OFFENSE

The Gator offense heads into the Florida State game averaging 389.6 yards a contest. The Florida attack has been equally balanced between the run and the pass. The orange and blue has averaged 187 yards a game on the ground and 199.6 in the air while averaging 23.7 points a game against a schedule that's seen the Gators face five teams that were ranked in the nation's Top Twenty when they faced Florida. Florida has outrushed eight of ten opponents this fall (everyone on the schedule except Auburn and Georgia). The edge in the rushing game has become a very significant indicator of success for Florida since the start of the 1980 season. Since that time, Florida is

Buddy Schultheis

24-1-1 in the won-loss column in those games in which it has outrushed its respective opponent.

Wayne Peace will be playing his last game as QB before the Gator faithful today. The senior from Lakeland is just the second passer in the history of Southeastern Conference to pass for over 7,000 yards. He has been a very prominent part of a Florida football program that has now gone to a bowl in each of the last four seasons. When he completes his eighth pass this afternoon, he will have completed more passes (604) than anyone in the history of the SEC. On the season, Peace is 172 of 272 (63.2%) for 1,889 yards and ten touchdowns.

Peace's favorite target throughout much of his career has been wideout Dwayne Dixon. The senior standout ranks fifth on the all-time Florida receptions list with 117 - just three short of tying all-time great Chris Collinsworth. On the '83 campaign, Dixon has caught 40 passes for 502 yards despite missing two-and-a-half games at midseason with knee and rib injuries. He's just the fourth receiver in Florida history to catch 40 or more passes in back-to-back seasons. In 1982, Dixon had 45 receptions - the most for a Gator player since 1969.

Dixon is just one of several receivers in Florida's multi-faceted passing attack. Senior Bee Lang and freshman Ricky Nattiel have registered 23 and 20 catches respectively as wide receivers. Peace throws to his backs often. Lorenzo Hampton (20), Joe Henderson (18), and John L. Williams (16) are all prominent parts of the passing game.

When Peace goes to the running attack he finds a group of young, but talented, backs. Sophomore tailback

Neal Anderson, the second youngest back in Gator history to break the 1,000 career rushing plateau, leads the club in rushing with 748 yards, the most ever for a sophomore back at Florida. Anderson is joined at tailback by junior Lorenzo Hampton who has rushed for 396 yards. Two sophomores, John L. Williams and Joe Henderson, man the fullback post. Williams has rushed for 502 yards on an impressive 6.3 avg. per carry. Henderson has gained 225 yards rushing.

The young backs operate behind an offensive line that has remained virtually intact the entire season. Junior Phil Bromley mans the center spot with seniors Buddy Schultheis and John Hunt at the guards. Junior Lomas Brown holds down one tackle spot with either Scot Trimble or Crawford Ker at the other.

DEFENSE

The Gator defense enters the contest having given up just 13.6 points a game this season. Charley Pell's stop troops are yielding an average of just 286.4 yards a game in total offense (130.9 on the ground and 155.5 through the air). To date, just four (Indiana St., East Carolina, Auburn, and Kentucky) of the ten opponnets this fall have managed to rush for 100 or more yards in a game vs. Florida.

Senior inside linebacker Fred Mc-Callister leads the unit in tackles with 107. He is joined at the other inside backer post by junior Mark Korff (100 tackles). Senior Wilber Marshall (83), a finalist for the Lombardi College Lineman of the Year Award in each of the past two seasons, sophomore Alonzo Johnson (83) and sophomore Patrick Miller (47) man the outside linebacking spots. Senior Roy Harris (101) and sophomore Greg Cleveland (62) are the tackles with junior Tim Newton (76) at middle guard.

The secondary is a veteran unit headed by seniors Tony Lilly at free-safety and Randy Clark at strong safety. Junior Roger Sibbald will also see time at strong safety. The corners will be manned by seniors Bruce Vaughan and Vito McKeever, junior Ricky Easmon, and sophomore Curtis Stacey.

KICKING GAME

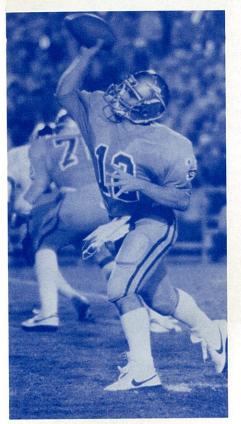

This has been a Gator strength all season. Florida boasts a one-two punch in both the punting and the place-kicking chores. Sophomore Ray Criswell is averaging 47.3 yards a punt, a figure that ranks first in the nation but you won't find his name listed at the top of the NCAA punting stats because he hasn't kicked enough times under the NCAA requirements (a minimum of 3.6 punts per game. Criswell has punted 29 times in 10 games). Sophomore David Nardone handles the "touch punts." He is averaging 38.9 yards on a 9 punts with four being downed inside the ten yard line. Juniors Bobby Raymond and Chris Perkins have had an excellent year in the place kicking category hitting on 17-20 field goal attempts. Raymond is 14-17 and leads the club in scoring with 66 points.

Florida State Scouting Report

Kelly Lowrey

The 6-4 Seminoles haven't reached their pre-season expectations, but Coach Bobby Bowden's explosive 1983 squad has won four of its last five games and is looking for revenge from their two consecutive losses to the Gators.

OFFENSE

The Seminole offense is one of the most wide open in all of college football. Check out the credentials: Their 33.9 scoring average ranks them among the top five in the nation as is their total offense of 463 yards per game. All-purpose runner Greg Allen's 1000-yard plus season has him in the top ten nationally.

One key to the Seminoles' wide open style is their talent at the "skill" positions. Senior quarterback Kelly Lowrey has battled injuries but is having a fine year, completing 57 percent of his passes. Lowrey is the inspirational leader of the offense and his health will be a factor in the Florida game although his back-up, junior Bob Davis, has played well in spots, such as leading the Seminoles to a 45-30 win over South Carolina.

The running game is led by the versatile Allen. The 6-0, 200-pound junior has outstanding quickness and strength and can run inside or out. He's averaging 5.5 yards per carry and is a threat to score every time he touches the ball. Sophomore fullback Cedric Jones has also battled injuries recently but he is a fine blocker-runner-receiver. He averages over five yards per run, has caught 18 passes out of the backfield and helps spring Allen loose with his blocking. Sophomore Rosie Snipes is a junior college transfer who has tremendous outside speed as his 6.8 yard average attests.

The wide receiving corps may be the most talented group in the nation. Senior split end Weegie Thompson leads the team with 31 catches. While Thompson uses his size (6-6, 220) and hands to his advantage, his teammates Jessie Hester and Hassan Jones use their superior athletic skills. Hester, a junior, has 28 catches for an 18.3 average and Jones, a sophomore, has 24 grabs for 13.8 average. Both have great speed and moves and are gamebreaker types. The tight end is Tom Wheeler whose 22 catches place him fourth on the team in that category.

The offensive line is rich in experience. Seniors Ricky Render and Tom McCormick are three-year starters and both earned All-South Independent the last two years. Senior tackle Herbert Harp is an excellent run blocker. Although only sophomores, guard Jamie Dukes and tackle John Ionata both were starters last year. Dukes could be one of FSU's greats before he is through.

DEFENSE

FSU's defense hasn't played with the kind of consistency Bowden would like this season. The Seminoles employ their usual 5-2 front but this year they have given up an average of nearly 26 points per game. Quickness, usually a Seminole trademark on defense, has not been a strength this year.

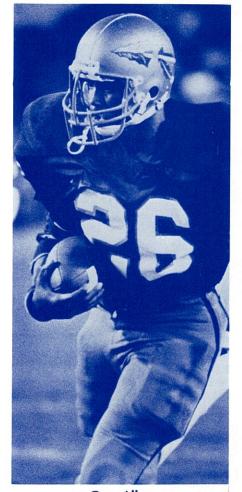

Up front, all-star Alphonso Carreker is the main force from his left tackle spot. The 6-6, 260-pound Carreker is a top pass rusher and is noted for breaking up offensive blocking schemes. Starting middle guard Todd Stroud strained ligaments against Miami three weeks ago and probably won't play against the Gators. He'll be replaced by senior Brad Fojtik. The other tackle is sophomore Isaac Williams.

The linebackers are led by seniors Ken Roe and John McClean. Both are tough and consistent against the run. Juniors Brian Williams and Henry Taylor have come on lately to make the group a solid unit.

The secondary has had its problems this year giving up 199 aerial yards per game and 13 touchdowns via the pass. The group was hurt by the pre-season loss of three-year starter at safety Larry Harris. Junior Eric Riley is the top man in the backfield. Riley has great quickness and is a good coverage cornerback. The rest of the unit is made up of senior safety Pat Milligan, junior safety Brian McCrary and sophomore corner Steve Bloodworth. Intimidating size has been missing all year from the group as Milligan, at 170 pounds, is the biggest of the four.

Junior Phil Hall handles the kicking chores. Hall has hit on 5-9 field goals and is the team's number two scorer with 53 points. Freshman punter Louis Berry is averaging nearly 42 yards on 32 punts. Junior Billy Allen is a dangerous kick-off returner with his fine speed and Cedric Jones is the primary punt returner.

The Century Tower Carillon (Above) houses 49 bronze bells and has become a trademark of the UF campus.

"Compared with most of the South's other state schools, the University of Florida is like fresh-squeezed orange juice alongside the stuff that comes in a can. With bushels of undergraduate, graduate and professional programs, as well as sophisticated science and research facilities, it is rapidly approaching the status of Texas, Duke, North Carolina, Vanderbilt and the other academic leaders of the new South."

-The Selective Guide to Colleges

The facts tell the story—the University of Florida, with over 34,000 students, is the most highly-regarded institution of higher learning in the Southeast. UF, along with Ohio State and the University of Minnesota, offers more academic programs on a single campus than any other university—in the nation.

other university—in the nation.
Says 'The Insider's Guide to Colleges,' "Those who automatically equate school in Florida with a four-year party should be set straight. The University of Florida is ranked among the top five in the nation for the number of courses offered on a single campus, and is also the largest university in the Southeast."

