want to be completely healthy when I come back," Spires said. "I don't want to go out there and be babying it. I am just looking forward to the final eight games. I know that if I am healthy that I can make things happen."

When a fully recovered Spires does step onto the playing field this year, he will finally get the opportunity to prove himself.

"I finally get a chance to show my stuff," Spires said. "This is a big season and there is a sense of excitement."

North Dakota native Craig O'Halleran is in his fourth year as a student assistant in the Florida State sports information office and serves as the Seminoles golf SID.

VARSITY CLUB

The Florida State University Varsity Club is a prestigious organization for former Seminole varsity athletes. The Club originated as the "F" Club at the Florida State College of Women and has been known by such names as the Letterman's Club and Varsity "F" Club since 1947. The Varsity Club is open to men and women who proudly participated in an intercollegiate sport at Florida State. The annual dues of $75 provide entry into the Varsity Club facility, access to all spring sporting events (excluding tournaments), a quarterly newsletter, a Varsity Club license plate and a directory of former athletes.

To give you an idea of how our organization has grown, this year represents the first time the Varsity Club as ever had a full-time staff member. On June 1, 1997, Brian Wade was hired as the first Varsity Club Director.

The Varsity Club has 150 permanent seats and overlooks the northwest corner of Doak Campbell Stadium.

As the new Varsity Club Facility in Doak Campbell Stadium prepares for its second year, it is important to look at what we have accomplished. With the generosity of more than 350 private gifts and more than 1,300 members during the past two years, the dream has become a reality. What started as a small room under the stadium has turned into a state-of-the-art facility with 150 permanent seats and a reception area with the capacity to accommodate hundreds of members before, during and after games.

This Club, located at the concourse level in the northwest corner of Doak Campbell Stadium, is available to all Varsity Club members. The Club hosts game day activities oriented toward alumni varsity athletes as well as reunions and elegant special receptions for coaches, players and varsity alumni.

Every varsity athlete helped build the Seminole tradition that is widely admired today as one of America's great collegiate programs. Now, they have the opportunity to build a facility that all Seminole athletes can enjoy with pride once their playing days are over.

FSU ATHLETIC HALL OF FAME

Marking the history of Seminole sports

By David Peters

Centers and sprinters, pitchers and punters, servers and swimmers, kickers and blockers ... the Florida State Athletic Hall of Fame is home to them all. One-hundred sixty-eight legends of Seminole sports line the walls of the remodeled Moore Athletic Center atrium, marking the storied history of athletics at The Florida State University.

Fred Biletnikoff, Ron Sellers, Ron Simmons and Deion Sanders are among the 57 football stars in the Hall. The great Dave Cowens is one of the 16 men's basketball standouts enshrined. FSU player and coach Dick Howser tops the list of the 16 Hall of Fame baseball legends. Golfers Jeff Sluman and Paul Azinger, tennis star Paul Haarhuis, volleyball standout and model Gabrielle Reece ... the list goes on and on.

Stars of former Seminole sports have not been overlooked. The late Jack Sharp, a 1997 inductee who helped lead Florida State to a national championship in the 1950s, is one of six gymnasts in the Hall. Florida State's men's volleyball program boasts a Hall of Fame player and coach.

Florida State administrators and athletic staff members also hold their place in the Hall of Fame. Former FSU Presidents Dr. Doak S. Campbell and Dr. Bernard Sliger and FSCW athlete and administrator Dr. Katherine Montgomery have earned positions in the Hall.

Even the Flying High Circus has representation. Adrian Cararzi was an original Hall of Fame member in 1977. One of Florida State's greatest circus performers, Cararzi was the first collegiate athlete to successfully perform the "triple."

Since its inception under former FSU athletic director John Bridges, the Hall of Fame and its committee have striven to maintain a broad set of criteria. Basically, the only requirements for consideration are based on time. Student-athletes must wait five years following the end of their FSU career before becoming eligible. Members of the athletic staff must be retired to be considered.

"We have rules that fit the people instead of having to find people who fit the rules," said present Hall of Fame committee chairman Doug Mannheimer. "It doesn't help to be tied down with criteria."

Along with Mannheimer, Dee Frye-

Davis, Dr. Ed Fernald, Dr. Jim Jones, Vaughn Mancha, Mel Pope, Barbara Palmer, Buddy Strauss and Rob Wilson make up the nine-member committee which annually reviews the list of eligible athletes and makes additions to its running ballot. The committee also looks at letters from Seminole supporters who frequently write to suggest potential candidates.

"We encourage fans and supporters to write the athletic department with their suggestions," said Mannheimer. "It is really a very open process."

Athletes are then selected for the Hall of Fame based primarily on their outstanding performance at Florida State University. Administrators and athletic staff are held to similar standards. A number of other factors, however, are also considered.

"We certainly look at what each student-athlete has done for the university as well," said Frye-Davis, who is not only a committee member but also a Hall of Fame inductee.

Non-athletes are eligible for the prestigious Moore-Stone Award. Created in 1980 and named for former FSU deans Dr. Coyle E. Moore and Dr. Mode L. Stone, the award honors outstanding supporters of Florida State athletics.

Florida State's long-standing Hall of Fame committee also helps to maintain consistency in the selection process. Frye-Davis is one of several members who have been part of the committee since its inception 20 years ago. Mannheimer, the current chairman, was appointed to the first Hall of Fame committee as its student representative.

The entire process is the envy of schools around the country.

"We receive so many letters from other schools wanting to know how we maintain such a good Hall of Fame," admitted Frye-Davis.

As one of the premier Halls in the nation, the Florida State Hall of Fame deserves a look from any Seminole supporter. With a quick browse of its plaques, jerseys and trophies, you may discover the only couple enshrined in the Hall (track star Marita Payne and basketball standout Mitchell Wiggins) or learn the legacy behind the men and women who are the namesake for many of buildings and athletic complexes around the Florida State campus. But hurry, there's plenty of Seminole sports history to brush up on before the next chapter of new inductees of the Florida State Athletic Hall of Fame is filed in 1998.

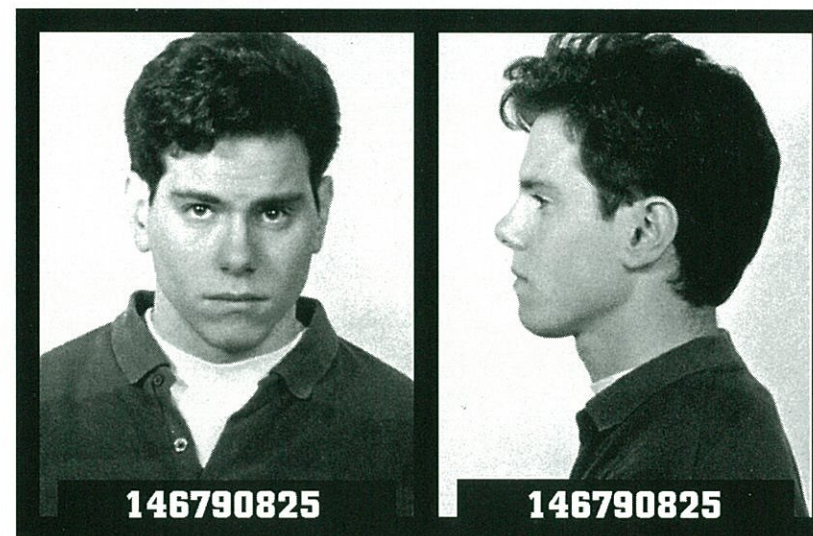

David Peters is in his third year as a student assistant in the Florida State sports information office and works extensively with FSU's volleyball and swimming programs.

