

FSU spikes two opponents

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — The Florida State University women's volleyball team won two matches in the Tar Heel Classic Saturday at the University of North Carolina.

The Lady Seminoles downed North Carolina State 15-6, 15-3, 15-7 and then beat Rhode Island 15-12, 10-15, 15-3, 12-15, 15-10.

Shannon Lages led the Lady Seminoles offensively and Karyn Palgut was the defensive standout.

Florida State has won five straight matches in the round-robin tournament.

The Lady Seminoles raised their overall record to 28-5. They will travel to Louisville next weekend for the Metro Conference Tourney. FSU, the top seed, plays its first match against Southern Mississippi at 2 p.m. Friday.
