WELCOME TO SOUTH FLORIDA

From Orange Bowl Committee President, Yvonne Johnson-Phillips, M.D.

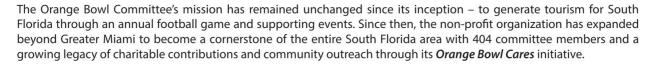

Welcome to beautiful South Florida, home to one of the most iconic events in college football - The 90th Capital One Orange Bowl!

The Orange Bowl Committee is delighted to be your host for the second-oldest bowl game in America. Five and a half million fans have experienced the pageantry and exhilaration the Capital One Orange Bowl has annually delivered since 1935. We hope that you enjoy everything that South Florida has to offer while you are here, from our world-class attractions to our beautiful beaches.

We could not be more excited for this highly-anticipated matchup between No. 5 Florida State and No. 6 Georgia, the highest-ranked non-playoff Capital One Orange Bowl matchup in the College Football Playoff era, and the highest-ranked traditional Orange Bowl game since 2003.

Florida State University and the University of Georgia are steeped in rich history and tradition. This game marks the 12th time the two programs meet on the gridiron dating back to 1954, while the Seminoles make their 11th Orange Bowl appearance and the Bulldogs make their fifth.

From youth sports programs such as the Orange Bowl Youth Football Alliance, which is home to 13,000 youth football players and cheerleaders stretching from Lake Okeechobee to Key West, to educational initiatives like the Orange Bowl Leadership Academy, a middle school mentoring program benefiting hundreds of students every year, the positive impact of Orange Bowl Cares is boundless.

None of this could be possible without the commitment and devotion of our committee members, staff, volunteers and partners, and of course, you - the fans. Thank you for your support.

Have a Happy and Healthy New Year, and enjoy the game!

Sincerely,

Yvonne Johnson-Phillips, M.D.

President and Chair Orange Bowl Committee

FROM THE FOUNDER & CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER, CAPITAL ONE

Welcome to the 2023 Capital One Orange Bowl! Today you will experience one of college football's highest-profile games, which has featured marquee matchups and heated rivalries over the past 90 years. Athletes, coaches and staff from each school have worked tirelessly to give their team the best possible chance to win the coveted Orange Bowl trophy. And we're excited to watch it all unfold.

Sports bring us together. As fans, we celebrate when our team succeeds and we lift each other up when our team comes up short. But beyond the game, we can all find motivation in an athlete's journey. Their passion, work ethic and teamwork is inspiring. At Capital One, we look for associates who embody an athlete's mentality. We seek natural leaders who love working with others and cheering for their colleagues' success. And we celebrate associates who are driven to do right by our customers, communities and partners.

Capital One has always been a fan and supporter of collegiate athletics. We are proud to be the official credit card and banking partner of the NCAA - a role we have held for over two decades. And we are honored to sponsor the Capital One Cup, which recognizes accomplished athletes across a variety of men's and women's Division 1 college sports. To date, we've awarded over $4 million in scholarships through the Capital One Cup, and we are excited to continue our work to support college athletes as they chase their athletic and academic dreams.

On behalf of all the associates at Capital One, we hope you enjoy tonight's game. And we wish you a safe and prosperous New Year.

Sincerely,

Rich D. Fairbank

Founder and Chief Executive Officer Capital One Financial Corporation

Banking with Capital One is an easier decision than choosing to cheer for your home team.

Plus with no fees or minimums on checking and savings accounts, is it even a decision?

That's Banking Reimagined.

FOUR PILLARS OF ORANGE BOWL CARES

YOUTH SPORTS

Through a wide variety of amateur athletic programming, Orange Bowl is transforming the lives of thousands of South Florida boys and girls annually through youth sports.

Beyond the football and cheer leagues of the Orange Bowl Youth Football Alliance, Orange Bowl supports youth programming in golf (Orange Bowl Drive for Excellence Girls Golf Program), tennis (Orange Bowl International Tennis Championships, which celebrated its 75th anniversary in 2021), sailing (Orange Bowl International Youth Sailing Regatta), softball (Orange Bowl Florida Fastpitch Softball Invitational), and track & field (Orange Bowl FLYTAF Invitational).

Student-athletes who participate in the Orange Bowl Florida High School Football Showcase presented by Baptist Health and Orange Bowl Florida High School Basketball Showcase are provided with a unique opportunity to showcase their talents for Division II, III, NAIA and JUCO educational institutions, with the goal of playing at the next level and earning a college degree.

EDUCATION

Orange Bowl continues to provide outstanding educational programs and opportunities for South Florida students and teachers.

The Orange Bowl Leadership Academy, an after-school program for select middle school students in Broward and Miami-Dade counties, provides a series of educational and interactive sessions designed to unleash the potential of participants and provide inspiration for their futures. The Orange Bowl Creative Art Contest engages students from kindergarten through high school with an opportunity to win prizes and recognition.

In addition to this hands-on programming, Orange Bowl supports a number of meaningful scholarships to support students in their high-

Orange Bowl's partnership with the College Football Playoff Foundation enables it to bring outstanding programs and support to South Florida educators. Through the CFP Foundation's primary platform, Extra Yard for Teachers, Orange Bowl provides classroom resources and recognition for their tireless dedication to local students.

COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

Orange Bowl's year-round engagement efforts reach every corner of the South Florida community.

The organization, its members, staff and volunteers engage directly with South Florida residents by hosting events like the Sunshine Health Orange Bowl Family Fun & Fit Day presented by PNC Bank, Orange Bowl Family Fall Fest presented by Amerant, and by volunteering with local organizations at food and supply distributions and participating in toy drives.

Orange Bowl also provides support to community partners in hosting events and programs such as the Brian Piccolo Scholar Athlete Awards Banquet and the Junior Orange Bowl. Fundraising events like the Orange Bowl Food and Wine Celebration presented by Florida Blue and the AvMed Orange Bowl Beach Run presented by Celebrity Cruises raise funds for local nonprofits including Make-A-Wish Southern Florida, Special Olympics Florida, and Big Brothers Big Sisters Miami.

LEGACY PROGRAMS

Orange Bowl and its partners have committed more than $25 million to legacy programs, major projects intended to have a lasting impact on the day-to-day lives of South Florida residents.

Six Orange Bowl Field legacy parks have been completed, including Miami's Moore Park (2011), Fort Lauderdale's Carter Park (2013), Miami-Dade County's Ives Estates Park (2015), Homestead's Harris Field Park (2017), Belle Glade's Glades Pioneer Park (2018) and Pompano Beach's Mitchell Moore Park (2022). The renovations include brand new football fields, state-of-the-art facilities, locker rooms, concessions, scoreboards and track & field areas and benefit nearly one million South Floridians annually.

In collaboration with the College Football Playoff Foundation and other key partners, Orange Bowl has renovated more than 30 school media centers in South Florida's tri-county area, providing new modernized classroom furniture and equipment to encourage a more creative environment. These spaces benefit more than 28,000 students and teachers in Broward, Miami-Dade and Palm Beach counties each

These Orange Bowl Florida High School Showcases are FREE one day events that provide an opportunity for Florida high school student-athletes to meet with educational institutions from across the country. Since 2017, more than $8 million in scholarship aid has been earned by showcase participants.

- Free one-day event for unsigned high school juniors & seniors.
- Free admission for all colleges that pre-register
- Opportunity for student-athletes to showcase talents for attending educational institutions (e.g. Div. II, III, NAIA)

CHRONIC MIGRAINE

BOTOX® prevents headaches in adults with Chronic Migraine: 15 or more headache days a month, each lasting 4 hours or more. BOTOX® is not approved for 14 or fewer headache days a month.

BOTOX® prevents, on average, 8 to 9 headache days and migraine/probable migraine days a month (vs 6 to 7 for placebo).

BOTOX® for Chronic Migraine?

what about cost?

does it work?

Questions about BOTOX®? It's time to ask your doctor.

INDICATION

BOTOX® (onabotulinumtoxinA) is a prescription medicine that is injected into muscles and used to prevent headaches in adults with chronic migraine who have 15 or more days each month with headache lasting 4 or more hours each day in people 18 years and older. It is not known whether BOTOX is safe and effective to prevent headaches in patients with migraine who have 14 or fewer headache days each month (episodic migraine).

IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION

BOTOX may cause serious side effects that can be life threatening. Get medical help right away if you have any of these problems any time (hours to weeks) after injection of BOTOX:

- Problems swallowing, speaking, or breathing, due to weakening of associated muscles, can be severe and result in loss of life. You are at the highest risk if these problems are preexisting before injection. Swallowing problems may last for several months.
- Spread of toxin effects. The effect of botulinum toxin may affect areas away from the injection site and cause serious symptoms, including loss of strength and all-over muscle weakness; double vision; blurred vision; drooping eyelids; hoarseness or change or loss of voice; trouble saying words clearly; loss of bladder control; trouble breathing; and trouble swallowing.

There has not been a confirmed serious case of spread of toxin effect away from the injection site when BOTOX has been used at the recommended dose to treat chronic migraine.

BOTOX may cause loss of strength or general muscle weakness, vision problems, or dizziness within hours to weeks of receiving BOTOX. If this happens, do not drive a car, operate machinery, or do other dangerous activities.

Do not receive BOTOX if you are allergic to any of the ingredients in BOTOX (see Medication Guide for ingredients); had an allergic reaction to any other botulinum toxin product such as Myobloc® (rimabotulinumtoxinB), Dysport® (abobotulinumtoxinA), or Xeomin® (incobotulinumtoxinA); have a skin infection at the planned injection site.

The dose of BOTOX is not the same as, or comparable to, another botulinum toxin product.

Serious and/or immediate allergic reactions have been reported, including itching; rash; red, itchy welts; wheezing; asthma symptoms; dizziness; or feeling faint. Get medical help right away if you experience symptoms; further injection of BOTOX should be discontinued.

Tell your doctor about all your muscle or nerve conditions, such as ALS or Lou Gehrig's disease, myasthenia gravis, or Lambert-Eaton syndrome, as you may be at increased risk of serious side effects, including difficulty swallowing and difficulty breathing from typical doses of BOTOX.

Tell your doctor about all your medical conditions, including if you have or have had bleeding problems; have plans to have surgery; had surgery on your face; have weakness of forehead muscles, trouble raising your eyebrows, drooping eyelids, and any other abnormal facial change; are pregnant or plan to become pregnant (it is not known if BOTOX can harm your unborn baby); are breastfeeding or plan to (it is not known if BOTOX passes into breast milk).

Tell your doctor about all the medicines you take, including prescription and over-the-counter medicines, vitamins, and herbal supplements. Using BOTOX with certain other medicines may cause serious side effects. Do not start any new medicines until you have told your doctor that you have received BOTOX in the past.

Tell your doctor if you received any other botulinum toxin product in the last 4 months; have received injections of botulinum toxin such as Myobloc®, Dysport®, or Xeomin® in the past (tell your doctor exactly which product you received); have recently received an antibiotic by injection; take muscle relaxants; take an allergy or cold medicine; take a sleep medicine; take aspirin-like products or blood thinners.

Other side effects of BOTOX include dry mouth; discomfort or pain at the injection site; tiredness; headache; neck pain; eye problems such as double vision, blurred vision, decreased eyesight, drooping eyelids, swelling of your eyelids, and dry eyes; drooping eyebrows; and upper respiratory tract infection.

For more information, refer to the Medication Guide or talk with your doctor.

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA. Visit www.fda.gov/medwatch or call 1-800-FDA-1088.

ORANGE BOWL LEGACY PROGRAM

More than $25 million in renovations range Bowl focuses on projects designed to have a lasting impact on the day-to-day lives of South Florida residents, through our Legacy Parks and Media Center Makeovers. Six parks throughout the tri-county area have undergone transformation and renovation thanks to Orange Bowl and its partners. The renovations benefit nearly one million South Floridians annually and include brand new football fields, state-of-the-art facilities, locker rooms, concessions, scoreboards, track & field areas, and more.

In collaboration with the College Football Playoff Foundation and other key partners, Orange Bowl has renovated more than 30 school media centers in South Florida's tri-county area, providing new modernized classroom furniture and equipment to encourage a more creative environment. These spaces benefit approximately 30,000 students and teachers in Miami-Dade, Broward and Palm Beach counties each year.

ORANGE BOWL YOUTH FOOTBALL ALLIANCE

he Orange Bowl Youth Football Alliance (OBYFA) is home to some of the most talented young athletes in South Florida. Year in and year out, OBYFA leagues from as far south as Key West to as far north as Lake Okeechobee are peppered with future NCAA and NFL stars. Some notable alumni of the OBYFA include former Florida State running back and the 2016 Orange Bowl Most Outstanding Player Dalvin Cook, Buffalo Bills wide receiver Isaiah McKenzie, and NFL quarterbacks Teddy Bridgewater and Geno Smith, who led West Virginia to a 70-33 victory over Clemson in the 2012 Orange Bowl. In the win over the Tigers, Smith shattered the Orange Bowl record book, setting records for passing yards (407), passing touchdowns (6) and total touchdowns (7).

Since its inception in 1999, the Orange Bowl Youth Football Alliance has grown to support four recreational leagues and four competitive leagues under its umbrella. The recreational league rules stipulate that kids come from a specific geographic area or community and all have an opportunity to play, while the competitive leagues hold tryouts for their roster spots on traveling teams. More than 13,000 young football players and cheerleaders in eight football leagues across multiple South Florida counties directly benefit from the Orange Bowl Youth Football Alliance. Youth sports is one of the four pillars of Orange Bowl Cares, Orange Bowl's overarching community giveback initiative, which also includes Education, Community Engagement and Legacy Programs.

For 90 years, the Orange Bowl Committee has been one of South Florida's leading civic organizations, promoting championship sporting events, related premier entertainment and other year-round activities to inspire youth, engage our community and enhance the South Florida economy.

Throughout the 2023 season, the OBYFA's Park of the Week program recognized selected youth football parks across South Florida each Saturday during the fall. At the weekly caravan-style celebration, Orange Bowl staff and committee members presented each park with a commemorative plaque and financial contributions for park improvements while also distributing promotional items and discounts from official sponsors of the Orange Bowl Youth Football Alliance.