Some Hangovers Last Forever.

If you think drinking can only mess you up for a night, think again. Drinking can open the door to all kinds of violence. And if you drink and drive, you can hurt or kill someone—even yourself. Of course, you know all that. What may be news to you is that a conviction for drinking and driving or alcohol-related violence can ruin your chances of getting a job—now and long after you graduate. Isn't that a heavy price to pay for a night on the town?

You're not as cool as you think when you drink.

VOLLEYBALL PREVIEW

Ready for a resurgence

By Tina Thomas

The Florida State Lady Seminoles entered the 1997 season focused and full of enthusiasm following a spring season and summer consisting of hard work on the court and in the weight room. Seminole fans can expect a mentally and physically stronger, highly motivated group of individuals who together should form a successful unit.

"I thought we trained very hard this spring," head coach Cecile Reynaud said. "We focused on physical conditioning, strength training and agility, and we developed more individual programs for some of the players. We changed our practices to make them a little bit different. It was the same type of routine, but we didn't spend a lot of time on the same activities over and over. We had a different focus every day."

Outside

The outside hitter position showcases a mix of the old with the new. The position with probably the most depth couples experienced, veteran players along with highly regarded newcomers.

Returning starters Holly Schneider and LaToya Presberry, both juniors, anchor the corps. Presberry has been one of the squad's primary passers the past two years. She's a very explosive athlete and Reynaud intends to use her in a variety of ways this season. Her 438 kills and 345 digs were tops on the squad in 1996. Schneider, FSU's other primary passer, can hit a variety of sets. She performed at a consistent level throughout last season and ranked second on the team in kills and digs.

Joining Presberry and Schneider is outside hitter Laura Arnold. Arnold, one of three seniors on the team, saw a great deal of playing time last year, but was hampered with a shoulder injury. After having undergone shoulder surgery in January, Arnold is back at full strength this season. Junior Sarah Rickertsen, although not a starter, has seen a lot of playing time and has been a solid role player for the team.

Newcomers Jennifer Werrick and Kate Hemlepp will make an already strong area even stronger. Werrick, who was named the Florida High School Player of the Year, should make an immediate impact. Hemlepp was pegged a Volleyball Magazine All-

Florida State should be very strong in the blocking department this season.

American and was listed as one of the publication's "Fab 50" recruits. A left-handed player, she'll play on the right side.

Middle

With the middle hitters healthy, this position could be one of the most dominating on the team.

Solid Start

The Lady Seminole volleyball team opened the 1997 season two weeks ago by sweeping Boston College (15-7, 15-4, 15-11), Mississippi State (15-5, 15-12, 15-8) and Purdue (15-13, 15-7, 15-4) in three games each to win the championship of the Florida State Classic at Tully Gym. Junior middle hitter Susan Hawks was named the FSU Classic MVP following her dominating performance at the net for the Lady Seminoles. Hawks totaled 19 kills and 21 blocks during the tournament. Fellow juniors LaToya Presberry and Fiona Bolten were also selected to the all-tournament team.

Susan Hawks and Susan Johnson should provide the leadership to the position, while sophomore Aisha Thornton, who gained valuable experience as a rookie, provides the strength. Hawks, a junior, is considered to be the best blocker on the team. Johnson, a senior, represents versatility as she can play in the middle or on the right side. She has been a starter for much of the past two years and should see a lot of playing time this year. Thornton has the physical tools to dominate any match, against anybody. Her vast improvement from the beginning of the season to the end resulted in her selection to the ACC All-Freshman team.

"Susan Hawks has probably put on more muscle in the weight room this summer and spring than anyone else on the team," Reynaud said. "I think she is going to be very strong defensively at the net for us. We played her and Susan Johnson some on the right side this spring, to make sure we improved our blocking. Aisha worked very hard this spring and with the right set, she can do a lot of things offensively."

Setting

Florida State will have the luxury of having two players who are capable of successfully filling the starting setter position. Junior Fiona Bolten, who sat out last year as a redshirt transfer from Kentucky, trained extremely hard the past year. Reynaud also notes Bolten's solid leadership skills which will be important to the team. Sophomore Kency Zulueta saw action in 28 of 31 matches last season and was the squad's primary starter at the position. Zulueta also possesses a great serve and can play some solid defense in the back row.

Defense

Defensive specialists Christy Minko and Courtney Dipert return to hold down the defensive duties for the Tribe. Minko, a senior, is considered the team's spark plug. She saw playing time in 28 matches last season and has been a big part of the heart and soul of the team the past two seasons. Dipert played in 22 matches in her rookie campaign and will be relied on heavily in a reserve role this fall.

Assistant sports information director Tina Thomas is in her fourth year on the Seminole athletics staff.

STEPHEN PARRY

FSU's first national champion swimmer

By Mandi Copeland

Since its inception in 1949, the Florida State men's swimming and diving program has had 19 men and eight relay teams earn the distinction of All-American. In 1961, Curt Genders won FSU's first diving NCAA title on the one- and three-meter springboards. And now, 36 years later, Seminole swimmer Stephen Parry has again made history for the program, bringing home FSU's first individual swimming NCAA championship.

Parry, a junior, trained from crowded pools and limited facilities in Liverpool, Great Britain, but from these pools came great accomplishments. He was the 1994 Junior European Champion in the 200 butterfly and the 1995 England National Champion in the 200 fly. When Parry came to FSU, he brought with him his greatest ambition — to make the Olympic finals. Parry chased that dream competing to qualify for the 1996 Summer Olympic Games in Atlanta. He finished second at the British Olympic Trials but did not reach Great Britain's Olympic qualifying times.

"I was disappointed," Parry said. "The Olympics has been a goal for me for a long time. I just didn't swim as well as I could have."

"Stephen supported Rob (Braknis) and Brendon (Dedekind) at the Olympics, but I think watching his teammates swim in Atlanta really hit home for Stephen," head coach Don Gibb said. "He knew he should be at the Olympics and realized he had to work that much harder to make it. Juggling school, swimming and a personal life was a challenge and he realized he would have to prioritize."

Parry found his first year at FSU to be a challenge, having to adjust to a new training program, school and a new country all together. But it was after the British Trials that he knew he had to change something. He returned to FSU with a new ambition — a team victory at the Atlantic Coast Conference Championships and a top five finish at the NCAA's. He took advantage of the training facilities and started working harder and longer.

"Coming from Liverpool, the training facilities were completely different," Parry said. "It took the summer of '96 for me to realize what I had available to me."

All his hard work and dedication paid off. Parry improved his times throughout the season, but he saw the biggest improvements at the ACC Championships. Going into the championships, Parry was ranked first in the 200 fly and he did not disappoint. Not only did he win the event, but he set an ACC record in the process. He went on to win the 200 free and was on the 200 and 400 medley relay champion teams, leading to Co-Swimmer of the Year honors for the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Stephen Parry became Florida State's first NCAA champion swimmer when he won the 200 butterfly last March.

At the NCAA championship meet in Minneapolis, Minn., Parry and his teammates achieved several honors. Dedekind became the first FSU swimmer to achieve three All-America finishes and all five Seminole relay teams scored for the Seminoles. But perhaps the greatest accomplishment came on the night of March 29 when Parry, who was seeded first in the 200 fly going into the finals, won the first national championship for swimming in FSU history. His pool-record time of 1:44.28 won him the title and helped him restore some confidence.

