

HALF TIME-ANYTIME-MAKE IT MILK!

Busy football weekends call for extra energy. And that calls for a refreshing glass of milk. Milk is nature's vitality drink... that helps you stay in peak condition, sees you through the busiest fall days.

Half time; snacktime, anytime—when you take a break, make it milk. Keep up with the fun with milk's vitality!

Here you are at Homecoming today. Did you ever stop to think about where and when the first Homecoming was held?

Homecomings go back more than 50 years. The first on record was celebrated at the University of Illinois, Oct. 15, 1910.

Credit for inaugurating the event, now a cherished tradition on almost every campus, belongs to two Illini men of the Class of 1910, who got the inspiration as they sat on the college library steps one early spring day, wondering if they'd ever get back to the campus after graduating.

The 1910 Illinois Homecoming was a two-day affair at their University of Chicago football game. Other highlights of the first Homecoming included a Hobo Parade (featuring students in ragged garb) and a Stunt Show consisting of skits presented by various student groups. A few years later, the Homecoming dance was incorporated into the festivities.

When were these activities first held at North Carolina State? Maurice Tolar, archivist at the D. H. Hill Library, came up with the following:

"During Fair Week there was a large number of the fellows back among their native haunts. This occasion has come to be more of a Home-coming than the commencement period, which is annually set aside for this purpose . . ." This came from The Technician of October 26, 1923.

And three years later, from the Nov.

13, 1926 issue of The Technician, it was noted that "The Wolfpack gave the dope bucket a severe shake-up and trounced the Blue Devils of Duke University (26-19) in their annual clash on Home-Coming Day here last Thursday . . ."

Evidently, this Duke game was held on Thursday during Fair Week, and was a continuation of the Homecoming referred to in the Oct. 26th, 1923 Technician.

The actual beginning is indefinite, but this is the earliest date we can substantiate. When and which game became State's first Homecoming is unknown, at least to us. Any alumnus or Raleigh native who can definitely date this, we would appreciate having such information.

Today's Homecoming will have all the trimmings—parade of floats, crowning of the queen (see page 52), and the dance. Almost makes one wonder if there is time for the game with all these festivities.

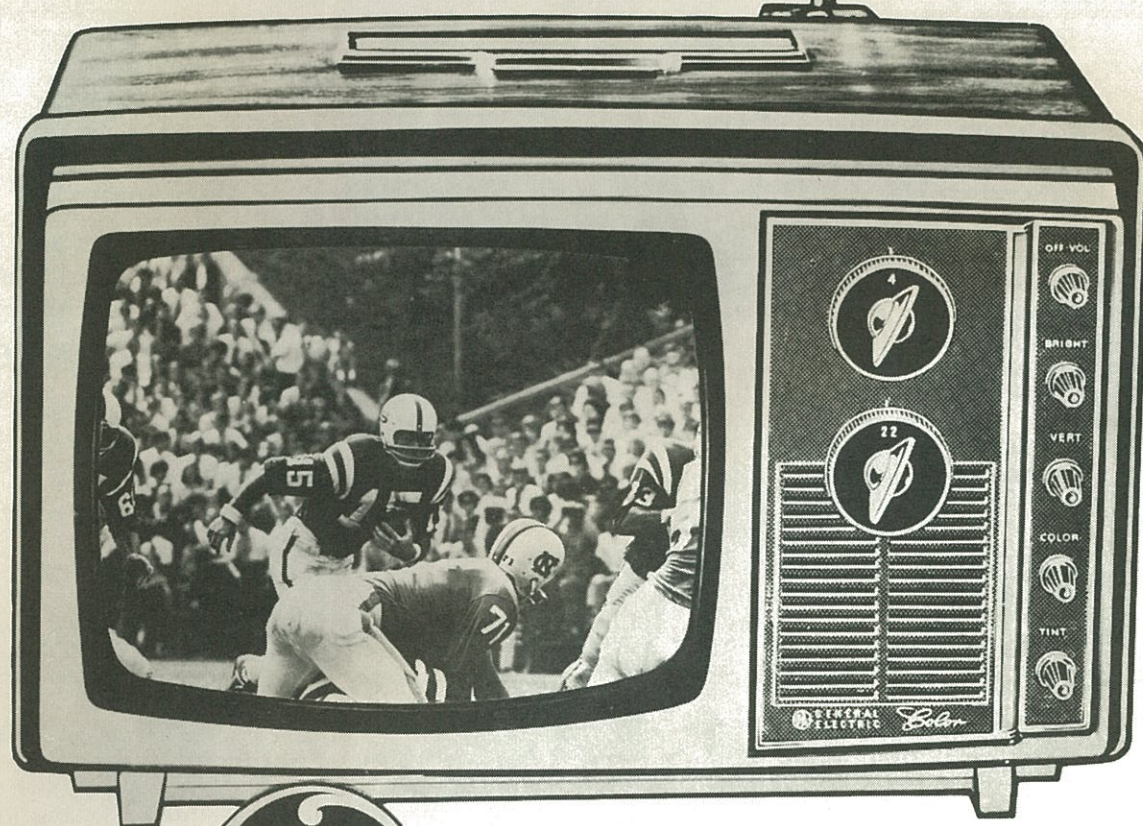

An added feature of this year's State Homecoming is that it is also Freshman Parents Day. An address by Chancellor John T. Caldwell and a visit to their son's (and now daughter's) various schools were featured this morning, while a barbeque was provided for the parents of freshmen in the Reynolds Coliseum. The parents of the freshman and varsity football squads were also honored and will be seated behind the Wolfpack bench for today's game.

General Electric announces Portable Color TV

How much?
$249.95*

Starting now, color television is for everybody.

It's not too big. Our new portable (we call it Porta-Color) has an 11" (diag. meas.) screen and weighs only 25 pounds.

It's not hard to tune. Magic Memory tuning makes it as easy to tune as black and white. (All you do is turn the pretuned color dials until they point straight up.)

It doesn't need an outside antenna (if your black and white set doesn't need one). It has its own set of rabbit ears, so you can have color wherever you have an outlet.

And it's not too expensive. Porta-Color costs just $249.95 with no extras tacked on. It even comes with a free 90-day warranty.

So starting now, there's nothing in the world between you and a color television set.

Except a General Electric dealer.

The General Electric Company warrants to the purchaser of each "B" Line General Electric Portable Television Receiver † . . . Free repair (including labor and parts), in the event of manufacturing defects occurring during the first ninety (90) days from the date of original purchase, provided the receiver (including proof of the purchase date), is brought to and picked up from an Authorized General Electric Television Service Station anywhere in the USA! † All portable sets with a diagonal screen measurement of 19" or less.

TODAY'S GAME

"For many years our games were played on whatever part of the College ground happened to be uncultivated and without trees. About eight years ago, through the assistance of Capt. W. H. Day, then Superintendent of the Penitentiary, we were able to grade a practice field on the land belonging to the City Park, but were not allowed to enclose it, and our match games had to be played on the Fair Grounds, which the authorities of the North Carolina Agricultural Society were kind enough to let us use. This arrangement was far from satisfactory, and two years ago certain members of the faculty and alumni and a few other loyal friends of the College organized a company, and, after contributing what they could, were enabled to sell bonds enough to grade and enclose a splendid athletic field on the College ground, and convenient to the dormitories. They have since built a large grandstand and ample bleachers. It is now without doubt the best equipped college athletic field in the State.

The above came from the 1909 AGROMECK.

This "best equipped College athletic field in the State . . ." is the current Riddick Stadium, which is bowing out for the new Carter Stadium. And as in 1906, support and funds for the new Carter Stadium must be raised in much the same manner. In fact, these funds (approximately $750,000) are still needed.

And as evidenced by the support given the Wolfpack over the past few years, and by the crowd at today's game, the athletic spirit has a firm hold on North Carolina State University.

FSU Major Problem

Florida State University has only been a major college in the NCAA's way of football thinking, since 1955. But the Seminoles have been a major problem to the Wolfpack since the first game played in 1952. In the eight games played, the Wolfpack has won only two, with the Seminoles whipping the Pack during its past two Atlantic Coast Conference championship seasons.

Coach Bill Peterson's Seminole squad ended 8-1-1 last year and then went on to an impressive Gator Bowl victory over Oklahoma, 36-19.

While the Seminoles have lost some of the offensive stars from its Gator Bowl team, FSU has back, almost in its entirety, the "Seven Magnificents" who made up the rugged FSU defensive line.

