FLORIDA STATE (5-0) vs. MISSISSIPPI STATE (2-2)

GAME NOTES...

THE TEAMS--Nationally ranked Florida State (No. 9 in Associated Press and No. 10 United Press) hosts Mississippi State (No. 20 United Press). The Seminoles begin the night with a perfect 5-0 record and nine-game win streak that extends over two seasons. Mississippi State is 2-2 (1-0 in Southeastern Conference) with back-to-back victories after opening the season with two losses.

THE COACHES--Florida State mentor Bobby Bowden (Samford '52) has compiled a 28-11 record since accepting the reigns of the Tribe program in 1976. That FSU mark is impressive when one realizes the Seminoles were 4-29 in the three seasons prior to Bowden's arrival. In the September 29 game at Virginia Tech, Bowden picked up the 100th victory of his coaching career. The victory at Louisville last week now gives him a 101-43 ledger at the major college coaching level. In his previous head coaching stops, Bowden went 31-6 at Samford and 42-26 at West Virginia.

Emory Bellard (Southwest Texas '49) took over the Mississippi State program this season after serving as the head coach at Texas A & M for six and one half seasons. The 28th head coach at Mississippi State Bellard guided A & M to a share of the Southwest Conference title and three bowl appearances while compiling a 48-27 record. Bellard resigned from his dual post as athletic director and head football coach at A & M in mid-season 1978 with the Aggies owning a 4-2 record at the time. Bellard's present overall coaching log is 50-29.

THE CAPTAINS--Florida State has four: defensive end Scott Warren (No. 80), cornerback Ivory Joe Hunter (No. 46), offensive tackle Mike Good (No. 69) and quarterback Wally Woodham (No. 12). Mississippi State names game captains.

THE OFFICIALS--A split crew appointed by Southern Independent Collegiate Officials Association (SICOA) and Southeastern Conference (SEC).

REFEREE--Tommy Miller (SICOA), Jonesboro, Tn.

UMPIRE--Jack Smalley (SEC), Covington, Ga.

HEAD LINESMAN--Joseph Pipkin (SICOA), Memphis, Tn.

LINE JUDGE--John Wilson (SEC), Helena, Ala.

BACK JUDGE--Ted Thomas (SEC), Chattanooga, Tn.

FIELD JUDGE--William E. Lange, Jr. (SICOA), Pleasure Ridge Park, Ky.

STREAKING SEMINOLES--Florida State is currently riding a nine-game win streak that extends over two seasons. This streak is the longest for FSU since the seasons of 1949, 50 and 51. Over that span, the final three games of 1949 and the Cigar Bowl, eight games in a perfect 1950 season and the opener of 1951 the Seminoles won 13 straight under Don Veller, who is now the golf coach at FSU.

CAPPELEN NEARS 200--Seminole placekicker Davey Cappelen needs one point tonight to become the first player in FSU history to score 200 or more points. Cappelen, who started the season as the leading scorer in Seminole history, already has 30 points this season with six field goals and 12 PATs. He has not missed a PAT attempt in his last 29 attempts.

ABOUT RANKINGS--For the second straight week Florida State is ranked in the top 10. Associated Press has the Seminoles in the ninth position while United Press has the Tribe in the 10th slot. Mississippi State's upset of Tennessee last week moved the Bulldogs into the 20th slot in the UPI board of coaches rankings. The present rankings are the highest ever for the Seminoles and match last year's ninth and 10th place ratings during the fourth week of the season. That time, however, UPI had the Tribe in ninth and Associated Press had the Seminoles in the 10th slot.

NEXT WEEK--Florida State is "open" and does not play again until it visits LSU on Saturday, October 27. That will be the Tigers' Homecoming Game. Mississippi State hosts Marshall in a non-conference game at Starkville next Saturday.

Florida State vs.
Mississippi State

OCTOBER 13, 1979

Tribe Tonight

by Mark Carlson, Florida State SPORTS INFORMATION DIRECTOR

10 . . . that will be the goal of the Florida State football team and its fans tonight as the Mississippi State Bulldogs invade for the Tribe's third home game of the season.

The "10" represents the number of consecutive victories Florida State will have registered over the last two seasons if it can knock off Mississippi State. Four of those wins came at the close of last season and five more have come this year for the nationally-ranked Seminoles, who are off to their fastest start since 1971.