Here are just a few of the reasons Florida is considered the cream of ENGINEERING—UF's College of Engineering ranks 13th among the nation's 250 engineering schools in the attraction of sponsored research support. It is tops in the south with $13,446,419 worth of funded research and outdraws such schools as Georgia Tech, Texas, UCLA, Carnegie Tech, Princeton, Harvard, Cal Tech and all state universities along the eastern seaboard.

BUSINESS—UF's business faculty ranked 13th in the nation and tops in the Southeast in the most recent survey of scholarly papers in the leading journals of five business fields. Florida has the best manufacturing business climate in the nation, according to the Council of State Manufacturer's Associations. Recruiters say, "If you want 'em to hit the ground running, hire a Florida graduate." Maybe that's why IBM hired over 100 UF graduates last year, bachelor's through COMPUTERS—UF's computer graphics lab is among the nation's top ten, along with such prestigious colleges as Cornell, Ohio State and Utah.

LAW—UF is among the nation's five to seven state-supported law schools considered excellent, with a 23:1 student/teacher ratio. UF's law students rank among the nation's top 10 percent of law school student bodies. Its legal information center of 345,000 volumes is considered among the top law libraries, and its operating budget of $4,934,000 ranks it among the very top law schools in the nation. It is said to have progressed farther faster in the past decade than any other major state supported law school.

EDUCATION—UF's College of Education was rated first in the Southeast and 16th in the nation by the most recent national ranking of education colleges. The director of the National Council of Teacher Education wrote that UF's programs are "among the most outstanding that the NCATE has evaluated."

JOURNALISM—Housed in a beautiful new $6.3 million building, UF's College of Journalism & Communications was among only 14 of the 1,000 universities in the nation that offer journalism to be accredited in four areas: journalism, broadcasting, public relations and advertising. UF's student television station, WUFT-TV, is number one in the nation—it has a bigger audience share than any other PBS station. College of Journalism and Communications students have won the equivalent of the "Pulitzer Prize for College Journalism" 11 times over the past 22 years. The next closest competitor, Nebraska, has won it only three times, Kansas State twice and no other university more than once.

MEDICINE—The J. Hillis Miller Health Center is among the nation's most comprehensive centers of patient care, education, research and wellness-oriented community outreach services.

VETERINARY MEDICINE—UF's College of Veterinary Medicine has established the nation's first Equine Neonatal Intensive Care Unit.

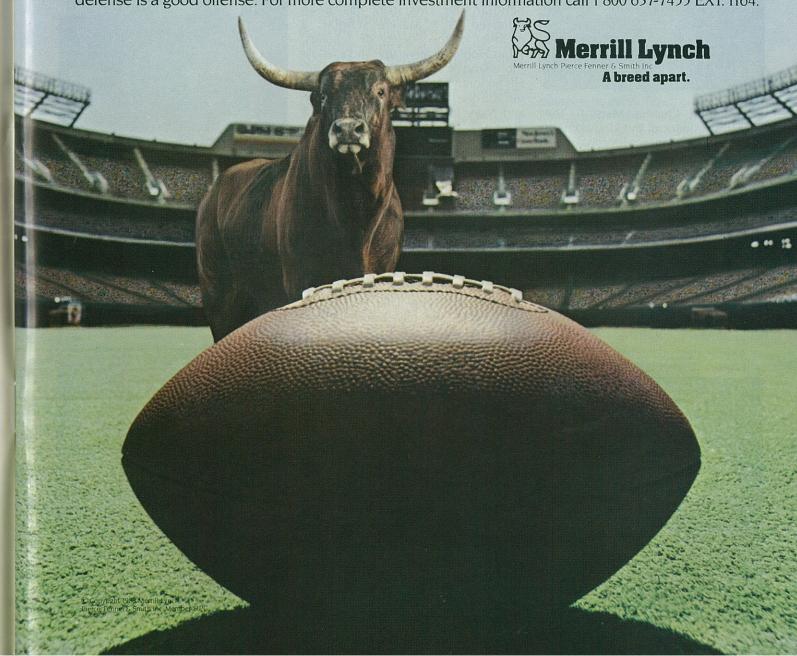

SCIENCE—Seven of the most cited scientists in the world are at the University of Florida, four of them in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, three in the Department of chemistry. UF has more scientists on the Institute for Scientific Information list than any other state university in the South.

FINE ARTS—Eighty percent of the faculty members of the College of Fine Arts is listed in "Who's Who in American Art," more than any other university in the South.

So the facts tell the story. This is THE University of Florida, an institution that is rapidly taking a national lead in higher education.

Director of Athletics— Bill Carr

Bill Carr, who assumed the duties of Director of Athletics at Florida on March 15, 1979, is fast gaining a reputation as one of this country's brightest and most capable athletic administrators.

Carr's philosophy regarding intercollegiate athletics and its administration is basic and to the point, much like the man himself. "The basic challenges today for intercollegiate athletics," states Carr, "are precisely those which have always faced it: leadership, formulating a philosophy, discussing values, establishing goals and objectives, and through competent, properly motivated leadership, providing educational experiences for each student-athlete and spectator alike." Carr has addressed his position in just that manner.

When Carr assumed his duties, the University of Florida Athletic Association was faced with a financial deficit of over $700,000 at the conclusion of the 1978-79 athletic calender. Carr and his highly competent staff have eliminated that debt in four years, while orchestrating unparalleled growth for Gator athletics.

What is especially impressive to athletic administrators around the nation is the fact that Carr has been able to eliminate Florida's deficit while still providing dollars for capital improvements and numerous other projects that have put Florida's program back into national prominence.

Financial stability has been achieved while the O'Connell Center has been completed, an $11 million expansion of Florida Field has taken place, administration staff and coaching staff positions have been increased, an impressive academic advisory staff for student-athletes has been assembled. the renovation of Yon Hall has been undertaken, and just this past spring Florida Field's Press Box began a twoyear renovation and expansion. In short, over $30 million dollars has been spent or committed for facility additions and improvements during the past four years. In addition, Florida became one of the first schools in the nation to meet compliance standards regarding Carr, 37, is a man on the move. He has improved the image of Florida athletics throughout the nation among its supporters as a result of his work in the area of alumni relations and fund raising. Gator Boosters, Inc. has increased in number by over 4,000 active members during Carr's four years at the helm. Funding from private sources has risen dramatically from $600,000 in 1977 to over $3 million during the 1982-83 academic year.

In short, Carr has conducted a whirlwind operational plan that has improved the Gator athletic program in every phase. He has demonstrated competence in every facet of athletic administration while also displaying a high level of motivation and enthusiasm.

Carr has been well trained for the post he now holds. Following an outstanding playing career at Florida (All-American center in 1966), Carr has worked his way up through the athletic program as an assistant coach (1970-73), academic advisor (1972-74), and assistant athletic director (1976-79). During this time he also received his Masters Degree in Education and is now near completion of a Ph.D.

Carr was born in Gainesville on Nov. 29, 1945. He attended elementary school in Vero Beach, high school in Pensacola and graduated from the University of Florida in 1967 with a BA in Spanish. He earned his Masters in Education Administration from Florida in 1971, following service in Korea with the U.S. Army.

Carr is heavily involved in church and community affairs. He is an elder in the Community Evangelical Church and last year was named one of five "Outstanding Young Men" in Florida by the Florida Jaycees. Carr is married to the former Jan Jackson and they have four children: Jason (12), Scott (10), Julie (7) and recently born Christopher.

CHARLEY PELL HEAD FOOTBALL COACH

Charley Pell has brought many assets to the Florida football program. Paramount among them, however, is consistencey. In addition to bringing success on the field, as demonstrated by three consecutive bowl appearances, he has worked diligently to improve every aspect of the football program.

When Pell was named Florida's head coach on December 4th, 1978, he brought with him a reputation as a coach and administrator who got things done, and got them done quickly. He took over a Clemson program in 1977 that had won five total games during the previous two years. His first Clemson team in 1977 compiled an 8-3-1 mark and his '78 contingent posted a 10-1 record. Pell left Clemson at that time for a new challenge at Florida, knowing full well that the program he was departing was on the verge of becoming one of this nation's finest. The foundation that Pell built at Clemson has played a very big role in the Tigers' move to the top of collegiate football, a move that resulted in a 12-0 season and a national championship in ranked 19th in the nation. Those achievements, all outstanding in their own right, are put into an even more impressive light when one considers that they happened just one year after Florida went 0-10-1 in Pell's first year at the helm, a year in which an injuryriddled squad, playing a schedule that the NCAA rated the toughest in the nation, came close on numerous occasions to pulling off a big upset but always fell short.

lege football annuals. Florida went 8-4 first team in college football history to that campaign, beat Maryland in the go winless in one season and then go to Tangerine Bowl, and finished the year a bowl game the very next campaign. The NCAA considered the Gators' turnaround the third most impressive, from one season to the next, in college history. For his achievement, Pell was named SEC Coach of the Year by both AP and UPI. That marked the third time over a four-year period of time that Pell had garnered his conference's Coach of the Year honor. He received that distinction from the ACC in both his years at Clemson (1977 & 1978).

Pell continued to gain national Pell's 1980 contingent became the respect for the Gator football program in 1981. That contingent, one of the seniors among the 22 starters, compiled a 7-4 regular season record and season record which included wins over Miami, USC, Mississippi State, contingents were ranked in the nation's top twenty when they faced Florida. After the 27-17 win over Mississippi State, the Gators were ranked fourth in the nation, a spot that matched the all-time best ranking for a Florida unit. The Gator schedule was ranked as the third toughest in the nation by the NCAA. Once again, Pell capped the year off with a bowl appearance, a trip to Houston to meet Arkansas in the Bluebonnet Bowl. That marked the fifth time in the last six years that he has taken a team to a bowl game (Clemson appeared in the Gator Bowl in 1977 and 1978).