"I wasn't really thinking about it (the championship) at the time," Parry said. "Going into the race seeded first, there was some pressure, but I wasn't expecting to win. It was more of a shock than anything else. I just swam the race the way coach planned it out. It really didn't hit me until I got back to Tallahassee that I had won a national championship. And it wasn't even until this summer that I realized I'm as good as the best swimmers in the nation."

Parry continued to compete internationally this summer, representing England in the European Championships and winning a bronze medal in the 200 fly. He next competed in the World University Games in the 200 fly and finished fifth overall.

Much to the pleasure of Florida State and Gibb, Parry has two more years to compete for the Seminoles. After a summer of international competition, he has set his sights on training for another year of collegiate swimming, but the Olympic experience still sits in the back of his mind.

"Stephen Parry has just scratched the surface," Gibb said. "The national championships and this summer have proved to him he is one of the best in the country and the world. He's England's number one swimmer right now. He learned how to prioritize this summer, realizing he's one of the best because of his dedication and hard work. The 2000 Olympics are a realistic goal for him."

FSU senior Mandi Copeland is in her second year as a student assistant in the sports information office.

DAVE HART, JR.

Director of Athletics

Dave Hart, Jr., became Florida State's 10th athletics director after a national search selected the former East Carolina athletics director in February 1995. Hart, 47, has gained national recognition for his skills in the areas of athletics management, public relations, marketing and fund-raising. He brought to Florida State an outstanding reputation as one of the country's most respected athletics directors.

East Carolina University athletics enjoyed an enhanced image and reputation under Hart's leadership and he structured several programs of significance within the department.

While at East Carolina, the athletics department made great strides in revenue growth and facility enhancement. The athletics budget doubled during Hart's tenure and he initiated programs that tripled the budget for women's athletics. He planned and managed growth in the Pirates' athletic facilities totaling nearly $30 million.

Hart has served on several prestigious committees during his career as an athletics administrator. In January 1993, he was appointed to the NCAA Council. He currently serves as Chairman for the Missions and Values Committee of the I-A Athletic Directors' Association in conjunction with the NCAA Foundation and was recently selected to represent athletic directors nationwide on the board of "Power of One," which is a collaborative effort to unite the leadership organizations within intercollegiate athletics in order to better promote college sports. Hart is a member of the Executive Committee of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics while serving as an officer for both NACDA and the I-A Athletics Directors Association.

Just the 10th athletics director in school history, Hart officially began his duties at Florida State on March 20, 1995. Since his arrival at FSU, Hart has restructured the administrative staff, negotiated major contracts totaling more than $19 million, prioritized the planning of a women's soccer/softball complex, initiated a comprehensive athletics facilities master plan, developed an extensive Life Skills program for all student-athletes and set a stated departmental goal for comprehensive excellence through pursuit of long term improvement toward the Sears Directors' Cup, which is emblematic of total program success in intercollegiate athletics.

A 1971 graduate of the University of Alabama, Hart played basketball for the Crimson Tide and earned a master's degree in 1972 while serving as a graduate assistant basketball coach. He coached and taught at the high school level before joining the East Carolina athletics program in 1983.

Hart met his wife, the former Pam Humble, while at Alabama and they have three children — Rick (25), Jamie (23) and Kelly (20).

ASSISTANT COACHES

Chuck Amato
Assistant Head Coach/Linebackers
16th season at FSU
(North Carolina State '69)

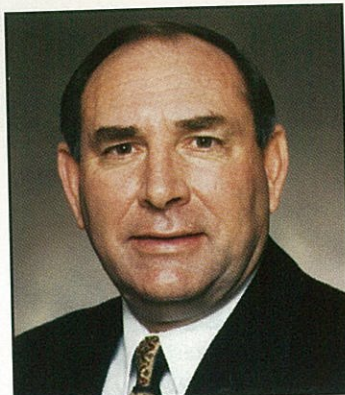

Chuck Amato is in his 12th season as assistant head coach to Bobby Bowden. A 16-year veteran of the coaching staff at Florida State, Amato is in his second season coaching the Seminole linebackers after coaching the defensive line since joining the staff in 1982 from Arizona. Last year, Amato produced a Butkus Award semifinalist and two NFL Draft picks.

Since joining the Florida State staff, the Eaton, Pa., native has seen the Tribe defense lead the program to unprecedented national prominence. Florida State's defense has ranked among the top 10 in the nation against the run four of the last five years.

Over 10 years of coaching the defensive line at FSU, Amato proved he could produce some of the nation's top players. Most recently, Derrick Alexander was selected in the first round of the 1995 draft by the Minnesota Vikings.

Prior to his stint at Arizona, Amato coached at his alma mater, North Carolina State, where he was a three-year letterman in football and wrestling. He earned both his bachelor's and master's degrees from North Carolina State and started his coaching career there by serving as a student assistant in 1968. He was named to a full-time position in 1972 and remained with the Wolfpack for the next 12 years. He was promoted to defensive coordinator in 1974 and held the position for six years.

He and his wife, Peggy, are the parents of twin daughters — LuGina and Selena.

Mickey Andrews
Defensive Coordinator/Defensive Backs
14th season at FSU
(Alabama '64)

Florida State's rise to the most consistently successful program in the history of college football directly correlates with Mickey Andrews' arrival to tutor the Seminole defense. FSU's offense has long been national championship caliber, but it has been Andrews' ability to catch the Tribe defense up with the offense that has made the Seminole program what it is today.

Andrews was named the recipient of the first Frank Broyles Award last year after directing the nation's third-ranked total defense. The Award, presented by the Major Sports Association of Little Rock, Ark., is given to the nation's top assistant coach.

Under Andrews' direction, FSU has become the top producer of All-America and NFL-caliber cornerbacks in the nation. He coached Deion Sanders (1988) and Terrell Buckley (1991), who both won the Jim Thorpe Award.

Andrews' coaching resumé includes stints at Eastern Kentucky, Livingston, North Alabama, the Arizona Wranglers of the USFL and two of the teams that appear on the 1997 schedule. He was Clemson's defensive coordinator from 1977-80 and was an assistant at Florida in 1981-82.

Andrews earned second-team All-America honors as a wide receiver and defensive back at Alabama and played baseball as well. During his career, the Crimson Tide won a pair of national championships (1961, '64).

Andrews and his wife, Diane, have two children — Ronnie and Shannon, and three grandchildren.

Jeff Bowden
Wide Receivers
Fourth season at FSU
(Florida State '83)

The old expression about the apple not falling far from the tree certainly applies to the youngest son in the Bowden clan. Since Bobby Bowden heads the nation's most prominent, and well-branched, family tree in coaching, it should have come as no surprise that he chose one of his sons to join his staff in 1994.

Jeff Bowden is in his fourth year on the staff with perhaps the most talented group of receivers in the nation. Under Bowden's direction last year, Andre Cooper (first team) and E.G. Green (second team) earned All-ACC honors for the second consecutive season.

Bowden played in three bowl games on Seminole teams coached by his father and moved immediately into coaching at Salem College in West Virginia upon graduation from FSU. He was the receivers coach for two seasons under older brother Terry (now the head coach at Auburn) and was promoted to offensive coordinator the third year.