At the culmination of the season, Orange Bowl proudly supports league championships and Super Bowls on gridirons across the Orange Bowl Youth Football Alliance. Cheerleaders also get their chance to shine as squads compete annually for titles at the annual Orange Bowl Cheer Championships. The Orange Bowl Youth Football Alliance is partnered with associate sponsors Achilles Tires, American Airlines, Baptist Health Orthopedic Care, Comcast, Duffy's Sports Grill, Nike, Toyota, and Truist.

ORANGE BOWL FLORIDA HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL & BASKETBALL SHOWCASES

he eighth annual Orange Bowl Florida High School Football Showcase presented by Baptist Health will take place on February 24, 2024. This event is a free one-day event in association with the National Football Foundation (NFF) and its local chapters, which will bring together academically qualified high school seniors from Florida, and football coaches from NCAA Division II, III and NAIA programs across the country. The Showcase will be held at St. Thomas University in Miami Gardens, Fla.

The fourth annual Orange Bowl Florida High School Basketball Showcase will take place on March 9, 2024, at the David Posnack JCC in Davie, Fla. Like the football showcase, this event is a free one-day event that will bring together academically qualified high school juniors and seniors from Florida, and basketball coaches from NCAA Division II, III, NAIA programs and Junior Colleges across the country.

The Orange Bowl Florida High School Football Showcase presented by Baptist Health and Orange Bowl Florida High School Basketball Showcase will provide an unprecedented opportunity for young student-athletes to use their athletic and academic skills to earn collegiate scholarships and ultimately a college degree.

Capital One Halftime Show | WALK THE MOON

ontinuing the tradition of the most iconic halftime show in all of college football, multi-platinum band WALK THE MOON will headline the Capital One Halftime Show during the 90th Capital One Orange Bowl on Dec. 30 at Hard Rock Stadium. WALK THE MOON join an esteemed list of recent Capital One Orange Bowl halftime acts that include Fitz and The Tantrums, Walker Hayes, Gavin De-Graw, Flo Rida, and Andy Grammer.

WALK THE MOON catapulted to stardom after the release of their multi-platinum global smash hit "Shut Up + Dance," rising to No. 4 on the Billboard Hot 100 chart and breaking the record for consecutive weeks at No. 1 on the Billboard Hot Rock Songs chart. They are also known for the platinum single "Anna Sun" - which debuted at No. 39 on the Alternative Songs chart and peaked at No. 10, spending 18 weeks on the charts - as well as gold-certified single "One Foot."

Aside from winning two Billboard Music Awards, the band has received numerous accolades, including nominations for Best Rock Video, MTV Music Video Award, American Music Award, Favorite Pop/ Rock Duo or Group, New Artist of the Year, and Favorite Alternative Rock Artist. They have also received nominations for the iHeartRadio Music Award, Song of the Year, and Alternative Rock Song of the Year for their song "Shut Up + Dance."

The Capital One Halftime Show is brought to you by Capital One and produced by ACT Productions. Halftime choreography, staging, and dancers by South Florida's very own nationally-recognized Hip Hop Kidz, directed by Suzy Stone and Ali Rae.

EVERY GAME COUNTS

The College Football Playoff (CFP) is a postseason event to determine college football's national champion on the field, while emphasizing the significance of college football's unique regular season where every game counts.

RANKINGS

The selection committee ranks the top 25 teams based on the members' evaluation of the teams' performance on the field, using conference championships won, strength of schedule, head-to-head results, and comparison of results against common opponents to decide among teams that are comparable. The top four teams meet in Playoff Semifinals played in bowl games played during the New Year's holiday.

TRADITION

The New Year's holiday period belongs to college football, with two semifinal games rotating annually among the Cotton Bowl, Fiesta Bowl, Orange Bowl, Peach Bowl, Rose Bowl and Sugar Bowl.

CHAMPIONSHIP MONDAY

The two teams that win the Playoff Semifinals compete for the College Football Playoff National Championship. The national championship game is in a different city each year, always on a Monday night.

UNIVERSAL ACCESS

Every Football Bowl Subdivision (FBS) team has equal access to the College Football Playoff based on its performance during the regular season. No team automatically qualifies.

GOVERNANCE

University presidents and chancellors from all 10 FBS conferences and Notre Dame serve as the board of managers and govern the administrative operations, with commissioners and Notre Dame athletics director (the Management Committee) managing the event. A small staff in the CFP office in Irving, Texas, carries out the day-to-day responsibilities.

SELECTION COMMITTEE

A talented group of 13 high-integrity individuals with experience as coaches, student-athletes, college administrators and journalists, along with sitting athletics directors, comprise the selection committee. Members of the committee are Chris Ault, Mitch Barnhart, Boo Corrigan (chair), Chet Gladchuk, Jim Grobe, Mark Harlan, Warde Manuel, David Salyer, Will Shields, Gene Taylor, Joe Taylor, Rod West and Kelly Whiteside.

SELECTION COMMITTEE RESPONSIBILITIES

- Rank the top 25 teams and assign the top four to Playoff Semifinal sites.
- · Assign teams to the other New Year's bowls.
 - · Create competitive matchups.
 - Attempt to avoid rematches of regular-season games and repeat appearances in specific bowls.
 - Consider geography.

PARTICIPANTS IN THE NEW YEAR'S SIX BOWLS

Both participants in the Orange, Rose and Sugar bowls are contracted outside the playoff arrangement (Big Ten and Pac-12 to Rose Bowl; SEC and Big 12 to Sugar Bowl; ACC to Orange Bowl against the highest-ranked available team from the SEC, Big Ten and Notre Dame). If a conference champion qualifies for the playoff, then the bowl will choose a replacement from that conference. When those bowls host the semifinals and their contracted conference champions do not qualify, then the displaced champion(s) will play in one of the other New Year's bowls.

When not hosting semifinals, the Cotton, Fiesta and Peach bowls will welcome the highest-ranked teams, any displaced conference champions, and the top-ranked champion from a non-contract conference. The highest-ranked available teams will fill any other berths. The selection committee will make the pairings.

SCHEDULE

Black boxes indicate Playoff Semifinals

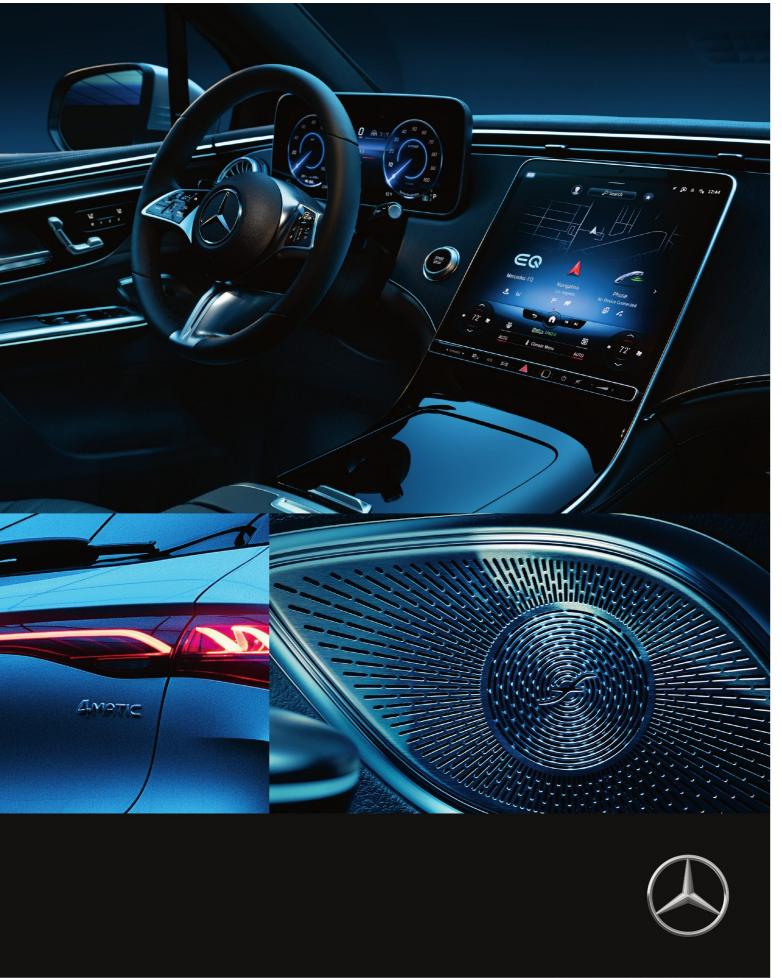

The 12-team format of the College Football Playoff is set to begin in 2024.

2024 First Round Games (On Campus): Friday, December 20 (one game) and Saturday, December 21 (three games) 2025 First Round Games (on Campus): Friday, December 19 (one game) and Saturday, December 20 (three games)

ACC & THE ORANGE BOWL

s part of the College Football Playoff system, the Orange Bowl and Atlantic Coast Conference (ACC) extended their relationship with an agreement that began in 2014, ensuring that the Orange Bowl continues to serve as the "Home of the ACC Champion."

If the ACC champion is identified as one of the top four teams by the College Football Playoff selection committee, then the ACC champion will participate in the national semifinals and a replacement team from the ACC would participate in the Capital One Orange Bowl. The annual ACC representative will face a highly ranked team from the Big Ten Conference, the Southeastern Conference (SEC) or Notre Dame.

The new format that began in 2014 will continue through the 2023-24 season, after which the playoff will expand to 12 teams. The Championship Game is managed by the 10 conferences and Notre Dame and is awarded on a bid basis to neutral sites. It is played on a Monday at least six days after the last Semifinal game. The College Football Playoff selection committee ranks the teams for the playoff.

In 2015, the Orange Bowl hosted its first Playoff Semifinal (No. 1 Clemson vs. No. 4 Oklahoma on Dec. 31) and 2018's matchup was the second (No. 1 Alabama vs. No. 4 Oklahoma on Dec. 29), and the third was in 2021 (No. 2 Michigan vs. No. 3 Georgia on Dec. 31). In the years the Capital One Orange Bowl serves as a Playoff Semifinal host, the ACC champion - if not in the College Football Playoff - would then participate in either the Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl or VRBO Fiesta Bowl.

The Orange Bowl has been the "Home of the ACC Champion" since 2006. The Capital One Orange Bowl previously had similar agreements with the Big Eight and Big East Conferences, but its agreement with the ACC is the first exclusive agreement between the Orange Bowl and an NCAA Football Bowl Subdivision (formerly I-A) conference since 1995.

The Orange Bowl has been the "Home of the ACC Champion" since 2006

Current ACC schools have made a total of 48 appearances in the Orange Bowl, including all-ACC matchups in 1951 (Clemson vs. Miami), 2004 (Miami vs. Florida State) and 2007 (Wake Forest vs. Louisville). The 1951 contest came prior to the ACC's inception in 1953; the 2004 game came a year before Miami's acceptance into the league; and the 2007 matchup featured the Cardinals who joined the ACC in 2014.

Among the 21 national champions or national championship games hosted by the Orange Bowl or in South Florida, current ACC teams have played in seven national title games, winning five. Clemson won its first national title at the 1982 Orange Bowl; Miami won three of its five crowns at the 1984, '88 and '92 Orange Bowls; and Florida State earned its first of three national championships at the 1994 Orange Bowl.

This year, the ACC champion was once again decided at Bank of America Stadium in Charlotte, N.C., in the ACC Championship Game. In years when the Capital One Orange Bowl is not hosting a Playoff Semifinal, the winner of the ACC Championship between the champions of the ACC's Atlantic and Coastal divisions, is guaranteed an automatic berth in the Capital One Orange Bowl, unless that team is selected for the College Football Playoff.

First played in 2005, the ACC title game has been played in Jacksonville, Tampa, Orlando and Charlotte, N.C. Florida State (2006), Wake Forest (2007), Virginia Tech (2008, '09, '11), Georgia Tech (2010) and Clemson (2012, '15) each played in the Orange Bowl following a win at the ACC Championship, while Florida State's victory over Duke in 2013 catapulted the Seminoles to victory in the final BCS National Championship. In the first eight seasons of the College Football Playoff, the ACC captured two national titles (Clemson in the 2016 and 2018 seasons) out of seven Playoff appearances (FSU in 2014 and Clemson 2015-20).

ACCOMPLISH GREATNESS

TODAY'S GAME

ollege football history is in the making today at Hard Rock Stadium.

For the first time, a bowl game which is not part of the College Football Playoff is fortunate enough to host an undefeated Power-Five conference champion. Also, for the first time, on the opposite sideline is a two-time defending national champion coming off a 29-game winning

Today's 90th Capital One Orange Bowl can boast a showcase and most intriguing matchup, as college football fans from coast to coast surely will have their eyes on which team of the Florida State Seminoles (13-0) and the Georgia Bulldogs (12-1) can bounce back from their respective shocking disappointments of the past month.

As we all know, Florida State is not coming off a loss, however. In fact, the Seminoles are riding a 19-game winning streak, the second-longest in program history. They will attempt to put their bitter disappointment of not being included in the four-team playoff in their rear-view mirror today, after rolling through the 2023 season on their way to an Atlantic Coast Championship, which Seminole fans believed was surely enough for their team to be playing on New Year's Day in either New Orleans or Pasadena, Calif.

On the other hand, mighty Georgia, coming off successive national championships, was almost as emotionally downtrodden after losing 27-24 to Alabama in the SEC Championship Game on December 2, firmly believing it too was one of the four best teams in the country once again before the Crimson Tide put a roadblock on Kirby Smart's burgeoning dynasty.

Thus, you can go ahead and label this the "Retribution Bowl" if you so desire, because we will surely see two angry, extremely motivated and very talented football teams when the game kicks off shortly after 4 p.m. today.

"I did talk to our team about this," Smart said. "They are very excited. I think of all the ballgames we could be in outside of the playoff, this is where our kids would love to be. This part of it is good. And I know our kids are going to be up for FSU and FSU is going to be up for us. We're going to rely on each other to have that ... to be able to go out and play another game."

There is no sugar-coating the Seminoles' supreme disappointment and shock at not getting selected as one of the four-best teams on December 3, but Florida State Coach Mike Norvell expects his players to respond to its next challenge - today's mental challenge of bouncing back emotionally to face Georgia.

