Kennedy's Fourth Season Three Years of Changes

"I think that we've done that. We're a family and we are all focused on our goals."

focused on our goals."

A great deal more is required of a college haskethall coach than the ability to design plays. The modern coach must he as accomplished in administrative skills as he is in administrative skills as he is in practice drills. Recruiting, scheduling, coordinating practices and road trips, all demand the attention of the coaching staff.
Today's coach spends as much time talking on the telephone as blowing a whistie.

While Coach Kennedy took exception to this call, the personable head coach of the Seminoles has seen most things go his way since coming to Tallahassee.

With back-to-back NCAA

With back-to-back NCAA tournament appearances to shout about, Kennedy feels like his Florida State program has turned the corner to regular top-20 attention.

Opposite Page: Pat Kennedy's dramatic first three seasons at Florida State have seen the basketball program reach heights that often seem too much too soon. The commercial goes "master the possibilities" and it could be the theme for Kennedy. He transplanted his family from a cozy situation at Iona College in New York to Florida's capital city because he could see such possibility, such potential, in an FSU program that had done little since losing the national championship to UCLA in 1972.

"When I came here a few years ago I sincerely felt that Florida State was a sleeping giant in the college basketball world," said Kennedy. "I looked at the fine facilities, the excellent reputation of the University, the wonderful community and the talent in the state and I realized that this was a great place to be. I'm a goal oriented person and my staff and I agreed that we could win here. But I have to admit, things are happening for us even quicker than I imagined."

Those closest to Kennedy, 38, realize nothing happens faster than the fiery Irishman can imagine. Keeping up with Kennedy is like trying to keep up with a whirlwind. He never stops and never settles for anything but the best.

He is a man totally consumed by the game of basketball, and his dedication to hard work and attention to detail are rapidly propelling him to the top of the profession he loves so much.

A more dramatic beginning could not have been written for the Kennedy era at Florida State as he opened the 1986-87 season against rival Florida in front of the largest crowd to ever witness a college game in the state. 13,300 looked on as Kennedy shouted, cheered, screamed, stomped, encouraged and inspired his underdog Seminole squad to a delirious 80-76 win over the nationally-ranked Gators. Kennedy has not looked back since.

His first season was a 19-11 effort, culminating in an invitation to the National Invitational Tournament (NIT). The post-season appearance was FSU's first since the 1984 season and only the second in the 1980's.

With just one starter and three players who had ever donned the garnet and gold, Kennedy's 1987-88 team won 19 games, finished second in the Metro Conference and went to the NCAA tournament. All this after opening the season to predictions of a sub .500 season and conference cellar-dweller status.

But last season was the proof of the basketball rebirth in Tallahassee.

Florida State entered the 1988-89 season ranked among the preseason top 20 for only the second time in school history. The Seminoles remained in the nation's elite poll throughout the entire regular season reaching a top ranking of seventh in the country after a landmark win over Louisville in Freedom Hall. Kennedy's third effort as FSU coach also resulted in the school's second ever regular season Metro Conference title, a 22-8 record, and a second consecutive trip to the NCAA tournament. The back-to-back NCAA appearances over the last two years occurred just one other time in school history.

Kennedy has the loyalty of Seminole basketball fans who had grown complacent. Florida State drew over 100,000 fans for the first time ever during Kennedy's first season and each year another attendance record falls. Typically, Kennedy is not satisfied. "We have got to reach the point where a basketball ticket is a hot item," Kennedy said. "Florida State fans are the best in the country, we

Kennedy is driven to obsession in accomplishing his coaching goals. Month after month Kennedy can be found criss-crossing the South for speaking engagements, recruiting visits, charity appearances and booster meetings. No one works harder to make Florida State basketball a national name than Kennedy, and his attitude for hard work and not missing a beat has made him one of the most successful young coaches in the nation.

A native of Keyport, NJ, Kennedy attended King's College in Wilke-Barre, PA, on a basketball scholarship. After two years as a player, while still a student, he became head junior varsity coach, finishing the year with a 17-4 record. He was elevated to the school's top varsity assistant coach as a senior.