Peterson likes for his team to use a wide-open pro-type offense and a hard-nosed, gambling defense, and this current squad is no exception. The Seminoles have won four of seven games, with two of the three losses by a total of six points. Only Alabama, a 21-0 victor, has out-classed FSU.

Pritchett A Scrambler

Ed Pritchett, a scrambler at quarterback, ran and passed the Seminoles to victory over State in 1963 as a sophomore when Steve Tensi couldn't get the FSU attack moving. He is the offensive leader this year, with 818 yards passing and 1029 yards total offense. His 211 yards rushing ties him with Jim Mankins for the team lead. Gary Jones (17 receptions and 196 yards) is the pass receiving leader.

The Wolfpack has been impressive in winning its last three games and in bringing its overall record to 4-4. A strong defense, supplemented by an improved offense, has matured the Wolfpack into a much better team than in early season play.

NORTH CAROLINA STATE UNIVERSITY AT RALEIGH

North Carolina State was founded by the General Assembly in 1887. The State's land-grant university, located in the capital city of Raleigh, conducts extensive educational, extension and research programs on campus and throughout the State.

The undergraduate enrollment exceeds 8,600 students. More than 1,500 students are enrolled for graduate study in the university's 42 master's and 29 doctoral degree programs.

Chancellor of the University is Dr. John T. Caldwell, past-president of the American Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, and who was formerly President of the University of Arkansas.

North Carolina State is composed of nine schools offering degree work—Agriculture and Life Sciences, Design (including architecture and landscape architecture), Education, Engineering, Forestry, Liberal Arts, Physical Sciences and Applied Mathematics, Textiles, and the Graduate School.

The educational program of the university is offered through 60 instructional departments and its research program is conducted through several special institutes, the departments and agricultural research stations.

State's physical plant is valued at more than $60,000,000 and includes forest laboratories in four regions of North Carolina, engineering facilities in Asheville and Charlotte, and 17 branch agricultural research stations. Currently underway is more than $15,000,000 of grant and contract research. There are more than 3,000 staff members at North Carolina State and its offices throughout the State.

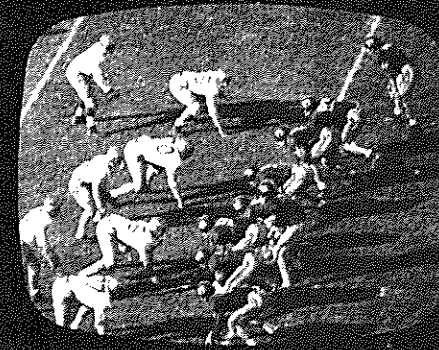

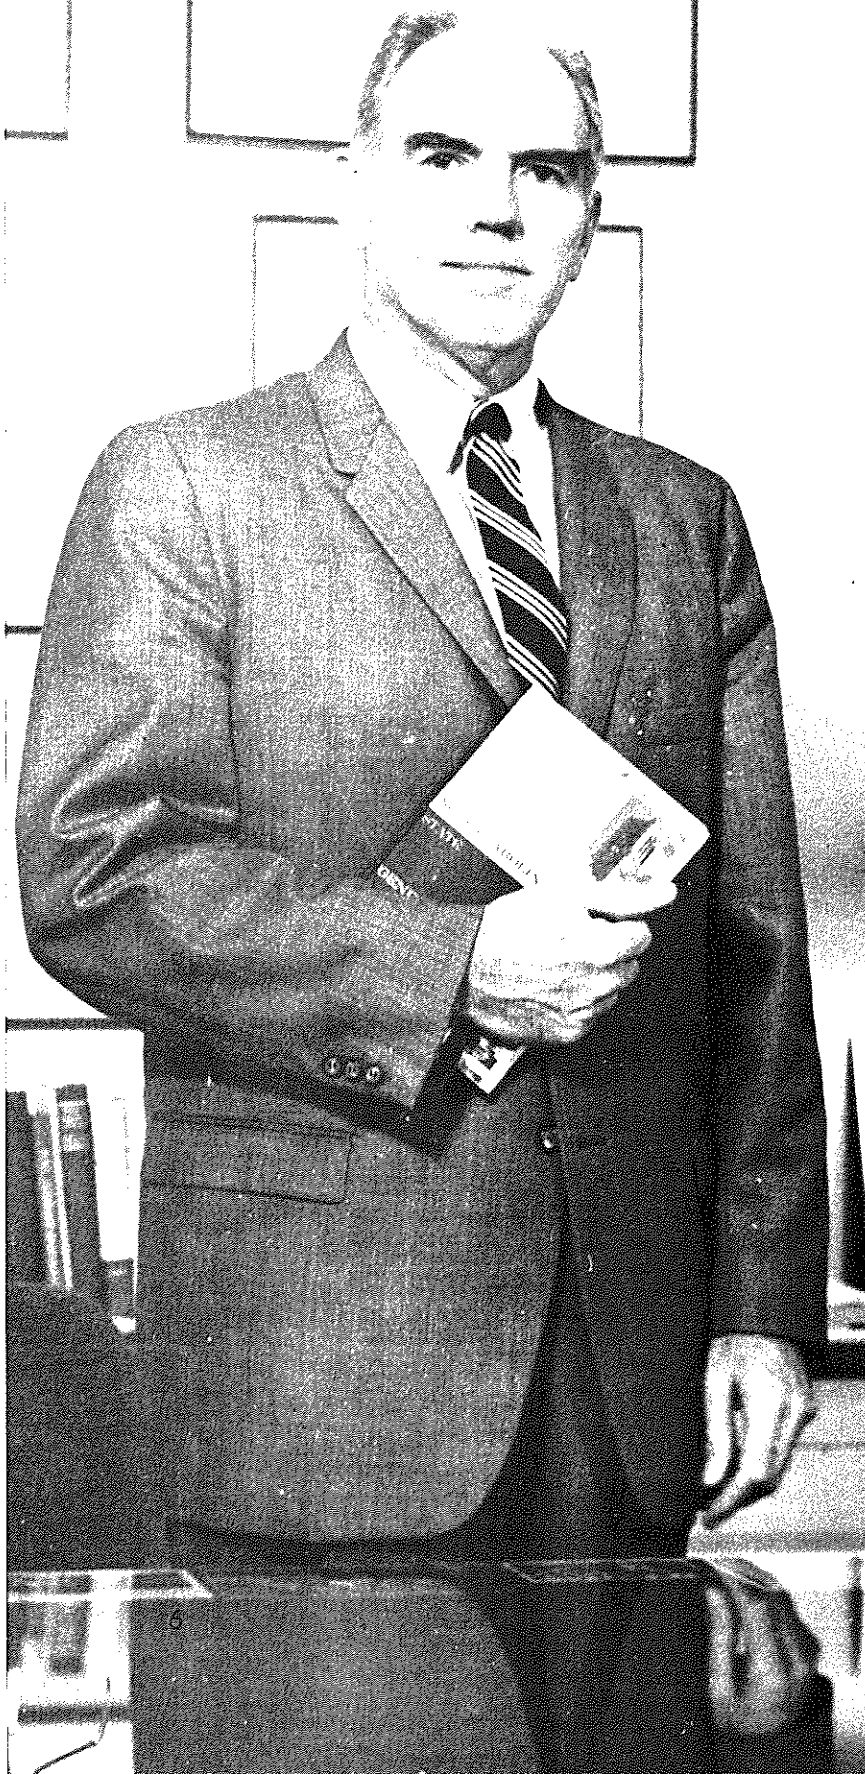

In recent years State has been acclaimed as one of the leading scientific and technological institutions of the nation.

Construction is expected to begin shortly on a $2,000,000 food sciences building, a 10-story chemistry laboratory building, a $1.2 million forestry building, a 12-story dormitory, and the phytotron facility. Currently underway is the Wolfpack's Carter Stadium which will be ready for the 1966 football season and will seat approximately 42,000.

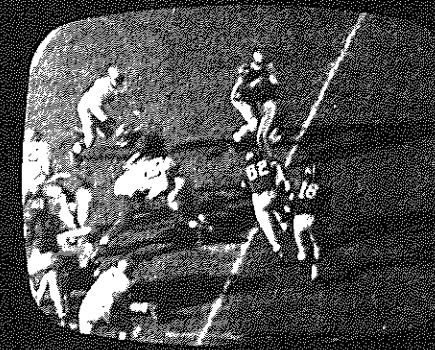

Enrollment at the university is expected to reach more than 10,000 in the next two years.