"I know our players were disappointed with the news of not getting to compete for a national championship," he explained. "We've had a team that has responded throughout the course of the year. They've responded to adversity. They've had to fight through it, to overcome. I believe in the heart and character of this team. And I know they will respond once again."

And unlike having to respond to disappointment during the regular season, 27 days can give players from both teams time to heal their bodies and re-focus their minds on meeting new challenges and achieving new goals in attempting to sending the 2023 season out in style. Beating the defending 2021 and '22 national champions would give the Seminoles 20 wins in a row and bragging rights to claim once again that they were indeed one of the very best teams in the nation.

On the other hand, beating the ACC champions would give the Bulldogs their seventh consecutive postseason (bowl/CFB playoff) win and the right to claim they are not going anywhere on the national landscape and they will once again be the team to beat heading into the 2024 college football season.

"It's tough," Smart admitted. "I can't imagine it ... being undefeated. It's tough when you finish fifth or sixth, because there's always a case for being in it. We've been there maybe two or three times ourselves."

Minutes after the three-point loss to the Crimson Tide ended their three-peat dreams, Smart gathered his team around him in the bowels of the Mercedes-Benz Stadium in Atlanta and delivered this message: "I love you guys. I love this team. I love everyone in this room. And when you lose, here's what you do: You don't look around you to point the finger outward. You say, 'What can I do? What could've I done better?' It's got to mean something to you. What we can control is what we can do moving forward. You guys are fighters, you are competitors. I am proud of you. And we are not done yet ... "

That, they are not.

The elite competition across the line of scrimmage in this matchup is something Norvell will tap into as well, in an attempt to re-energize his Seminoles.

"I absolutely respect the opportunity that's here at the Orange Bowl," he said. "There's such a great history with Florida State and the Orange Bowl and to be able to get matched up against the best team in college football over the last three years ... You look at Coach Smart and the job they've done. This is a special team that we're going to go against. This is a team that's really set the stand over the last few years."

The Seminoles are 5-5 all time in Orange Bowl history, winning Bobby Bowden's first of two national championships by beating Nebraska 18-16 on New Year's Day of 1994 just down the road in the old Orange Bowl Stadium.

This will be Georgia's fifth Orange Bowl appearance. The Bulldogs' very first bowl game came here on New Year's Day 1942, just 25 days following the bombing of Pearl Harbor, when quarterback Frank Sinkwich stole the show while playing with a broken jaw, passing for three touchdowns and running for another as he rolled up 355 total yards in a 40-26 win over Texas Christian. The following season, Sinkwich would win the Heisman Trophy.

In all, Georgia has won three of its four previous Orange Bowl games, including a decisive 34-11 win over Michigan in the College Football Playoff semifinal in 2021.

This will be the 12th matchup between Florida State and Georgia and the first since 2002 when Mark Richt's Bulldogs defeated his mentor's team, Bowden's Seminoles, 26-13 in the Sugar Bowl. Georgia leads the series 6-4-1, with a 17-17 tie coming in the 1984 Citrus Bowl.

Following today's meeting, these tradition-rich programs won't have to wait too long to match up again: They are scheduled to play a home-and-home series in 2027 and '28.

The Seminoles got the season off to a flying start on Labor Day night 235 miles to the North, rallying with an almost perfect second half to destroy LSU 45-24 in Orlando and send notice to the rest of the country that this team was one to be reckoned with. Three games later, they survived an overtime showdown at Clemson, 31-24, one of only three one-score games during the entire season, and then rolled through the remainder of the ACC, including defensive masterpieces in a 24-15 win at rival Florida and a 16-6 win over Louisville in the conference title game in Charlotte.

The latter two games were played without superstar quarterback Jordan Travis, who sustained a career-ending lower-leg injury in the first quarter of the 58-13 home win over Northern Alabama on November 18. To that point, Travis had delivered a Heisman Trophy-type season, passing for 2,755 yards by completing 207-of-324 attempts (63.9 percent) and 20 touchdowns. He was intercepted only twice. He also rushed for seven touchdowns.

Seeing the severity of Travis' injury when he walked onto the field that night at Doak Campbell Stadium, Norvell was devastated for his star player but was buoyed by his quarterback's maturity and outlook.

"With all of the emotions, and you felt the support, you felt the care, the concern for him. He was remarkable. I mean, his composure on the field, in pain, all things, he's just telling me, 'Coach, I'm good. I'm good. Tell my mom I'm OK, and I'm good," Norvell

"It was devastating just for him, for who he is, for what he's meant to this program. The impact that he's made on and off the field, to know that his last play at Florida State has happened, it's hard."

Down 13-0 at the time, the Seminoles then turned to Tate Rodemaker, the junior from Valdosta, Ga., who promptly guided them to 58 unanswered points. The following week, he picked up where he left off, leading the Seminoles back from a 12-0 deficit in front of a raucous crowd on the road in Gainesville, until he too went down with a concussion on a hard hit while sliding feet first for a first down. At that point, he got better as the game wore on, completing 12-of-25 passes for 134 yards.

But it was the defense that won the rivalry as the Gators managed only 86 passing yards – the Seminoles outscored them 17-3 in the second half to come from behind.

With Rodemaker sidelined, Florida State then turned to true freshman Brock Glenn, who steered the 16-6 win over Louisville, behind another staunch defensive effort which completely stifled the Cardinals' explosive offense. Jeff Brohm's team was held to season lows of 10 first downs and only 188 yards and just two second-half field goals. It was another dominant defensive performance when the Seminoles needed it most, recording seven sacks and holding the Cardinals to only 111 passing yards, also by far their season low.

"These guys pressed us across the board - on the slot, on the outside," Brohm said. "They challenged routes, and we had to earn our completions. And we didn't have many."

At the time of Travis' devastating injury, Florida State was seventh in the nation in scoring at 40.1 points per game and 17th in total offense at 451.7 yards before, but the production dropped to 221.5 yards per game in the final two wins. The Seminoles rank sixth in the nation in scoring defense (15.9) and 14th in the nation in total defense (305.7).

The Seminoles' defense is undoubtedly one of the best, leading the nation in opponents' completion percentage (.468), passes defended (87), while it was second in total sack yardage (316),

Up there is when our Ecosystem matters most third in sacks (45) and fourth in passing touchdowns allowed (eight).

After 13 wins, it turned out to be a defense that surely was national championship worthy.

Today, Rodemaker will be back and healthy to face his home state team, and with more than three weeks to prepare, he looks to give the Seminoles a fully balanced attack against Georgia's stingy defense. However, Florida State will be without second-leading receiver Johnny Wilson, who has opted out to prepare for the NFL draft. At press time, it was not known if leading receiver Keon Coleman (50 receptions, 658 yards and 11 touchdowns) would play in the game.

That also goes for running back Trey Benson, who leads the team in scrimmage yards with 1,132, rushing for 905 and having 227 yards receiving. Lawrence Toafili gives Florida State a great second option at running back. He gained 118 yards on just 10 carries with a touchdown in the ACC Championship Game.

And during an era when the CFB Playoff trickle-down effect of opt-out statistics are almost as important as yards gained and points scored, at least when it comes to post-season games, it also was not known which Georgia stars would be available.

The status of all-world tight end Brock Bowers, a sure first-round pick who battled an ankle injury for much of the season, was unknown. Bowers, who had 56 catches for 713 yards and six touchdowns this season, became the first two-time winner of the Mackey Award given to the nation's best tight end.

Also, the availability of junior receiver Ladd McConkey, who also was sidelined for six games this season with back and ankle injuries, was up in the air as of mid-December.

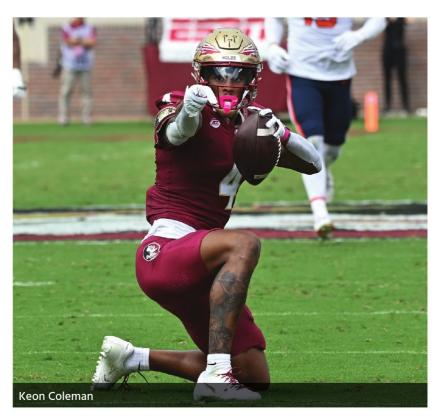

One breakout star who most likely will be on the field tonight is quarterback Carson Beck, who picked up this season right where folk hero Stetson Bennett left off in the 65-7 destruction of TCU in the national title game a year ago.

Beck, the 6-4, 220-pound junior from Jacksonville, completed 289-of-399 of his passes for an amazing 72.4 percent in his first season as a starter, totaling 3,738 yards and 22 touchdowns. He was intercepted only four times.

There is no doubt that he will be a Heisman Trophy contender when the 2024 season kicks off next September.

But first, he will try to send his senior teammates off in style today.

Norvell admitted that other than trying to win a national championship, he wouldn't want to be anywhere else but playing in the Orange Bowl and he expected Dade and Broward County to become Tallahassee South at least for the week, especially with more than 25 players on the roster hailing from South Florida high school programs.

TOURNEAU BUCHERER 1888 THE DESTINATION FOR EXCEPTIONAL WATCHES AND FINE JEWELRY WHERE WILL TIME TAKE YOU BAL HARBOUR SHOPS 175 WORTH AVE TOURNEAU.COM

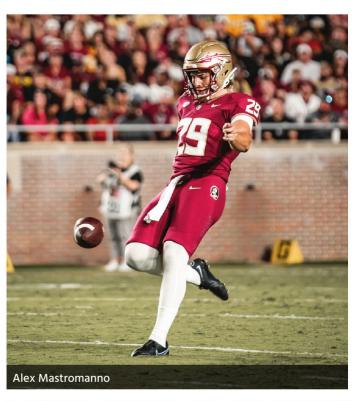

"It does have a great recruiting impact," he explained. "To be able to be here in our home state. I mean, a lot of our best players are from South Florida. It's going to be a chance for them to be able to go home, to be able to play in front of their families, just to be able to showcase once again the identity of our team, where we're going and what we're building in Tallahassee. It's going to be a great opportunity for us ... to be able to be part of the 90th [Orange Bowl] is special."

Twenty-seven days ago, when this matchup was announced, Smart was asked if his team would be "facing a hornet's nest" in the spurned Seminoles.

"We have a hornet's nest around here, too," he quickly responded. "That works both ways. The good news is we have each other to go play. I know they will be up for us and we'll up for them!"

If he's correct, whichever team has bounced back emotionally and shaken off the disappointment to play their best football likely will be the team hosting that giant trophy full of oranges at about 7:30 tonight, as well as giving itself one gigantic kickstart heading into 2024.

Therefore, let the angriest group of Seminoles or Bulldogs ... or hornets, if you will, make their case and capture the best consolation prize this side of a national championship.

SCOUTING THE FLORIDA STATE OFFENSE

by Seth Berkman

he Florida State Seminoles' offense may have been the most talked about unit in the country over the last month of the college football season, due to the injury suffered on November 18 by star quarterback Jordan Travis.

In a game against North Alabama, Travis injured his leg and was carted off the field at Doak Campbell Stadium, immediately changing the face of the Seminoles' offense.

Tate Rodemaker closed out North Alabama and steadied the Seminoles to a win over rival Florida one week later, but it was evident that a highly powerful Seminoles offense was not the same without Travis under center. However, if Rodemaker returns in time from injury, he will be looking to silence the naysayers in the Orange Bowl, and has plenty of teammates who can put up points against a vaunted Georgia defense.

Rodemaker, nor backup quarterback Brock Glenn, are as mobile as Travis, and the Seminoles seemed to look for him to complete shorter passes during his time at quarterback this season. You would like to see the Seminoles let Rodemaker take some chances downfield, but he will be missing some very big targets, so the 'Noles may keep it conservative early on.

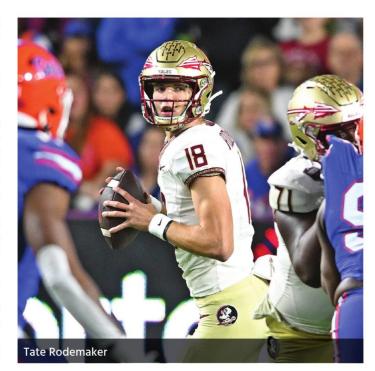

Johnny Wilson, the 6-foot-7 receiver who was a favored target of Travis, decided to forego playing in the Orange Bowl to prepare for the NFL Draft. If Keon Coleman, the Seminoles' best big play receiver, is on the field, look for Rodemaker to pass his way early and often. If not, others will have to fill some very big shoes.

Rather than having Rodemaker try to win the game with his arm, a powerful rushing attack is likely the Seminoles' plan to subdue the Georgia defense. Running backs Trey Benson and Lawrance Toafili formed one of the best backfield combos in the country, both carrying an ability to bruise tacklers and break free for game-changing runs.

Jaheim Bell is a bit of a do-it-all player and could be an X-factor against Georgia, a team he's familiar with after previously playing in the SEC. You might see Bell in a traditional tight end spot one play or in the backfield the next, and he could be a nice safety blanket option for Rodemaker or whoever is taking a majority of the snaps for the Seminoles. In the absence of Wilson and others, tight end Kyle Morlock is another player who may have more balls thrown his way, in addition to a plethora of young, hungry receivers who played behind Wilson and Coleman all season.

Putting up points against a team like Georgia is no easy task, but the Seminoles have won several times when the tables were turned against them, so never count out Mike Norvell's crew.

SCOUTING THE GEORGIA DEFENSE

en of the Georgia Bulldogs' 12 victories this season were by double digits, and that's thanks in large part to a defense that suffocated opposing quarterbacks week in and week out. In fact, no team scored more than 27 points against the Bulldogs, as they shut down ranked teams like Kentucky, Missouri, Ole Miss, and Tennessee. Overall, teams averaged just over 16 points against the Bulldogs.

In facing the Florida State Seminoles, the Bulldogs are going up against an opponent that won't be 100 percent on offense, and you can bet coach Kirby Smart and company will look to exploit a depleted roster on the other side of the field.

With Tate Rodemaker likely to start for Florida State, the Bulldogs will see a guarterback who clocked limited time and is coming off an injury suffered on November 25 against Florida. Expect lots of pressure early in the game from the Bulldogs, who will look to rattle an inexperienced signal caller who, frankly, has yet to play against a team as loaded on defense as Georgia.