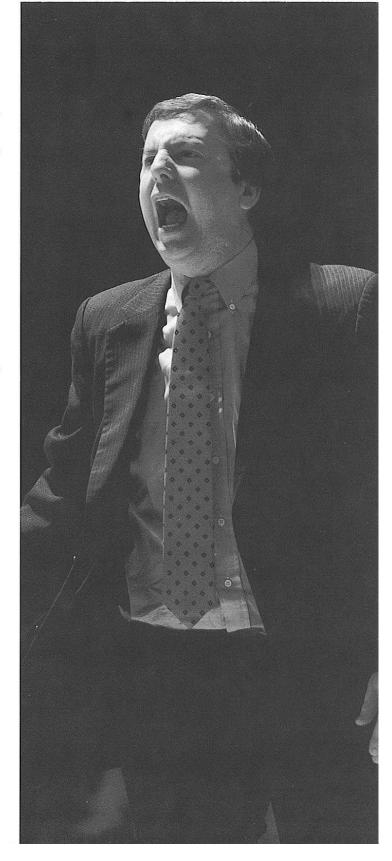

After graduation in 1975, Kennedy was named assistant coach at Lehigh University. In 1977, Iona head coach Jim Valvano asked Kennedy to join his staff and a longtime friendship between the two was born. When North Carolina State lured Valvano away from the New Rochelle, NY school after the 1979-80 season, Iona wasted little time in naming Kennedy to the post.

While at Iona, Kennedy's teams defeated some of the nation's top programs and coaches including Eldon Miller's Ohio State team, Jerry Tarkanian's UNLV Rebels and Bobby Cremin's Georgia Tech squad.

A 23-8 record in 1984 led to Kennedy's selection as the New York Metro Area Coach of the Year as well as Mid-Atlantic Conference Coach of the Year. He followed the year with a 26-5 record and was the recipient of the Heineken Award which recognizes excellence in college coaching. Kennedy followed Valvano, Lou Carnesseca and Dean Smith as winners of the prestigious award.

Overall, the Kennedy record shows seven post-season appearances, four of those in the NCAA tournament, and five conference championships in nine years of coaching. Kennedy became only the fourth Division I coach in NCAA history to win 100 games in his first five years of coaching.

A high level of achievement, both in the academic and athletic arenas made Kennedy an easy choice when Florida State began looking for a head coach following the 1985-86 season. "We were impressed with Coach Kennedy's commitment to a well-rounded program and his desire to develop our players emotionally, academically and athletically," said FSU president Dr. Bernard F. Sliger upon presenting the Seminole's fifth head coach.

The confidence the selection committee displayed in Kennedy comes from its belief it had hired not only an outstanding coach, but a man who understands education should come first to the student-athlete.

Kennedy's academic commitment is strong. Over 95 percent of his recruits at Iona graduated — a fact recognized by USA Today newspaper, which cited Iona College and Kennedy's program for one of the most outstanding graduation rates in all of college athletics. His "no-bend" philosophy on academics has carried over to Florida State where he is raising the graduation rate and the scholastic health of his student-athletes.

Kennedy coached student-athletes have enjoyed great success after their basketball careers were finished. Investment counselors on Wall Street, several law school students and numerous business leaders in Fortune 500 companies found their start in Kennedy's basketball programs. "A lot of coaches may pay lip service to academics and its importance," Kennedy said, "but our staff does something about it. If a guy wants to play basketball for us, he better also want to go to class and get a degree. Because that's what he should be here for. We tell our recruits that from day one."

Recruiting talented student-athletes is a specialty of Kennedy's. His first class at Florida State was ranked among the five best in the country and the last two years have been among the top 25. His Iona groups were on the list of the top 15 classes in the East for five straight years and the 1980 class was ranked best in the East by Eastern Basketball magazine.

It is through recruiting Kennedy plans to lay ground work to keep FSU among the country's top teams. "The amount of great basketball talent that leaves this state every year is remarkable," he said. "Now that is changing. I think all the schools in the state have put a premium on keeping the talent in Florida. That is why whenever a great high school player is lacing up his shoes to play, we are going to have somebody in the stands watching him. There is still a lot of work to be done, but I believe Florida State is on the verge of something great."