Pell, a hard-working man whose only speed is full-speed all the time, has done more than improve the Gators in the won-loss column. He has also played a very big role in improving the image of Florida athletics among its supporters. Pell has gone out to meet the people. He is a frequent speaker at Gator Club affairs around the state, and in fact, played a major role in the organization and development of the Gator Clubs. He visits every Gator Club throughout the state at least once every year.

His enthusiasm and hard work have paid huge dividends for the athletic department in general, Gator Boosters, Inc., a club formed to promote academic athletic interest, has grown Pell has taken Florida to three straight by over 4,000 active members in the past three years and last year raised over $3 million. Pell's hardwork in the background, as well as his success on youngest in the nation with only two the field, has also played a big role in the dramatic increase in season ticket sales. The Gators have now gone over played in the Peach Bowl. In 1982, the 57,000 mark, a big increase from Pell's club compiled an 8-3-0 regular the 38,000 in Pell's first year at the helm in 1979.

Those who know Charley Pell are not Auburn, and Florida State. All of those surprised by his success. He has been a winner his entire life. The 42 year old native of Albertville, Alabama went to the University of Alabama as a 180-pound halfback who had played only one season of high school football. He wound up starting for three years for Bear Bryant at offensive and defensive tackle (1960-62) and was a member of the Tide's 1961 National Championship contingent. He also played in the Orange, Sugar and Bluebonnet Bowls.

> He served as a graduate assistant at Alabama in 1964, was Defensive Line coach at Kentucky (1965-68), Head Coach at Jacksonville State (Ala.) (1969-73) Assistant Head Coach and Defensive Coordinator at Virginia Tech (1974-75), a position he also held at Clemson in 1976 before taking over the head reins in 1977.

> At Jacksonville State, Pell's first coaching job, Pell inherited a losing team and turned it into a small college power which finished second in the nation in 1970 while posting a 10-0 record and beating Florida A&M in the Orange Blossom Classic. His overall record at ISU was 33-13-1, and he was Coach of the Year for the State of Alabama in both 1970 and 1973, and runnerup for Division II national honors in 1970. He left lacksonville State in 1973 for other coaching experiences before taking over the Clemson program in 1977 and the Florida program in 1978. As at lacksonville, Pell has turned around an ailing program and propelled it into national prominence.

> Pell holds a BS degree from Alabama (1964). He married the former Ward Noel of Lexington, KY. on February 1, 1969 and they have a son, Carrick who was born March 1, 1970. Pell was born in Albertville, Alabama on February 24,

How To Tell The Difference Between A Gator And A SunBank 24 Machine.

Lots of people know how to tell the difference between a gator and a crocodile. It's simple. Gators have shorter, broader snouts. And crocodiles don't play football.

It's not always that easy to tell the difference between a gator and a SunBank 24 machine. But with a little practice, you can distinguish one from the other.

First of all, a gator is green. A SunBank 24 machine has green. A gator has rows of sharp teeth. A SunBank 24 machine has rows of pressure-sensitive buttons. A gator dozes in the sun all day and prowls at night.

A SunBank 24 machine never sleeps and it doesn't move around much.

Like gators, you'll find SunBank 24 machines all across Florida. There are four in Gainesville — including one on campus — and more than 150 statewide. But they won't be as close to the ground.

Florida Assistant Coaches

Gator football teams have gone to three consecutive bowl games and have defeated several of this nation's prominent teams during that same time span. Much of the credit for those achievements goes to a staff of diligent assistant coaches

Mike Shanahan, a member of the staff since 1980, serves as the squad's assistant head coach, offensive coordinator and quarterback coach. Under Shanahan's direction, the 1982 Florida offense established a new school record for total offense (4,540 yards) while also establishing a new NCAA single season record for team passing completion percentage (68.8%). Shanahan, a 1974 graduate of Eastern Illinois, coached at Oklahoma, Northern Arizona, his alma mater, and Minnesota prior to coming to Florida.

Shanahan is joined on the offensive staff by Phil Maggio (Offensive Line), Vince Kendrick (Running Backs) and Mike Heimerdinger (Receivers). Maggio, a former Gator linemen from 1964-66, joined the Florida staff in the spring of 1980 and has steadily improved the squad's offensive line each of the last three seasons. Kendrick, a former Gator fullback who also saw some time with the Atlanta Falcons of the NFL, has been a member of the Florida staff since 1979. Maggio received his degree from Florida in 1966 while Kendrick received his in 1979. Heimerdinger, a former grad assistant at Florida, is the newest member of the offensive staff. The 1975 Eastern Illinois grad was receiver coach at the Air Force Academy in 1981 and served as quarterback coach at North Texas State in 1982.

Joe Kines, a Charley Pell aide since 1972, is Florida's Defensive Coordinator. Kines, a 1966 Jacksonville State (Ala.) grad, also serves as inside linebacker coach. He served as an assistant coach at Jacksonville State and Clemson prior to coming to Florida in 1979. Kines' 1981 Gator defense ranked first in the SEC and he was named "Working Coach of the Year" that season by the Birmingham TD Club.

Kines is joined by three new faces on the Gator defensive staff. Dan Coughlin, who served as Florida's Director of High School Relations in 1982, is the squad's defensive line coach. Coughlin, a 1960 Miami graduate, served as a defensive coach at Kentucky from 1973-81. Zaven Yaralian, a defensive back coach at Missouri since 1978, joined the Florida staff in the same capacity this past spring. Yaralian, who graduated from Nebraska in 1974, has coached at Nebraska, Washington State and Missouri prior to his current post. Yaralian's 1982 Missouri contingent led the nation in fewest passing yards allowed per game (123). Ty Smith, a grad assistant on the Florida staff in 1982, handles the squad's outside linebackers. Smith graduated from Western Carolina University in 1979. He served as a linebacker coach at his alma mater from 1979-81.

Dwight Adams, a member of the Florida staff since December of 1978, is Director of Squad Development and Special Teams Coach. Adams has served as a collegiate assistant since 1966 (The Citadel from 1966-72, Clemson from 1973-78 and Florida 1979-present). Adams graduated from Henderson State (Ark.)

Gator Talk

By Norm Carlson

When Charley Pell arrived at Florida in early December of 1978 the foundation of that year's recruiting was nearly set in concrete. He and his staff did upset the applecart in a few instances, but basically had little control over the selection of freshman to enter in the fall of 1979.

His first true recruiting test came withthe incoming freshman clas of 1980. These are the players who now finish out as the Class of 1983, seniors completing their college careers today against Florida State University on CBS-TV in the national game of the week.

How successful were the efforts to secure a first-class group of freshmen to enroll in 1980?

Going into today's contest they are 30-15-1 and heading toward a fourth consecutive bowl appearance in four years on the Gator scene. They are going after their third straight win over FSU and have an opportunity to become the first team in Florida history to finish the season ranked in the Top 10.

Their quarterback, Wayne Peace, of Lakeland has become an NCAA record-setting passer and the second leading passing man in both school and SEC charts behind fellow Gator John Reaves.

Wilber Marshall, who was recruited as a tight end out of Titusville, is a two-time All-America and has finished in-the Top 12 in the Lombardi Award voting the past two years.

Dwayne Dixon, the super athlete at wide receiver, will likely pass Cris Collinsworth today and move into fourth place in all-time Gator receiving.

Dixon is an all-conference calibre player along with guard John Hunt of Orlando, linebacker Fred McCallister of Melbourne, strong safety Randy Clark of Venice and free safety Tony Lilly, the native of Woodbridge, Va., who is the lone out-state player who came in '80 and is a member of the 1983 class.

Others finishing their careers in 1983 include starting defensive tackle Roy Harris of Winter Garden, cornerback Vito McKeever of Dunnellon and starting offensive guard Buddy Schultheis of Naples.

Jon Moyle of West Palm Beach, who started often during his Gator career, was sidelined at mid-season with a knee injury.

There are two other Florida seniors winding it up today, but neither came in with the freshman class of 1979. These are starters Bruce Vaughan of Largo at cornerback and Bee Lang of Miami at wide receiver.

Eight memers of that freshman class have been redshirted during their Florida days and will be back next season for a final year of eligibility. This list includes quarterback Dale Dorminey of Hialeah, outside linebacker-stellar special teams player Pepper Downie of Tampa, offensive tackle Gary Ellis of Frostproof and Joe Good of Clearwater, running back Lorenzo Hampton of Lake Wales, linebacker-special teams player John Landry of Del Ray beach, defensive tackle Russell Gallon of Tampa, and defensive back Roger Sibbald, the allpurpose athlete fromm Dunnellon.

Some mighty fine things have been produced by the freshman class of 1979. The on-field statistics speak for themselves. Perhaps of more significance is the Office of Student Life projects that 20 of the original 27 scholarship athletes in that group will graduate, a percentage of .740.

The 1983 Gator Football Highlights Yearbook is available and contains over 80 hardbound pages with each game featured in color photography. This inaugural edition costs $14.95. Contact: 1983 Gator Football Highlights Yearbook, P.O. Box 1227, Gainesville FL 32602 or call AC 904-372-1309.

Management Teamwork: Key to Success On and Off the Playing Field

By Chris Cameron

On the football field, good teamwork is the key to winning any battle. Likewise, management teamwork is the key to tackling problems and projects off the field. Florida's University Athletic Association, Inc. is a prime example.

When Bill Carr took over as the University of Florida's Athletic Director in March of 1979, he faced some monumental problems, including a $700,000 budget deficit and deteriorating facilities. To get the job done, Carr called on the teamwork philosophies he had learned at Pensacola High School and as an All-America center at Florida.

"During the time that I was an offensive lineman," says Carr, "five guards made All-SEC. So I have first-hand experience in appreciating good people. Some operate in a more autocratic manner, but I enjoy the participative model of management. It's based on teamwork."