North Carolina State is a part of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

Earle Edwards: Builder of A Wholesome Football Program

Earle Edwards, a man who has won innumerable friends and three football championships for North Carolina State, starts his 12th season as the Wolfpack's head coach and his 30th in collegiate coaching in 1965.

The popular Edwards has guided State to Atlantic Coast Conference football crowns in 1957, 1963 and 1964, while the Wolfpack finished one-half game out of first in 1960. Included were a bid to the Liberty Bowl in 1963, and ACC "Coach of the Year" honors in 1957 and 1963.

The big thing about the Earle-Edwards-North Carolina State football relationship, which began in 1954, is the respect that the University, his football teams, and the coach have gained throughout the intercollegiate athletic domain.

Perhaps one of the finest tributes to Edwards, the coach, comes from one of his coaching rivals within the ACC who said: "Earle does the best coaching job in the ACC. I don't see how he does it. I know we couldn't with the limited number of boys he brings in each year."

For his many contributions to State, the Board of Directors of the North Carolina State Alumni Association, Inc., in 1963 presented Edwards its Award of Merit, made annually to a non-alumnus who has rendered outstanding service to the institution. He has been football coach here longer than any of the other 23 men who have directed Wolfpack football since the sport was initiated here in 1892.

Perhaps the greatest endearment to State alumni and fans has been the ability of Edwards-coached teams to do well against arch-rival North Carolina. The Wolfpack has won six games under Edwards, after State had won but five games in 47 previous meetings against the Tar Heels.

Win or lose, Edwards' teams have provided close, pulsating games. Of the 111 games played, nearly half (51) have been decided by a touchdown or less, with State winning 22 and losing 29 of the thrillers. State's 45-60-6 record under Edwards is misleading since 67% of the games have been played on the road, with a 3-7 home-road ratio for the past eight years.

Upon graduation from Penn State in 1931, he entered the field of industrial engineering, his college major. But after two years he turned to football, coaching at Princeton (N. J.) Prep in 1933 and moving to Ebensburg (Pa.) High a year later. He remained at Ebensburg until 1936 when Bob Higgins, the Penn State coach for whom Edwards had played end, selected him to coach the Nittany Lion ends. He was at Penn State for 13 years, before joining Biggie Munn at Michigan State in 1949. While he was end coach and chief scout for the Spartans, Michigan State was twice undefeated and won the Rose Bowl game in 1954.

The 57-year-old Greensburg, Pa. native holds a Master's Degree in physical education from Penn State. Edwards has twice directed the successful Coach of the Year football clinics for NCAA District Three. He is currently a member of the Board of Trustees of the American Football Coaches Association (AFCA).

A record of which Edwards is justly proud is that of the 180 letter-winners in football, all but 14 have graduated or are presently completing requirements for their degrees.

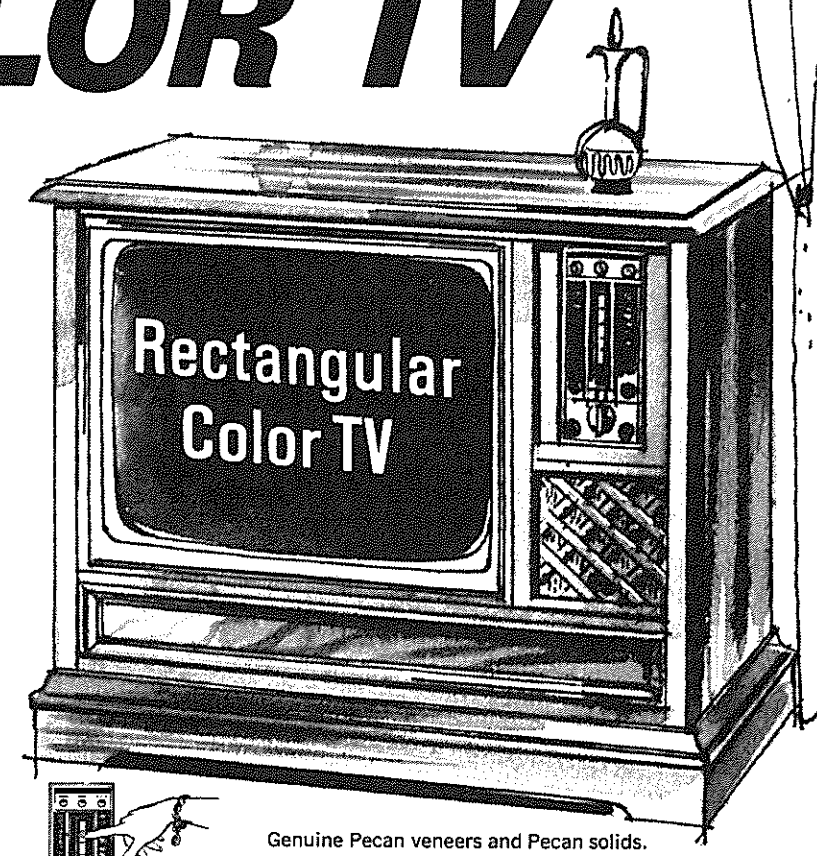

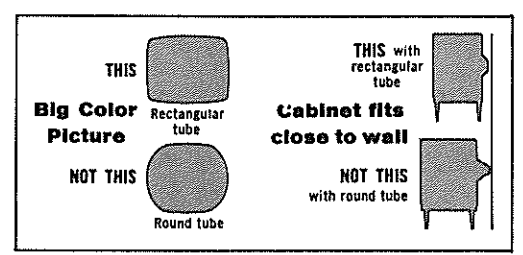

Edwards and the former Mary Rodgers of Greensburg, Pa., were married in 1931, and currently reside at 613 Dixie Trail. They have three children and six grandchildren.

THE CONTINUITY of the Wolfpack coaching staff is one of the strong points in the State football program under Edwards, who gives ground to no one when it comes to getting the most out of a team.

Wolfpack Co-Captains

North Carolina State's football team elected capable leaders when they voted seniors Shelby Mansfield and Page Ashby to the captaincy of the 1965 Wolfpack. Mansfield, a hard-running halfback from Camden, is the leading ground-gainer returning from 1964. Ashby, a non-letterman quarterback from Nassavadox, Va., has won a track letter as a sprinter and hurdler. Both athletes are good students as education majors, with Mansfield currently working on his Master's degree in occupational information and guidance. The co-captains are married and are shown below with their wives Suzanne and Linda.

There are little eyes upon you,
And they're watching night and day.
There are little ears that quickly
Take in every word you say;
There are little hands all eager
To do anything you do;
And a little boy who's dreaming
Of the day he'll be like you.

You're the little fellow's idol;
You're the wisest of the wise,
In his little mind about you,
No suspicions ever rise;

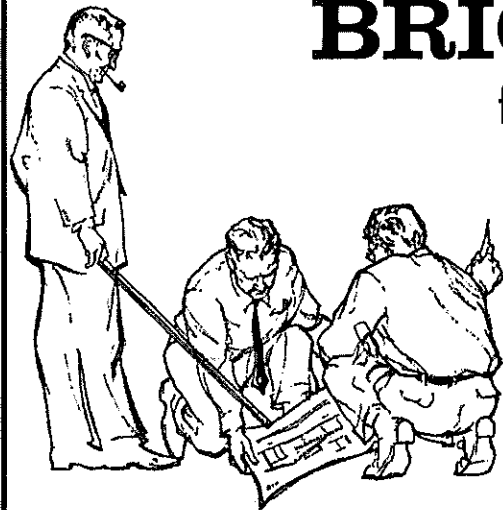

He believes in you devoutly,
Holds that all you say and do,
He will say and do, in your way
When he's a grown-up like you.

There's a wide-eyed little fellow,
Who believes you're always right,
And his ears are always open,
And he watches day and night;
You are setting an example
Every day in all you do,
For the little boy who's waiting

Coach Earle Edwards Tells

How To Watch Football

The football coach often is an envied man by football fans because they believe he has the best seats at the game.

Not so, says Earle Edwards, coach of the North Carolina State Wolfpack. In fact, he said, fans in the stadium often have a better idea of what's going on during a play than either the coach or the players.

"Especially on a pass play," Edwards explained, "people in the stands can certainly see the pass receivers quicker and clearer than the quarterback who has a quarter of a ton of 'something'
bearing down on him."

The 'something' he referred to was beef from the other side of the scrimmage line.

"If I were one of you," Edwards, the coach, says to the fans, "I would watch a game to enjoy it."

He had pointers to carry out the play he called.