Off the court and away from the recruiting trails, Kennedy is a man who has both a keen sense of public relations and a deep belief in becoming a part of his community. In addition to his youth camps, Kennedy serves as the state's honorary chairman for the Special Olympics, a cause he and wife Jeannie have championed for several years. In 1984, he was named Special Olympics Man of the Year.

Kennedy also possesses a strong background in administration, serving five years in the dual role of head basket-ball coach and associate athletic director at Iona. He was president of the MAAC Coaches' Association since the league's inception and was a member of the NCAA tournament selection committee for the Eastern region. The Executive Director of the Pat Kennedy Day Camps, one of the largest of its type in the nation, Kennedy is also a consultant to the Nike corporation.

DAVID ZIMROTH Assistant Coach Florida State '78

Entering his fourth year of coordinating the recruiting efforts at Florida State is assistant coach David Zimroth. In just four short years, Zimroth has FSU basketball listed among the top recruiting programs in the nation. The 1987-88 class ranked among the top five in the country, and last two classes have been among the top 25.

Tallahassee has become a regular stop for the nation's top high school athletes, and Zimroth is given credit for establishing Florida State's basketball program among this group.

A product of the state of Florida, Zimroth has coached at every level in his home state. His contact system within the state is extremely strong and last year he landed "Mr. Basketball" in the state of Florida to go along with the previous two runners-up for the title. He also has had great success throughout the Southeast, pulling in talent from Georgia and North Carolina as well as junior college stars Tony Dawson and Derrick Mitchell.

Zimroth's coaching experience began even before his graduation from Florida State in 1978. While still a student at FSU, he served as an assistant coach at nearby Florida High during the 1977-78 season.

After graduation, he returned to his alma mater, North Miami Beach High, where he coached for a year before accepting a position at Miami Dade-North Junior College for two seasons. Zimroth left the junior college ranks in 1981 to join Hugh Durham's staff at the University of Georgia for the 1981-82 season. His next stop was back at Miami Dade-North where he served another two seasons. During his four years at the junior college level, Miami Dade won 116 games and lost just 15. He recruited three players who were drafted in the first five rounds of the NBA draft.

In 1984, Zimroth was named head coach at Miami Beach High where he stayed for one year before coming to Florida State Zimroth has also worked an impressive number of clinics conducted by some of the top coaches in the collegiate game. Jim Valvano's NC State camps and those led by Georgia's Hugh Durham headline an impressive list. "Coach Z," as he is affectionately known by friends and fans, has also been heavily involved with the team Florida AAU program, which is traditionally one of the top AAU programs in the nation.

Graduated in 1974 from North Miami Beach High, Zimroth scored over 1800 points in his high school playing career. He received a basketball scholarship to Miami-Dade North Community College where he earned his Associate of Arts degree in 1976. Zimroth then transferred to FSU, graduating with a bachelor's in Health Education and a minor in coaching in 1978. He has also completed work towards a masters degree.

Zimroth is 33 and a bachelor.

Coaching Staff

KENNY Assistant Coach CCNY '76

Kenny Williamson is the most recent addition to the WILLIAMSON Florida State coaching staff. While his name is not familiar to Seminole fans, his association with Pat Kennedy goes back to their days at Iona.

Williamson served as Kennedy's associate head coach for four of his seven seasons of coaching at Iona.

A former academic advisor at St. Johns, Williamson was an assistant coach at Columbia before joining the Iona staff. After leaving the New Rochelle, NY, school the 42year-old Williamson served as an assistant at Louisville and worked with the Golden State Warriors of the National Basketball Association.

"Kenny brings a wealth of quality experience to our staff," Kennedy said upon his appointment. "Having worked with Kenny for seven years, I know his abilities and I am excited to have him here at Florida State. The hiring of a coach of the quality of Kenny continues our tradition of excellence.

Williamson's excellent reputation is well earned as recruiting classes at Iona were regularly listed among the best in the East. The Gaels enjoyed unprecedented success during Kennedy and Williamson's time there and both developed recruiting in-roads in the basketball rich Northeast.

Williamson, who has served on the executive board of the Black Coaches Association, replaces Rich Petroccione on the FSU staff. Petroccione, who ended a 12-year association with Pat Kennedy, resigned in July to accept the position of athletic director at Iona.