Carr assembled a winning team that has taken athletics at Florida to new heights. In the external affairs area, for example, associate Athletic Director Richard Giannini has assembled a staff that produces and sells one of the largest radio/TV promotions packages of it's kind. "In effect, we have our own inhouse ad agency," says Carr. "Few universities in the country have as comprehensive a program in external areas. It gives us greater control, greater flexibility and a better product in the end."

Through teamwork in another area, Gator Boosters, Inc. has increased in membership by over 4,000 active members. Funding from private sources has risen dramatically from $600,000 in 1977 to over $3 million during the 1982-83 academic year.

"The Gator Booster management team has been instrumental in our success," says Carr. "An example of our philosophy on management is the booster situation. The club level program requires a lot of follow-through administratively. A lot of service goes along with all our jobs."

"I think I'm smart enough to realize that if I don't have good people, the success can't be as great. I'm grateful to the UAA Board of Directors for allowing me to hire those kinds of people — that we can compete with other universities to get those kinds of people."

Carr emphasizes that placing trust in his management team is an important element in success. "We have a very strong and competent staff," he says. "I believe in hiring our administrators, and allowing them to hire their own people. Take our business operation, for example. Jeremy Foley (Associate Athletic Director) has assembled a fine group." The result: Erasure of the $700,000 deficit and unparalleled growth.

One accomplishment of which Carr is particularly proud is the establishment of the Office of Student Life. Here again, teamwork is the key. "The office has expanded significantly to the point that we think we're able to meet the academic and personal needs of our student athletes." And Assistant Athletic Director Marily Weiss has assembled a winning management team that has produced one of the finest and most highly-respected women's athletic programs in the nation.

Carr's management team meets every Tuesday morning at 7:30 a.m. to discuss strategy. After the huddle, each manager is on his own in establishing his piece of the puzzle.

"The more you understand about the big picture, the better you can do in your part of the pie," says Carr. "I played center in a single wing formation as a high school sophomore. The center not only had to know what he was doing, but had to know what every member in the backfield was doing. That experience stimulated me to understand what's going on with everyone. There's a lot of room for savvy in your own role."

The fact that Carr's management philosophies were formulated through experiences on the athletic field emphasizes the validity of the University Athletic Association's ultimate goal: to provide educational experiences for each student athlete and spectator alike.

A major factor in UAA's future is the expansion of endowed scholarships. "One of the building blocks of good management is good planning," says Carr. "We are planning for more endowed scholarships.

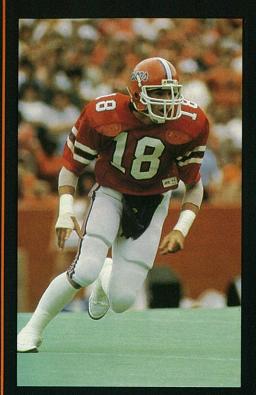

Gator Booster Endowed Scholarships

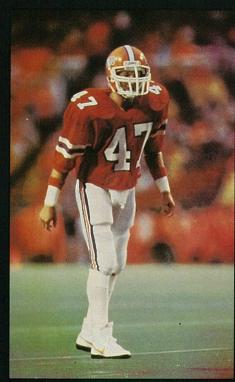

"We now have twelve endowed scholarships, and we salute the vision and generosity of the people who have made this possible. Schools with heavy endowments can concentrate on current needs. We're embarking on a program of emphasizing endowments. Endowed scholarships are very much a part of our need for the future."

Defensive backs Tony Lilly, Bruce Vaughan and Randy Clark (below) have roamed the Gator secondary for several seasons. The trio has registered 26 combined interceptions during its career.

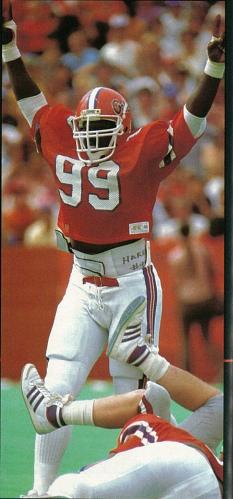

Guards John Hunt and Buddy Schultheis (above) have both been three-year starters on the offensive line. They have been a major reason for a vastly-improved running game over the past two seasons.

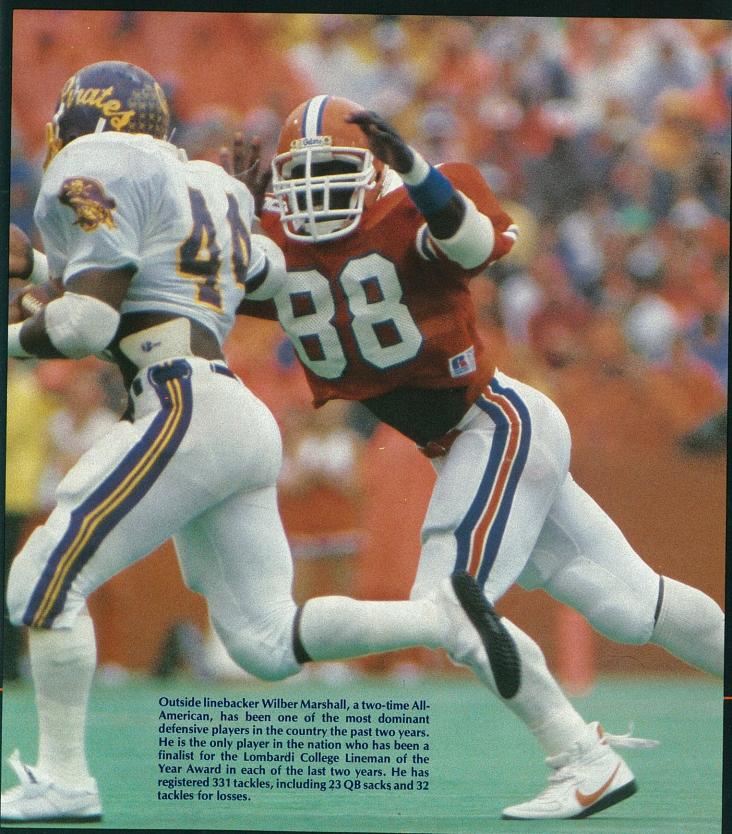

Tackle Roy Harris (right) has given Florida some outstanding play in the defensive line. He's a three year letter winner who has nearly 200 tackles to his credit.

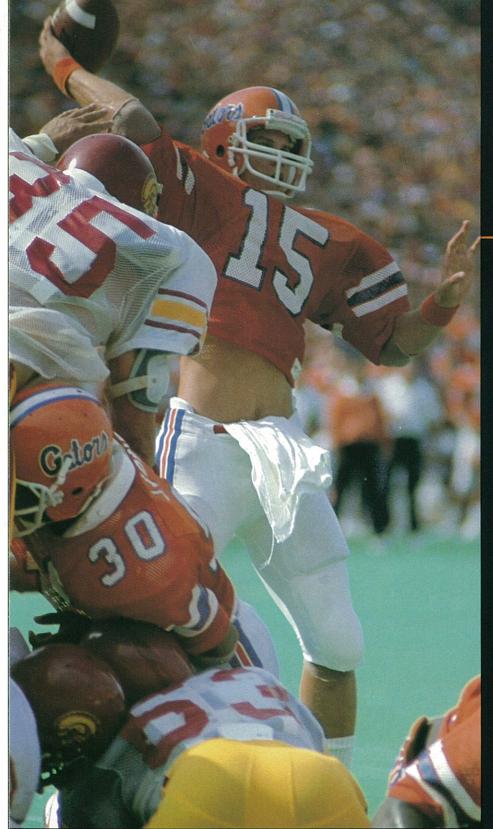

Thanks for the Memories

The Florida senior class of 1983 has been among the most successful in Gator football history. This unit has won 30 games over the past four years—the third most in school history over a four year time span—while going to a bowl game in each of the past four seasons, something that has happened just one other time in Florida history. Collectively and individually they have provided all of us with a great deal of memories. On their last appearance at Florida Field, we say "Thanks for the memories."

Memories (Continued)

Quarterback Wayne Peace (left) became just the second passer in SEC history, and just the 20th in college football history, to throw for over 7,000 career yards. He set a new NCAA record for completions in 1982, hitting on a sparkling 70.73% of his throws. His favorite target has been wide receiver Dwayne Dixon (below), who has become the latest in a long line of outstanding Gator receivers. His 117 career catches is the fifth most in Florida history. He has caught 40 or more passes in each of the last two season, just the fourth receiver in school history to catch 40 or more passes in back-to-back campaigns.

Inside linebacker Fred McCallister (above) has had an outstanding senior season, coming on strong to stay at the top of the defensive charts most of the season.

WALKONS — A Significant Part of the Florida Program by Tim Williams

Bobby Raymond, a walkon from Jacksonville, has hit on 14 of 17 field goal attempts this season.

Wes Chandler, Cris Collinsworth, David Galloway, David Little, Wilber Marshall, John Reaves, Steve Spurrier, Jack Youngblood. The University of Florida's gridiron history is dotted with individuals who have won national awards and All-American status after coming to Gainesville as blue chip high school phenoms. Not all the men clad in orange and blue on fall Saturdays, though, have reached such lofty prep acclaim before wearing the Gator colors. Some are overlooked completely by college recruiters while others simply have a dream of being a Gator and shun other opportunities. These particular athletes are dubbed "walk-ons."

A walk-on is an individual who has wished to compete on a collegiate team without the benefit of a scholarship. Some may have been good enough athletes to be offered a small college scholarship. Others may have not been offered any type of athletic grant but wished to try their hand at making the squad. For whatever the reason, all are out there to prove they can compete with athletes who are rated superior to them by people who are paid to make those decisions.