"Don't get bogged down in the technicalities," he went on. "And, if I were you, I'd have a favorite team."

Edwards explained that if he had a son playing he'd probably watch him every play, or if a neighborhood boy was in the game, he'd follow his moves closer than anyone else on the field.

Having a favorite team, a team to root for, makes the game much more interesting, and just about the same goes for having a favorite player, he said.

"And remember it's a game," Edwards said, and a big smile spread across his face. "Of course, I know that's hard a lot of times."

Edwards reminded that golfers have bad days on the course and shoot way over their usual average.

Any player can have a bad day, Edwards said, and footballers don't want bad days any more than golfers. Edwards urged fans not to be too critical of a player that doesn't seem to be playing up to par.

"We rarely have anybody out there so confident he's not giving it a pretty good try," Edwards said.

"Fans should watch the middle of the line when the play starts to see if it will be a running play or a passing play," he continued.

"If the middle linemen pull out it'll usually be a running play, but if they stand up to protect, it's probably a passing play," he explained.

Then he had advice for the woman who stands behind every devout football fan:

"I think wives should look around," Edwards said with a wry smile. "They should see what folks are wearing, see who's with whom, enjoy the fringe benefits," of the game.

Edwards was certain when he said he thinks women should be taught to read the scoreboard. "They should refrain from asking too many questions," he said. "They should be instructed in the fundamentals."

And if their husband's team loses:
"They should be quiet on the way home, just answering yes or no when he says something."

"Then they ought to serve a good meal and after dinner make him comfortable as possible and urge him to go

An Appreciation of the Technical Man

"The attempt to be creative in any field makes extraordinary demands on the human personality. In science and engineering, creativity demands a flexibility which may be greater than that of almost any other occupation to which man can dedicate himself. The scientist and the engineer must first of all maintain mastery of an enormous body of rapidly growing data yet, at the same time, must be as freely imaginative as the poet, the artist, or the musician. He must also possess the capacity to anchor his imaginative flights to reality, to test the degree to which they are consonant with reality, and finally to project them into the future for new uses. Few other occupations demand so much."

Lawrence S. Kubie, M.D. An excerpt from the June 1965 issue of International Science and Technology.

TEX-A-ROBIC

WASTE TREATMENT PLANTS

The Tex-A-Robic sewage treatment process involves the decomposition of liquid sewage by biological oxidation and the reduction of sewage solids by aerobic digestion. The latter function is achieved by continuous aeration resulting in the addition of oxygen to the sewage until an acceptable percentage of solids has been converted to inert sludge.

The Spiral Action of the Tex-A-Robic Extended Aeration plant shown below continually suspends the solids in the aeration section. They flow through an inlet aperture into the clarifier section where the sludge particles settle to the bottom to be pumped back into the aeration section. The recirculation provides additional bacteriological breakdown until the sludge reaches the inert state. In a typical installation, sewage will be treated for 24 hours, and then clarified for four hours in a single tank. Prefabricated—ready to install.

TYPICAL INSTALLATION: ROADWAY EXPRESS TERMINAL, Kernersville, N. C.

The Tex-A-Robic sewage treatment plant shown above has a capacity of 11,000 gallons per day. Equipment includes: One 92-cubic-foot-per-minute blower. One Worthington Comminutor. One froth control water spray system. One Wallace and Tiernan Hypochlorinator. One Flow-metering device. One complete control cabinet.

This Tex-A-Robic unit was factory-assembled. Steel shell was sand blasted, primed and coated with two coats of epoxy coal tar paint. Principal parties involved:

Architect: Fred W. Butner, Jr., Winston-Salem.
Engineer: Loest and Stanley, Kingsport, Tenn.
Contractor: Dick and Kirkman, Greensboro.

Fashions For Football Fans

Topping It Off

By Oscar E. Schoeffler, Fashion Director of ESQUIRE Magazine

These days, with the wide variety of good-looking hats (and caps) that's available to all of you, there's just no excuse for baring either a Beatle-type haircut or a balding pate to the polar breezes! We've always maintained that at hat is (you should pardon the expression) the crowning touch for the well-dressed man—but crown or no, a head covering has its practical aspects, these chilly Saturday afternoons!

Now for a run-down on what's new. In felts for town wear, look for a hat with medium-to-small proportions—no more of those inch-wide brims, please! You'll probably prefer snap-brim styling—most men do. Soft color mixtures, somewhat lighter in tone to complement the gradual lightening of suitings, mark this season's models. Subtle clay shades and blends of green-into-gray are typical combinations for felts, while golden browns and grays mixed with gold represent this Fall's fashionable Golden Touch in color. Textured and heather-mixture bands contribute a new and different look. And a comfortable idea for both town and sport hats is the sweatband made of stretch material.

Texture tells the story for most of the new sport hats—whether it's a rough, heathery-looking felt, one of the soft, deep-pile velours of the Tyrolean persuasion, or a smooth, silky brushed felt. Wool bands—especially in twill fabrics—will be turning up on many models.

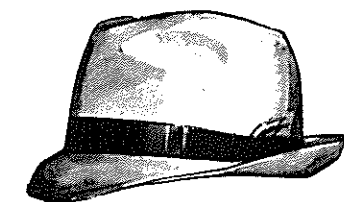

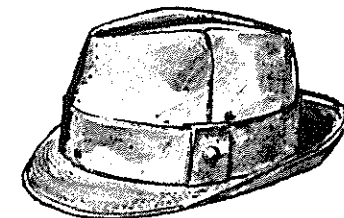

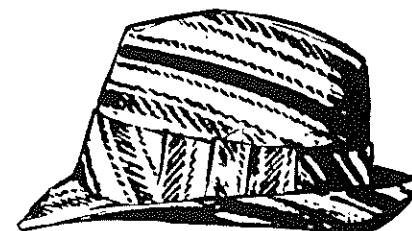

The wool trilby—perhaps better known as the Professor 'iggins 'at—has become a classic in sporting wardrobes across the country. This season, you'll see more of them with a definite pattern—bold hound's-tooth checks or plaids, for instance.

The enormous interest in leathers of all kinds for coats, jackets or what-have-you, finds an echo in the enormous selection of leather hats and caps this season. Whether it's used by itself, or in combination with corduroys or wool fabrics, leather's got the look that everyone wants—especially suede!

You may have heard about a revival of plus-fours, or knickers, on the golf course. Well, it's all true! And right along with this revival comes the golfer's cap! It's the same kind of classic wool cap seen on golf courses during the 20's and, worn backwards, immortalized by early movie cameramen. Look for it to turn up in the stadium this season.

And for the bone-crushing cold with snow and/or sleet, check into those Peruvian-style knitted masks that have been seen on the ski slopes during the past couple of years. These colorful masks in primitive patterns provide for both vision and breathing, while protecting the rest of your face from those bitter blasts.

FCA Convention Awe-Inspiring

They Come To Mountain To Pray And Play

By Larry Harris

Charlotte News Sports Writer

BLACK MOUNTAIN—It is always an exciting sight for the sportsman to see 600 finely-conditioned athletes at work. It is an awe-inspiring sight to see 600 finely-conditioned athletes who come to this resort in the hills to work, play and testify to their faith in the Christian religion.

They held a convention of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes here this summer and they came from all over—from high schools in Tampa and Ohio and Arizona, from prep schools in Long Island, from the University of Tennessee and N. C. State, and UNC, and Georgia Tech, and . . . the list goes on and on.

Names Plentiful

The names are there, too. There are people like Don Shinnick and Willie Richardson of the Baltimore Colts; Billy Wade of the Chicago Bears; Fran Tarkenton of the Minnesota Vikings; Charlie Bradshaw of the Pittsburgh Steelers; Sam Silas of the St. Louis Cardinals; Rip Engle, the voluble Penn State Coach—the roster of athletes and dignitaries too goes on and on.

But why are these people and students drawn here? It is not because of the recreation, though the facilities are excellent. It is not because of the food, though that is adequate, too. And certainly there are far more exciting spots for a teenager to vacation.

Perhaps Dr. E. E. Whitesides, a physician, said it best. "The whole purpose of this thing is for these youngsters to see the big athlete stand up and witness for Christ. It makes the youngster realize that a man can be outstanding in sports and still not sacrifice his religious principles."

Shinnick Respected

Shinnick, the Colts' burly linebacker who could pass for anything in the world but an evangelistic type, is one of the most respected speakers for Christ in the country. He says he is actually selfish about the conventions, because he gets more out of it than the youngsters he is speaking to.

