Diaz, McDougall provide back-to-back home runs

By Steve Ellis
DEMOCRAT STAFF WRITER
OMAHA, Neb.

Chris Chavez woke up Wednesday morning with a headache and nausea. Brett Groves complained of a sore hamstring.

But neither could have felt better than they did on Wednesday night. The same goes for a Florida State team that usually departs its third game in the College World Series feeling downright lousy.

The Seminoles have never before won Game 3 in the College World Series after starting 1-1. That was 0-7 before Wednesday night. Now for the first time in seven CWS trips since 1980, FSU will leave Omaha with at least two wins.

Chavez, Groves and back-to-back home runs provided by Matt Diaz and Marshall McDougall saw to that.

FSU played up to its No. 2 seed with a 7-2 win over Cal State Fullerton to remain alive in its quest for the elusive national championship.

That's enough to cure a headache.

"Last night I went to the casino before curfew and I was doing pretty good (at the tables) and forgot to eat," Chavez said. "I guess that's the only thing I can think that didn't make me feel good. I woke up and was kind of worried that I wouldn't be able to pitch. I felt better about 1:30 or 2 p.m."

Mike Martin's team must beat Stanford twice to reach the third championship game in school history.

Ace Nick Stocks (12-2) will pitch for FSU tonight at 8:30 p.m. (EDT) in a repeat of Monday's winners' bracket game which Stanford won 10-6.

Too bad FSU can't just continue to use Chavez. After limiting Texas

A&M to no runs on one hit in relief on Saturday, Chavez (8-5) came back three days later to throw a complete game. He limited Cal State Fullerton to two runs on seven hits while striking out six. He threw 122 pitches.

It was just Chavez's third start this season. He had given up seven runs on nine hits in 12 $\frac{1}{2}$  innings in his previous two starts.

"Florida State did a fantastic job," Cal State Fullerton coach George Horton said. "Chris Chavez had a lot to do with our frustration. I didn't see that he wasn't feeling good."

"He's a bulldog pitcher, and they played great defense behind him like they always do. Chris is very hot and pitched very well for them in the first game. I knew we were in for a tough go, and he throws from a lot of angles."

Groves provided Chavez some important early offense after the Titans took a 1-0 lead in the first inning. Groves, hitting just .167 (2 for 12) in his previous four games, ripped a two-run single in the second inning to give FSU a lead it never relinquished.

Then came the McDougall-and-Diaz Show. Diaz wondered on the eve of the CWS opener last week when he and McDougall would finally get hot in the same game. In the third inning, FSU's leading home run hitters sizzled.

For the third time this season, the two hit back-to-back home runs. They accomplished the feat also against Georgia Tech and Miami.

First came McDougall and his powerful shot over the left-center-field wall to put FSU up 3-1. Next was Diaz. His home run would be his third this CWS and fifth in his last five games after hitting just two in the 21 games before he got hot.

It was also the sophomore's 14th home run in 14 NCAA postseason games.

Diaz is now tied for second in most career home runs in CWS history with four.

Two batters later, Cal State Fullerton starter Jon Smith (7-1) was gone after giving up four runs on seven hits while striking out just one.

McDougall would make his own history in the fourth inning. He followed John-Ford Griffin's pinch-hit, RBI double with a walk. When he scored on Kevin Cash's single to make it 6-1, McDougall had become just the fifth Division I player to score 100 runs, have 100 hits and 100 RBIs in a single season in NCAA history. J.D. Drew also did it in his career.

Cal State Fullerton will leave the College World Series with just one win for the first time in 10 all-time appearances. The Titans have gone 0-2 three times and have won at least two or more games six times in the CWS.

The Seminoles (55-13) have been booted in three games from the CWS in four of their past five appearances. And it was a California team that eliminated FSU from the CWS in four of those five appearances.

Cal State Fullerton's 1991

Cal State Fullerton sent FSU packing in 1992 and 1994. Long Beach State did it last year and Southern California eliminated FSU in 1995. Stanford will try to do it tonight with freshman right-hander Brian Sager (6-0, 3.98 ERA) on the mound. He will be making his first appearance since May 30.

"We know we've got an uphill battle but we are also excited," coach Mike Martin said. "It's like the Bee Gees — just staying alive."

"Dadgum, I haven't been here in a long time. We're in the Thursday and Friday stuff now."