An average of 60-80 young men begin the process of walking-on each January at the University of Florida. Twelve months hence, at most ten of that particular group remain. "When a potential player decides he wants to walk-on, we ask him "How bad do you want it? Someone can go through anything they want to," says Florida strength coach Rich Tuten. "It's not a piece of cake to walk-on here. We have to find out if you want to stick it out. On this level of college football, we have to make sure these players are ready to compete," he

Before stepping foot in a weight room or on a practice field, a walk-on must meet with Dwight Adams, the Special Teams Coach and Director of Development, to learn if he satisfies the requirements that fall under NCAA and University of Florida guidelines. Under NCAA regulations, a student graduating from high school must have a cumulative 2.0 academic average out of a possible 4.0 with no minimum college board score established. The institution's rules may be more stringent and supercede the NCAA as is the case at Florida. At UF, an athlete must have a 2.0 average in pure academics courses with no electives or vocational credit included. He also must have an 800 on the college boards or 17 on the ACT. If an athlete meets the NCAA stipulations but not Florida's, he must appear before a board of professors at UF to determine if he is eligible to walk-on. The minimum requirements would be a 1.8 average along with his college boards. If he were admitted into the university under these conditions, he would be on academic probation for a semester.

Each prospective walk-on graduating from high school and desiring to play collegiate football has a "five-year clock" on him. His clock begins to tick when he enters college. That is, he has five years to get four years of eligibility. The walk-on thus, must meet the same qualifications as a scholarship athlete.

If he passes the academic standards, Adams will then have the prospective walk-on fill out a questionaire. He is still responsible for providing for his own living quarters (room and board). Adams will then set up a physical examination with trainer Chris Patrick to be administered by one of the team physicians. The walk-on is responsible for payment of this exam. If the walk-on meets all these conditions, he then will be sent to Tuten, a member of the 1978 All-American strength team while at Clemson, oversees the winter weight-lifting program which starts in January. This is the first physical work a walk-on takes part in. The walk-ons have the same workouts as scholarship athletes but only at a different time of day. "This coming January we will likely have 130 returning members of the 1983 team. It would be unfair to the walk-ons if we started them out with the '83 team. The walk-ons would get lost in the shuffle. By having them work out at night, we can get a closer look at them," said Tuten.

According to Tuten, no prior testing is given to walk-ons before they enter the weight program. "It really wouldn't be fair to them if we tested them beforehand. If a kid has a lot of heart and wants to play – that is the big thing. What he does in the weightroom is extra, which will help him down the line."

Florida Head Coach Charley Pell is 100% behind the walk-on program and he welcomes all who think they can play major college football.

"Walk-on football players have always had an important place in any top college program; however, these athletes are more important to a program now than they have ever been because of the limitation on the number of scholarships allowed by the NCAA."

The fifth year Gator mentor added, "We have had many instances where it would have been extremely difficult to even conduct a practice without the numbers provided by the presence of the walk-on players. For example, I doubt if you could hold a spring football game without the walk-on players present. You only have a maximum of 95 scholarship players available in the fall, so your incoming freshman class is not there in the spring, and then you have players out with injuries and so forth. It takes the 55-60 walk-on players to complete a roster in order to have a spring game."

"Also, even though recruiting is very complex and meticulous there are high school players overlooked every year for one reason or another. Many of these players walk-on and several wind up being better than some of those on scholarship. We have had several at Florida who have earned scholarships and made solid contributions to the program, Players like Bee Lang, Gary Rolle, Melvin Ellison, Bruce Vaughan, Doug Drew, Brett Wiechmann, Bill Nelson and Ricky Nelson are good examples."

Bobby Raymond, a junior place-kicker from Jacksonville, is another prime example of a successful walk-on program. Raymond, who was offered a scholarship but declined it so that a more deserving athlete could receive it, strived to improve himself each day and he succeeded. "When I came here, the opportunity to kick was there. I knew Brian Clark was going to graduate and I felt that if I could get enough practice, I could improve and have an impact on the team."

Raymond did improve on his whole kicking game. When the Gators traveled to Los Angeles to take on the Southern California Trojans, Raymond was nervous but didn't show it. His hard work and dedication was displayed in an outstanding performance. The 5-10, 170 pounder commented, "I had always watched USC on TV in the Coliseum. I was a little on edge before the kickoff but that quickly went away. Hitting all four field goals (scoring 13 points) was a big thrill for me."

In the Florida program, walk-ons are treated as equals with the scholarship athletes. "I don't think any player on our squad will tell you differently," attests Adams. "The best person at his position will play. We've had walk-ons who are better than the scholarship guy." Bruce Vaughan could hardly disagree with that assumption.

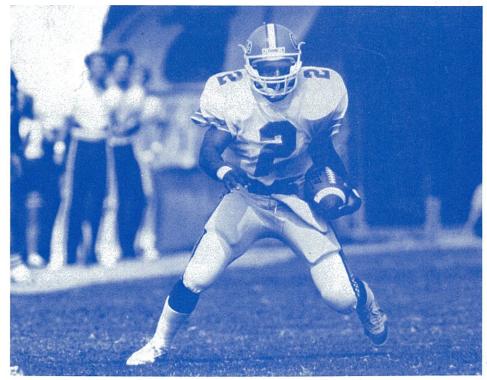

Vaughan, a senior cornerback from Largo, Florida, walked-on into the Gator program in 1979. He lived in obscurity throughout most of the season until his opportunity presented itself.

The Florida defensive coaches were looking for a defensive back to use as a nickel back in a special defense against the Florida State Seminoles in a nationally televised contest. When the coaches asked Cris Collinsworth, he suggested Vaughan. "After Cris mentioned me, the coaches screamed WHO?," said Vaughan.

Vaughan was inserted into the starting lineup and was scared stiff. "I was so excited being out there. I didn't want to make any mistakes. I just told myself not to do anything wrong and especially not to get beat deep. On one play, they tried to throw a quick out. I cut in front of the receiver as the quarterback threw it. Tim Golden, our defensive end, jumped up and knocked the pass down. If he wouldn't have knocked it down, I would have had it with a clear path to the endzone in front of me."

Before a prospective athlete walkson, he would be wise to adhere to some advice from Adams. "The biggest thing I would tell a walk-on who is planning to come to our program is to lay out of school for a year. Develop a good body building program, get an eight-to-five job and mature physically and mentally. I would also suggest they come watch us work out in the weight room and on the practice field during spring practice. Thirdly, is the amount of time it takes. Football is a year round activity. You've got to be able to study on your own time and be able to have a social life in between that. This should be considered strongly before walking-on."

Vaughan sat out a year and feels it helped him with the mental rigors of walking-on. "You can't decide just like that to play football. It takes too much time and definitely takes away from you emotionally and mentally. You have to plan on it and prepare for it. When I sat out I was home working and running. I got to the point where I didn't want to look back and regret what I had or had not done. I made sure I put everything I had into it so I wouldn't be disappointed later.

Raymond suggested that a walk-on should not get down on himself if he isn't noticed right away. "A lot of walk-ons start with the idea of making the traveling squad the first year. Not many do. A walk-on must improve each day on the practice field and make the coaches give you their attention."

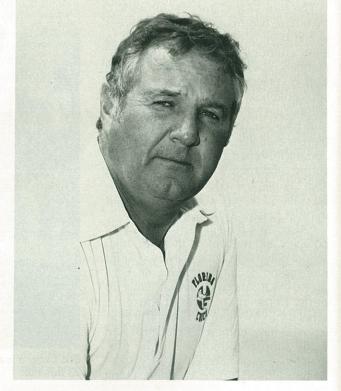

The walk-on program at the University of Florida is providing the squad with additional talent to supplement the allocated scholarships. "The system seems to be working well, said Tuten. "We put in long hours and we want to make it possible for the players to give their best performance." The 54 walk-ons on the present squad would strongly support that statement.

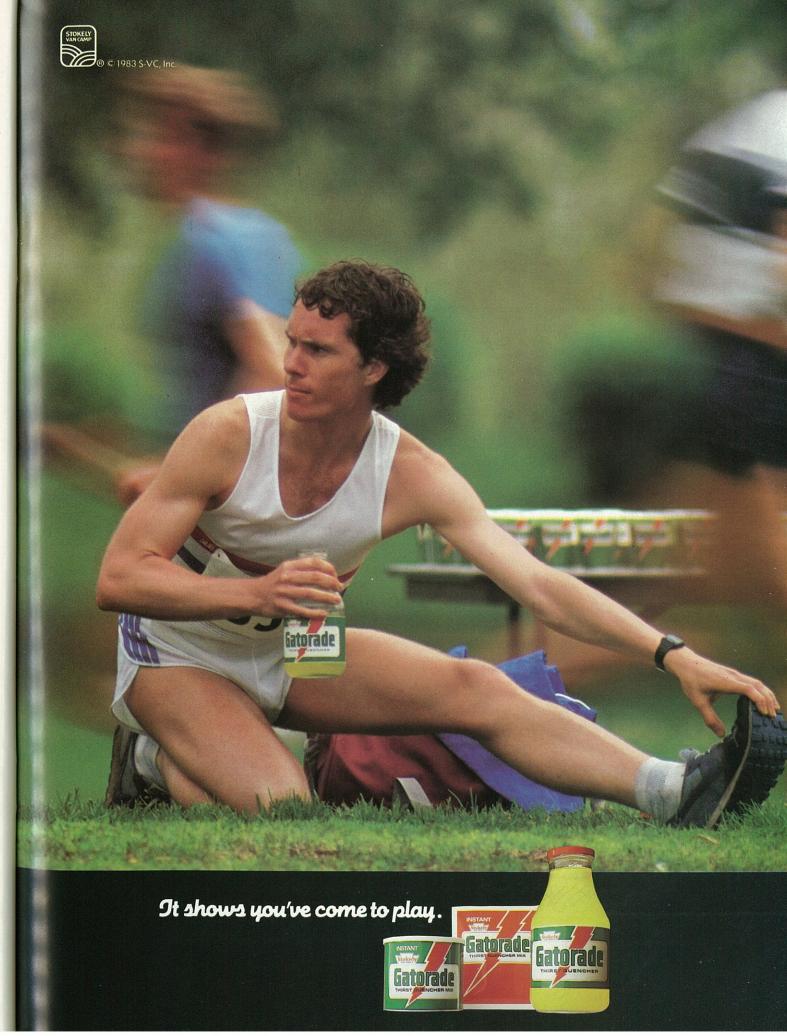

Bruce Vaughan, a walk-on in 1979 from Largo, has nine regular season interceptions to his credit – fourth most in Florida history.