"I come here to express my Christian faith," he said. "It is always thrilling to me to know that religion in sports is far from dead. I get a great personal lift out of speaking for Christ—in fact, more than the young guys I'm talking to."

The organization of the week-long program is stupendous. "Huddle groups" of 15 or 20 youngsters are formed with a college or pro athlete as counselor. During the mornings the huddle groups spend the time talking over religious matters that have affected them personally and trying to find solutions to any problems the youngsters might have.

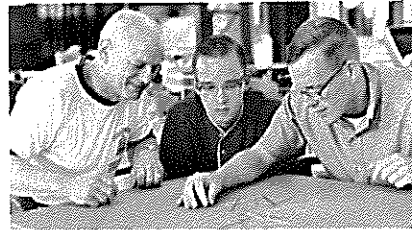

Dogpatch Olympics

Shortly before noon, in the heat of the mountain day, the fine young athletes respond quickly to a bugle and head for the "Dogpatch Olympics," a complicated series of athletic events which results in a winner at the end of the week.

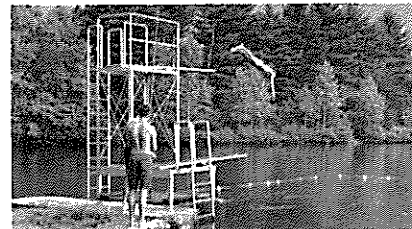

The facilities are vast and the sports are many. They extend from volleyball to basketball to softball to touch-football to a new game invented by the garrulous Engle called "angle ball."

Don Shinnick, linebacker for the Baltimore Colts, and Loren Young, regional director for the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, take time out for a private huddle.

All the athletics aren't strenuous. Here Mr. Frank Jolly, of Raleigh and Wolfpack track men Ernie Hansel and Bob Whisnant test their dexterity at pick-up-sticks.

A mountain lake, with cold water, and scenic background offer a chilly form of relaxation and exercise.

When the whistle blows for lunch those who are not agile had best take higher into the hills or other places of retreat. The stampede is on, and if you've never seen 600 youngsters who have just come off the athletic fields eat, you're missing something.

Cafeteria personnel at the Blue Ridge Retreat say this 650 people eats the equivalent of what 2,000 normal vacationers would devour daily. A miracle of the fishes and loaves would not be out of order.

There are the humorous moments, too. Like when Bill Edwards, the UNC punter, stands at the cafeteria microphone and drones "May I have your attention, please" for something like 10 minutes. It takes that long to get them calmed down. Then when an expectant silence has finally fallen over the huge group, Edwards says "Thank You" and sits down, to the accompaniment of boos and hisses.

In the afternoons there are assembly meetings and the youngsters see people of their own age group testify as to their faith in God. Yesterday, for instance, LSU Quarterback Pat Screen and Duke Guard John McNabb made stirring talks that would have done credit to Billy Graham.

As the testimonies were closing a brief but violent rain squall swept down on the mountains. When it was over a vivid rainbow, so close you could almost touch it, streamed down into the valleys. It seemed to add a beautiful benediction to the picture as 600 finely-conditioned athletes once more headed for the sporting fields.

Basketball 1965-66

Can The Wolfpack Repeat?

Looking forward to the 1965-66 basketball season are State's Press Maravich, Larry Worsley, Pete Coker, Tommy Mattocks, Eddie Biedenbach, and Billy Moffitt. All are returning regulars from the Wolfpack's ACC championship squad, while Maravich was ACC "Coach of the Year" for guiding State to its first ACC title since 1959.

The Atlantic Coast Conference basketball race for the upcoming season should be the closest in the history of the basketball-crazy conference. Duke, as a year ago, ranks as the pre-season favorite, with State, Maryland, Clemson and North Carolina in hot pursuit.

State will have ten lettermen on its squad as it tries to defend its hard-earned title of 1964-65. The Wolfpack will have experience and should be fairly fast, but will lack height.

"Unless one of our sophomore centers comes through for us to replace Larry Lakins (19.0 scoring average), we will lack height," says Maravich. "With a small starting lineup, we hope to count on an aggressive defense, the fast break, and good shooting to win."

Lakins' replacement is expected to come from sophomores Paul Hudson (6'11"), John Sellers (6'8") or Bill Kretzer (6'7"). The height potential is there, but if they don't fit into Maravich's strategy immediately, the Wolfpack coach is likely to go with the quicker, but smaller three-guard offensive system used so effectively last year. That would have Eddie Biedenbach (6'1") and Billy Moffitt (5'11") at guard, with Pete Coker (6'5"), Larry Worsley (6'5") and Tommy Mattocks (6'3") usually a guard, playing the front line. If height is needed, Coker and Worsley, voted the 1965 ACC tournament's most outstanding player by the coaches, will go at forward, with Mattocks moving back to guard. One of the sophomores will be at center, and either Biedenbach or Moffitt will start at the other guard spot.

Ray Hodgdon, used effectively as a top relief man last year, and aggressive Harold Blondeau are also letterman forwards, while Sam Gealy and Gary Hale are veterans in the backcourt. Sophomore Merv Gutshall is a good shooter at guard.

The Two-Sport Letterman

Benito Artinano
Soccer & Tennis

Wendell Coleman
Football & Baseball

Dave Ellis
Football & Track

Marshall Adams
X-Country & Track

Sam Gealy
Basketball & Golf

The day of the three-sport letterman is a thing of the past. Even the two-sport star is a rarity in collegiate athletics with the tightening of academic standards. But North Carolina State had an unusually large number of men win two letters during the 1964-65 academic year.

Two football players, tackle Dave Ellis and wingback Wendell Coleman, won their second letters in spring sports. Ellis, a senior from Arlington, Va., set a new Wolfpack record by putting the shot 50'0" in track, while Coleman, a current junior from Buena Vista, Va., led the Wolfpack baseball team in homeruns (4) and tied for the runs-batted-in (13) lead.

Sam Gealy, a guard on the Wolfpack's Atlantic Coast Conference championship basketball squad, also earned a monogram in golf. Benito Artinano, perhaps the smallest athlete (5'6") at State, won awards in soccer and tennis. Artinano holds the State soccer scoring record for one game with seven.

Four members of the related cross-country and track squads won dual letters, with current cross-country captain Marshall Adams setting the pace. Others were Jim Caldwell, Steve Middleton and Mel Smith.

Wolfpack Swimming 1965-66 Outlook

North Carolina State's swimming outlook is the brightest it has been in several seasons. With backstroker Dick Paoletti the only regular missing from last year and a host of talented swimmers moving up from the 1964-65 freshman team, labeled the best in the history of Southern swimming, Coach Willis Casey will have solid depth for the first time in years.

The Wolfpack has the "blue chip-pers" to go along with the depth in flyers Pat Gavaghan and John White, backstroker Ron Wirth, and sophomore freestyler Steve Rerych, all of whom have placed high in the national championships. Wirth, White and Gavaghan are returning all-Americans.

Premium sophomores are John Calvert, Jeff Herman, Bob Hounsell, John Lawrance and Rerych.

"We will have a better championship meet team than we'll have for dual meets," notes Casey.

Al Crawford and Captain Robert Brawley

Wolfpack Wrestling 1965-66 Outlook

"We should be a little better this year," says Wolfpack wrestling coach Al Crawford.

"There is some help coming up from the freshman team of last year to go along with Robert Brawley," adds Crawford.

Brawley, Atlantic Coast Conference champion and winner of the "outstanding wrestler award" of the 1964 ACC tournament, went undefeated in ten dual meets last year and finished as ACC runnerup at 167 pounds in March.

Sophomores Chuck Amato at heavy-weight, Richard Browne at 152 pounds, and Greg Hicks at 160 pounds, should bolster the lineup that has lettermen Roy Harding (123), Mac Page (130), Bill LaRoque (157) and Bill Wyland (191) returning.

Amato, 165-pound Pennsylvania State High School champion who was undefeated in five freshman bouts, winning four by pins, should be one of the ACC's standouts.

Penny Edwards—"MISS TIPARILLO."

What does she mean "cigars...cigarettes...Tiparillos"?

You'll be hearing that chant more and more—now that Tiparillos have arrived. And arrived they have. In all the right places. With all the right people. The new Tiparillo has a neat, trim shape. It looks young and debonair. And its pearly, pliable tip pays more than lip service to your smoking pleasure.