The Bulldogs have to be cognizant of Florida State's explosive running backs, but if they're able to neutralize Rodemaker, Smart and company can focus more on stopping the running game. Look for sophomore Jalon Walker to be a constant presence on blitzes, as he led the Bulldogs with five sacks this season, and was one of seven players with multiple sacks.

The absence of Florida State wide receiver Johnny Wilson takes away a huge target for Rodemaker, which could lead to more oneon-one coverage against the rest of the receiving corps. Senior Tykee Smith led the Bulldogs with four interceptions, 8.5 tackles for a loss, and was second on the team in tackles. Rodemaker might be best trying to dink and dunk to his receivers on screen passes, as the Bulldogs only allowed 177 yards passing per game.

The Bulldogs will be looking for redemption after being upset in the SEC Championship game. One major factor in their favor is that Florida State, with a backup quarterback, needs to get big chunk plays early since teams were successful on third down against the Bulldogs just over 26 percent of the time. That could mean Florida State tries to pull out some tricks to throw the Bulldogs' defense off balance, and maybe build some confidence for their quarterback who will be staring down a bunch of hungry Dawgs.

SCOUTING THE GEORGIA OFFENSE & SPECIAL TEAMS

by Seth Berkman

he Georgia Bulldogs scored 30 or more points in 10 games this season and averaged over 38 points per game behind one of the best offenses in the country. They are equally proficient on the ground as they are passing the ball, putting up over 177 yards per game rushing and 305 yards passing.

Leading the way is junior quarterback Carson Beck, who completed over 72 percent of his passes for 3,738 yards. Beck also tossed 22 touchdowns compared to just six interceptions. He is not a supremely mobile quarterback but can pick up some yards when on the move, evident by his four rushing touchdowns this season. The uncertain status of Brock Bowers, Ladd McConkey, and other top targets is a bit of a blow, but Beck has shown the ability to build rapports with several receivers, and has displayed the precision and decision-making ability to thrive no matter his surroundings.

The Bulldogs received a big boost when senior running back Kendall Milton announced his intention to play in the Orange Bowl. Ever since juniors and seniors began skipping bowl games to prepare for the NFL Draft about a decade ago, some teams' best talent have missed out on bowl games. But Milton said he couldn't abandon his brothers on the Bulldogs and will be one of many players looking to end their storied careers with a major bowl game win.

Milton led the Bulldogs with 12 rushing touchdowns and really turned it on toward the end of the season, posting 127 yards and two touchdowns versus Ole Miss and 156 yards and a pair of scores against rival Georgia Tech.

In bowl games where anything goes, don't be surprised if the Bulldogs go for it on fourth down in unorthodox situations. This season, they were very effective on fourth down, converting eight of 10 attempts.

> On special teams, the Bulldogs are solid with punter Brett Thorson and kicker Peyton Woodring. Thorson averaged just under 43 yards per punt, with 13 of his 31 punts landing inside the 20 yard line. Woodring converted on 21 of 25 field goals, with a season long of 48 yards, and he did not miss an extra point attempt. Jared Zirkel handled kickoff duties, notching touchbacks on 62 of 95 kicks.

> Mekhi Mews primarily took kickoff and punt returns, and has shown the ability to change the momentum of a game, running one punt back for a touchdown this season, and he will certainly be a player the Florida State special teams players keep an eye on.

SCOUTING THE FLORIDA STATE DEFENSE & SPECIAL TEAMS

by Seth Berkman

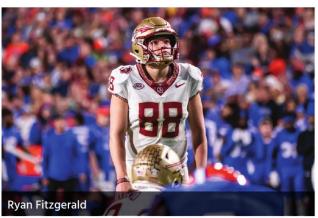

ou do not go undefeated without a stout defense, and the Florida State Seminoles put one of the best defensive units in school history on the field this season. That's saying a lot when you have names like Derrick Brooks, Deion Sanders, and Jalen Ramsey among the greats who've suited up in the garnet and gold. But the 2023 team already holds a special place in Seminoles fans' hearts and are looking to make one more memory with an Orange Bowl victory

The Seminoles' opponents averaged under 16 points per game and just over 170 yards passing in each contest this season. In fact, opposing offenses scored only eight passing touchdowns all year against the Seminoles. The key to these gaudy defensive numbers were a great pass rush and good coverage by the defensive backs, who proved they can take control of any game, whether it be against in-state rivals or in championship game settings.

Speaking of championship games, the Seminoles' last performance versus Louisville for the ACC title was a defensive master class. Braden Fiske and Jared Verse seemingly got to the quarterback at will, and in an environment when the Seminoles knew their defense might have to carry them without their regular starting quarterback, the entire unit stepped up. Even if Fiske and Verse aren't on the field in the Orange Bowl, plenty of others are ready to step up and pressure the quarterback like the team did so well this season. Five players tallied five or more sacks (led by Verse's nine) and 10 players had four or more tackles for a loss over 13 games. Some of those players will not be suiting up due to decisions to enter the transfer portal or prepare for the NFL Draft, but Georgia will need to provide good pass protection throughout the 60 minutes if they want to reach the end zone.

On special teams, the Seminoles have two of the best in kicker Ryan Fitzgerald and punter Alex Mastromanno. Fitzgerald made 18 of 20 field goals, while Mastromanno was named a finalist for the Ray Guy Award, given to the best punter in college football. If this is a low-scoring game, Mastromanno's booming leg could be a difference maker. In the return game, Deuce Spann could have an equally big impact as the speedster averaged 37 yards per kickoff return this season, including a 99-yarder that he took to the house against Duke, igniting the Seminoles to a come-from-behind victory. Those are the kinds of plays that could be the difference in an Orange Bowl featuring two of college football's elite programs.

FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY

lorida State University is one of the top public universities in the world and designated as a preeminent research university in the State of Florida. FSU's welcoming campus is located on the oldest continuous site of higher education in Florida, in a community that fosters free inquiry and embraces diversity, along with championship athletics, and a prime location in the heart of the state capital.

Long recognized as one of the nation's elite research institutions, Florida State University has also achieved international renown for the quality of its programs in the sciences and humanities.

FSU is home to 44,597 students, 17 colleges, and more than 6,500 faculty and staff. The university offers more than 280 undergraduate, graduate, and professional programs, including law and medicine.

With a world-class faculty that includes Pulitzer Prize winners, Guggenheim Fellows, members of the National Academy of Sciences and American Academy of Arts and Sciences, the university's enduring commitment to student success is evidenced by impressive retention and graduation rates that rank among the best in Florida and nationally.

Florida State University also houses outstanding interdisciplinary institutes and centers, as well as the only national research laboratories in Florida. In addition, the university supports student entrepreneurship, celebrated programs in the fine and performing arts, and a service-learning mission that serves as a model for the Florida State University is a Top 25 national public university, according to U.S. News & World Report's "Best Colleges 2023" guidebook. U.S. News also recognized the university for providing a top-quality education at an affordable price, ranking FSU the No. 8 Best Value College in the nation among public universities and the highest among the state universities in Florida.

FLORIDA STATE SEMINOLES ATHLETICS

ehind the leadership of Vice President and Director of Athletics Michael Alford, Florida State continues to boast one of the nation's premier athletic programs and is among the most recognizable schools in the country. FSU has ranked among the 20 best overall athletic programs in 17 of the last 18 years and has been among the 10 best five times over that period.

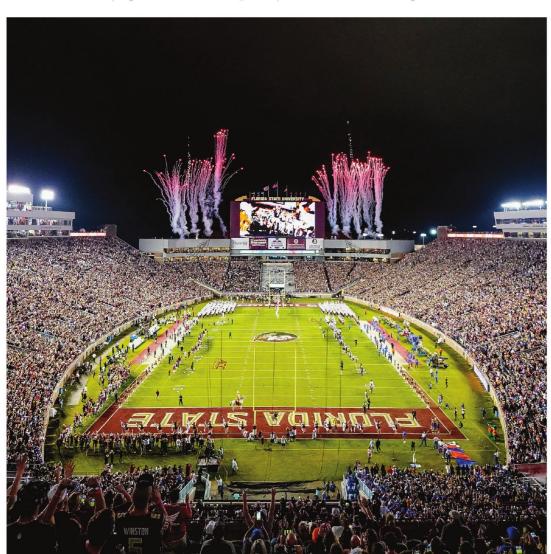

Among Florida State's 19 National Championships are four from women's soccer, including the 2023 championship earlier this month. Football has won three championships - in 1993, 1999, and 2013 while softball won titles in 1981, 1982, and 2018.

The track and field program won NCAA championships in 2006 and 2008 (men's outdoor), 1985 (women's indoor), and 1984 (women's outdoor). Women's golf won the 1981 AIAW National Championship while four titles - 1955 and 1957 men's volleyball, 1951 and 1952 men's gymnastics - came from sports Florida State no longer sponsors.

The Florida State athletic department currently sponsors 20 varsity sports and announced the addition of women's lacrosse for the 2025-26 season.

FSU's remarkable athletic success is even more impressive given its relatively short history. Florida State College for Women (FSCW) became Florida State University in May 1947 and FSU began fielding intercollegiate teams that fall.

MICHAEL ALFORD VICE PRESIDENT & DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

MIKE NORVELL

Florida State Head Coach

n his fourth season as Florida State's head coach, Mike Norvell was named the ACC Coach of the Year and AFCA Region 1 Coach of the Year and is a finalist for the Eddie Robinson Coach of the Year Award after leading Florida State to a 13-0 record, a No. 4 ranking and a spot in the 2023 Capital One Orange Bowl.

Norvell has implemented his CLIMB philosophy - focused on daily improvement, maximizing every opportunity and responding to all circumstances - into the program and the results are evident on the field. Florida State has won 13 games for just the third time in program history and have won at least 10 games in back-to-back seasons. The Seminoles completed a perfect 9-0 mark against ACC opponents with a 16-6 win over No. 14 Louisville in the ACC Championship Game, the Noles' 16th ACC title and fifth ACC Championship Game victory.

Norvell and the Seminoles bring a 19-game win streak into the Orange Bowl, the second-longest active streak in the country, the second-longest in FSU history, and the third-longest in ACC history. Florida State had a school-record 25 selections to the All-ACC teams including at least one at every position - and led the conference in firstteam, second-team, and third-team honors.

Quarterback Jordan Travis was the conference's Player of the Year and Offensive Player of the Year, the first Nole to earn the league's top honor since Jameis Winston in 2013. Travis was also a finalist for the Manning Award and a semifinalist for the Walter Camp, Maxwell and Davey O'Brien Awards.

The Seminoles have eight wins this season over bowl-eligible Power

5 conference teams, the most in the country, and also are tied for the national lead with four wins in games it trailed by at least 10 points. FSU was the only team that produced a stretch in which it outscored its opponent by at least 17 points in every regular-season game in 2023, and its eight games with a plus-24 scoring run ranked second.

Florida State led the ACC in scoring offense at 37.0 points per game and scoring defense at 15.9 points per game allowed.

Norvell places as high of a premium on academics and community service as he does success on the football field. When he was hired, Norvell implemented the Seminole Scholars program for the 2020 season to recognize players who have graduated or earned a 3.0 GPA, and 264 Seminole Scholar patches have been displayed on jerseys over the last four years.

In his eight seasons as a head coach, Norvell has guided the development of 105 all-conference performers, five conference Players of the Year, and 10 All-Americans, including four first-team selections. In the last seven NFL Drafts, 25 Norvell pupils have been selected, including first-round pick Jermaine Johnson II in 2022.

Mike Norvell is the 11th full-time head coach in program history after being hired on Dec. 8, 2019.

Norvell earned two degrees from Central Arkansas, completing his bachelor's degree in social science in 2005 and his master's degree in training systems in 2007. Norvell and his wife, Maria, have a daughter, lorida State University has a long-standing relationship with the Seminole Tribe of Florida and is proud to use Seminoles as its symbol for its athletics teams. This partnership is represented through Seminole Heritage games throughout the athletics department, when Florida State players and coaches wear turquoise, a color that represents harmony, friendship, and fellowship throughout Native American communities.

FLORIDA STATE SEMINOLES SPIRIT

Considered by many the greatest tradition in college football, Osceola charges down the field aboard Renegade, a beautiful Appaloosa, and plants a flaming spear at midfield before each home game in a tribute to the great Seminole Tribe of Florida.

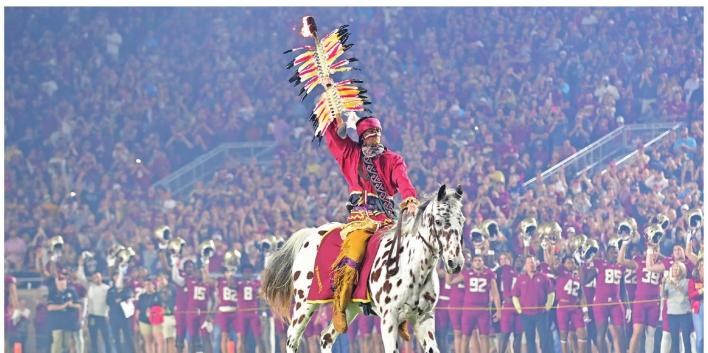

The authentic garment worn by Osceola was designed and fabricated by members of the Seminole Tribe. As part of the inaugural Seminole Heritage game this year, Osceola dismounted and handed the spear to Tribe chairman Marcellus Osceola Jr., who planted the spear.

Florida State's award-winning spirit programs include the Cheerleaders (co-ed and all-girl), the Golden Girls dance team and the "World Renowned Marching Chiefs" band, each of which is recognized as being among the nation's best. Florida State won the UCA 2023 Co-ed National Championship.

The mission of the spirit program is to support the athletic teams at Florida State University by generating crowd enthusiasm and actively engaging with fans. Members are ambassadors of the University and represent FSU at a variety of alumni, civic, and charitable events and are committed to always displaying a positive image that reflects the values and traditions of FSU.

The spirit program operates under the direction of cheerleading coach Cristina Gold. Allen Durham coordinates the Osceola and Renegade team and The Marching Chiefs and Seminole Sound - FSU's athletic pep band - are under the direction of Patrick Dunnigan, David Plack, and Chandler Wilson.