After a year at FSU as a graduate assistant, Jeff joined Terry at Samford University in Birmingham, Ala. He was the Bulldogs offensive coordinator in 1987 and added the title of assistant head coach for the 1988-90 seasons. He is credited with guiding the career of Division III All-America quarterback Jimbo Fisher at Samford.

Jeff is married to the former Cindi Smith and they have five children, Haley, Hunter, T.J., Robert and Julia Elizabeth.

Ronnie Cottrell
Tight Ends/Recruiting Coordinator
Eighth season at FSU
(Troy State '83)

Florida State's recruiting successes have reached the point where fans wait almost as anxiously for signing day in February as they do for the season to begin. For the past seven years, Ronnie Cottrell has been in charge of the Seminoles' recruiting efforts, which have landed top five classes in each of those years.

His 1997 class was regarded as the nation's best on nearly every expert's ballot and featured an amazing one-two punch. For just the second time in history, FSU signed USA Today's Offensive and Defensive Players of the Year. Running back Travis Minor of Baton Rouge, La., and defensive end David Warren of Tyler, Texas, joined 1991 Seminole signees Marquette Smith and Derrick Brooks as that publication's only players of the year to attend the same school.

On the field, Cottrell will coach Florida State's tight ends for the second year after directing the inside linebackers in 1994 and 1995.

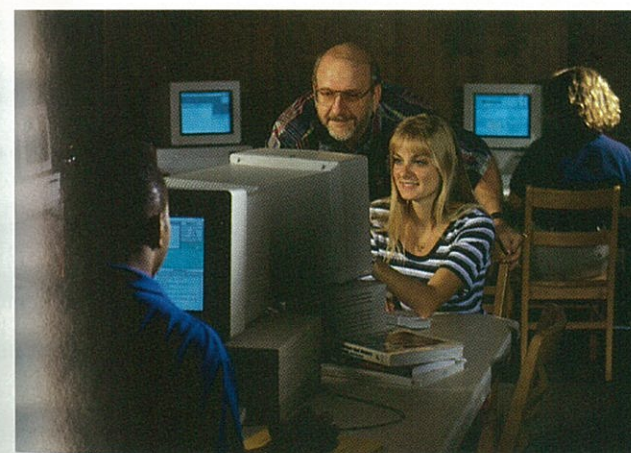

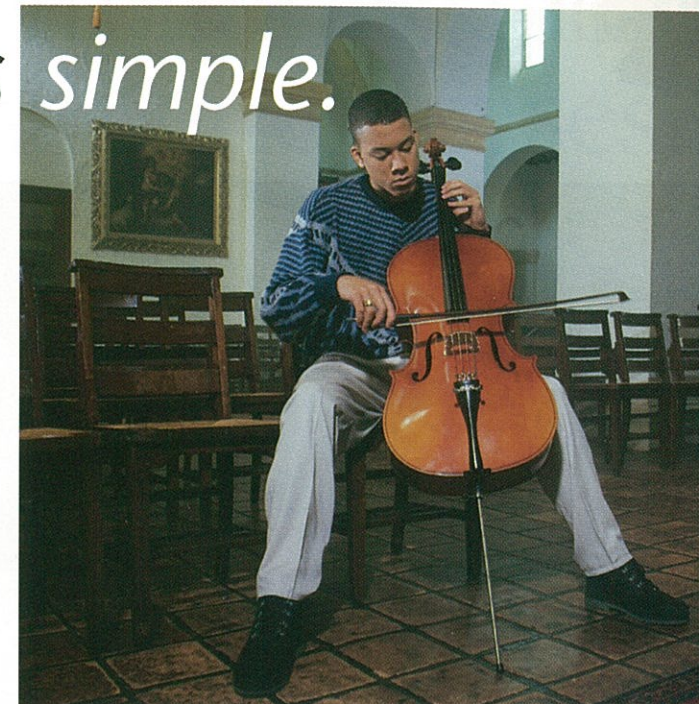

After serving as a graduate assistant in 1989, Cottrell was promoted to a full-time job as the Seminoles' top recruiter after assisting Brad Scott with the 1990 recruiting class.

A native of Brewton, Ala., Cottrell came to FSU after two years as an assistant at Troy State. He also held high school head coaching jobs in Alabama at Kinston, Flomaton and East Brewton high schools. He led Flomaton to back-to-back perfect seasons in 1986 and '87.

Cottrell has two children, Meredith and Kevin. He is married to the former Jean Lee of Tallahassee.

ASSISTANT COACHES

Jim Gladden
Defensive Ends
23rd season at FSU
(William Jewel '62)

Odell Haggins
Defensive Line
Fourth season at FSU
(Florida State '93)

Jimmy Heggins
Offensive Line
12th season at FSU
(Florida State '78)

Mark Richt
Offensive Coordinator/Quarterbacks
12th season at FSU
(Miami '82)

Jim Gladden is the senior member of Florida State's coaching staff and his 23 years with the program is longer even than Bobby Bowden. He was elevated to a full-time coach by Bowden when he came to Tallahassee in 1976 after serving as a graduate assistant on the 1975 FSU team that finished 3-8 and was coached by Darrell Mudra. Gladden, Bowden and Florida State have had 20 straight winning seasons and have set NCAA records for bowl games won and consecutive top four finishes.

After coaching outside linebackers at FSU for 20 years, Gladden moved to defensive ends last year. He made a smashing debut as he helped Reinard Wilson and Peter Boulware to All-America status last season.

Gladden also coaches the punt block unit for FSU. Last year, the Seminoles blocked five and in 1984, the Seminoles blocked a school-record eight punts.

Gladden was an all-conference selection as a player at William Jewel College in Missouri, where he graduated in 1962. Over the next 15 years, Gladden coached in the high school ranks. He spent four years in Kansas City and St. Louis as an assistant high school coach before moving into head coaching positions in Tennessee and Kentucky, where he was the high school coach of the year in 1970. After two years as head coach at Hernando High in Brooksville, Fla., Gladden came to FSU.

Born in Springfield, Mo., Gladden and his wife, Patty, have two children — Julie and John.

When Bobby Bowden was faced with a rare vacancy on his coaching staff in 1994, he turned to one of his own and selected former FSU All-American defensive lineman Odell Haggins.

The decision has indeed been right for Florida State and the fourth-year coach proved it by producing an outstanding defensive line in 1996, his first year at the position. Haggins' troops helped FSU lead the nation in rushing defense a year ago and rank third nationally in total defense.

A native of Bartow, Fla., Haggins was a four-year letterwinner and popular team leader for the Seminoles from 1986-89. He earned Kodak, Walter Camp and UPI All-America honors as a senior in 1989 and was a second-team Associated Press selection as a junior in 1988. Any Florida State fan can remember his trademark of crossing his arms over his head after a big play as a symbol of his role in FSU's "Say No to Drugs" campaign.

Following his standout collegiate career, Haggins was drafted by the San Francisco 49ers and played two years, earning a Super Bowl ring in 1990. He spent the 1991 season with the Buffalo Bills.

Haggins earned a degree in criminology from Florida State and was working with the state attorney's office in Jacksonville before joining the FSU staff. He worked with the rehabilitation of juvenile offenders while with the state attorney and continues to make working with young people a priority.

Jimmy Heggins is in his fourth season as offensive line coach at Florida State and his 12th overall on the FSU staff. Heggins coached the tight ends and tutored the noseguards prior to taking over the offensive line duties in 1994.

