

Netters lose again

by robert mashburn

Florida State's injury-riddled tennis team topped off a weekend of frustration with a 6-3 loss to Kansas University Sunday afternoon on the Tully courts.

The loss was the Seminole third in as many days. The Tribe dropped an 8-1 decision to Kentucky Saturday, and lost by the same score to Duke Friday afternoon.

"We are really down," said Seminole coach Ken Vinson. "With those two guys out (Dave Calvert and Bruce Knittle) and two more playing hurt (Rick Thomas and Andre Cantin), we just don't have much strength. We should have won all three of those matches."

Both Calvert and Knittle are out with shoulder injuries.

Allan Bellamy and Thomas claimed the Seminoles' only singles victories of the afternoon against Kansas. Bellamy whipped Hank Coleman 6-4, 6-2, while Thomas blasted Kansas' Jeff Thomas 6-2, 6-4.

The Seminoles are now 2-4 on the season, with three matches scheduled over the quarter break. Clemson comes to town for a match March 20, followed by Tennessee on the 22nd and Calvin on the 25th.

Against Duke, FSU's only victory was by No. 1 Gordon Jones, 7-6, 7-5 over Duke's Ted Daniel. Enrique Andrade was the Tribe's only winner against Kentucky, taking a 6-0, 7-5 decision over Glen Booth.