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

s the birthplace of public higher education in America, the University of Georgia is inspiring the next generation of entrepreneurs, researchers, and informed citizens who will change the world. For over 235 years, UGA has been engaged in a mission of leadership and service to our state. A land-grant and sea-grant university, the University of Georgia is the state's oldest and most comprehensive institution of higher education. Its motto, "to teach, to serve, and to inquire into the nature of things," reflects the University's integral role in the state and nation's intellectual, cultural, and environmental heritage.

Georgia Bulldogs are succeeding at the highest levels, helping us become recognized as one of the nation's top public universities in prominent rankings. Our students thrive in a culture of academic excellence that values hands-on learning experiences and innovative educational programs, all led by world-class faculty.

UGA once again ranks as one of the best public universities in the nation in 2024 USNWR college rankings. For the eighth consecutive year, the University of Georgia ranks in the top 20 among the nation's best public universities, according to U.S. News & World Report.

Demand for a UGA degree has never been higher, with applications more than doubling over the past decade. The most recent data from UGA's Career Outcomes survey shows that 96% of UGA students are employed or enrolled in graduate school within six months of graduation.

The University of Georgia has been recognized by several other notable rankings. The rankings platform Niche ranked UGA No. 9 on its annual list of top public universities. The 2024 ranking is based on Niche's analysis of academic, admissions, financial, and student life data from the U.S. Department of Education for more than 500 public colleges and state universities. Niche ranked UGA No. 3 for the best student life in America. In addition, the University of Georgia held steady at No. 21 in Forbes' ranking of the top 25 public colleges, and Money magazine awarded UGA a top ranking (4.5 stars), with a specific emphasis on its high graduation rate and scholarship support.

GEORGIA BULLDOGS ATHLETICS

he University of Georgia Athletic Association (UGAAA), under the direction of J. Reid Parker Director of Athletics Josh Brooks, features 21 varsity sports and is supported by a fiscal year 2024 budget of $175.2 million. The Bulldogs have won 48 national championships, including 34 since 1999.

VISION

The University of Georgia Athletic Association aspires to be the nation's premier intercollegiate athletics program, academically and athletically, while enhancing student-athlete experiences and preparing them for life beyond UGA.

In alignment with the University's mission, the Athletic Association recruits and develops today's champions and tomorrow's leaders by providing an inclusive and diverse environment that allows studentathletes to achieve their highest academic, athletic, and personal ambitions. We are committed to providing a first-class experience for all stakeholders and making a lasting impact on our community.

VALUES (OUR THREE I'S)

- · Innovation Using creativity and flexibility in all we do to boldly pursue excellence as a dynamic and model leader in college athletics.
- Inclusion Creating a diverse, inclusive and collaborative community committed to positive service, experiences, and engagement on campus and in the city of Athens.
- Integrity Committed to maintaining the highest ethical standards in all we do, even in the face of adversity.

NIL AT UGA (ELITE DEALS FOR ELITE TALENT)

The University of Georgia Athletic Association has created LeGAcy, a comprehensive Name, Image, and Likeness program. LeGAcy will provide education, social media tools, and support that will assist student-athletes in maximizing their personal brand, platforms, development, and opportunities.

KIRBY SMART

Georgia Head Coach

ack-to-back College Football Playoff National Championships (2021, '22), a 2017 CFP title game appearance, Southeastern Conference Championships in 2017 and 2022, six SEC Eastern Division titles, 93 wins and seven bowl victories are more than respectable rewards over an eight-year period entering the 2023 Orange Bowl. That's what Georgia got when it hired former Georgia player and Alabama defensive coordinator Kirby Smart to head the program in December of 2015.

His impact, along with a stellar coaching staff, players, and a passionate fan base has put Georgia on the national stage. The Bulldogs now face Florida State in the Orange Bowl after having won 45 of their last 47 games.

In 2022, Georgia captured its second consecutive CFP national championship and second SEC title of the Smart era in dominant fashion. The Bulldogs went 12-0 in the regular season and soundly defeated LSU in the SEC title game, earning a No. 1 seed in the final CFP rankings. The Bulldogs then came back to defeat No. 4 Ohio State in the Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl CFP semifinal and left little doubt who was the best team in the land with a 65-7 trouncing of TCU in the CFP title game at SoFi Stadium in Los Angeles. The Bulldogs were the only team to finish the 2022 season nationally ranked in the top five for Scoring Offense (41.1 points per game) and Scoring Defense (14.3 ppg). His 2021 team became UGA's first national champion since 1980, the first since 1982 to go undefeated in the SEC regular season, a No. 1 national ranking by all the major polls and the first ever to win 14 games.

When Smart officially came home to Georgia on Dec. 6, 2015, he had unfinished business as defensive coordinator at Alabama, which was still chasing a national title. He juggled both jobs for a month until Jan. 11, 2016, when the Crimson Tide won its fourth national championship in a seven-year span. Twelve hours later, he was at work in Athens, where he remains one of ten head coaches at schools from Power 5 conferences that are coaching at their alma maters.

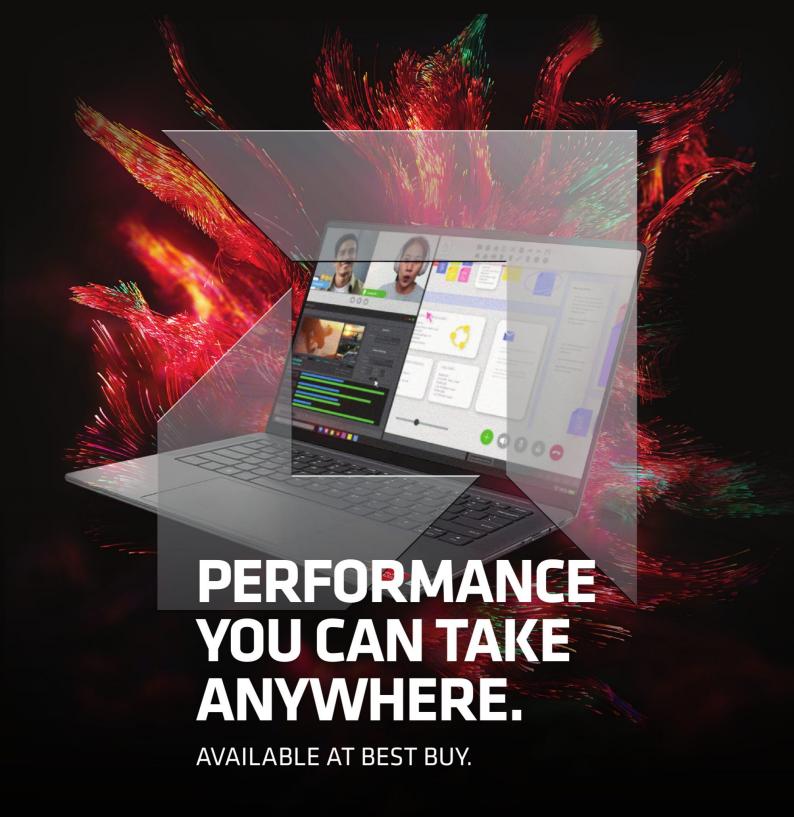

Smart had served on the Alabama staff the previous nine years, seven as defensive coordinator. During his tenure at Alabama, the Crimson Tide won three BCS National Championships, one CFP national title, three SEC crowns, six SEC Western Division titles, and was ranked in the nation's final top 10 the last eight years in a row.

Smart was a four-year letterman at defensive back for Georgia, where he was a First-Team All-SEC pick as a senior. A four-time member of the SEC Academic Honor Roll, Smart received a bachelor's degree in finance from Georgia in 1998 and a master's in Physical Education from Florida State in 2003.

The Bainbridge, Ga., native is married to the former Mary Beth Lycett of McDonough, Ga., a four-year letterwinner and two-year starter on the Georgia women's basketball team from 2000-03. They are the proud parents of twins Weston and Julia (born Feb. 8, 2008) and son Andrew (born May 25, 2012). Also, they oversee the Kirby Smart Family Foundation, which is focused on being champions in the community by supporting needy children and families facing adversity.

GEORGIA BULLDOGS SPIRIT

BULLDOGS

On Nov. 3, 1920, Morgan Blake of the Atlanta Journal wrote a piece on school nicknames and stated, "The Georgia Bulldogs would sound good because there is a certain dignity about a bulldog, as well as ferocity." Following a scoreless tie with Virginia in Charlottesville on Nov. 6, 1920, Atlanta Constitution writer Cliff Cheatley used the name "Bulldogs" in his game story five times. The name has stuck ever since.

UGA

In the last 100 years of intercollegiate football, Georgia's Uga has established himself as the nation's most well-known mascot. The line of pure white English bulldogs, which epitomizes everything Georgia, has been owned by the late Frank W. "Sonny" Seiler and his family of Savannah, Ga., since UGA I first graced the campus in 1956. The current Georgia mascot is UGA XI or "Boom" as he's called. The 2023 season is the first for Boom.

GLORY GLORY

Among Georgia's oldest and most-lasting traditions is the school fight song, "Glory, Glory," which is sung to the tune of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." It was sung at games as early as the 1890s. The University of Georgia Redcoat Band is considered by many to be the "heart" of the Bulldog spirit.

BULLDOG CHEERLEADERS

A long tradition of excellence defines the UGA Spirit Program. Dedicated to cheering the Bulldogs to victory, these athletes work extremely hard year-round. The cheerleaders cheer in front of 92,000+ screaming fans at Dooley Field at Sanford Stadium as well as cheer at various other Bulldog athletic events plus make various public appearances.

It's an invigorating getaway that energizes your body and relaxes your mind as you kick, swing, swim, bike, run and dive into an array of fitness fun followed by a rejuvenating escape to the spa.

That's my Miami.

2023 FWAA-Capital One Orange Bowl

COURAGE AWARD WINNER

Virginia's Mike Hollins

irginia running back Mike Hollins is the 22nd annual recipient of the Capital One Orange Bowl-FWAA Courage Award. Hollins survived the 2022 shootings that took the lives of three of his UVA teammates and played in 11 games this fall for the Cavaliers, leading the team in rushing touchdowns.

"It meant a lot to me," Hollins said of playing this season. "I feel like all season it meant a little bit more to me than it did for everyone else. And it wasn't really the wins or losses that really mattered. It was the effort and knowing what you were playing for. If the effort wasn't there, or if you didn't know what you were playing for, I didn't care if we won or if we lost. This year was just about will - showing your will, showing your will to compete, to win. Because it's clearer than ever that football is so much bigger than us. Our impact is so much bigger and we just have a lot more to play for.

"So that was just on my mind all year, every day, and obviously I had a spotlight on me that I didn't ask for. But through my faith I was able to carry it, through my teammates, I was able to carry it, and through those parents that lost their sons I was also able to carry it."

On Nov. 13, 2022, Virginia players Devin Chandler, Lavel Davis Jr., and D'Sean Perry were shot and killed after returning to school from a class field trip. Hollins was shot when he returned to the bus to try and help his teammates. Hollins recovered and returned to the UVA football program in the spring.

The Cavaliers canceled their final two games of the 2022 season. In the 2023 opener against Tennessee in Nashville, Hollins carried the team flag onto the field.

Six days later, on Sept. 8, the Virginia program gathered on the Grounds for a ceremonial tree planting and plaque dedication near the site of the shooting to honor Chandler, Davis Jr., and Perry. In the team's home opener the next day - the program's first game at Scott Stadium since the shootings - Hollins carried a "UVA Strong" flag onto the field, before rushing for two touchdowns.

The 5-foot-9, 204-pound Hollins led Virginia in carries (80) and rushing touchdowns (7) this season, amassing 274 yards on the ground. He added 10 catches for 34 yards and one touchdown.

"Mike displayed tremendous courage the night he returned to the bus to help his teammates and the other students on that field trip. That type of action speaks to who he is and his beliefs," Virginia head coach Tony Elliott said. "But that's courage in a flash. The road back to playing football this year took a different type of courage. He had to overcome physical and mental obstacles, he had to cope with the loss of his teammates, and he had to perform knowing there were a lot of eyes on him. That was a remarkable accomplishment and I still marvel at how he did it, and more importantly, the way he did it.

"Mike was more deliberate as a leader for our team this season. It meant a lot for him to honor his fallen teammates by the way our team responded and carried itself this year and he guided us by example. I can't say enough about how proud I am of Mike and how fortunate we are to have him as part of the Virginia program. He is a young man who will blaze an incredible path during his life. He has already started by making those around us better thanks to his inspiration."

Hollins, a graduate student, tallied 1,045 career yards from scrimmage and 15 total touchdowns. He had 205 career kick return yards,

The Baton Rouge, La., native never lost sight of the fact that this season was about much more than just football for him and his Virginia teammates.

"Every game, every week, every day, it was nonstop, because I was carrying something that no one on the team, no one in the community of Charlottesville carried, and everyone knew that I was carrying it," Hollins said. "And so eyes are on me inevitably, so there wasn't a day that I could sort of relax, take the veil off or take the mask off for lack of better terms. I was always on 'go.'

"I'm very hard on myself and I'm a perfectionist. So I wanted to do everything to the best of my ability and really lead those guys' legacy the right way, and that took a toll on me as well because obviously we didn't get the records we wanted this season, but I can live with that. It was just going out and just playing my hardest and knowing that I did all I can do at the end of the day, put my best foot forward and playing my hardest because that's what I had to hang my hat on at the end of the day."

LOU GROZA COLLEGIATE PLACE-KICKER AWARD

Graham Nicholson

iami University Junior Graham Nicholson was named the winner of the 2023 Lou Groza Collegiate Place-Kicker Award during the Home Depot College Football Awards earlier this month. The award, given out by the Palm Beach County Sports Commission, is presented by the Orange Bowl Committee.

With a 23-for-23 regular season, Nicholson set a new FBS record for the most field goals in a perfect regular season, topping 2012 Lou Groza Award winner Cairo Santos' mark of 21. Add two more to the start of the MAC Championship Game and he made 25 consecutive field goals, matching the all-time FBS record for the longest streak in one season.

Overall, his 26 field goals tied for the second-most in FBS while his 96.3% accuracy was the highest by any kicker with even 15 attempts on the year. He also set the bar for consistency by making field goals in every game of the season. Of the eight FBS kickers who made at least 23 field goals, he's the only one who can make that claim. He kicked multiple field goals in nine games, including a trio of 3-for-3 performances. In two of those, he outscored the RedHawks' opponent on his own, totaling 11 points in both a 23-3 win over Kent State and a 23-10 victory over Buffalo.