Tom CARLSON Assistant Coach Florida State '74

One of the most popular members of Florida State's athletic staff. Tom Carlson enters his fourth season as a volunteer assistant coach with the Seminole basketball program.

Carlson established a reputation as one of the state's top high school coaches while serving as head coach at Tallahassee's Maclay High for 11 years. He joined Pat Kennedy's Seminole staff prior to the 1986-87 season.

A native of Hazlet, New Jersey, the 41-year-old Carlson's roots run deep in the capital city. From 1972-74, while still a student at Florida State, he served as an assistant coach at Tallahassee's Rickards High.

He received his undergraduate degree in physical education from FSU in 1974 and enrolled in graduate school, serving as a graduate assistant on Hugh Durham's 1974-75 FSU squad that finished the year with an 18-8 record. A "jack of all trades" that season, Carlson had responsibilities with scouting and conditioning, served as head junior varsity coach and was a teacher in the Florida State physical education department.

With a master's in physical education, Carlson took over the reigns at Maclay in 1976 and three years later led the team to the state high school basketball championship. For his efforts, he was recognized as the Coach of the Year by the Florida Athletic Coaches Association. Carlson also coached the golf team and served on the faculty at Maclay.

Carlson has also been a staple on the Seminole basketball camp scene having served on the staff every year since 1973

An honor student at Florida State, Carlson served as a member and officer in the honor society for physical education majors and was vice president of the men's physical education majors club. He is currently a member of the Florida Coaches Association and the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC).

Carlson and his wife Ann have three daughters; Erika (13), Brandy (7) and Kayce (4).

VINCE CAUTERO Graduate Assistant Florida State '88

While this is Vince Cautero's second year as a member of the coaching staff, his association with Seminole basketball is longer (four years) than any other member of the coaching staff.

Cautero served as head basketball manager for four years and has been a mainstay of the Seminole program with experience in many phases of the program.

A 1988 Florida State graduate, Cautero majored in English and has entered the University's graduate program. He will have responsibilities in the floor coaching, scouting and administrative areas of FSU basketball.

A native of Coral Springs, Cautero graduated in 1984 from Coral Springs High and shares his alma mater with junior forward Irving Thomas.

BRIAN MAND Compliance Officer

Brian Mand is in his tenth year at Florida State. Since 1980, he has coordinated and supervised all athletic academic advisement and organized support programs dealing with academics for FSU football, basketball and baseball athletes. His most recent position has him in contact with NCAA on compliance matters.

Mand held similar positions at East Carolina (1979) and Rutgers (1977-79) before accepting the Tallahassee job. While at Rutgers, he also worked for a time in the office of admissions, registration and student services as assistant to the director.

Mand earned a bachelor's degree in business administration from Wake Forest University in 1972. He received his master's degree in athletic administration in 1977 from Ohio State and also did some graduate coursework in counseling at Rutgers. He has completed coursework on a doctorate at Florida State in athletic administration and was recently inducted into the Phi Kappa Phi National Honor Society.

Mand is a past president of the National Academic Athletic Advisor's Association. He is also a member of the American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance.

Mand and his wife, Roberta, have a son and a daughter.

YERG Academic Coordinator

DR. BEVERLY A member of the Fiolish 1977, Dr. Beverly Yerg is in her fourth year as academic coordinator for the athletic department. Yerg is responsible for implementing a plan to guide student athletes through their years of college.

Included in this plan is the evaluation of recruits for academic potential and the teaching of learning skills classes - mandatory two-hour classes for transfers and freshmen designed to teach basic survival skills of college life. The coursework includes goal setting, time management, stress management, study skills and career planning.

Prior to taking the newly created position in 1986, Yerg was a member of two committees that studied the academic area of the athletic department. In 1983 she was on a sixmember academic subcommittee of the athletic board that studied some of the problems of student athletes and recommended solutions in the form of the Student Academic Enhancement Plan. She also chaired a self-study committee in 1985 that studied every area of the athletic department.

A native of Warren, Pa., Yerg received a bachelor's degree in education from Temple University in 1960. She returned to Temple to finish a master's in education in 1973, and in 1977 she received her doctorate from the University Since 1977, Yerg has served as an assistant professor in the Department of Movement Science and Physical Education. In 1982 she was named department head, a position she held until 1985. She continues to hold the title of associate professor in addition to her academic coordinator position.