Mississippi State, however, is not going to be a willing victim. The Bulldogs are expected to give the Tribe their sternest test of the season which tonight goes beyond the mid-way point.

"Mississippi State seems to have gotten it all together," said head coach Bobby Bowden after viewing film of the Bulldogs' upset 28-9 victory over Tennessee last Saturday.

The Bulldogs had their problems early, bowing to Memphis State and Maryland, before taking Florida in the Southeastern Conference opener.

"You would have to expect Mississippi State to have some early-season problems," Bowden continued. "After all, the players are adjusting to a new coaching staff and offense."

The Bulldog offense is also going to be new to the Seminoles. Emory Ballard, the new head coach at Mississippi State, has installed the wishbone which features the ground game. It has been nearly two seasons since the FSU defense was confronted with a wishbone attack.

"We will need to make some adjustments quickly this week," Bowden said. "What makes the Mississippi State offense so tough to defend against is that it also features one of the country's outstanding receivers, Mardye McDole."

Last year McDole was a featured segment of the Bulldog offense. He caught 48 passes for 1,035 yards and seven touchdowns. He was a major nemesis to Florida State, catching nine passes — two touchdowns — for 175 yards. The yardage total is the best ever recorded for a Florida State opponent.

This year McDole has just six catches in four games. But, the yardage total is a neat 181, or 30.3 yards per grab. And, get this—McDole's last three catches one vs. Florida and two vs. Tennessee have all been for touchdowns.

Florida State's defense is contending with the wishbone and McDole will be hard-pressed to match its effort of last week when it limited Louisville to 93 total yards, including seven along the ground.

That defensive gem was the best the Seminoles have put forth in the 39 games Bowden has been head coach. In fact, there are very few defensive efforts that can come close to matching last Saturday. The lowest previous total for an opponent's total offense was the 148 gained by Syracuse in the 1978 opener.

FSU's offense underwent a face-lift last week. The Tribe gained 275 yards along the ground and a mere 60 through the air. No, the Seminoles did not plan to go totally with the ground game at Louisville.

"The way our offense is designed we attempt to take what the defense is giving us," Bowden said. "Louisville apparently decided to give us the run and stop the pass."

Thus it will be interesting for Tribe fans tonight to see what Mississippi State attempts to do in defending against the Seminole attack. Prior to last Saturday most teams were trying to guard against the pass, but after the fine rushing performance it's doubtful any future team on the Seminole schedule will not respect the running game.

TRIBE TRIVIA — While the Tribe has been away the last two weeks at Virginia Tech and Louisville, Bowden has reached a significant milestone in his coaching career . . . at Virginia Tech, he notched the 100th coaching victory of his Division I career and he now sports a nifty 101-43 worksheet which comes to a winning percentage of .701 . . . after tonight the Seminoles will not return home until November 10 when they host South Carolina in the Homecoming Game . . . the Garnet and Gold has a 6-2 advantage in the Mississippi State series although the Bulldogs have won the last two meetings . . .

The Luck of the Italians

Defensive Back Monk Bonasorte Is Lucky and Good

by Elgin White, FSU SPORTS INFORMATION

Who ever heard of an Italian running around with a four-leaf clover stuck in his hip pocket?

Nobody.

But many believe that's got to be the case with Monk Bonasorte, Florida State's transplanted Pennsylvanian who might just feast on Irish corned beef and cabbage (in addition to wide receivers and running backs) rather than pasta pazzul.

The junior safety with the Seminoles is lucky. He admits it, though he does not admit to the totin' clover in his pocket. Coach Bobby Bowden feels it, just as he feels he's a little lucky, too.

But Bonasorte, who grabbed off five errant enemy aerials in the first five games this season, has a little more than luck on his side. There's something called talent. And something else called intuition. Maybe he should have been born a female, with all that intuition, but luckily for Florida State and Seminole football, Bonasorte was born a male, with just a touch of luck and intuition on his side.

Bowden put it rather succinctly when he talks about luck. "I think luck has to have a lot to do with football, with a player or a team or a coach. I think I am lucky. We have to be to win some of the games we've won. And I think Monk is lucky, too. He's certainly not the biggest, fastest or quickest defensive back we've ever had, but he has been in the right place at the right time. Now, listen, all that isn't luck. Bonasorte is a smart football player, and a player with the smarts doesn't have to be as quick or as fast as the others."