Florida Football History by Alex Vergara

Great Players Series: "Reaves to Alvarez"

Florida's "Super Sophs" burst into the national limelight of college football? Led by a lanky 6-foot-3 native of Tampa, and a speedy wide receiver nicknamed "El Gato," the Gators upset a highly-touted Houston Cougar team 59-34 in the 1969 season opener in one of the wildest offensive shows ever seen in Southern football.

John Reaves to Carlos Alvarez: the combination is still music to the ears to thousands of Florida football followers even though their collegiate careers have been over since 1971. Some

Carlos Alvarez

Could it really be 14 years ago that might argue that Auburn's Pat Sullivanto-Terry Beasley duo of the early 70s ranks as the SEC's all-time best, but the conference record books tell no lies. All totaled, Florida's dynamic duo still holds more than 20 SEC marks in either passing, receiving, or total offense.

The day was September 20, 1969, and UF coach Ray Graves was setting the Florida game plan for "Project H." "H" Stands for Houston, and that Cougar team was a football powerhouse. Coming off three years of probation, Houston was being lavished with praise as a possible national championship contender. Graves, however, was just trying to decide on a starting lineup. During the fall practices incumbent Jack Eckhadl and sophomore John Reaves were neck-inneck for the starting position at guarterback. Graves finally decided on Reaves after ten days of fall practice and just a week before the opener.

Ranked number one by one preseason poll, and seventh by the Associated Press, the Cougars were upset by Florida before a crowd of 53,807 at Florida Field.

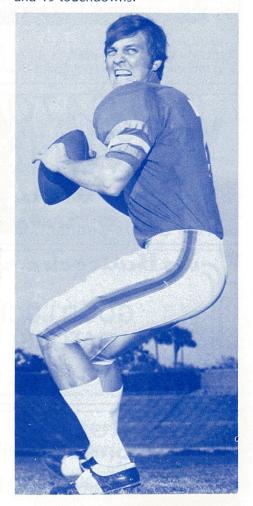

With the momentum of one of Florida's all-time biggest wins, the Gators rolled to a 9-1-1 season which included a 14-13 Gator Bowl victory over regular season SEC champion Tennessee. Although the Gators never reached similar pinnacles with Reaves and Alvarez (they went 7-4 in 1970 and 4-7 in '71), no greater moments occurred than on that day in late September.

"It was about the most inspired offense I've seen in my 10 years at Florida," commented former Gator coach Ray Graves after the upset win. "John Reaves played an almost perfect game."

With such a dramatic entrance into college football, Reaves' five-touchdown performance earned him "National Back of the Week" honors by AP, UPI, and Sports Illustrated. By the time the 1969 season was over, Reaves had completed 222 of 396 passes for 2,896 yards and 24 touchdowns.

Alvarez caught 88 of those passes during the season for a whopping 1,329 yards. For his efforts he became the first sophomore since Doak Walker of SMU in 1947 to garner consensus All-America honors. Although the Cuban-born wide-out was never the same during his final two seasons due to knee problems, he still managed to finish his collegiate career with 172 pass receptions for 2,563 yards and 19 touchdowns.

OUR GUEST — FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY

Florida State University, located in Florida's capital city, is home to more than 22,500 students. FSU was founded in 1857 as the Seminary West of the Suwannee. Today the over 340-acre campus is one of the prettiest in the South. From the stately Gothic-styled structures on the eastern end of campus to the contemporary science complex on the west, FSU has grown and changed with the times.

Today, students at Florida State can choose from over 100 career options made available by 14 schools and colleges including the FAMU/FSU Institute of Engineering which began this fall.

The University's location in the capital city of Florida affords excellent study and research opportunities in the areas of government, social sciences and policy sciences. The presence of state government provides widespread opportunities for internships and on-the-job study.

Florida State counts among its faculty six members of the National Academy of Sciences, including Paul Dirac, a Nobel Prize winner in physics. Kurt Waldheim, former secretary general of the United Nations, recently joined the university faculty as a distinguished visiting

But it's not just good programs that make the University great. As President Bernard Sliger proclaims, it is the people who make Florida State the successful monument to learning that it is. Gator Boosters, Inc.

Gator Booster Endowed Scholarships

Perhaps the most enduring contribution that can be made to Gator Boosters, Inc. is the establishment of an endowed scholarship to memorialize one's own loyalty to the University or to honor one's family member or friend. The donor may designate the name and sport. There are a number of special scholarships in effect presently. The initiation of a permanent scholarship requires a $50,000 contribution to a trust fund.

Fred Abbott Scholarship

Thanks to a generous gift from A.A. McKethan of Brooksville a permanent scholarship has been set up in Fred Abbott's name. Each year the recipient is a rising sophomore on the football team who best exemplifies the abilities of Fred Abbott who was captain of the football team in 1972 and an excellent student.

Bill Richardson Memorial Track Scholarship

Family and friends of Billy Richardson, Gator Track Star of the 40's, have contributed funds to be put into an endowment which will provide a track scholarship every year. This scholarship is fully endowed, and is awarded each year to a rising senior who has distinguished himself in the classroom.

Badcock Furniture Scholarship

Through the Badcock Furniture Company a partial scholarship donation to the women's intercollegiate athletic program has been established. We appreciate this help for the Lady Gator teams.

limmie Sikes

The Badcock Furniture Co. is providing a scholarship in football in Jimmie Sikes' name. It is presented annually to the football student-athlete who best exemplifies limmie Sikes' faith in the free enterprise system. Jimmie Sikes was a great Gator and a super supporter of the University of Florida athletic program. Wogan Badcock, Jr., a close personal friend of Jimmie Sikes, has made this memorial possible.

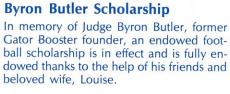

Buster Bishop

Golf fans and golfers who played on the University of Florida golf team have set up an endowment in Coach Bishop's name. Coach Bishop retired after many years as a Physical Education Professor and Golf-Coach. This endowment is not yet completed and contributions are still being accepted. Recipient will be a student-athlete on the golf team.

Jackson E. Stewart Memorial Scholarship

Mrs. Stewart has provided $50,000 in her will for an endowed football scholarship in honor of her late husband, Jackson E. Stewart.

Jackson and Mae Stewart Memorial Scholarship

Mrs. Stewart has provided for a second football scholarship for $50,000 in their

George R. Trogdon Scholarship

George, as a former high school and college football coach in the State of Florida, and a Gator letterman, has set up an endowment with Gator Boosters to provide one full football scholarship yearly. This will be a permanent scholarship.

Jim Wellman Scholarship

The family of Jim Wellman has set up an annual contribution which will finance one football scholarship per year, and because of lim's great love of the Fightin' Gators, this scholarship will be in his memory.

Byron Butler Scholarship

Gator Booster founder, an endowed football scholarship is in effect and is fully endowed thanks to the help of his friends and beloved wife, Louise.

Byron and Louise Butler Scholarship

Thanks to a uni-trust with the University of Florida Foundation, set up by Louise Butler, a fully endowed football scholarship will take effect in a certain time period. Also, Louise has arranged for a full music scholarship to accrue from the uni-trust.

John Eibner Scholarship

Over 600 Gator Boosters, and friends of John Eibner, made individual contributions for an endowed scholarship to be set up in John's name.

FLORIDA FOOTBALL HISTORY

Florida's Steve Spurrier won the 1966 Heisman Trophy, an honor that only 29 universities in the country can claim.

Florida, a charter member of the prestigious Southeastern Conference, started football in 1906 against Rollins on a baseball field located immediately north of the current Florida Field. That area is now called Fleming Field, used during the week for soccer and intramurals and on football weekends for parking.

The Gators won, 6-0, and went on the following year to record a 4-0-1 mark behind the running of a halfback named Willie Shands, who eventually became an important state senator for whom the Shands Hospital and Clinics at UF are named.

The finest of the early teams at Florida were under the tutelege of U. S. Army Major James A. Van Fleet, head coach and senior officer of the school's ROTC program. The Van Fleet teams in 1923-24 attracted national attention to the Gator football program for the first time.

In 1923 Florida tied Georgia Tech, the ruler of Southern football, 7-7, in Atlanta. The Jackets came from behind late in the game to earn the deadlock.

In the final game of that season Florida recorded one of the most shocking upsets of the year, beating Alabama and Wallace Wade in Tuscaloosa, 16-6, as All-Southern back Edgar Jones scored every point for the Gators.

Florida was 6-1-2 that season and 6-2-2 in 1924, recording 7-7 ties against both Georgia Tech and Texas, two of the national football powers, and losing to Army, 14-7, at West Point.

Florida's 1928 team led the nation in scoring on the way to an 8-1 record, losing its final game, 13-12, on a wet field in Knoxville, Tenn. to Tennessee.

The 1930's produced great individual talent at Florida. Walter (Tiger) Mayberry was an All-SEC halfback who was later to lose his life in World War II as an often-decorated Marine pilot. Tommy Harrison was a record-setting passer in the late '30s and went on to become president of Blair Radio and TV, a nationwide firm. His favorite target was end Forrest (Fergie) Ferguson, an all-star athlete who died years later as the result of wounds suffered in the invasion of Normandy during World War II.

Bob Woodruff brought the Gators to solid football status as the head coach of the 1950's. He produced the first bowl team in 1952, All-America linemen like Charlie LaPradd, John Barrow and Vel Heckman and a reputation for hard-nosed defense.

Ray Graves came out of the decade of the 1960's as the winningest Florida coach of record. He was 70-31-4 with five bowl teams, four of which won. His only losing bowl team lost by two points to Missouri in the 1966 Sugar Bowl, 20-18.