And never before such mildness! The most careful blending of choicest imported tobaccos has seen to that. So, too, has the exclusive, veinless Ultra Cigar Wrapper* that burns so evenly and smoothly it insures complete mildness. You can even see the mildness. The surprisingly whiter ash is visible evidence. Smoker's proof. Here is flavor you don't have to inhale to enjoy. "Cigars...cigarettes..." Who knows, maybe someday it will be just "Tiparillos!" Why don't you ask for one today?

*T.M. GENERAL CIGAR CO.

Tiparillos are on sale at this stadium.

How a stubborn
Army man unknowingly helped start
Pine State Creamery Company

BY JAMES D. KILGORE
President, Pine State Creamery Co.

Back during the frantic days of World War I, military bases were popping up throughout the country. In Raleigh, plans were being made for the establishment of Camp Polk on the western outskirts of the city.

The location was desirable to the Army for many reasons and construction of the facility was hurried along.

When it was ready, the Army began preparing to send men to train for the fighting in the trenches of France and Germany. The Capital City watched with great interest for a military base here would be quite an unusual addition.

Rather suddenly, however, the movement of men and equipment was halted. The commanding officer of the new base, it seems, had learned that Raleigh offered no source of pasteurized milk.

No milk, no base, he said rather firmly. Despite the critical need for training bases, the Army agreed with the commanding officer.

After considerable negotiation, a small group of dairy farmers joined with N. C. State College to set up a small creamery on the college campus. Throughout the war, the facility provided badly-needed pasteurized milk to the military men.

When the war ended, the same group of men decided to continue the enterprise as a private business. Under the direction of Mr. Alvin Reid, Pine State Creamery Company was established at 116 South Salisbury Street in Raleigh.

It took quite a bit of salesmanship to convince Raleigh folk of the merits of pasteurized milk. Eventually, however, they discovered its advantages and Pine State was on its way.

In 1922, Mr. Lyman Kiser joined the company as vice president and general manager. Soon afterwards, the company began marketing ice cream and butter.

In 1932, Dr. B. W. Kilgore became owner of the company and expanded its services into many other areas of the State.

Each year has brought further expansion and more products and services from the company. Currently, Pine State serves a broad area extending from Virginia almost to the South Carolina border.

As we plan further growth and expansion, one can't help but wonder what would have happened if it had not been for the stubbornness of that Army officer more than four decades ago.

STEP
OUT FRONT
IN '66...in a Rocket Action Olds!

44-2 Swinging new kind of sports car excitement!

400-cubic-inch V-8, 4-barrel carb, twin pipes: Buckle up and have yourself a ball! This is the 350-hp 4-4-2. With heavy-duty suspension, built to K.O. the roughest roads. Front and rear stabilizers to take the "bend" out of curves, the bind out of corners. And under it all—pavement-biting red-line tires! But the swinging-est thing about Olds 4-4-2 is its surprisingly modest price! LOOK TO OLDS FOR THE NEW!

Introducing the tuned car. 1966 Buick.

What makes a car a car is styling, performance, ride and handling. Only when they're all tuned together is the car a Buick. Like this '66 Riviera Gran Sport.

Every last thing that goes into a Buick—suspension, body mounts, shock absorbers—not only has to work, it has to work with everything else. That's tuning.

Tuning is what we do more of (and care more about) than anybody we know of. And then we go out and test it in more places, too. On roads like the ones you'll be driving on. Why we do it will be obvious when you take your first ride. The tuned car rides and handles as handsomely as it looks. (Tuning may be hard to explain. But it's easy to notice.)

What the tuned car will do for you. And your family. For a start, the new Riviera will comfort you. You'll see that when you slip into the Riviera's new bench seats. Space for six. If you like buckets, they're available, with a reclining arrangement for the right-front passenger. And we have another comforting option available: a new notch-back seat that converts from bench to semi-bucket.

Choosing the tuned car. Visit your Buick dealer. Every Buick you see is the tuned car. Riviera, the new international classic. Riviera Gran Sport. Every '66 Buick.

And with a choice like that, how in the world can you go wrong?

Wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

Seminole Coach

Bill Peterson

Bill Peterson, Florida State's fifth modern-day football coach, guided the Seminoles to their best record (9-1-1) since becoming a major college in 1955. That team defeated Oklahoma, 36-19, in the Gator Bowl and for the first time scored a victory over state-rival Florida. Peterson, who believes in a pass-oriented, pro-type offense, combined with a gambling defense, is in his fifth season at the Seminole Helm. The 43-year old native of Toronto, Ohio, was an end and team captain at Ohio Northern University, graduating in 1946. Peterson was line coach at LSU before coming to FSU, where his overall record is 28-23-7 entering this game.

CARY

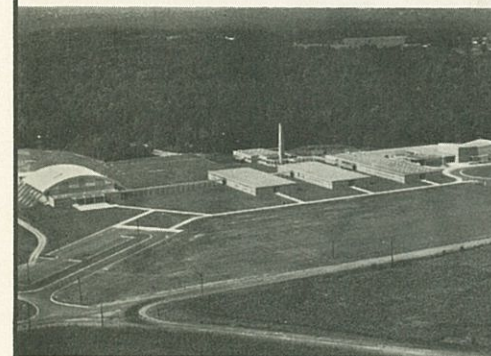

"Where Better Living Begins"

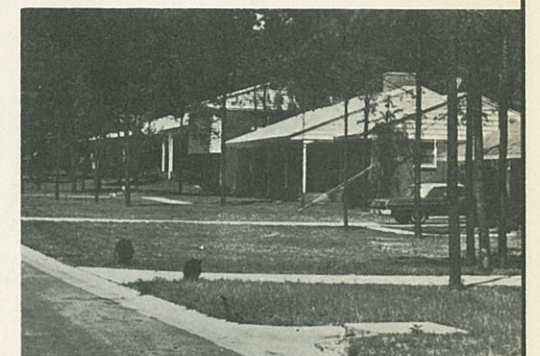

A colorful event—The Cary Band Day Parade.

The religious and educational life of Cary is guided by Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist Churches (left to right) and the new Cary High School. Wide, tree-lined streets typify the Cary residential districts.

The Cary Chamber of Commerce and the following business firms welcome you to Cary:
JORDON CONSTRUCTION CO.
WILLIAMS CONSTRUCTION CO.
ASHWORTH DRUG CO.
CARY BANK OF FUQUAY

There is reason behind Cary's being one of North Carolina's fastest growing communities and as a town that has the highest per capita income of any town or city in the state.

Four new schools, continually expanding housing subdivisions, the proximity to Raleigh, Durham, Chapel Hill, and the Research Triangle, and the convenience of all modern means of transportation make Cary a prosperous residential town.

The major colleges and universities of North Carolina are located nearby, providing Cary residents with innumerable opportunities to further their academic and cultural interests. The fine city government is of the council-manager form, with a five-man council supervising the administrative activities of the town manager.

Are You
As
Penny Conscious
As Mary?

To a little girl like Mary a few pennies may seem to be a lot of money. In her world a penny will buy things she wants. Things such as a piece of candy or gum or a balloon.

Mary is penny-conscious. Even so, she may not realize that a penny spent for electricity now will buy more than half again as much electric service as a penny did 25 years ago when her Mom was a little girl. Or that in Carolina she gets more electricity for a penny than most people who live other places in the United States.

The average price which CP&L customers pay for electricity they use in their homes is about 22 percent below the national average.