Seminole fans might well recall another defensive back or two that used to wear Garnet and Gold who were not all that fast but who had the alertness and smarts to make them the best. Remember Walt Sumner who toiled back in the winning years of the late sixties, and J. T. Thomas who scoured opposing backs for FSU in the early 70's?

Both went on to be top draft choices in the NFL and had fine careers, Sumner with the Cleveland Browns and J. T. still with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Both were good, neither was exceptionally fast, but they both had lots of moxie. So does Monk Bonasorte.

And speaking of luck, the Seminoles are just plain lucky that Bonasorte is even here in the first place. When he played high school and sand-lot football in Pittsburgh, he was a somewhat short (if you call 6 feet short) and chubby tight end. Most recruiters wouldn't even give him the time of day, much less offer a scholarship.

But somebody up there liked him, and when the time came for Monk to find a place to play in college, a call was made to defensive coordinator Jack Stanton, who also is from the Pittsburgh area. "Well," Stanton responded, "tell the kid to give me a call. I've never seen him play, so how can I judge?"

Monk called. They had a little talk and Stanton urged the youngster to get to Tallahassee somehow and they would see what he could do.

Bonasorte was interested enough to follow up on that conversation. He came to FSU on his own and came out for practice when drills opened in the spring of '77 as a walk-on.

He had ideas of playing tight end, just like he did back home in Pittsburgh. "But when I got on that practice field and saw all those 6-6 and 6-5 tight ends, I knew I had better look around for somewhere else to play, so it was strong safety or nothing."

It was in that very first spring drill that Lady Luck smiled on the young Italian from Pennsylvania. He was running somewhere on the third or fourth string defensive back slot and they were defending on the two-yard line.

Suddenly, there was a fumble and the ball bounced into the air instead of on the ground. And guess who was standing right there?

Bonasorte grabbed the errant pigskin and scampered 98 yards for a touchdown.

"Who was THAT?" queried a suddenly interested Bobby Bowden. They had to look him up on the roster sheet, but from then on, Monk Bonasorte caught the coach's eye.

In that first season in 1977, the youngster played some on defense, but it wasn't until he played before the home town folks in Pittsburgh in 1978 that Bonasorte came into his own. He was the defensive star of the show in the Seminoles 9-7 loss, but it was then the staff discovered that Bonasorte had a little more than luck riding in his hip pocket.

He was all over the field in that one, making tackle after tackle and in general harassing the Panthers to a near point of frustration.

Now comes the 1979 season, and Bonasorte has established himself as a mainstay in the Seminole defensive backfield. Lady Luck came calling again in the very first contest.

On Southern Mississippi's first seven punts of the game, Bonasorte was not on the punt return team. The eighth time he was.

The Southern Mississippi blocking back looked over the FSU defense and saw the power lineup to the right, led by Ron Simmons and Bobby Butler, two Tribesmen who have a high percentage mark in blocking punts.

"They're coming!" he shouted, and the shift was towards Simmons and Butler. Bonasorte had just come into the lineup and nobody paid any attention to him at all.

Mistake.

"I had a straight run at the kicker, and just blocked it, that's all," he said. "Guess I was lucky again."

The Lady was also with Monk in the second game of the season against Arizona State in Tampa. He intercepted two passes, and on the first one he again said he was lucky. "The quarterback simply overthrew the ball right into my hands. Now that's lucky."

"On the second interception I could read what they were going to do. I watched the quarterback's eyes, and when I saw the swing man in motion my way, I just went towards him when the quarterback cocked his arm. I stepped in front and had it."

No luck there . . . just plain ol' good football playing. That kind of action has something to do with Bonasorte having the smarts.

Then, against Miami, li'l ol' Monk did it again, grabbing off two errant Hurricane tosses, and getting himself in on several tackles in the Seminole secondary.