Heggins was an outstanding noseguard on Bobby Bowden's FSU teams in the mid-'70s. He returned to his alma mater in 1986 as a full-time coach after a year at Southwestern Louisiana, where he coached defensive ends. Prior to his stint with the Ragin' Cajuns, Heggins was running backs coach at Eastern Michigan for two years and at Western Illinois for a year.

Among Heggins' FSU protégés are current NFL players Walter Jones, Clay Shiver, Reggie Johnson and Lonnie Johnson.

A native of Salisbury, N.C., Heggins began his collegiate coaching career as a graduate assistant at East Carolina in 1980. He filled the same role at FSU in 1981 and '82.

Heggins came to Tallahassee in 1974 as a running back after gaining 1,670 yards and earning all-state honors in North Carolina in 1973. A fullback his first two seasons with the Seminoles, he made the switch to noseguard in 1976 (Bowden's first year) and was named the squad's outstanding defensive player following the season. As a senior, he led Florida State to a 10-2 record and a win over Texas Tech in the Tangerine Bowl.

Heggins and his wife, the former Winifred Parker, have two daughters — Andrea and Lauren.

Florida State offensive coordinator Mark Richt is in his fourth season as the man in charge of the Seminole offense and his 11th overall as the quarterbacks coach at FSU. Richt's offenses have been among the most productive in college football history and he has become one of the most respected young coaches in the country.

Richt's notoriety has been gained through an innovative and exciting offensive style and a long list of excellent quarterbacks. Naturally, Richt's most famous protégé is Charlie Ward, who is the most decorated player in the history of college football. Richt has sent four quarterbacks into the NFL since 1989.

Richt has logged 11 years as quarterbacks coach at Florida State, and this season marks his eighth straight in that role, since returning from a one-year stint as the offensive coordinator at East Carolina in 1989. Richt served as a graduate assistant and then volunteer quarterbacks coach for the Seminoles from 1985-88.

A native of Boca Raton, Fla., Richt came to Tallahassee with an astute knowledge of the passing game after playing quarterback at Miami under Howard Schnellenberger. Richt was the backup to former Buffalo Bills star Jim Kelly during his last three seasons with the Hurricanes.

Richt is married to the former Kathy Francis, who is from Tallahassee. The couple has two children — Jonathan and David.

ASSISTANT COACHES

Billy Sexton
Running Backs
22nd season at FSU
(Florida State '74)

Dave Van Halanger
Strength & Conditioning
15th season at FSU
(West Virginia '76)

Billy Sexton has been a familiar sight on the sidelines of Florida State football games since 1973. The Tallahassee native started his career at FSU as a player, went on to become a graduate assistant coach and then a full-time coach in 1977. Only Jim Gladden has logged more time on the Seminole coaching staff than Sexton.

This season is Sexton's 15th as the Seminoles running backs coach, where a slew of pros have learned and refined their skills. Sexton's protégés increased when Warrick Dunn was taken with the 12th pick in last April's NFL Draft by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Sexton joined the Florida State staff as a graduate assistant in 1976, Bobby Bowden's first year as the FSU mentor. He became a member of the full-time staff in 1977 and worked with the Seminole quarterbacks for five seasons until 1982, when he became the head junior varsity coach and handled scouting duties. He took over the running backs position the following year.

A standout at Leon High School in Tallahassee, Sexton played his first three years of college football at Alabama before transferring to Florida State. He was the Seminoles' starting quarterback for the opening half of the 1973 season.

Sexton earned a bachelor's degree in business from FSU and began his coaching career as an assistant coach at Leon before returning to Florida State as a coach.

He and his wife, Joy, have three children — Wyatt, Leslie and Taylor.

In the competitive environment of college football, games are often won because of strength and speed. Part of the reason for Florida State's success on the field is a year-round weight-room program run by strength and conditioning coach Dave Van Halanger. The 15-year veteran of the Seminole coaching staff has helped thousands of FSU athletes get stronger, faster and more flexible.

Under Van Halanger's direction, the average student-athlete gains 20-25 pounds, adds 100 pounds to his bench press and 200 pounds to his squat during his years at FSU. He was named the 1993 Strength Coach of the Year by the NFL Coaches.

Van Halanger spent five years as the head strength coach at his alma mater, West Virginia, prior to his arrival at FSU in July 1983. He is credited with starting WVU's first organized weight-training program.

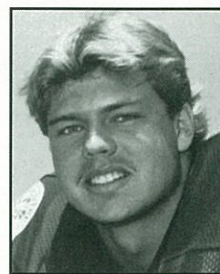

A four-year letterman under Bowden at West Virginia, Van Halanger was co-captain of the 1975 West Virginia Peach Bowl team. An offensive tackle, he earned All-East honors his junior and senior seasons and was an honorable mention All-America selection as a senior. He played professionally with the Atlanta Falcons in 1976 before returning to WVU as a graduate assistant and head junior varsity coach. He became the full-time strength coach at WVU in 1978.

Van Halanger, a native of Turtle Creek, Pa., and his wife, Michele, have three children — Danielle, Julie and Matthew.

DOAK CAMPBELL STADIUM

Home of the Seminoles

From a maximum capacity of 15,000 in 1953 to a record crowd of 80,932 against Florida in 1996, Doak S. Campbell Stadium has risen alongside the Florida State football program to the top of the college football ladder. With final phases of construction nearing completion, Seminole fans will be welcomed with state-of-the-art additions.

The most recently completed portion of the stadium is the south end zone, where the final bricks are going into place on the exterior of the stadium wall while the interior receives its finishing touches. The south end zone will house the Florida State School of Hospitality Education, where students in the program will receive hands-on experience in various aspects of the food and beverage industry. The multi-level facility includes a food court, a restaurant and a sports grill on the top floor that gives a panoramic view of Doak Campbell Stadium.

The north end zone, which consisted of wooden bleachers until the 1994 season kicked off, is topped by the offices of the football coaches. The offices, which also overlook the field, are just part of the Daisy Parker Flory wing of the Moore Athletic Center, which include a number of new amenities for the football staff. In addition, the new wing allowed athletic offices housed in Tully Gym to move to the Moore Athletic Center and be under one roof for the first time in school history.

Towering above college football action below from the east side are skyboxes which stretch from goal line to goal line. Newly added skyboxes are located above the west stands on the seventh floor. The new west addition also houses the president's level on the seventh floor (which includes an open air terrace in the northwest corner) and one of the largest press boxes in college football that seats more than 200 members of the media.

A brick facade surrounds the stadium, matching the architectural design of many of Florida State's campus buildings. The University Center surrounds Doak Campbell Stadium and houses numerous offices that were formerly located on the interior of the FSU campus.

Inside Doak Campbell, the lowest tier of field level seats has been removed, providing increased sideline space and better viewing lines for the first few rows of fans. A matching brick wall has been constructed along the east and west sidelines, limiting field access, increasing safety and giving the inside of the stadium a whole new look.

The increased seating capacity of Doak Campbell Stadium, up to 80,000 for 1997, means more fans, and no place for all the noise they make to go. That means an even louder stadium. As if Bobby Bowden and his team needed any more home field advantage!

Florida State is 39-1-1 at home during the 1990s and in contests at Doak Campbell since 1987, the Seminoles stand at 56-3-1. Bobby Bowden's Florida State teams have lost only 16 games at home in 21 years, giving Bowden an impressive 105-16-2 record and .862 winning percentage in Tallahassee. A milestone was reached on Sept. 7, 1996, when Bowden won his 100th game in Doak Campbell Stadium as Florida State's head coach.