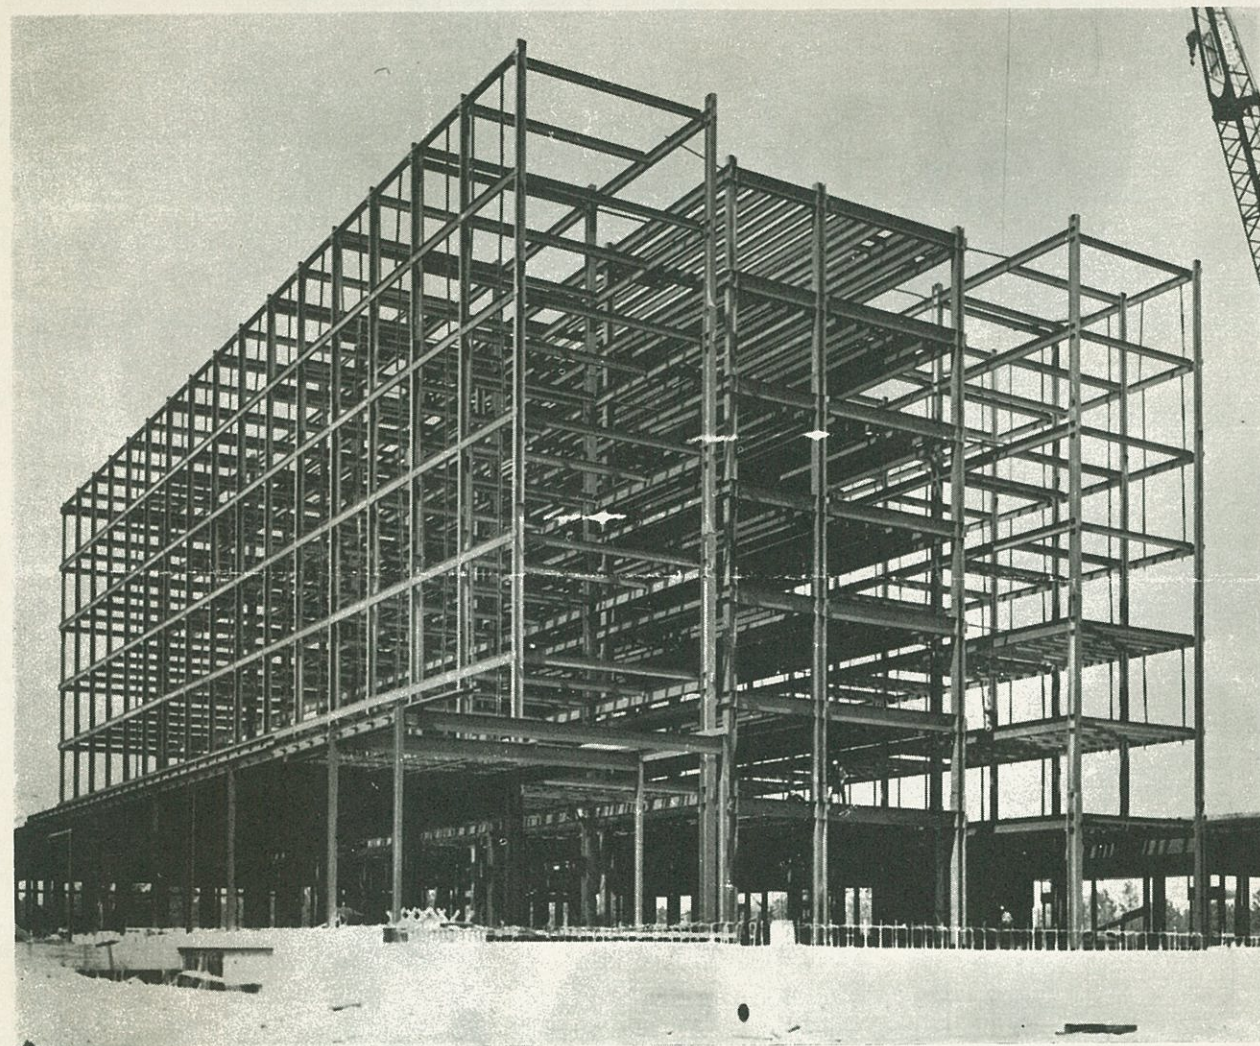

How has CP&L been able to keep the price of electricity coming down while most other things have been going up? By installing larger, more efficient generating plants; by adopting improved methods of transmitting and distributing electricity; and by working hard to introduce every reasonable economy, so that your penny will buy more.

and the band played on

Nero might have fiddled while Rome burned, but the North Carolina State band didn't after Pullen Hall burned to the ground last winter.

Donald Adcock, Perry Watson, and Milton Bliss of the music department watched Pullen Hall, band headquarters, and approximately $75,000 worth of instruments and music library material go up as smoke from the blaze which completely destroyed Pullen Hall.

"We had to borrow equipment and music for a while, but we are just about completely reorganized now," says Marching Band Director Don Adcock. "This year we will have all new instruments, including 12 unique white fiberglass sousaphones (bass horns)."

The 175-member band will continue to stress the "Big Band Sound", which is unmatched in this part of the country. As Dick Herbert, sports editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, wrote, the colorful Wolfpack band will still "shake the stands with their volume."

The Senior Class of 1965 decided to get the band restoration program off properly by purchasing a new giant bass drum as their class gift to the University. It was custom built and will replace the one lost in the fire. Insurance coverage provided funds for the other instruments.

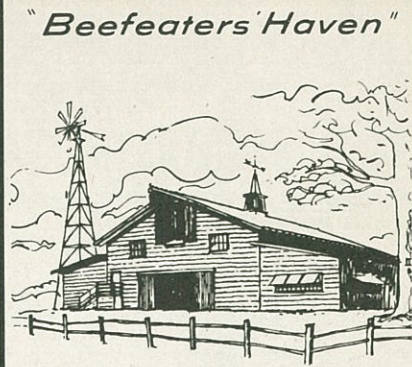

There will be 125 returning lettermen, including the vivacious Peggy Hollingsworth as head majorette.

Themes for the 1965 pre-game and halftime shows will range from the classics, to pops and to martial numbers, with the distinctive arrangements of the Wolfpack fight songs and Alma Mater highlighting each performance.

Roman Gabriel

Home Grown Talent

The North Carolina State football coaching staff has recruited some of the top football talent in North Carolina in recent years, as evidenced by the number of former East-West All-Star Game participants on past and present Wolfpack squad rosters.

Five former East-West players who decided upon North Carolina State for their college education went on to earn All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors, while one, Roman Gabriel, gained first-team All-America recognition. Tackles Bert Wilder (1963) and Glen Sasser (1964) each led the line balloting as seniors on the official all-ACC team picked by the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association.

Other all-ACC choices were quarterback Jim Rossi (1963) and tackle Collice Moore (1960).

Gabriel (Los Angeles Rams), Wilder (New York Jets), and Sasser (St. Louis Cardinals), along with Asheville's Claude Gibson (Oakland Raiders), are currently playing professional football.

Twelve members of the current Wolfpack varsity squad are alumni of the annual East-West Game. Backs on the roster are Fred Combs of Perquimans, who was named the outstanding player of the 1964 game, fullback Settle Dockery of Rockingham, and quarterbacks Jim Donnan of Burlington and Paul Burwell of Asheville. Line representatives are linebacker Gus Andrews, end Charles Tayloe, end Bill Gentry, tackle Trent Holland, guard Terry Brookshire, end Fred Bivens, and Lincolnton tackles Dennis Byrd and Steve Warren.

Set to move into the new Carter Stadium next year, after serving apprenticeships as freshmen this season, are 1965 all-star graduates Wayne Lewis of Aberdeen, Bobby Hall of Plymouth, Robby Evans of Raleigh Broughton, Richard Chapman of Sanford and Leon Mason of Washington.

Jim Tapp, a member of the 1957 East squad and a post-season game performer for the Wolfpack, is now in his first year as a member of the varsity coaching staff here at State.

State fans can point with pride to the number of in-state boys who have joined the Wolfpack. Listed below are the East-West Game players who enrolled at State since the annual Greensboro all-star classic was inaugurated in 1949:

How do athletes handle athlete's foot?

They follow their trainers' advice and use Desenex® for prevention and treatment

It's excellent protection against itching, cracking and irritation of Athlete's Foot. Helps prevent spreading, too. No wonder Desenex is the Athlete's Foot treatment most widely used by college football trainers.

We know you don't have a trainer to keep you on your toes. But that's no reason to suffer from Athlete's Foot. Start using Desenex yourself. Avoid Athlete's Foot problems with Desenex Powder or new, cooling Desenex Aerosol—and for treatment use Desenex Ointment. Desenex is guaranteed to work or your money back.

A Building Year In Football

North Carolina State football, after two straight Atlantic Coast Conference titles and sixty years in antiquated Riddick Stadium, is in a building year.