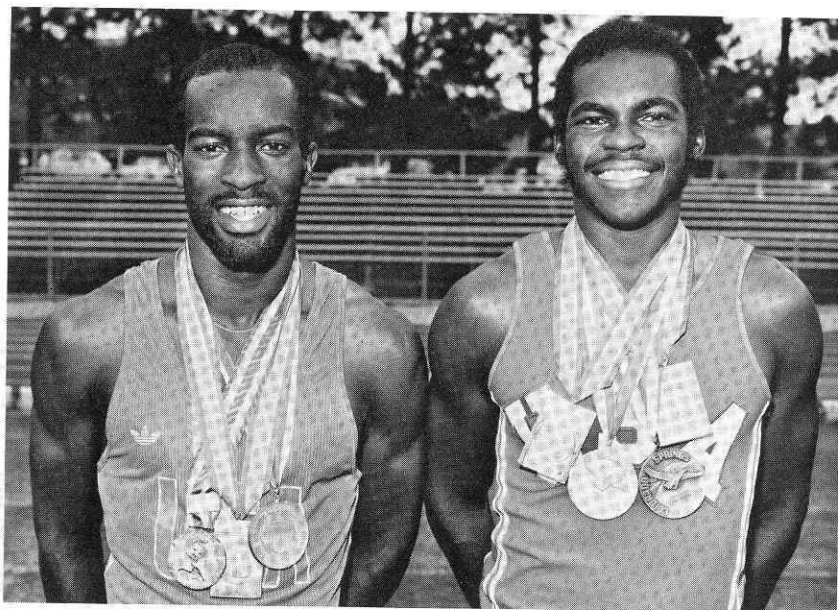

Such is the lot, in many cases, with walk-on football players. Maybe it all started back in the 20's or early 30's with guys like George Gipp. He hated football and didn't want any part in it 'til Knute Rockne spoke with him a few times.

Bonasorte loves the game, and he has to be proud of the way he has come into his own after finding his way down from the mountains of Pennsylvania to the hills of Tallahassee.

He came here with a lot of hope, enthusiasm and trepidation. He had no scholarship or other financial aid. "I was hoping I could play well enough to get somebody's attention," he said.

He has.

He probably got that scholarship about three seconds after he ran that 98 yard fumble back for a TD in practice. He didn't take long to get noticed.

Three athletes, three events and three separate roads to success. But, what Florida State track stars Mike Roberson, Walter McCoy and Brad Cooper all have in common is the desire to win and the ability to satisfy that desire.

The trio of Roberson, McCoy and Cooper all achieved great notoriety last spring and summer with impressive victories on the national and international level. While bringing great acclaim to themselves as athletes, the three thinclads also helped put Florida State on the 'track map' of world competition.

For Roberson, a senior this year with only outdoor eligibility, the road to success began after the regular season was over. Injured all year, the swift-footed Winter Park native qualified for the AAU Championships in Atlanta with a time of 10.40 for the 100. With only three meets and a month of training behind him Roberson ran a blistering 10.24 in the semi-final round placing him against the best in the U.S. in the finals of the 100 meter dash. Backing off at the end, Roberson earned a sixth place finish, but more importantly placed his name on the list of alternates for the 4x100 race at the Pan Am Games.

Between the AAU's and the Pan Am Games Roberson tested his injury running in the Jacques Courer Relays at Bourges, France. Roberson led off the 4x100 squad and picked up a gold medal — his first of many. A combination of injuries and his impressive performance at the Courer Relays placed him in the leadoff position at the Pan Am Games where he and the U.S. squad earned yet another gold medal. Roberson's next excursion took him to Colorado Springs for the American Sports Festival. It was here more than anywhere else that the world took notice of Florida State's Mike Roberson.

In a leg that track experts are still talking about, the now well conditioned athlete ran an incredible 9.98 split and gave his Southern team, a commanding lead that led to gold once again.

Continuing the torrid pace, Roberson was next invited to participate at the World University Games in the 4x100, but this time also in the 100 meter dash. Hungry for competition he reported to Colorado Springs to begin training when a phone call came. The call was from the U.S. team at the World Cup Games in Montreal and another invitation was extended to the FSU sprinter for the 4x100. Injuries and a poor lane assignment cost the team the gold, but a silver medal and Roberson's fourth consecutive superlative performance kept the eyes of the track world on the senior. Roberson returned to the World University Games at Mexico City and began to do his thing. In a practice run, this time in the 200, he ran a 20.1, one of the ten best times of the year and an FSU record. Returning to the events that he was invited for, Roberson was not disappointing. He set a World University Games record of 10.7 in the open 100 (tying him with UCLA's James Sanford for the fastest time in the world that year) qualifying round and captured the gold medal one day later with a clocking of 10.19.