But the winning feeling of Doak Campbell Stadium goes back before Bowden. All-time, Florida State is 187-66-4 in 251 home games for a winning percentage of .735.

Since the stadium first opened on Oct. 7, 1950, with Florida State taking a 40-7 victory over the Randolph-Macon Yellowjackets, millions of fans have packed Doak Campbell to see the finest in college football action. Last year, Florida State set a single-season attendance mark by drawing 465,200 fans in six home games.

The current expansion is the ninth in the history of the stadium. This year's capacity of 80,000 reflects an increase of 19,481 since the end of the 1991 season.

Florida State first began play at Centennial Field for the inaugural 1947 season. In the three seasons that the Seminoles called Centennial Field their home, FSU had an overall home record of 8-4, including coach Don Veller's undefeated 8-0 combined home mark in the 1948 and '49 seasons.

It's hard to imagine the first Doak Campbell Stadium, with a capacity of 15,000 back in 1950. In 1954, the stadium grew to a capacity of 19,000. Six thousand more seats were added in 1961. During the Bill Peterson era (1960-70), the stadium was expanded to 40,500 seats, and it remained at that capacity for the next 14 years. Between 1978 and 1982, there were three more additions.

Named for Doak S. Campbell, the first president of Florida State University, the stadium sits adjacent to the Moore Athletic Center on the edge of the main campus. The stadium seats, each one offering an unrestricted view, rise out of a Bermuda grass turf enclosing the field. Fans enjoy all the modern conveniences with spacious aisles, numerous concession areas and plenty of restroom facilities. A professional public address system, first aid booths and an effective security system operate at every Seminole home game.

The field itself is one of the finest in college football, carefully managed and manicured year-round. A prescription athletic turf (PAT) system, installed in 1988 and completely reseeded over the summer, quickly alleviates drainage problems through a series of underground pumps. The field can go from seemingly flooded to merely wet in a matter of minutes, thanks to the pumps, which allow a deeper root system in the natural turf.

Both stadium scoreboards are new. The large scoreboard made its debut in 1992 and features the most technologically advanced scoreboard computer animation system in existence. Entertaining graphics, as well as factual information, make the board a valuable addition to FSU home games.

The 160-foot wide structure was raised to sit on top of the new wing of the Moore Athletic Center in the north end zone following the '93 season. The newest scoreboard is above the south end zone and clearly and conveniently provides all basic information.

With the changes already made since last season, Doak Campbell is growing and improving faster than ever before. Like its residents, the most successful college football program over the past decade, Doak Campbell Stadium has become a fitting showcase for Florida State University.

A Doak Campbell Stadium record crowd of 80,932 watched Florida State defeat Florida 24-21 last year.

When it comes to paper, there's only one champion.

The programs for Florida State Football as well as for all the major NCAA® Men's and Women's Championships are printed on Champion papers. In fact, we make more kinds of paper for more kinds of customers than any other paper company. And we're proud to be an Official NCAA Corporate Partner.

Head Coach Ron Vanderlinden

A lightning bolt of enthusiasm struck College Park, Md., on Dec. 4, 1996, when director of athletics Deborah A. Yow introduced Ron Vanderlinden as the Terps' 33rd head coach to a standing room only crowd of boisterous supporters, alumni and fans.

Vanderlinden came to Maryland from Northwestern University, where he helped the Wildcat program fashion a meteoric rise into the upper echelon of college football. Vanderlinden became the assistant head coach and defensive coordinator to Gary Barnett at Northwestern in 1992 and in a span of four years, helped transform the dormant program into a two-time Big Ten Conference champion. He helped mold a 3-8 team in his first season into a Rose Bowl participant in his fourth season. The Wildcats won 15 of 16 Big Ten games in 1995 and 1996 after having won only five in the first three seasons.

"It is with great excitement, enthusiasm and anticipation that I now join the University of Maryland football family," said Vanderlinden on the day of his appointment. "Our standard for success will be winning the ACC championship."

To improve, preserve and promote the game of college football for those who play the game, for those who coach the game and for those who support the game. That's what NCAA Football is about. That's what NCAA Football will accomplish.

It is designed to heighten the national love affair with college football. It will be charged with marketing and promoting the game on a national level, as well as creating a national marketing fund for research and education programs and promotional, licensing, merchandising, media and grass-roots initiatives.

From alumni to students to fans of the game both young and old, the fervor and fanaticism that is college football will fill the spirit of those who love the game from coast to coast.

THE GREATEST SHOW IN COLLEGE FOOTBALL

The pageantry of a Florida State home game

From the pregame ritual to the fourth quarter fanfare, from the opening kickoff to the last tick of the clock, nothing compares to the pageantry and excitement of Seminole football. On a warm September night or a sunny November afternoon, fall Saturdays in Tallahassee mean only one thing — Florida State football.

Empty, Florida State's Doak Campbell Stadium is just another college football arena. But fill it with 80,000 die-hard, garnet-and-gold clad, screaming Seminole fans, and the stadium is transformed into one of the most exciting places in the nation. On those home game days each year, it's easy to see (and hear) why FSU's football teams have posted an amazing 59-3-1 mark at home over the past 10 years.

Game-day excitement begins hours before the game, as pregame tailgate parties kick off the fun. Friends and acquaintances, new and old, meet, greet and eat before entering the stadium. As game time nears, fans move to their seats. The Marching Chiefs entertain and the Seminole cheerleaders exhort the crowd to a fever pitch. The excitement is palpable.

Minutes before kickoff, every eye turns toward the north end zone. Suddenly, Chief Osceola and Renegade burst out of the tunnel onto the playing field, followed by Head Coach Bobby Bowden and the Seminole team.

Renegade, an Appaloosa horse owned by Tallahasseean Bill Durham, gallops the length of the field. Astride Renegade, holding a 10-foot flaming spear, is Chief Osceola. Carefully chosen and trained for this moment, Chief Osceola (FSU business major Jason Mork) wears an authentic costume designed specifically for Florida State University by members of the Seminole Indian Tribe of Florida. His face is covered with grease-based makeup, with garnet and gold stripes added in FSU fashion.

Meanwhile, the Seminole cheerleaders encourage the packed and frenzied Doak Campbell Stadium crowd as the Marching Chiefs band pounds out a menacing beat. Fans move their arms back and forth in unison, following the beat of the drum. In the south end zone, Renegade fidgets and shakes his head, awaiting the end of the coin toss proceedings. When Chief Osceola raises the flaming spear over his head, the crowd roars its approval.

When Chief Osceola plants his spear into the ground, Seminole fans roar with approval.

The game captains and referees finally leave midfield. The excitement reaches a crescendo as the horse and rider gallop to mid-field until they are on top of the Seminole head logo. The roar of the crowd is deafening. When Renegade rears up on his hind legs, Chief Osceola plants the fiery spear into the turf.

A thrill goes through the crowd. The moment the spear hits the ground, an even louder cheer goes up, while the Marching Chiefs start the Florida State fight song in the background.

Unique to Florida State, this opening show has become a trademark of Seminole football, featured on national television and recognized by fans across the country. Nothing can compare.

SEMINOLE NATIONAL AWARD WINNERS

Fred Biletnikoff

Wide Receiver, 1962-64

- 1988 Pro Football Hall of Fame
- 1991 College Football Hall of Fame

Fred Biletnikoff started catching passes in high school in Erie, Pa., continued at Florida State and went on to star with the Oakland Raiders. Biletnikoff caught 87 passes for 1,463 yards and 16 touchdowns in his FSU career.