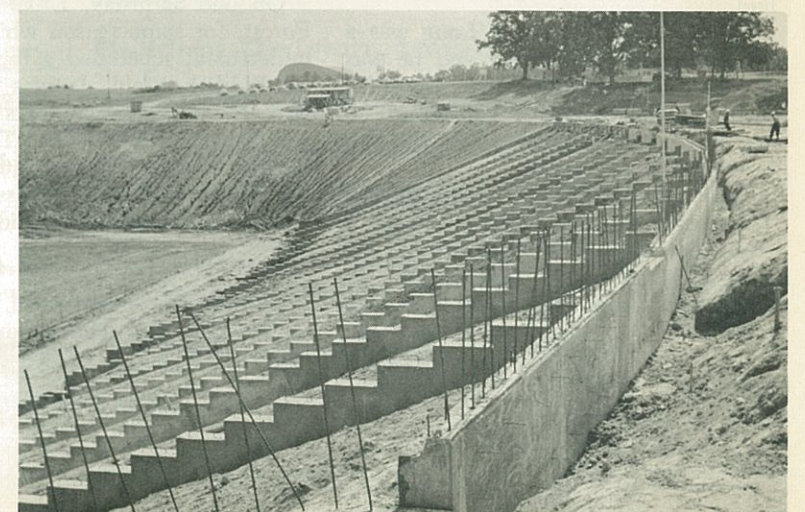

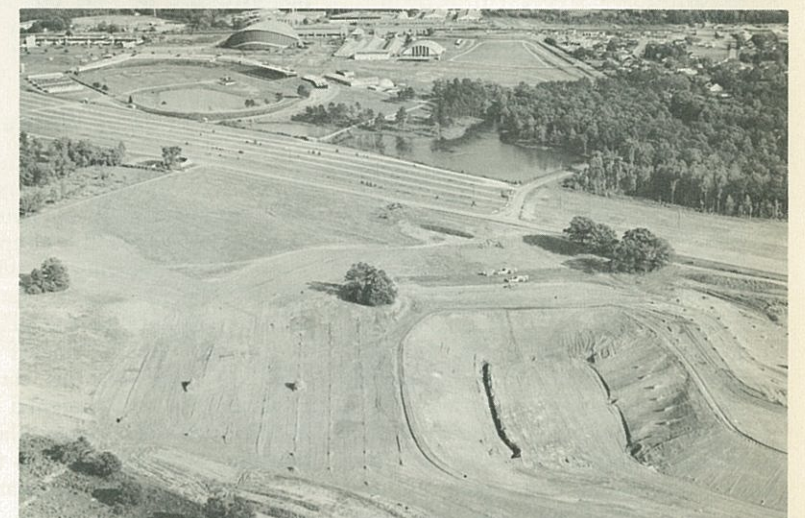

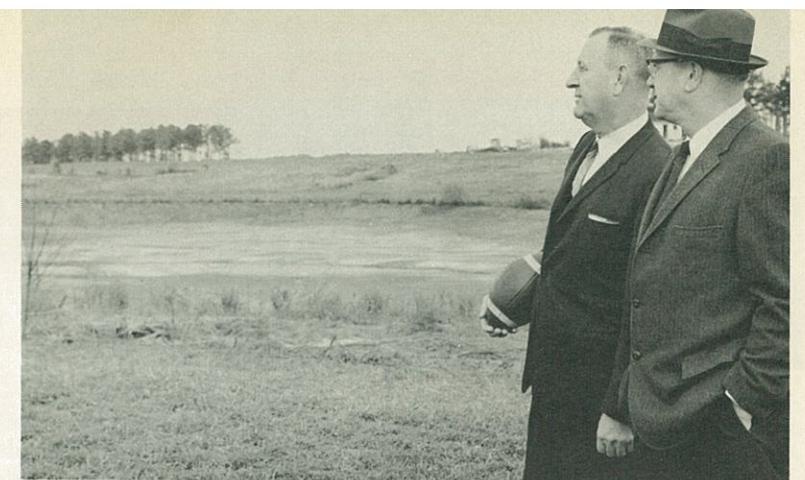

Coach Earle Edwards has lost 31 players from the past two ACC championship teams and must rebuild his team as the Wolfpack prepares to move into Carter Stadium, now under construction.

The stadium building program is making fine progress. Only time will tell if the young Wolfpack will mature into another conference title winner when Carter Stadium launches a new era in Wolfpack athletics.

The 40,000-seat stadium, a long-time effort of athletics director Roy Clogston and Edwards, along with many fine Wolfpack Club supporters, will be a reality in 1966. The Wolfpack is scheduled to open play in Carter Stadium on Oct. 8, when South Carolina is met.

Much work remains to be done, including raising an additional $600,000 to finance various phases of the construction. But better seating (all seats are on the sidelines), abundant parking, beltway accessibility, and five home games ensure the building of a solid football program at North Carolina State University.

CARTER STADIUM, situated in what was once a lake, enables Wolfpack Athletics Director Roy Clogston and coach Earle Edwards (top) to look optimistically to the future. Cliff Benson, Wolfpack Club President, Edwards, Stadium Development Chairman Walker Martin, and NCS Business Manager Bill Turner participated in ground-breaking ceremonies last winter at the site adjacent to the State Fair Grounds. The stadium takes shape as the bowl and concrete forms are put in place.

A PAGE FROM RIDDICK'S PAST

H. W. "Pop" Taylor, North Carolina State Director of Alumni Affairs from 1942-1965, continues his recollections of Wolfpack football, in the second part of a two-part series.

During my student days, the Grand Theater, located at the site of the present Ambassador Theater, was a favorite resort for students because of the interesting vaudeville shows staged there. The management of the Grand Theater issued a standing invitation for a free show at 9:30 p.m. on Saturday night for the student body if N. C. State won the football game that day.

One Saturday night we got there early and had to wait for the next to the last show to end and the restless group began pushing each other and broke the plate glass window out front. After we were seated in the theater, Dean E. L. Cloyd announced that we would have to contribute enough to replace the window before the last show could begin. Hats were passed and the money was raised and the last show was enjoyed even though we had to pay to see it.

On The Rock Pile

When I was a freshman, before a real good sod was developed on Riddick Field, there was always a generous supply of rocks which worked themselves out of the ground onto the surface of the football field. Almost every day during football season the upper classmen herded the freshmen to Riddick Field immediately after lunch and made them pick up and carry away all of the rocks they could find.

During my day, Bobby Long was a fullback for the Wolfpack and he was the best drop kicker I ever saw. On many occasions I saw him stand on the 50-yard line and drop kick the ball through the goal posts.

Jack McDowall was the greatest "all-around natural athlete" whom I remember during my student days. He earned 11 letters in four sports. He set several new records in the high jump.

Sammy Homewood, while he was freshman football coach, also coached the freshman track team. He told McDowall his high jump form was bad. Jack jumped the bar two inches higher than the highest record jump Sammy had during his days as a student. Then he told Sammy, "I can jump it my way but I do not believe I can do it your way." Sammy told him to forget what he had said and jump like he pleased.

On one occasion, Jack punted the ball successfully while running at full speed. During his freshman year, I personally witnessed a game between the State freshmen and a junior college which the State boys won 95 to 0. During that game, Jack kicked off the ball, caught it himself, and ran for a touchdown. Jack had played end in high school and no other position. He said the first day he was out for practice at N. C. State, somebody told him, "You are a back", and that is the way he got into the backfield.

"Sheriff of Watauga"

We ate mess hall style and the head waiter was a senior. Many notices were read during the meal hour and the head waiter called the attention of the students by blowing a whistle very loudly. There was a student from Johnston County in the class of 1926 whom we called "Sheriff" Turnage. His first night on the campus as a freshman, he was assigned to a room in Watauga. The upper classmen told him that night that he was the "Sheriff of Watauga." The nickname is still with him.

On one Saturday, Duke and Wake Forest, for some reason which I never understood, scheduled a football game on Riddick Field. It was announced that N. C. State students could see the game for 50¢ each. The general feeling among our students was that we should have free admission to any football game played on Riddick Field.

The Rush Was On

During the noon meal, the head waiter blew his whistle and "Sheriff"

Turnage mounted the announcer's platform and asked for a show of hands by those who wished to see the game free of charge. The vote was unanimous in favor of "Sheriff" Turnage's suggestion. He then invited all who wanted to see the game free to meet him quietly in front of the YMCA at 2:00 p.m. He stood on the porch and announced that we were going to rush the gate at the north end of the YMCA. "Sheriff" Turnage said, "Just follow me around the corner of the building and we are going to sort of ooze through the gate." We took the gatekeepers by surprise and rushed pellmell onto the field and into the stands. Those who failed to get through the gate climbed a ladder which was provided at the west side of the stadium.

TD Suited McDowall

W. O. Huneycutt, class of 1925, owner of Huneycutt's London Shop, announced that he would give a suit of clothes to the member of the football team who scored the first touchdown against the University of North Carolina. McDowall got the suit of clothes. Another member of the 1927 team accused Jack of keeping the ball until he had an opportunity to score the first touchdown.

With the increase in the size of the student body and faculty, we have lost the intimate personal relationships that disciplined all of us and cemented many lifelong friendships. The entire squad was "my team" in victory and even more so in defeat, because I lived through every event with them in a very personal way.