"Mike Roberson has the physical and mental ability to make the Olympic team," said FSU track coach Dick Roberts. "You reach a point in your career when you're 'right' and things are going your way. Mike has an excellent chance of being heard from in 1980."

The second thinclad that brought fame to Tallahassee is junior Walter McCoy. Like Roberson, McCoy was injured all season, but unlike his teammate he was able to run in pain.

"Walt simply gutted it out all year," Roberts said. "We tried everything we could but nothing worked — he still wanted to run."

What did finally work was an alien

sounding Sportthotic insert that was designed by Dr. Bornstein and casted by the Langer Institute of New York. What the contraption did was ease the pain of a bone spur and allowed McCoy to run pain free for the first time all year. The results were incredible.

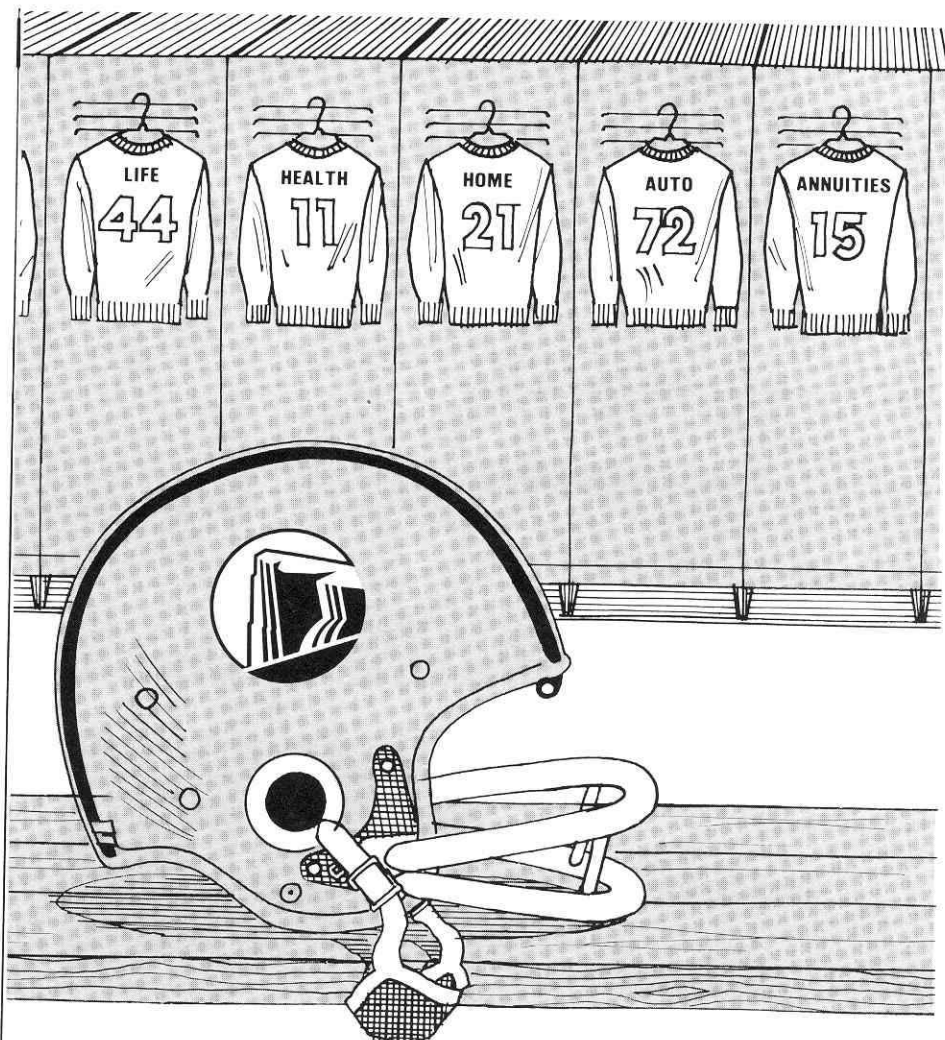

McCoy journeyed to the NCAA Championships and finished fourth in the 400 with a time of 45.83 surpassing both his best time and finish of Walt's freshman year at the championships. The Daytona Beach native also anchored the Seminole third place finishing 4x400 relay team helping set a school record of 3:05.7.

