FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY

PRESIDENT

DR. STANLEY MARSHALL

Florida State University's nine schools and college are the academic homes of more than 19,000 students in 1972—students who hail from all corners of the world as well as the home state.

This public, coeducational institution of higher learning is one of nine in the State University System of Florida. Founded in 1857, it is the second oldest university in the public system and a senior leader in graduate education and research programs.

Although Seminole athletics can be traced back to the first decade of the 20th Century, the University's history includes a number of years when it was known as the Florida State College for Women (1905-47). The dynamic growth of intercollegiate athletics, since coeducation and university status came to the campus in 1947, has paralleled the phenomenal physical and enrollment growth of the institution in the last two and one-half decades.

Academically and athletically, Florida State is a contender for top ranking among the nation's leading universities. Early last year, the American Council on Education rated eight Florida State graduate programs in the physical, biological and social science areas among the better programs in the nation, giving chemistry the highest rating of "strong and distinguished."

One of only 24 institutions in the country which confers more than 100 Ph.D. degrees each year, Florida State is now graduating an average of 5,000 students annually from its College of Arts and Sciences, Education and Law, and from its Schools of Home Economics, Music, Library Science, Social Welfare, Business and Nursing.