Ron Sellers

Wide Receiver, 1966-68

- 1988 College Football Hall of Fame

In 1988, former Seminole great and 1968 consensus All-American Ron Sellers became the first FSU player inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame. Sellers set several NCAA records that stood for more than 20 years after catching 212 passes for 3,598 yards in his career.

Paul McGowan

Inside Linebacker, 1984-87

- 1987 Butkus Award

Calling the Butkus Award for linebackers, "The Heisman of the bad guys," FSU inside linebacker Paul McGowan accepted the award from Dick Butkus himself in December 1987. McGowan totaled 150 tackles, including 11 for loss, as a senior.

Deion Sanders

Cornerback, 1985-88

- 1988 Jim Thorpe Award

One of the best athletes ever to wear a Florida State uniform, cornerback Deion Sanders won the Jim Thorpe Award as the nation's top defensive back in 1988. Sanders picked off 14 passes in his career and averaged 15.2 yards on punt returns in 1988.

Casey Weldon

Quarterback, 1987-91

- 1991 Johnny Unitas Golden Arm Award

Quarterback Casey Weldon capped an outstanding senior season with the 1991 Johnny Unitas Golden Arm Award. The Tallahassee native was runner-up for the Heisman Trophy after completing 189 of 313 passes for 2,527 yards and 22 touchdowns.

Terrell Buckley

Cornerback, 1989-91

- 1991 Jim Thorpe Award

Cornerback Terrell Buckley followed in the footsteps of Deion Sanders, winning the school's second Jim Thorpe Award in 1991. The award capped the best season ever by an FSU defensive back, as he set a school record with 12 interceptions and picked off a pass in eight of FSU's 12 regular season games.

Marvin Jones

Inside Linebacker, 1990-92

- 1992 Butkus Award
- 1992 Lombardi Award

The top defensive player in the nation in 1992, Marvin Jones became the first Seminole to capture two national awards in the same year when he earned the Butkus and Lombardi Awards following his junior season. Jones also finished fourth in the balloting for the Heisman Trophy.

Charlie Ward

Quarterback, 1989-93

- 1993 Heisman Trophy
- 1993 AAU Sullivan Award

The most decorated player in the history of college football, Charlie Ward won literally every award he was eligible for as a senior. Ward, who led the Seminoles to their first national championship, became Florida State's first Heisman Trophy winner in 1993.

RETIRED NUMBERS/JERSEYS

In the 50-year history of Florida State football, six players have had their jersey retired. Those jerseys — 2, 17, 25, 28, 34 and 50 — belonged to six of the greatest players in FSU football history.

Deion Sanders is the finest defensive back in Florida State history and was so recognized when his jersey was retired in 1995. The winner of the 1988 Jim Thorpe Award, signifying the nation's top defensive back, Sanders was a two-time All-American who electrified the nation with his acrobatic interceptions and remarkable moves as a punt returner. Sanders' legend grew with the widespread use of his nickname "Prime Time," but he remained one of the hardest working players in FSU history. His 14 career interceptions ranked second all-time when he left in 1988 and currently rank third. Sanders owns the FSU record for longest interception return with a 100-yarder for a score against Tulsa in 1985 and six other school interception and punt return marks. His accomplishments were not limited to the football field at Florida State as he was also a standout on the baseball diamond and track. Sanders' multi-sport legacy has followed into the professional ranks as he currently plays baseball for the Cincinnati Reds and football for the Dallas Cowboys. Sanders owns a pair of Super Bowl rings from his days with the Cowboys (1996) and San Francisco 49ers (1995).

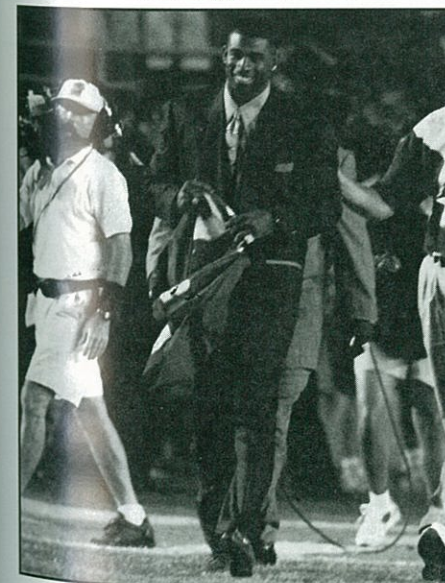

Charlie Ward capped an illustrious career by becoming the school's first recipient of the Heisman Trophy. A two-year starter at quarterback, Ward set 17 single season and career records at FSU. A two-sport athlete, he guided the Seminoles to the 1993 national championship. Perhaps the most talented QB to don the Garnet and Gold, Ward engineered the famous "Fast Break" offense, developed to capitalize on both his passing and rushing skills. In addition to breaking seven Atlantic Coast Conference records, Ward was a two-time winner of the ACC's Player of the Year award. His career passing numbers include 473 completions in 759 attempts for 5,747 yards and 49 touchdowns. As a basketball player, Ward led the Seminoles to three NCAA Tournament berths and a pair of Sweet 16 appearances. He was selected in the first round of the 1994 NBA Draft by the New York Knicks and is entering his fourth season with the team.

Fred Biletnikoff played wide receiver at FSU from 1962-64 under head coach Bill Peterson. He was FSU's first consensus All-American. As a senior, he ranked fourth in the nation with 57 receptions for 11 TDs, not including four TD catches in the 1965 Gator Bowl. Biletnikoff caught 87 passes for 1,463 yards and 16 touchdowns in his Florida State career. He went on to star for the Oakland Raiders of the National Football League for 14 years. During that time, he played in four Pro Bowls and was the reer by becoming the school's first recipient of the Heisman Trophy. A two-year starter at quarterback, Ward set 17 single season and career records at FSU. A two-sport athlete, he guided the Seminoles to the 1993 national championship. Perhaps the most talented QB to don the Garnet and Gold, Ward engineered the famous "Fast Break" offense, developed to capitalize on both his passing and rushing skills. In addition to breaking seven Atlantic Coast Conference records, Ward was a two-time winner of the ACC's Player of the Year award. His career passing numbers include 473 completions in 759 attempts for 5,747 yards and 49 touchdowns. As a basketball player, Ward led the Seminoles to three NCAA Tournament berths and a pair of Sweet 16 appearances. He was selected in the first round of the 1994 NBA Draft by the New York Knicks and is entering his fourth season with the team.

MVP of Super Bowl XI. At the conclusion of his career, Biletnikoff had caught 589 passes for 8,974 yards and 76 touchdowns. He caught 40 or more passes in 10 straight seasons. In 1988, he became the first Seminole inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame and is also a member of the College Football Hall of Fame.