On the basis of his NCAA performance he was invited to the Courer Relays with teammate Roberson and picked up his first gold medal in the 4x400. Leaving France, McCoy joined the South team at Colorado Springs and picked up a bronze medal in the 400 open and anchored the South to victory in the 4x400. Concluding the summer's competition, McCoy joined the U.S. team at the World University Games and earned a bronze medal in the 400 open and once again anchored his team to a gold in the 4x400.

The final athlete to gain world recognition was discus thrower Cooper. A winner in every meet except one last season for FSU, Cooper journeyed to Champaign for the NCAA Championships rated second best in the U.S. From the first throw, however, there was no doubt who was the man to beat. In the preliminary rounds Cooper set a new NCAA record with a toss of 212-6 and captured the title the following day with a throw of 209-6.

Bradley, a team leader like McCoy, continued to compete for his homeland of the Bahamas. In the finals of the Americas at Guadalajara he finished second. Amazing, Cooper also qualified for the shot put with a toss of 60-2, making him only the second FSU competitor to toss the sphere 60 feet plus. Cooper's next competition came at the Pan American games where he earned the silver medal behind America's Mac Wilkins.

For Roberson, McCoy and Cooper the next stop is hopefully the Olympics. But if that should never occur it really wouldn't matter — they've already brought back gold for themselves, America and Florida State. ●

Coaches' quotes--Mississippi State's Emory Ballard:

"I guess there were a lot of turning points. This is a very hard thing to say, and I believe that Florida State has a very fine team, but we played well enough to win the game tonight.

"Defensively, we played well enough to win, and offensive we made the plays, but we also stopped ourselves several times on offense.

We had many opportunities. At halftime we made a few adjustments.

"I thought we moved the ball pretty well in the first half, but we kept stopping ourselves with penalties. We didn't complete a pass because our protection for the passer broke down a couple of times, and we dropped a few.

"The officials said that we were offsides on the 60-yard run by Dwayne Brown that was called back. I had a hard time seeing what happened on the interference call which set up their first touchdown. I believe it was Willie Jackson defending. They (officials) said that Matt Edwards (offensive guard) was offsides on the long run by Brown, but that's totally inconsequential.

"We really started competing in the second half both ways. You have to remember that we played the whole game with three starting backs and our tight end out with injuries." (Note: the backs were QB Tony Black, LHB James Jones, RHB Len Copeland, and TE Arthur Wiley--all hurt against Tenn. last week).

"Doss hurt a knee, Don Edwards has a hip pointer, Dwayne Brown, who I thought did a great job running tonight, just cramped up. He's okay, but he ran a lot out there. We had at least two cinch touchdowns, and it seems that every time we get inside the 10, we just start rattling the ball around. We get it there, and it's just a question of finishing up what we start. We have just been beating ourselves."

PLAYER QUOTES

ED RICHARDSON

"I guess we try to get around the ball whenever we can."

"I saw two men after the ball, and I just got there first."

On end zone recover: The ball popped loose and I tried to get the ball before it went out of the end zone."

"We were hitting pretty hard. I thought we intimidated McDole pretty well."

"This had to be my best game. I played with intensity. I gained personal self-satisfaction beating them after what they did to us last year."

"I wish we would have had a shutout, but I'm happy being 6-0."

RON SIMMONS

"I'm super upset about losing the shutout."

"Our No.1 goal is to win."

"I thought they were aggressive--we knew we had to intimidate them from the beginning."

"Just hearing the words 55 points was enough--it was like a basketball score."

The pass was down the line and the QB just threw it too much inside."

"This had to be the toughest physical game we've played."

JIMMY JORDAN

Everybody is out to get into a big bowl. We if get by LSU I think we have a chance."

"We want to go undefeated."

:I can't tell you what's wrong with the offense--we have the best offensive line and pretty much the same receivers--there is something missing."

We've been hot and cold."

Bowden Quotes

Bowden Quotes

" They deserved the last score, but it upset me."

" The defense played great again, but I was very upset offensively "

" Aslong as our defense continues to play this way were ok. "

" We looked like pigmys out there compared to Mississippi State."

" Our running game is good enough now that we don't have to throw all of the time. "

On being 6-0- " I couldn't ask for more. "

" Their linemen were so big our quarterbacks had to throw over them the whole game. "

On L.S.U. and remaining games- " All of them are important now, but the L.S.U. game is the most important up to this point. "

" I was very dissapointed L.S.U. lost. "