That decade also produced Heisman Trophy winner Steve Spurrier, a record-setting passer, as was quarterback John Reaves in 1969, who smashed five national marks and still holds most passing and total offense records for the Gators.

The teams of Doug Dickey from 1970-78 went to four bowls. His 1973 team was the first Gator edition ever to defeat Auburn at Auburn and went on that year to beat Georgia, FSU and Miami in the same month, a rare feat for Florida.

Dickey's top players included All-Americans Jack Youngblood, defensive end; Wes Chandler, wide receiver; Sammy Green and Ralph Ortega, linebackers, and SEC rushing king Jimmy DuBose.

Charley Pell's rebuilding job began in 1979 and his last three Florida teams have gone to bowls, averaging nearly eight wins a season against one of the nation's most demanding schedules. His 1981 team, featuring All-America tackle David Galloway, led the SEC in total defense. Quarterback Wayne Peace broke the NCAA record for percentage of passes completed in 1982.

Since it began playing football in 1906, the Gators have had 24 first team All-Americans, a Heisman Trophy winner in Steve Spurrier (Florida is just one of 29 schools in the nation that can claim a Heisman recipient), 14 bowl teams, and numerous other regional and conference honors. Those achievements have all provided the base for a proud football tradition at Florida.

Florida Athletics— A Commitment to Excellence

The University of Florida Athletic Department, a charter member of the prestigious Southeastern Conference, is committed to excellence in every aspect of its program. Actions speak louder than words, however, and in that regard Florida has demonstrated its commitment.

Over the last four years, nearly $30 million has been committed to facility additions and improvements. In the process, one of the most impressive athletic physical plants in the country is being assembled. An aggressive administrative staff is constantly striving to improve the total experience that a student-athlete can expect at Florida. A nationally prominent coaching staff continues to raise the Gator flag of accomplishments higher each year. Florida's Office of Student Life, a unique approach to helping the student-athlete establish and reach personal and career goals outside of athletics, was first developed at Florida.

Florida fields 13 intercollegiate teams in its men's and women's programs. The Gators have long been regionally and nationally known in swimming, golf and baseball, and the goal for the 1980's is to achieve national prominence in all sports.

The Gators won the NCAA Men's Golf Championship in 1968 and 1973 and have produced four national amateur champions. Florida's men's swim team won an NCAA title in 1983, has finished no lower than fifth at the nationals in each of the past five years, and has garnered 25 SEC crowns. The Gator baseball team has won seven consecutive SEC Eastern Division titles.

The UF women's swimming and diving team continues to be a national powerhouse as well, placing second at last year's NCAA championships after winning the 1982 NCAA and 1979 AIAW national Overall, twenty-five Lady Gator athletes earned All-America status last year, while 26 received All-SEC honors. The swimming and diving and gymnastics teams successfully defended their Southeastern Conference crowns in 1982-83, and the gymnastics and women's golf teams each went on to fifthplace national finishes at their respective NCAA championships. The Lady Gator tennis team ended the season with a 12th place national ranking and the track team tied for 17th place at the NCAA outdoor championships.

Florida Field-

Like the rest of the Florida athletic program, Florida Field has moved into national prominence in recent years. The completion of the new south endzone project last August raised the seating capacity of Florida Field to over 72,000 and gave the Gator football program one of this nation's top collegiate stadiums. Last fall, Florida averaged 72,702 fans at the newly enlarged facility, a figure that ranked tenth nationally.

The 18,000 new seats, concourses encircling the entire stadium, new restrooms, new concessions stands and a beautiful new athletic training complex located beneath the stands in the south endzone are all part of a master plan to develop athletic facilities at Florida which are second to none. The Ben Hill Griffin Training Complex, named after citrus magnate Ben Hill Griffin who supported the project with a $1.1 million gift, includes new dressing rooms, a highly modern football weight room, enlarged training room with a rehabilitation area, a new equipment room, squad meeting rooms, and a multi-purpose reception area. The entire area measures over 26,000 square feet.

The original stadium consisted of the lower half of the current stadium which was constructed in 1930 and dedicated at the Alabama contest that season. Seating capacity was 21,769. The entire stadium was constructed entirely below ground. In 1950 over 11,000 seats were added on the west side and another 7,000 were provided by bleachers on the east side. The additions brought seating capacity to 40,116. Additional bleacher seats were added during the 1950's bringing capacity to 46,164 by 1960. In December of 1965 construction started on further additions that added over 10,000 permanent seats on the east side and temporary bleachers were moved from the east side to the south endzone, providing a total capacity of 62,800 (56,164 permanent). The latest installment to Florida Field came last year when the south endzone bleachers were removed and were replaced by 18,000 permanent seats which enclosed that end of the stadium.

Baseball Squad Primes for Big Season

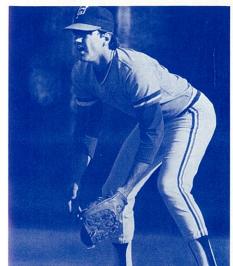

There is an aura of excitement surrounding Perry Field this year as the Gator baseball team prepares for the 1984 season. With a talented mix of the old and the new, especially new head coach Joe Arnold, Florida is gunning for an unprecedented eighth consecutive Southeastern Conference Eastern crown as well as their overall SEC championship in the last four years.

Missing from Florida's rich baseball tradition, however, has been success in post-season tournament play. Although the Gators made the NCAA regional tournament in 1981 and in 1982, they were eliminated early. Last year the team finished 38-12 after the regular season but were beaten in the conference championships. This year, Arnold brings his highly successful winning philosophies to Florida and plans to revisit the College World Series as a Gator, as he often did while coaching Division II power Florida Southern. In fact, Arnold led the Moccasins to six straight World Series and won the grand prize twice. Further, he was selected the Division II National "Coach of the Year" twice.

"This year's club will be similar to last year's in that it will have good speed, good hitting, good defense, and good pitching," says Arnold. "But I think overall, each of those categories has been improved upon since last year.

"I'll try to take advantage of what we have moreso than in the past and use their (the player's) individual skills. We'll have a very aggressive club that will create things offensively."

Last year's record breaking pitching staff (school record for strikeouts), which had a sparkling cumulative 2.85 earned run average for the season, could be even better this year. This year's top three starters, righthanders Russ Kibler and Don Carr, and leftie Clay Daniel, all seniors, could be the best in the South. Kibler has the ability to beat any team in the country according to the coaches and he proved that last year by beating 1982 NCAA Champ Miami twice. Daniel is a crafty competitor who was cruising along as the club leader in wins, innings, and strikeouts until he ran into some lateseason elbow problems. Carr made tremendous improvement throughout last season and has had an outstanding fall season thus far.

"All three had outstanding performances last year and have looked good so far this fall," says Arnold. "Don Carr in particular has made more progress in a short period of time than any pitcher I've been around. All three have looked sharp."

Backing up that threesome are topnotch newcomers Stan Fascher and Jeff Fischer, both juniors. Both were among the state's top junior college pitchers last year. Fascher, who possesses what Arnold terms an "awesome" fastball at times, was 9-2 with a 1.22 ERA at Manatee JC and Fischer was 10-4 with a 2.39 ERA at Palm Beach JC. Returning vet Byron Jefferson, a senior, (4-0, 3.41 ERA) rounds out the starting pitchers.

The relievers are headed by junior David Lee and freshman Scott Lanier. Lee has an outstanding breaking ball while Lanier, although inexperienced, was the Gainesville area's high school player of the year last year.

Run production shouldn't be in short supply either. The top returners are 1983 All-Eastern Division senior first baseman Brad Dantzler (.348), junior catcher/DH Mike Stanley (.333), and 1982 All-SEC shortstop Bruce Crabbe, a senior. Arnold will rely on their leadership and experience. Senior catcher/DH Tim Owen, Florida's leading power hitter with seven homers and 40 RBI, is another with All-Star potential.

At second base, the state's top JuCo hitter last year, Rory Alonzo, will fill the spot left by first round draft choice Robby Thompson (San Francisco Giants). Third base will be handled by hard-nosed Andre Weihs who hit over .300 at Palm Beach IC last year.

By Andy Pollack

The outfield is brand new. Felix Martinez is the new leftfielder. Last Year, Martinez was one of the best JuCo players in the state, hitting .408 at Palm Beach JC and stealing 18 bases. Centerfield will be handled by versatile Scott Ruskin and speedy Scott Lusader. Ruskin will also see extended action on the mound where he was 5-1 with a 2.44 ERA a year ago. Right field wil be manned by seniors Reggie Wentworth and Joe Piller. Stanley or Owen could see action there also.

This year, the Gators will take part in the first annual Florida Four baseball tournament to be played February 3-5. Florida, Miami, Florida State and South Florida will play in the three-day season opening series that will undoubtedly feature some of the best ball in the nation.

"It will be a great tournament for baseball in Florida," says Arnold. "However, we will be in a tough situation because we'll only have two-anda-half weeks to prepare for it since the semester doesn't start again until the first week in January. We won't be as sharp as we'd like to be."

Aside from the opening season tournament, Florida's schedule will feature four more games against both Miami and Florida State, two versus Jacksonville, Stetson, and South Florida and games against such schools as North Carolina, Iowa, Iowa State, Alabama-Birmingham, and Eastern Michigan as well as the SEC slate of Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Georgia, and Kentucky.

Shortstop Bruce Crabbe is looking for a solid senior season.

Lady Gator Track: Loaded with All-American Talent By David Steele, Jr.

Lady Gator track coach Lyle Knudson, in his first full year as Florida's head coach, and new assistant coach Scott Irving, hope the '84 indoor and outdoor teams will pick up where last year season's squad left off. After finishing second at the Southeastern Conference Indoor Invitational, the '83 squad finished third at the SEC Outdoor Championships and tied for 17th place at the NCAA Outdoor National Championships.

Coupled with the returning wealth of talent from last year, newcomers and transfers will make the '84 UF contingent one of the fastest growing track programs in the country.