Nicholson is Miami University's first Groza Award winner and the first RedHawk to win a national college football award. This record-setting season of consistency is especially remarkable considering Nicholson was often kicking in the swirling wintery winds of the MAC. Over the last ten seasons, he's just the second MAC kicker to finish a season with better than 90% accuracy.

His 19 field goals from at least 30 yards out are third in the nation, with the 10 from at least 40 yards out tying for third as well. While his season-long came from 52 yards away, his most important kick may actually have been one of the shortest in the country. His 20-yarder on the road in Cincinnati tied things late, allowing the RedHawks to knock off their oldest rival 31-24 in overtime, Miami's first win over the Bearcats since 2005.

"It is an absolute honor to win the Lou Groza Award," said Nicholson. "Winning this award would not be possible without everyone who helped me. Whether it be my coaches, teammates, friends, family, or anyone else, I could not have achieved this alone and I am forever grateful for that."

The national panel of Lou Groza Award voters is comprised of more than 100 FBS head coaches, SIDs, media members, former Groza finalists, and current NFL kickers. Since the first Lou Groza Award was handed out in 1992, 30 finalists, including 17 winners, have gone on to appear in the NFL, earning 13 trips to the Pro Bowl and taking home seven Super Bowls.

IN PARTNERSHIP WITH

s tourist meccas go, Miami was still a struggling, largely isolated fishing village in 1930. A 1926 hurricane and 1929 stock market crash brought the land boom of the early twenties to a grinding halt. Ambitious city fathers worked hard to develop winter attractions that would bring more visitors to the community. A longer tourist season, they reasoned, was needed to boost the economy.

Henry Dutton, director of recreation for the Biltmore Hotel, Coral Gables, first promoted the idea of a post-season football game to attract tourists to the area. Dutton lured the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame to play an exhibition on New Year's Day, 1926. He added fireworks, parades, bands, dancing and a golf exhibition and called the three-day affair "The Fiesta of the American Tropics."

In the spring of 1929, a group of Miami business men formed their own version of a quarterback club to help the revitalized University of Miami rebuild its football program. The stock market crash and Miami's up-and-down teams did not discourage the group, then known as the Greater Miami Athletic Association. It was from this nucleus that the Orange Bowl Committee was born. The 1930 University of Miami squad won three games, lost four and tied one, scoring only 26 points and giving up 102. But the support group pressed on, confident that the Hurricanes would improve and tourists would someday flock to the town for "Football in the Tropics." The leaders pointed out that the Tournament of Roses had done wonders for the little community in Pasadena, Calif., and were determined to do the same for Miami. It did not seem to matter to them that Pasadena was less than 15 miles from Los Angeles, a community of more than two million in those years, whereas Miami's population in 1930 was 110,637.

By 1932, the enthusiasm of the association's membership came to a boil. Plans for the first "Palm Festival" were formulated. "Have a Green Christmas in Miami" was the slogan, and a festival football game was scheduled for Moore Park. Poor little University of Miami was more than willing. "The Hurricanes were so poor," said Ernie Seiler, then the City of Miami's recreation director and the acknowledged ramrod of the Orange Bowl. "They had 14 pairs of shoes for 32 players." Bringing in a team to play the Hurricanes, though, was the problem.

George E. Hussey, recreation director for Florida Power and Light, was friendly with Chick Meehan, coach of the Manhattan College team. Manhattan was an Eastern power in those days. After an enthusiastic call from Hussey, Meehan agreed to come to Miami. Henry L. Doherty, who owned the Miami Biltmore, the Roney Plaza, the Key Largo Angler's Club and the Biltmore Golf Course agreed to put the Manhattan team up at the Biltmore and to underwrite $5,000 of the game's expenses. The festival committee guaranteed Manhattan $3,000 to appear, $1,500 in advance.

Meehan brought his team to Miami by ocean liner, the only team ever to travel to a bowl game by sea, and on arrival demanded the additional $1,500. Seiler and his group didn't have it. "So we made the Chief of Police our financial chairman," Seiler recalled, "and he went around to the prominent bookies in town, including the notorious Acey-Deucey, and we came up with the full guarantee on game day."

In a meeting with Meehan a few days before the game, the sponsors implored him to take it easy on hapless Miami. Meehan agreed to hold the difference down to "no more than three touchdowns." The Hurricanes, meanwhile, got coaching assistance from Bob Zuppke of Illinois. Miami's head coach, Tommy McCann, had played under Zuppke.

Thinking the result was a foregone conclusion, Seiler ordered a giant "Congratulations Manhattan" cake for the post-game party. Miami had other ideas. The Hurricanes held off repeated Manhattan threats, once at the 3-inch line, and won 7-0. Seiler scrambled to the phone to call the chef at the Biltmore Hotel to change the name on the cake. The first Palm Festival was light years removed from the pageantry of today's Orange Bowl, but some notice was served that in the future, when football was played in Miami, the game would not be the only attraction. Just before kickoff, a car moved on the field with an oversized replica of a football on top. A cannon boomed, the football opened and dozens of pigeons fluttered into the sunshine. It was Seiler's first "extravaganza."

In 1934, W. Keith Phillips, chairman of the Greater Miami Athletic Club and President of the Miami Chamber of Commerce, invited Seiler and others to his office to discuss the prospect of a New Year's Day football game played at Miami Stadium to succeed the first two Palm Festivals of 1933-34.

Phillips and local radio announcer Dinty Dennis brought the name "Orange Bowl" to the newly formed committee where it was immediately embraced. Despite having just six weeks to organize the contest, the first Orange Bowl Classic, pitting Bucknell against Miami, was played on January 1, 1935, in front of 5,135 fans. Each team received only $12,500 for playing the game. The Bison routed the Hurricanes, 26-0.

The committee was riding a wave of national publicity and, with a year to prepare for the 1936 Orange Bowl, decided to expand the Festival and stage a lavish parade prior to the game. On December 9, 1936, a proposed charter of "The Orange Bowl Committee" was put together. An election of officers was scheduled for the spring of 1937. The charter called for the Orange Bowl Committee to be a non-profit organization and placed a ceiling of indebtedness at $750,000 - a fraction of what each participating team takes home today.

With the committee firmly in place, the group invited two out-ofstate teams, Catholic University and Mississippi, to the 1936 Classic, doubling nationwide interest. The thrilling 20-19 Catholic victory was played in front of 6,568 fans. The fans sat on wooden bleachers at the former Orange Bowl site. The 1936 game also marked the first Orange Bowl to be broadcast on the radio. The committee had to pay the network $500 to install lines, but the game was heard on regional airwaves with CBS' Bill Munday delivering the play-by-play.

Following Munday's call of the 1936 Classic, the Committee and CBS signed a contract to broadcast the game on national radio and the network agreed to send its top announcer, Ted Husing, to the game. One week prior to the 1937 Orange Bowl, ground was broken for a new facility. Upon learning of the plans for Orange Bowl Stadium, Husing admired the ingenuity of the game's organizers. The broadcaster was overwhelmed by the Orange Bowl's hospitality, and despite the subpar facilities, Husing became one of the Orange Bowl's biggest boosters following the 1937 game.

ORANGE BOWL STADIUM BUILT; MAD GENIUS; GAME HITS BIG TIME IN '39

Seiler, who became a founding member of the Orange Bowl Committee (OBC) in 1937, was proudest of the building and development of the Orange Bowl Stadium itself, a project which began with him securing a WPA commitment to build a facility in 1936. The efforts led to the construction of a $325,000 stadium with a capacity of 22,000. The facility was originally called Roddy Burdine Stadium, for one of Miami's leading merchants, and was dedicated on December 10, 1937, just in time for an Auburn-Michigan State matchup in the 1938 Orange Bowl. Ralph O'Gwynne's two-yard touchdown run gave the Tigers a 6-0 victory in the lowest-scoring Orange Bowl in history.

A year later, on March 3, 1939, Seiler became the Orange Bowl Committee's first full-time business manager. Two months later, on May 15, the OBC incorporated as a non-profit organization and its Charter was signed by the first membership. Seiler later became the executive vice president after World War II and was elected to the Orange Bowl Hall of Fame in December 1970.

Seiler's successful marketing approach brought Oklahoma and Tennessee to the 1939 Orange Bowl. As the story goes, Seiler went to Norman, Oklahoma, to invite the Sooners to Miami but faced competition from other bowls which offered more money. He chalked the Oklahoma campus with slogans that read, "On to Miami" and "See you at the 1939 Orange Bowl," showed Sooner players many photos of Miami's beaches and beautiful women – even promising to set the team up Upon Oklahoma's acceptance, Sooner coach Tom Stidham asked Tennessee coach General Robert Neyland to bring the Volunteers to Miami, pitting undefeated teams against each other. The matchup led to such media and public interest that 32,191 fans packed Orange Bowl Stadium, which had a listed capacity of 22,050. A 17-0 Tennessee win propelled the Orange Bowl to "Big Four" bowl status with the Rose, Cotton and Sugar bowls. Seiler came to be known as the Mad Genius for all of his Orange Bowl success.

THE FABULOUS '40s

The Orange Bowl experienced immense growth in the 1940s, hosting legendary coaches Wallace Butts of Georgia (1942, '49), General Robert Neyland of Tennessee (1947), and Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech (1948), as well as fabled players in Missouri's Paul Christman (1940), Georgia's Frankie Sinkwich (1942), Boston College's Mike Holovak (1943), LSU's Steve Van Buren (1944), Georgia Tech's Frank Broyles (1945) and Texas' Tom Landry (1949).

Despite a broken jaw and sprained ankle, Sinkwich chalked up an Orange Bowl record 355 yards of total offense under center, 243 yards and three touchdowns through the air and 112 yards and a touchdown on the ground. Sinkwich also handled kicking and punting duties in perhaps the best individual performance in Orange Bowl history, as Georgia defeated Texas Christian 40-26.

In the 1943 Orange Bowl, Holovak rushed for 141 yards and touchdowns of 65, 35 and two yards, but it was not enough for Boston College as Alabama upended the Eagles 37-21. Broyles, during the 1945 game, passed for a then Orange Bowl record 304 yards, but Tulsa's rushing attack secured a 26-12 victory against Georgia Tech. Landry, who would go on to win two Super Bowls as head coach of the Dallas Cowboys, closed the decade with 117 rushing yards and a touchdown, sending Texas to a 41-28 win against Georgia in the 1949 Orange Bowl.

Arguably, the best game of the 1940s came in 1946 when Jack Harding's Miami team defeated Holy Cross 13-6 on the final play of the game. With 10 seconds left in the fourth quarter, Crusader quarterback Gene DeFilippo threw downfield but his pass was deflected into the hands of Miami defensive back Al Hudson, who returned the ball for an 89-yard touchdown as time expired.

MARYLAND-OKLAHOMA MATCHUPS DEFINE '50s

During the 1950s, the Orange Bowl was televised for the first time and played host to its first two top-ranked teams and national championship games while enjoying a five-year agreement to match the Atlantic Coast Conference and Big Seven Conference against each other.

CBS nationally televised the Orange Bowl for the first time in 1953, in which Alabama piled up 596 yards in a 61-6 win against Syracuse still the Classic's largest margin of victory. The Orange Bowl hosted the national champion in both the 1954 and 1956 Orange Bowls, when Jim Tatum's Maryland Terrapins and Bud Wilkinson's Oklahoma Sooners met both times. No. 1 Maryland was declared the national champion prior to the 1954 Classic but No. 4 Oklahoma shut out the Terps 7-0.

(901) 581 - 6117

Two years later, No. 1 Oklahoma scored 14 third quarter points to beat No. 3 Maryland again, 20-6. The Sooners went on to win two more Orange Bowls during the decade, claiming back-to-back victories - 48-21 over Duke in 1958 and 21-6 over Syracuse in 1959.

Other notable games included Paul "Bear" Bryant's introduction to the Orange Bowl as Kentucky's coach in 1950, which saw Santa Clara defeat the Wildcats 21-13. In 1952, a game-winning field goal from Pepper Rodgers – who later coached Kansas in the 1969 Orange Bowl gave Georgia Tech a 17-14 victory over Baylor.

JFK VISITS ORANGE BOWL; NIGHTIME TELEVISION BEGINS

The 1960s saw the Orange Bowl host a "Who's Who" of college and professional football, with the likes of Georgia's Fran Tarkenton (1960), Missouri head coach Dan Devine (1960-61), Navy's Heisman Trophy winner Joe Bellino (1961), Alabama head coach Paul "Bear" Bryant (1963, '65-66), Lee Roy Jordan (1963), Joe Namath (1963, '65), Ray Perkins (1965-66), Steve Sloan (1965-66), Florida's Heisman Trophy winner Steve Spurrier (1967), Penn State head coach Joe Paterno (1969) and Kansas' John Riggins (1969).

In 1963, President John F. Kennedy was one of 73,380 fans who saw Namath complete nine of 17 passes for 86 yards and a touchdown in a 17-0 shutout victory over Oklahoma. On the defensive side of the ball, 'Bama's Jordan notched an Orange Bowl-record 31 tackles to keep the Sooners scoreless in Paul "Bear" Bryant's first Orange Bowl win as coach of the Crimson Tide. Alabama continued to appear in the Classic, as the Orange Bowl hosted its third and fourth national championships in 1965 and '66 - Texas defeating Alabama 21-17 in '65 and Alabama coming back to beat Nebraska 39-28 in '66.

The Crimson Tide's '65 matchup with Texas marked the first Orange Bowl to be played at night and was the first-ever primetime college football game, as well as the first of 31 consecutive telecasts by NBC. Texas raced out to a 21-7 halftime lead, but Namath rallied his troops by completing 18 of 37 passes for 255 yards and two touchdowns. Texas' Frank Bedrick and Tommy Nobis stopped Namath on a quarterback sneak on a crucial fourth-and-one from the 1-yard line, propelling the Longhorns to victory. Despite the loss, Namath was named the Orange Bowl's first Most Outstanding Player. Alabama won the national championship the following year on the strength of Steve Sloan's 20of-28 passing for 296 yards and two touchdowns.