Warrick Dunn's four-year career at Florida State established him as one of the most popular players in all of college football and the finest running back in the 50-year history of Florida State football. Dunn is the only Seminole ever to rush for more than 1,000 yards in three consecutive seasons. His 3,959 career rushing yards broke Greg Allen's school record set in 1984. Dunn also broke Allen's single-season rushing record when he ran for 1,242 yards as a junior in 1995. Dunn has the record for most touchdowns scored in a career with 49 in four seasons and rushed for more than 100 yards more times (21) than any player at FSU. He was a three-time All-ACC selection as well as a member of the ACC all-academic team. He was selected to the first-team Football Writers' All-America squad as a senior and earned second-team Associated Press honors that same year. Dunn's jersey is the first to be retired by Florida State. His number (#28) may be worn in the future by FSU players, but his jersey will always be displayed in the Moore Athletic Center along with the five previ-

Ron Sellers remains the most prolific receiver in FSU history. He held most of the NCAA's receiving records from the end of his senior season in 1968 until 1987. A flanker for FSU from 1966-68, he accumulated 3,979 yards on 240 receptions. He caught passes in a record 30 consecutive games, averaging 119.9 yards per contest. Sellers had 18 100-yard receiving days and five 200-yard games. He still owns nearly every FSU receiving record. In December 1988, the 1968 consensus All-American became the first FSU player inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame.

One of the greatest defenders in Florida State history, Ron Simmons' No. 50 was retired in 1988. Simmons anchored the center of the defense that took FSU to a pair of Orange Bowl appearances in 1979 and 1980, resulting in FSU's highest final national ranking ever at that time. # Florida's Science University is Florida State University!

What? Didn't you know Florida State University has a medical school? Since 1971 FSU's Program in Medical Sciences, also known as PIMS, has been home to a first-year medical program for students with an interest in becoming primary care physicians in rural or inner-city settings. After completing the first year at FSU, students continue their medical education at the University of Florida. In the last quarter century more than 700 doctors began their medical careers at FSU.

Additionally, the PIMS advising program counsels more than 1,100 FSU undergraduates, helping our students gain entrance to medical schools and professional health programs at a rate equal to other top universities.

Biology is our #1 undergraduate major!

3.

Konrad Bloch, 1964 Medical Philosophy

James Buchanan, 1986 Economic Science

Paul Dirac, 1933 Physics

Robert Mulliken, 1966 Chemistry

Robert Schrieffer, 1972 Physics

... a faculty that has included FIVE NOBEL LAUREATES!

4.

The National High Magnetic Field Laboratory is the preeminent facility of its kind in the world, generating magnetic fields a million times greater than the earth's own. FSU faculty are joined by international scientists for experiments relating to medicine, energy, communications and transportation.

500 YEARS OF SEMINOLE (INDIAN) HISTORY

How the Seminole Tribe became the "unconquered"

The Seminole Tribe of Florida celebrates 40 years of official Federal recognition in 1997. However, the Tribe's history extends back nearly five centuries. The following time-line, prepared by The Seminole Tribune, the official newspaper of the Seminole Tribe of Florida, captures the high points of this long and proud legacy.

1510: First recorded European contact with Seminole ancestors as Spanish slave ship reaches South Florida peninsula.

1539-43: Hernando DeSoto explores Southeast — first white contact for many tribes.

1704-1708: English destroy Spanish Florida missions, kill or enslave thousands of natives.

1740: Alachua, earliest recorded Seminole town, established in North Florida.

1804: Osceola (William Powell) born near Tuskegee, Ala.

1813-14: Creek War in Alabama forces Native survivors to flee southward where they join Florida natives. Gen. Andrew Jackson rises to power.

1816: First Seminole War begins after Jackson crosses into northern Florida.

1823: Treaty of Moultrie Creek — Seminoles give up 28 million acres, retain 4 million.

1832: Treaty of Paynes Landing ratified by Congress. Treaty promised 5 million acres in southwest Florida to Seminoles.

Dec. 28, 1835: Osceola leads Seminoles at Battle of Withlacoochee; slays U.S. Indian agent Maj. Frances Dade and 105 soldiers killed en route to Fort King (Ocala). Second Seminole War (1835-1842) begins.

1837: Osceola captured under flag of truce; removed to South Carolina prison where he dies in January 1838.

1837: Christmas Day Battle of Okeechobee, 1,000 federal troops under Gen. Zachary Taylor, against fewer than 500 Seminoles, led by Alligator, Abiaka, Jumper and others. Twenty-six of 37 dead are U.S. soldiers, most of them Missouri Volunteers.

1838: Trail of Tears forces 16,000 Cherokees from their eastern homeland to Oklahoma. At least 2,000 die along the way. About 3,000 Seminoles, including Wild Cat (Coacoochee) and Alligator are shipped to Oklahoma.

1855: Billy Bowlegs leads attack on U.S. Army surveyors. Third Seminole War begins.

1858: Third Seminole War officially

ends with capture of Bowlegs. A few hundred Seminoles, including Abiaka, remain in Big Cypress and other isolated parts of Florida. U.S. government abandons efforts to remove all Seminoles, who become the only tribe "unconquered" by U.S. forces.

1890s: Seminoles and whites begin to trade peacefully on the borders of the Everglades.

1926: Hurricane devastates Everglades wilderness, many Seminoles homeless.

1928: Tamiami Trail opens, fueling the boom in South Florida tourism. Seminoles begin to sell crafts and wrestle alligators. Killer hurricane hits Lake Okeechobee region, whips up a tidal wave that drowns 4,000 in worst natural disaster before Hurricane Andrew.

1934: Indian Reorganization Act promotes Native self-determination. "Five Civilized Tribes," a book written by Grant Foreman, arbitrarily designates Seminoles, along with Choctaw, Chickasaw, Cherokee and Creek, civilized.

1936: Two hundred fifty half-starved cattle arrive in Brighton. Seminole cattle industry begins.

1939: First formal education at Brighton Indian Day School, opened by teachers William and Edith Boehmer.

1947: Students at Florida State University select Seminoles as FSU's official mascot.

1957: Seminole Constitution ratified by vote of 241-5. Tribe gains federal status as the Seminole Tribe of Florida. First Tribal Council is elected; Billy Osceola, first elected chairman; First President Frank Billie resigns, succeeded by Bill Osceola. First annual budget: $12,000.

1962: Miccosukee Tribe of Florida Indians gain federal recognition.

1963: Tribe begins publishing The Smoke Signal — forerunner of The Seminole Tribune and one of the first newspapers in Indian Country — under the direction of Betty Mae Jumper.

1967: Betty Mae Jumper, first woman elected to chair any tribe in North America.

1968: Oath of Unity signed by Choctaw, Cherokee, Seminole and Miccosukee Tribes, leading to formation of United South and Eastern Tribes (USET).

1979: James E. Billie elected Tribal Chairman. Bingo becomes biggest source of Tribal income. Immokalee, Tampa reservations established.

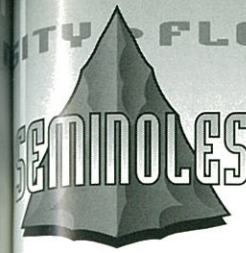

1992: Seminoles in Florida and Oklahoma collect land claims against the U.S. for unconscionable acts during the Seminole Wars. With interest, Seminole Tribe of Florida nets almost $10 million. Independent Seminoles refuse to settle; funds are held in trust.

1994: Florida State University confers honorary doctorate of humane letters degree upon Betty Mae Jumper.

1996: Cattleman Fred Smith, Tribal president longer than anyone, dies in Brighton. James Billie elected to record fifth term as Chairman. Tribal budget exceeds $100 million.

1997: Sovereignty of Tribe challenged by National Indian Gaming Commission and U.S. Attorney. Seminoles assume full management of gaming activities on Hollywood reservation. Ah-Tha-Thi-Ki Museum opens on the Big Cypress Reservation.