A former national president of Delta Psi Kappa, the professional fraternity for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, Yerg belongs to many other professional organizations and has authored many articles and abstracts related to teacher effectiveness and teacher education.

She is married to Robert Yerg and the couple has one son.

SAM LUNT Head Basketball Trainer Florida State '88

While Sam Lunt is beginning his sixth year of association with the Florida State athletic department, he begins his second as head basketball trainer.

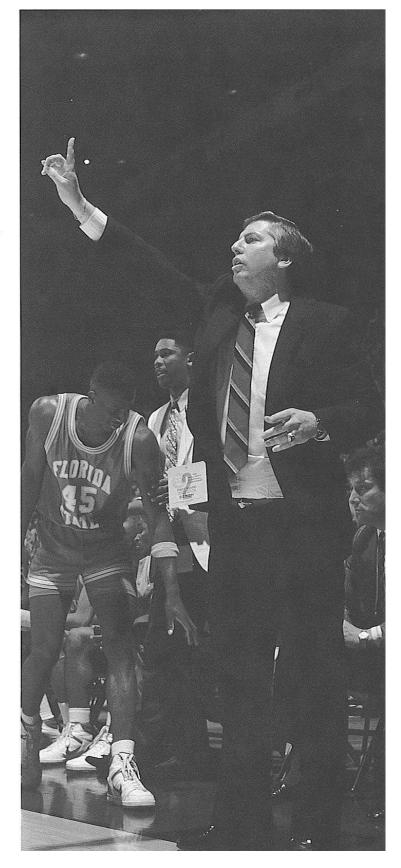

Lunt originally came to FSU in 1983 as a graduate assistant after receiving his bachelors degree in athletic training from the University of Miami. While at UM, he worked as a student trainer in the Hurricane athletic department and served as an assistant trainer with the NFL's Miami Dolphins in the summer of 1982.

During his tenure as a graduate assistant at FSU, Lunt worked with the Seminole football team while earning his masters in sports psychology. He then moved on to the Jacksonville Bulls of the USFL for the 1985 Spring season, but returned to the college ranks that summer when he was named assistant trainer at Louisville.

The Ft. Myers, Florida resident returned to FSU in 1986 and his duties included assisting head trainer Randy Oravetz with the Seminole football team as well as working with all men's teams. Lunt became head basketball trainer prior to last season.

Lunt has also worked as a volunteer trainer at the United States Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, at the 1987 U.S. Olympic Festival in Chapel Hill and most recently served as the trainer for the U.S. track team at the World University games in Duisburg, Germany this summer.

Lunt, 28, is a member of the National Athletic Trainers Association and is single.

GENE GRANGER Equipment Manager

A member of the Florida State athletic staff since 1971, Gene Granger begins his eleventh year as head equipment manager for the Florida State basketball team. Granger's numerous duties include the ordering and daily distribution of all athletic equipment and uniforms. In addition, he serves as equipment manager for the baseball, track and tennis teams at Florida State.

A native of Dade City, Florida, Gene attended Bethune-Cookman College where he played varsity baseball from 1969 through 1971. After college, he joined the Seminole athletic staff as an assistant manager for five years before being named to the head equipment manager position in 1977.

Gene, 43, and his wife Alberta are the parents of two children; Apryl (13) and Gene Jr., (8).

DAVE VAN HALANGER Strength Coach

head strength coach, Van Halanger heads up the entire conditioning program for all 16 varsity sports at FSU.

Van Halanger arrived at Florida State in 1983, after serving in a similar capacity at West Virginia University from 1980 through June, 1983. Prior to that, he was a member of the WVU coaching staff - serving as head junior varsity coach in 1979.

A graduate of the WVU School of Physical Education, Van Halanger played and lettered four years in football under current Seminole head coach Bobby Bowden. An All-East and honorable mention All-American selection his senior season, Van Halanger was a co-captain of the Mountaineer team that won the Peach Bowl.

Currently a member of the National Board of Ethics for the National Football Coaches Association, Dave and his wife Michele are the parents of two daughters, Julie (8) and