Larry Smith carried Florida to a 27-12 win over Georgia Tech in 1967, rushing for a then Orange Bowl record 187 yards, including an all-time long 94-yard touchdown run.

Kansas and Penn State battled to a wild finish in 1969. After a Penn State touchdown brought the Nittany Lions within one point at 14-13, a young Joe Paterno elected for a 2-point conversion attempt. After Chuck Burkhart's pass failed, a penalty gave Penn State a second chance and Bob Campbell plunged into the end zone to clinch a 15-14 win for the Nittany Lions.

NEBRASKA WINS BACK-TO-BACK NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

In the 1970s, the Orange Bowl again saw some of the game's greatest coaches on its sidelines: Bryant, Paterno, Devine, Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian, LSU's Charles McClendon, Michigan's Bo Schembechler, Ohio State's Woody Hayes, Arkansas' Lou Holtz and Oklahoma's Barry Switzer each led their teams to Orange Bowl appearances, but the decade truly belonged to Nebraska's Bob Devaney.

Nebraska won a pair of national championships in 1971 and '72 over LSU and Alabama, respectively. In the 1971 game, Jerry Tagge's quarterback sneak on fourth-and-one from the 1-yard line was initially stopped by the Tiger defense, but Tagge stretched the ball over the goal line for a 17-12 victory. In 1972, the Cornhuskers' 38-6 win over the Crimson Tide was keyed in the first quarter when Johnny Rodgers broke a 77-yard punt return for a touchdown.

Devaney's final game on the Nebraska sidelines ended in a third straight Orange Bowl victory, a 40-6 win against Notre Dame in 1973. This time, Devaney moved Rodgers from his usual wingback position to I-Back and the Heisman Trophy winner closed out his collegiate career with the best individual performance in the Orange Bowl since Georgia's Frank Sinkwich in 1942, scoring four touchdowns and passing for another. His final touchdown of the day came on a 50-yard pass reception in the third quarter before sitting out the remainder of the game.

The Orange Bowl Committee hosted its third national championship game of the decade on New Year's Day 1976 when Oklahoma beat Michigan 14-6. Barry Switzer coached the Sooners in the first of his nine Orange Bowl appearances against the legendary Bo Schembechler, who made his only Orange Bowl appearance in '76.

Other memories of the decade included Joe Paterno's undefeated Nittany Lions of 1970 and '74, Ara Parseghian's retirement following Notre Dame's 13-11 win over Alabama in 1975, and Arkansas' 31-6 upset of Oklahoma in 1978 after Lou Holtz suspended his top two running backs. Penn State's Franco Harris (1970) and Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti (1974) and Nebraska's Rich Glover (1971-73) were among those who roamed the Orange Bowl turf during the de-

THE '80s: HOME OF THE NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

After hosting three national championship games in the 1970s, the Orange Bowl staged four such games in the '80s, due in large part to the prestige of the Orange Bowl and its agreement with the Big Eight Conference, as well as the emergence of the University of Miami on the national scene. The Big Eight was represented by either Oklahoma or Nebraska in every Orange Bowl game of the decade, including a pair of national championship game appearances by each.

Led by quarterback Homer Jordan and defensemen Terry Kinard, Jeff Davis, and William "Refrigerator" Perry, Clemson capped a 12-0 season and won the national championship with a 22-15 win over Nebraska in the 1982 Orange Bowl. The 50th Orange Bowl in 1984 provided a perfect setting for arguably the greatest game in college football history. Miami won the school's first of five national titles in a 31-30 win over Nebraska. Howard Schnellenberger's Hurricanes raced to a 17-0 lead before the end of the first quarter, but the Cornhuskers answered with 14 points in the second frame, including a 19-yard touchdown run by All-American guard Dean Steinkuhler in the now-famous "Fumblerooski" play. Nebraska out-scored Miami in the second half 16-14, but freshman quarterback Bernie Kosar's 300 passing yards and Ken Calhoun's batted pass thwarted a last second 2-point conversion and a 'Husker comeback.

Oklahoma made four straight Orange Bowl appearances from 1985-88 and earned a national title in '86 after defeating Penn State 25-10. The Sooners competed for the national title again in '88 – the Orange Bowl's fourth national title game of the decade – but it was Jimmy Johnson's Miami team that earned the school's second national championship with a 20-14 victory over Oklahoma.

The '80s also showcased the Big Eight's best running backs and Miami's best quarterbacks, as two Heisman Trophy winners – Oklahoma's Billy Sims and Nebraska's Mike Rozier – played in three Orange Bowls apiece.

Kosar's performance in the 1984 Orange Bowl and Steve Walsh's wins over Oklahoma and Nebraska in '88 and '89 cemented Miami's growth into a dynasty.

ORANGE BOWL SIGNS FIRST TITLE SPONSOR; MORE NATIONAL TITLES IN THE '90s

In 1989, FedEx, then known as Federal Express, signed a deal to become the first title sponsor of the Orange Bowl beginning with the game on January 1, 1990. The 21-year partnership became the longest title sponsor relationship of any college bowl game, ending in 2010 when Discover became the second title sponsor in game history.

During the 1990s, the Orange Bowl set an all-time record by hosting five national championship games, including four in five years (1991-95). The first two Orange Bowls of the decade pitted national newcomer Colorado against tradition-rich Notre Dame. The Fighting Irish knocked off the top-ranked Buffaloes 21-6 in 1990, but Colorado got revenge the following year with a 10-9 national championship victory over the Irish. Trailing 10-9 with 43 seconds left to play, Notre Dame's Raghib "Rocket" Ismail returned a punt 91 yards for a would-be touchdown, but a clipping penalty nullified the play and ultimately led to a Colorado victory in 1991.

The 1992 Orange Bowl pitted Miami and Nebraska against each other for the third time in nine years, as the Hurricanes won their fourth national title since 1983. The win also gave 'Canes head coach Dennis Erickson his second national championship with Miami.

The early '90s brought about another change in the college football landscape, as the Orange Bowl Committee led the way to the formation of the Bowl Coalition, which was introduced as a means of providing order to the bowl selection process. The Orange Bowl became one of four "Tier 1" bowls included under the Coalition, hosting nationally prominent programs Florida State, Miami or Nebraska in each of the seven years from 1992-98.

Under legendary coach Bobby Bowden, Florida State won its first two Orange Bowls – including the 1993 national championship – with 27-14 and 18-16 wins over the Nebraska Cornhuskers in '93 and '94, respectively. The 1994 Nebraska-Florida State matchup was especially memorable, as college football witnessed only the 11th meeting between No. 1 and No. 2-ranked teams.

Facing a 16-15 deficit in the fourth quarter, Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback Charlie Ward directed Florida State's "Fast Break Offense" into position for Scott Bentley's go-ahead 22-yard field goal with 21 seconds on the clock. Nebraska quarterback Tommie Frazier countered, moving the Cornhuskers to the Seminoles' 28-yard line with one second to play, but Byron Bennett missed the potential game-winner for Nebraska.

In 1994, the Orange Bowl Committee voted to relocate its game to Pro Player Stadium (now Hard Rock Stadium) as a condition of its inclusion in the Bowl Alliance, the successor to the Coalition. The first Bowl Alliance game in 1996 ended the long-standing relationships with the Big Eight Conference and NBC. The three-year Bowl Alliance arrangement, which included the Fiesta Bowl and Sugar Bowl, was televised on CBS.

In 1995, Nebraska joined the Oklahoma teams of 1978-81 and 1985-88 to play in four straight Orange Bowls, this time getting the better of Miami, 24-17, as Tom Osborne won his first national title.

A new era began on New Year's Eve 1996 when Nebraska and Virginia Tech met in the 63rd Orange Bowl; it was the first Orange Bowl played at Pro Player Stadium and the first to be played before January 1. The Cornhuskers won the second of three Classics in the four-year span of 1995-98, defeating the Hokies 41-21 behind Ahman Green's Orange Bowl-record 206 rushing yards. Nebraska went on to beat a Peyton Manning-led Tennessee team in 1998 to claim the Cornhuskers' fifth national championship in Tom Osborne's final game.

The 1999 Orange Bowl signified both an end and a new beginning as the Classic returned to Orange Bowl Stadium for a one-year reprieve, played for the first time as part of the newly formed Bowl Championship Series. Florida and Syracuse combined for 762 yards of total offense in a 31-10 Gator victory.

2000s: ORANGE BOWL RECORDS FALL IN THE NEW MILLENIUM

The 21st century started on a high note for the Orange Bowl as it hosted its first BCS National Championship Games, two of college football's most legendary coaches, and a total of seven Heisman Trophy winners.

The four Bowl Championship Series games – the Orange, Fiesta, Rose and Sugar Bowls - rotated as the site of the national championship game every season in the first eight years of the arrangement, with the 2001 matchup between underdog Oklahoma and top-ranked Florida State landing in South Florida. The Sooners claimed their seventh national title by upsetting Heisman Trophy winner Chris Weinke's Seminoles 13-2. Additionally, Florida State – which made its third straight national title game appearance - remained the only team to play in three consecutive BCS title games.

A year before the Sooners defeated the Seminoles in the 2001 BCS National Championship game, Michigan's Tom Brady kicked off the decade by passing for what was then an Orange Bowl record 369 yards as the Wolverines defeated Alabama 35-34 in the first overtime game in the Classic's history.

High-powered aerial attacks from Florida and Maryland met in 2002 and broke several Orange Bowl records, some of which still stand today. The Gators prevailed 56-23 while setting single-team records with 659 total yards and 456 passing yards in Steve Spurrier's final game as the Florida head coach.

In the 2003 Orange Bowl, 2002 Heisman Trophy winner Carson Palmer guided Southern California to five scoring drives of at least 61 yards in a 38-17 win over lowa in the first of a record seven consecutive BCS appearances for the Trojans.

In 2004, two in-state teams met in the Orange Bowl for the first time, as Miami went on to defeat archrival Florida State 16-14.

Southern California and Oklahoma's 2005 matchup proved to be a special event for the Orange Bowl, which hosted the BCS National Championship Game for the second time and assembled three Heisman Trophy winners on the same field for the first time ever. Matt Leinart, the 2004 recipient, and Reggie Bush - who was awarded the trophy following the 2005 season – made easy work of 2003 Heisman winner Jason White and the Sooners, winning 55-19. The Trojans later vacated the title and Bush relinquished the Heisman Trophy.

The Orange Bowl Committee reached an agreement with the Atlantic Coast Conference prior to the 2006 Classic, whereby the ACC champion would earn an automatic bid to the Orange Bowl. The 2006 Orange Bowl saw Penn State outlast Florida State in triple overtime. In a contest that saw a punt return touchdown, safety, five lead changes or ties and three overtimes, Penn State's Kevin Kelly gave the Nittany Lions the victory a record four hours and 45 minutes after the opening kirkoff

As part of a new BCS agreement prior to the 2006-07 bowl season, the four BCS sites rotated a BCS National Championship Game in addition to their traditional bowl, creating a fifth BCS game annually.

Unlikely participants Wake Forest and Louisville met in 2007, with the Cardinals taking a 24-13 victory from the Demon Deacons. Virginia Tech became the first team to play in two consecutive Orange Bowls since Nebraska in 1998, losing to Kansas 24-21 in 2008 and defeating Cincinnati 20-7 in 2009.

The Orange Bowl Committee double-hosted for the first time in 2009. The Orange Bowl game was played on January 1 as Virginia Tech defeated Cincinnati. On January 8, 2009, the BCS National Championship Game featured multiple Heisman winners competing for a national title for the second time. Florida's 2007 Heisman winner Tim Tebow and 2008 winner Sam Bradford of Oklahoma squared off in what would turn into a 24-14 Gator win, Florida's second national championship in three seasons.

2010s: WELCOME TO THE CFP ERA

Georgia Tech's Anthony Allen – who had previously caught a touchdown pass for Louisville in the 2007 Orange Bowl – scored on a 1-yard touchdown run in the 2010 game, but the Yellow Jackets fell to Iowa 24-14 in the coldest Orange Bowl in history (49 degrees at kickoff). Allen is the only player to score a touchdown for two different teams in Orange Bowl history.

In 2011, ESPN televised the contest as well as the other four BCS games. The matchup featured Virginia Tech making its third Orange Bowl appearance in four years against Stanford – a school playing in its first Orange Bowl. Andrew Luck threw for 287 yards and four touchdowns in a 40-12 Cardinal victory.

The 2012 Orange Bowl saw first-time participant West Virginia set numerous Orange Bowl records. Led by South Florida native and Orange Bowl Youth Football Alliance participant Geno Smith, the West Virginia Mountaineers defeated the Clemson Tigers 70-33, a bowl game record for points scored. Smith set an Orange Bowl record with touchdowns thrown (6), while wide receiver Tavon Austin caught four touchdowns to tie the Orange Bowl scoring record.

For the second time in its history, the Orange Bowl double-hosted two BCS Bowl games in 2013. Quarterback EJ Manuel and fullback Lonnie Pryor each scored fourth quarter touchdowns to help Florida State defeat Northern Illinois 31-10 for its first BCS bowl victory since winning the national championship in 1999. A week later, the BCS National Championship Game saw No. 2 Alabama soundly defeat top-ranked Notre Dame for its second consecutive national title and third in the last four years. Running back Eddie Lacy earned the game's offensive MVP after running for 140 yards and a touchdown, leading the Tide to a 42-14 victory.

The 2014 Orange Bowl, the last in the BCS era, featured the Clemson Tigers – making their second trip to South Florida in three years – and the Ohio State Buckeyes. Clemson won 40-35 as its combination of Tajh Boyd and Sammy Watkins proved to be the difference. Boyd finished with 378 yards and five touchdowns passing, as well as 127 yards rushing. Watkins broke the all-time Orange Bowl receptions and receiving yards records, finishing with 16 catches for 227 yards and two touchdowns.

In 2014, as part of an agreement with ESPN, Capital One secured a six-year title sponsorship of the Orange Bowl. The multi-year deal builds on Capital One's substantial support of college athletics by becoming the official credit card and bank of the new College Football Playoff.