The Lady Gators' indoor season begins with two home open competitions, the UF All Comers meet on January 7, and the UF Open on January 21.

Leading the Lady Gators in the sprint events this season will be two-time All-American senior Oralee Fowler. Fowler, a UCLA transfer, is the current 400-meeter record holder for the Bahamas and was a member of the Bahamas' 1980 Olympic team. Junior Piper Bressant and sophomore Chris Crowther round out a sterling sprint squad, and double as hurdlers. Bressant finished seventh at the NCAA nationals and second in the SEC championships in the 400-meter hurdles, as Crowther captured third in the SEC 400-meter hurdles.

Florida's middle distance runners are some of the finest in the country with the 800 and 1,500-meter runners comprising the "deepest" part of the team.

"We have more athletes in those events than in any other," Knudson says, "and all are capable of making the NCAA indoor qualifying standards."

Returning Lady Gator standouts in the middle distances include senior Delight Chambers and sophomore Gina Procaccio. Other strong performers for UF in the middle distances are sophomore Beth Atkins, freshman Jill Caddess and sophomore transfer student Marie Candalino.

Junior Beth Farmer, a 1982-83 cross country and track All-American, leads a talented contingent of distance runners. Farmer ran a U.S. intercollegiate record time of 32:49.1 in the 10,000-meter run and earned her All-America status at the '83 NCAA national championships by placing fourth in the 10,000-meter outdoor race.

Junior Shelly Steely and freshmen Carmen Gardner and Mary Curtin will run in the 3,000, the 5,000 and the 10,000-meter races to round out the distance field

Other Lady Gators to watch in the year ahead include senior long jumper Kim Schofield and heptathlon star Heidi Mann (So., Glens Fall, N.Y.). Schofield established an O'Connell Center record last season with a 20'-2½" bound, while Mann earned All-American status by finishing 11th (5,442 points) in the NCAA outdoor meet.

The final analysis for 1984 is that the Lady Gators have a vast amount of individual talent leading to a sound team.

"We have strength in individuals, as opposed to strength in numbers," Knudson says. Knudson notes that Tennessee and Alabama, with exceptional depth, stand as the top contenders for the SEC crown, but adds that Florida will be right there with them.

UF Women's Tennis: Seek SEC Crown and Top Ten

By Debbie Grampa

With a revamped line-up, the University of Florida women's tennis team will race into the 1984 season with hopes of repeating the success the '83 contingent enjoyed. But the Lady Gators' aspirations won't stop there. Under the direction of third-year head coach Steve Beeland, the UF netters will be looking to regain the Southeastern Conference team title as well as obtaining a bid to the NCAA Championships and a Top Tennational ranking.

Those may seem like lofty goals for a squad that lost its No. 1 player, Kathy Holton, to the professional tennis circuit, and the No. 3 and No. 5 players, Betty Newfield and Martha Korbut, to graduation. But with two superb recruits in freshmen Jill Hetherington and Tammy Whittington, who add talent and depth to an already strong Gator team, Florida's optimism may not be unfounded. Indeed, it was Beeland's knack for blending experienced veterans and promising first-year candidates that propelled the '82 edition of the Lady Gator tennis team to a 23-8 overall record, a second-place finish in the SEC Championships and a berth to the NCAA National Championships.

Besides the talent of the newcomers, the key to UF's bid to regain the SEC crown and make a serious challenge on the national level will hinge on the experience and play of five returning veterans that include All-SEC juniors Kim Clingan and Julie Quamme. Clingan returns after being restricted to doubles play last year because of injury, and she has already mounted a surprise comeback as she defeated Lisa Spain, Georgia's two-time All-American and unofficial No. 1 collegiate player in the nation, in the recent Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association Regional tournament. A one-year UF veteran and former J.C. All-American, Quamme will again challenge for one of the top playing positions.

While the '84 lineup is not set, the top seven slots will most likely be filled by Hetherington, Clingan, Quamme, sophomores Shelley Sniffen and Jan Martin, Whittington and sophomore Dana Fahey.

UF will match its skills against some of the nation's toughest teams, including defending NCAA champion Southern Cal, Clemson, Miami and Northwestern. Florida will open its season Jan. 26-28 at the Brigham Young Invitational in Provo, Utah, and then continue the early part of its schedule on the road before returning to the UF Varsity Courts to meet Princeton on March 14 in the home opener. UF will then play nine straight home matches, travel to the Lady Longhorn Invitational in Austin, Texas, and battle with in-state foe Rollins before returning to Gainesville to host the Southeastern Conference Championships on April 27-29.

They Have Great Chemistry

How about these odds?

Of all the world's 3 to 4 billion people, the 1,000 scientists quoted most in scholarly journals include 736 Americans, 7 of them working in Florida — 5 at the University of Florida...

And 3 of those are in one department — chemistry.

Jim Winefordner has been here the longest, nearly a quarter of a century.

A graduate research professor and chairman of analytical chemistry, he has developed incredibly sensitive techniques for finding traces of almost anything in almost anything (which has put him in great demand by a horde of granting agencies and made him one of UF's top grant getters). And he has published over 400 papers and guided 22 master's degrees, 68 Ph.D.s. and 50 post-doctoral students from all over the world.

Which may all sound like a full and responsible life, but a little isolated from those outside the world of chemistry.

Not so.

When the Florida Citrus Commission suspected some Brazilian orange juice was being mixed with "Florida Pure," they asked Winefordner and research team to squeeze in time to help them out.

Winefordner squirted a little juice in a flame, zapped it with a laser, and, lo and behold, he could tell which came from Florida soil and which from Brazilian soil, Magic? Well, no... Trace elements in the juice from the different soils gave off different colors as revealed by sophisticated instruments Winefordner has developed.

Lawmen and doctors use his services to identify poisons in people's blood. The Air Force, which has funded much of his research, uses his techniques to diagnose jet engine wear — since different engine parts are made of different alloys, trace elements in engine oil signal where trouble lurks.

Jim Winefordner is a remarkable man and his flame would have burned brightly wherever he wound. up. But, like most scientists, he works best where others are also doing remarkable science, and UF's chemistry department is such a place.

Directors of the William R. Kenan

UF chemists Drs. Russell Drago (left), Alan Katritzky and James Winefordner are among the 736 Americans in the list of the world's 1,000 most quoted scientists. Also included among the seven Floridians named are two other UF scientists — Center for Gerontological Studies Director Dr. Leonard Hayflick and Chairman of Medicine Dr. J. E. McGuigan.

Charitable Trust (in memory of the late president of Flagler System companies) recognized the superiority of UF's chemistry department with a $750,000 endowment. Only one other state university, UNC, has any of the 50 chairs it has established. And the Florida Legislature has consistently awarded Quality Improvement Program (QIP) funding to chemistry, permitting the department to attract national leaders to the faculty.

The Kenan chair let UF bring in the second of the world's 1,000 mostquoted scientists, Dr. Alan Katritzky from Britain's University of East Anglia. He's a member of the Royal Society of London, Britain's counterpart to the U.S. National Academy of Sciences. His specialty is heterocyclic chemistry-developing an understanding of a branch of chemistry which includes compounds like vitamins, DNA, sugars, hormones, antibiotics, dyes, pesticides, industrial solvents and many other chemicals we use in daily life.

A consultant for companies like Exxon, 3M and Merck (phar-maceuticals), Katritzky brings industrial scientists to campus from all over the world for advice and training in the latest chemical techniques.

Rounding out chemistry's mostquoted trio is Russell S. Drago who was lured with QIP funds to UF last year from the University of Illinois. He works to understand how to use plain old air, instead of expensive chemical reagents, to get oxidation, required to make 80 percent of the compounds we use in daily life.

These front-runners run with a winning team which is in the nation's top 5 percent in numbers of bachelor degrees awarded annually, and which brings in nearly $3 million a year in research grants, more than any other department on campus outside the College of Medicine.

Everybody likes to back a winner and UF has made a new laboratory building for the chemistry department its #1 priority now that half the money for the science library-engineering complex has already been approved and the other half is in sight.

Go gators.

THE UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA FOUNDATION

Cornerstone of Progress

Much of the credit for the University of Florida's phenomenal growth over the past years by rights belongs to the thousands of loyal alumni and friends who have so generously supported Florida's first university. Their contributions in fiscal year 1982-83 alone raised the level of private support to the University of Florida to a record high for the sixth year in a row. Moreover, these gifts figure prominently in the university's overall endowment, which this year surpassed all previous levels, up nearly 20% from 1981 assets.

Says UF President Robert Q. Marston, "The endowment provides the margin of excellence that no public institution can have without private funds. There is no question that the growth of the endowment has spurred research here."

The University of Florida Foundation, Inc., is the non-profit organization responsible for investing and administering private support for the university. Created in 1934 under the name of the University of Florida Endowment Corporation, the foundation (the name was changed in the early '50s) became the primary gift-receiving and gift-management arm of the university. Foundation staff receives and deposits gifts for all components of the university. They prepare receipts for donors, manage and disburse endowed funds to the appropriate colleges and departments, and prepare reports for the university administration and the foundation's volunteer board of directors.

Heading up the board is Foundation President William H. "Billy" Dial of Orlando. Known affectionately as "Mr. Sun Bank," Dial is the founder and former chairman of Sun Banks of Florida. A University of Florida alumnus, he received his law degree in 1932. Mr. Dial is currently of counsel to the

J. Ardene Wiggins Executive Director

Orlando law firm of Akerman, Senterfitt & Eidson.

J. Ardene Wiggins, vice president for university development and alumni affairs, is the foundation's executive director. Secretary is William K. Stone, director of university development.

Related to the University of Florida Foundation, the Office of Development conducts the university's primary support effort. Development officers representing nearly every unit of the university as well as corporate relations and deferred giving encourage support from the private sector to expand and enrich the university's academic programs and services.

Says Foundation President Billy Dial, "To each person, company or organization who has had a part in strengthening the University of Florida through a gift, I want to extend a sincere and heartfelt thank you."