The first-ever Capital One Orange Bowl on December 31, 2014, featured Georgia Tech and Mississippi State. Georgia Tech's run game exploded in the third quarter, resulting in 21 unanswered points. Despite Mississippi State's Dak Prescott setting an Orange Bowl record for passing yards, Georgia Tech claimed a 49-34 victory behind Justin Thomas' four touchdown performance.

In 2015, the Orange Bowl hosted its first-ever College Football Playoff Semifinal, welcoming No. 1 Clemson (ACC champions) vs. No. 4 Oklahoma (Big 12 champions) for a New Year's Eve showdown in South Florida. In a highly anticipated battle between Heisman finalist quarterbacks, Clemson's Deshaun Watson edged Oklahoma's Baker Mayfield, leading the Tigers to a 37-17 victory. Although Oklahoma led by one point at halftime, Clemson scored on the first drive of the second half and was never headed. The victory sent Clemson to its first national championship appearance since the 1982 Orange Bowl.

In 2016, the Orange Bowl hosted No. 11 Florida State University and No. 6 University of Michigan in one of the most exciting games in the 2016-2017 College Football season. Behind the strong play of Florida State's Dalvin Cook and Deandre François, the Seminoles were able to pull out a 33-32 victory in a nail biter. Michigan led 30-27 with under 2 minutes to go until the Seminoles miraculously found themselves in the end zone with 36 seconds remaining. Dalvin Cook was voted as the Most Outstanding Player.

The 2017 Capital One Orange Bowl saw a second straight ACC-Big Ten matchup. Miami returned to the game for the first time since 2004, and its 10th overall, but fell to first-time participant Wisconsin 34-24. Badgers quarterback Alex Hornibrook threw four touchdown passes while running back Jonathan Taylor rushed for 130 yards, giving him 1,977 for the year and setting an NCAA freshman record.

In 2018, the Orange Bowl hosted its second College Football Playoff Semifinal, with No. 1 Alabama and Heisman runner-up Tua Taglovailoa getting the best of No. 4 Oklahoma, 45-34 and Heisman winner Kyler Murray. It marked the seventh time that the Heisman winner faced the runner-up, and the fourth time in the Orange Bowl (2001, '03, '05 and

The final game of the decade saw No. 9 Florida defeat Virginia 36-28 to run its record to 5-0 in games hosted by the Orange Bowl. Florida running back La'Mical Perine scored the first of his three touchdowns on a 61-yard run less than a minute into the game to lead the Gators to victory.

SEC DOMINANCE KICKS OFF THE 2020s

The 87th Capital One Orange Bowl featured No. 5 Texas A&M and No. 14 North Carolina. It was the first meeting between the two programs and the Aggies came out on top 41-27 for their first ever Orange Bowl victory. Texas A&M freshman running back Devon Achane earned Most Outstanding Player honors after rushing for 140 yards and two touchdowns on 12 carries, including a go-ahead 76-yard run up the sideline with under four minutes remaining.

On New Year's Eve in 2021, No. 3 Georgia took on No. 2 Michigan under the lights at Hard Rock Stadium in the 2021 Playoff Semifinal at the Capital One Orange Bowl. It was the first meeting between the two historic programs since 1965. Utilizing a balance of power running and quick passes to the edges, Georgia scored two touchdowns on its first two drives and Michigan never recovered. The Bulldogs held the Wolverines to a season-low 11 points and season-low 88 rushing yards, while offensive MVP Stetson Bennett threw for 310 yards and three touchdowns. Georgia pocketed its second all-time Orange Bowl victory and first since shutting out Missouri 14-0 in 1960. The Bulldogs would go on to win their first national title since 1980.

The 2022 Capital One Orange Bowl welcomed No. 6 Tennessee and No.7 Clemson. This was the first time in 18 years that these two teams faced off. Tennessee quarterback, Joe Milton III was named MVP of the Orange Bowl after passing 251 yards and three touchdowns leading Tennessee to a 31-14 victory over Clemson. The win capped off Tennessee's best season since 2001 with 11 wins.

50TH ANNIVERSARY: 1974

Penn State 16, LSU 9 | January 1, 1974 | Orange Bowl Stadium

Penn State Remains Undefeated

ndefeated Penn State moved its record to 12-0 on the season as it took advantage of consistently poor LSU field position to win 16-9.

LSU out-gained the Nittany Lions 274 yards to 185 and held Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti to 50 yards.

Cappelletti did score the Nittany Lions' final touchdown on a 1-yard plunge in the second quarter, but the game's big play was a spectacular 72-yard touchdown catch by Chuck Herd off a pass from Tom Shuman early in the second quarter. LSU scored first on a 3-yard run by Steve Rogers, and Penn State retaliated with a 44-yard field goal by Chris Bahr to make it 7-3 at the end of the first quarter. Herd's catch and Cappelletti's plunge put PSU ahead 16-7 at the half. Although Penn State finished undefeated, the polls still had the Nittany Lions ranked fifth.

CHUCK BURKHART

Penn State Quarterback

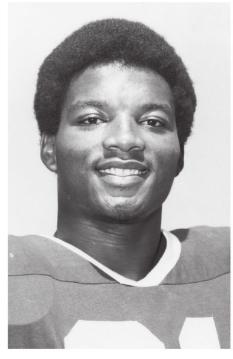

Chuck Burkhart led Penn State to two Orange Bowl wins in 1969 and 1970, as well as two undefeated seasons and two No. 2 finishes in the AP Poll, propelling Penn State to national prominence for years to come. In the 1969 Orange Bowl, with the Nittany Lions trailing Kansas by seven points with less than two minutes remaining, Burkhart completed a 47-yard pass to the 3-yard line and ran in the game-winning touchdown with seconds to go. He followed up that performance to earn MVP honors in the 1970 game, his final game at Penn State, by orchestrating his offense to an early 10-0 lead in the first quarter and cruising the Nittany Lions to a 10-3 victory over Missouri.

BUD HEBERT

Oklahoma Defensive Back

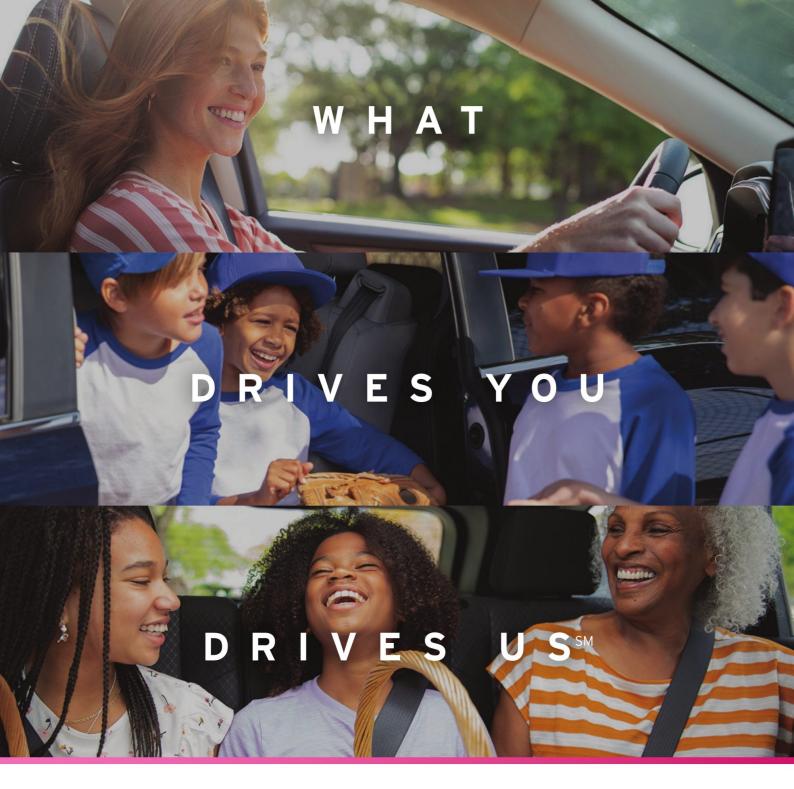

Bud Hebert earned MVP honors in the 1980 Orange Bowl by securing three interceptions and three tackles, holding an undefeated FSU team to just 182 yards of total offense and seven points in Oklahoma's 24-7 victory. Hebert was a key member of Barry Switzer's stifling defense that went 11-1 that season, good for No. 3 in the final AP Poll. Hebert's three interceptions still stands as the Orange Bowl record for most picks in a game.

ROLAND SALES

Arkansas Running Back

Roland Sales set an Orange Bowl rushing record with 205 rushing yards and two touchdowns on 22 carries on his way to being named MVP in Arkansas' 31-6 victory over Oklahoma in the 1978 Orange Bowl. His single game Orange Bowl rushing record lasted 20 years, and he still sits second on the all-time list behind Nebraska's Ahman Green (206 yards). Sales was the team's third-string running back that season, but got called upon by head coach Lou Holtz after the top two running backs were suspended, and he took advantage of the opportunity.

HARD ROCK STADIUM

ard Rock Stadium is South Florida's home of the Capital One Orange Bowl. The venue is a global entertainment destination that serves as home to the Miami Dolphins, the Formula 18 Crypto.com Miami Grand Prix, the Miami Open presented by Itaú, University of Miami football, major concerts, international soccer, and a host of world-class events including the Capital One Orange Bowl. The facility recently completed a $755 million, multi-year renovation privately funded by Managing General Partner & Chairman of the Board Stephen Ross to transform the iconic venue into the best Miami has to offer in world-class fare, art, culture, and an elevated guest experience.

In its 36 years of operation as one of the nation's premier venues, this multipurpose, open-air complex hosted its first football game in August 1987. It has been home to six Super Bowls, four BCS National Championships, a CFP National Championship, and was the first stadium to host the NFL Pro Bowl after 30 years of the game being held in Hawai'i.

This year's Capital One Orange Bowl will be the 29th game hosted by the Orange Bowl at Hard Rock Stadium. The first Orange Bowl game played at the Stadium was December 31, 1996, and every game since with the exception of the game on January 2, 1999, has been played at Hard Rock Stadium. The Capital One Orange Bowl will also host the 2024-25 College Football Playoff Semifinal.

A true global entertainment destination, Hard Rock Stadium is finetuned to enhance the fan experience. Phase I of the renovation was completed for the 2015 season and changed every seat in the stadium, rebuilt the concourses on the 100 and 300 levels, moved seats 25 feet closer to the field on the north and south sidelines, introduced five new premium spaces, and allowed fans to enjoy improved food, enhanced concourses, and 16 new restroom facilities.

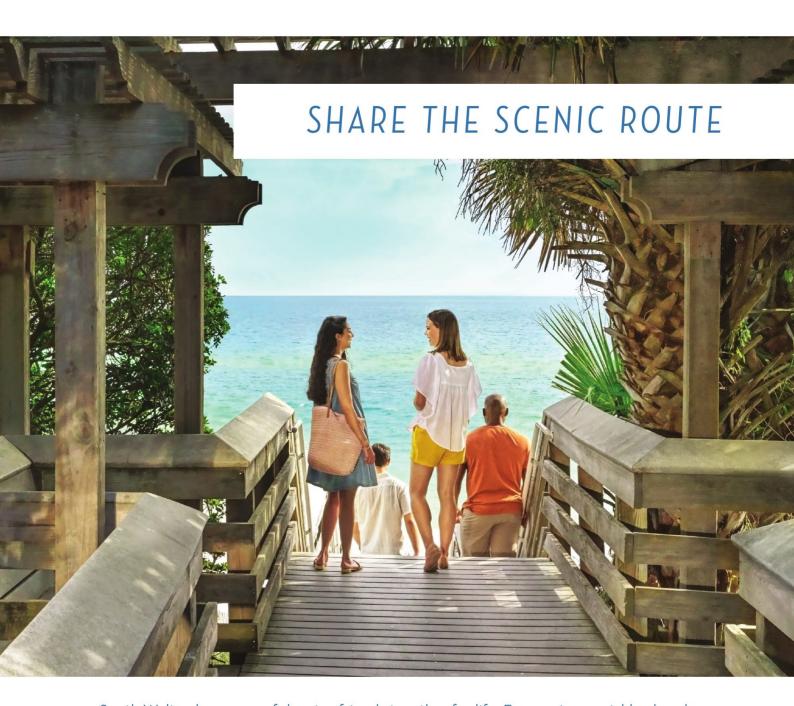

In 2016, Hard Rock Stadium installed a state-of-the-art canopy that keeps as many as 92 percent of the spectators in the shade and protected from the rain. In addition to the canopy, four giant high-definition video boards were added to enhance the fan experience. A total of 18 million LEDs showcase in-game action on the boards, positioned for easy viewing for all fans.

Unveiled for the 2017 season were remodeled, modernized suites throughout the stadium, offering a more intimate club space on the 200 level with improved amenities and food.

The facility was the first of its kind to be constructed entirely with private funds, costing $115 million when it was completed in 1987 by the late Joe Robbie. When the initial Miami Dolphins NFL franchise owner led the financing campaign to build "Joe Robbie Stadium," it revolutionized the economics of professional sports. Inclusion of a club level along with executive suites helped finance the construction of the venue. Season ticket holders committed to long-term agreements and in return they received first-class amenities in a state-of-the-art facility, which was used as model for new facilities across the Country.

Major League Baseball's premier event, the World Series, was played at the stadium in 1997 and 2003 following its first regular season Major League Baseball game in 1993. The stadium also hosted the Florida high school class 3A, 4A, 5A, and 6A state championship football games between 2005 and 2007, Monster Jam and boxing exhibitions, as well as various festivals and trade shows.

Numerous artists also performed concerts at Hard Rock Stadium, featuring entertainers such as Aventura, Bad Bunny, Black Eyed Peas, Chicago, Coldplay, the Eagles with Jimmy Buffett, Elton John/Billy Joel, Genesis, Gloria Estefan, Guns & Roses, Green Day, Hall & Oates, Jay Z and Beyoncé, Fall Out Boy, Joan Jett and The Blackhearts, Lady Gaga, Madonna, Metallica, Mötley Crüe, New Kids on the Block, N Sync, Paul McCartney, Pink Floyd, Poison, The Police, Red Hot Chili Peppers, Rod Stewart, the Rolling Stones, Taylor Swift, the Three Tenors, The Weeknd, Weezer, World Tour, U2, and The Who.
