Tee Pee Talk

By Wayne Hogan
Florida State Sports Information Director

I would be remiss if I wasted an opportunity to remind you that 15 seniors will be playing their last game at Doak Campbell Stadium tonight. Fortunately, the occasion is only a little sad. These seniors, while saying goodbye to the FSU fans tonight, have many more miles to go before their careers reach the final curtain.

Nonetheless, it always carries a special meaning when you come through that tunnel for the last time at home. These 15 seniors have never failed to finish a season in a bowl game. They will enter tonight's game 31-11-3 since 1984.

More importantly, the success of this 1987 team can be attributed in many ways to another intangible. Ask any underclassman on this year's team and they'll mention the same thing—senior leadership. That's one you can't read on the stat sheet. Enough said.

Here are the 16 seniors:
Tight end Pat Carter; wide receiver Herb

Gainer; noseguard Thomas Harp; linebacker Paul McGowan; quarterback Danny McManus; cornerback Martin Mayhew; fullback John Merna; safety Greg Newell; linebacker David Palmer; center Marty Riggs; center Mark Salva; kicker Derek Schmidt; defensive tackle Bart Schuchts; punter Rick Tuten; outside linebacker Terry Warren; wide receiver Randy White; and cornerback Eric Williams.

Here's to you, guys! (see also page 60)
Things to consider as the 1987 season draws to a close:

- Never has Florida State spent an entire season in the Top 10 as it has in 1987. The two biggest seasons in the rankings were 1979 and '80. In 1979, the Tribe reached the Top 10 on October 1 and stayed there until a sixth-place finish after the Orange Bowl. In 1980 the Seminoles made the Top 10 on October 13 and finished fifth after the Orange Bowl loss . . .

- Speaking of rankings, Florida State had made the Top 20 in the weekly polls just 13 times prior to Bobby Bowden's arrival in 1976. This week's rating marks the 116th weekly poll that has included the Seminoles in the coach's 12 years . . .

- Florida State's highest ranking ever was No. 2 at the conclusion of the 1980 regular season. Only in that poll of Dec. 8, 1980 and the five weeks preceding that (No. 3) have the Seminoles been rated higher than this year's No. 4 . . .

- If Florida State scores nine points tonight, this will be the highest scoring team in FSU history. The record is 389 points in 1984 . . .

- It maybe out of reach for tonight's game, but a total offensive output of 633 yards in the final two games would break the single season mark of 5,124 yards set in 1982 . . .

- In beating Auburn, Florida State won its sixth straight road game and Bobby Bowden continued his incredible record at FSU. The Seminole coach now has an overall mark of 98-37-3. That includes a 52-13-1 record at home and a 46-24-2 mark on the road. The coach kept alive his chances of reaching his 100th victory in only his 12th year in Tallahassee. A win over Furman this week would mean a shot at No. 100 on Nov. 28 against Florida in Gainesville . . .

- Florida State's defense, led by Butkus favorite Paul McGowan, is becoming one of the most devastating in the country. The Seminole defenders held Auburn to just 227 total yards and a mere 40 yards rushing. A 50-yard first-half completion accounted for nearly one-fourth of the Auburn total for the day . . .

- The last time Florida State made it into a New Year's Day Bowl game it was on the strength of its defense. Since then it has been a seven year cycle to regain some defensive domination. The following statistics show why the Tribe has made it back:

Year	Points Given Up Per Game	Bowl
1980	7.7	ORANGE
1981	26.0	None
1982	22.0	Gator
1983	28.1	Peach
1984	21.5	Citrus
1985	21.4	Gator
1986	18.6	All-American
1987	12.3	Orange? Fiesta? Sugar? Cotton?

- The ability to control the line of scrimmage shouldn't be in question any more. The Seminoles managed 221 rushing yards against a defense that had only allowed 104 yards per game. Don't forget, the Seminoles bolted for 225 yards against Miami's vaunted defense . . .

- All-American Deion Sanders has set a new school record for punt return yardage in a career with 861. On 87 career returns, Sanders has averaged 9.9 and has returned two punts for touchdowns. . . .

FSU Hosts Panhandle Scholars

Tonight we welcome as our guest 3,000 young scholars from thirty-five high schools and middle schools around the Panhandle who are here to be recognized and rewarded for their classroom achievements. For the second year in a row, the Florida State University Faculty Senate, the FSU College Achievement Program, and the University Athletic Program have joined to co-sponsor "North Florida-South Georgia Scholars Night". "Scholars' Night" was originally conceived as a way in which Florida State University could work cooperatively with Panhandle schools to give local students additional incentives, not only to improve classroom performance, but to let them experience first-hand some of the excitement that is part of student life at a major university. It is hoped that this experience will reinforce those students who have already decided to attend college and encourage those students who have not seriously considered a college career to expand their vision.

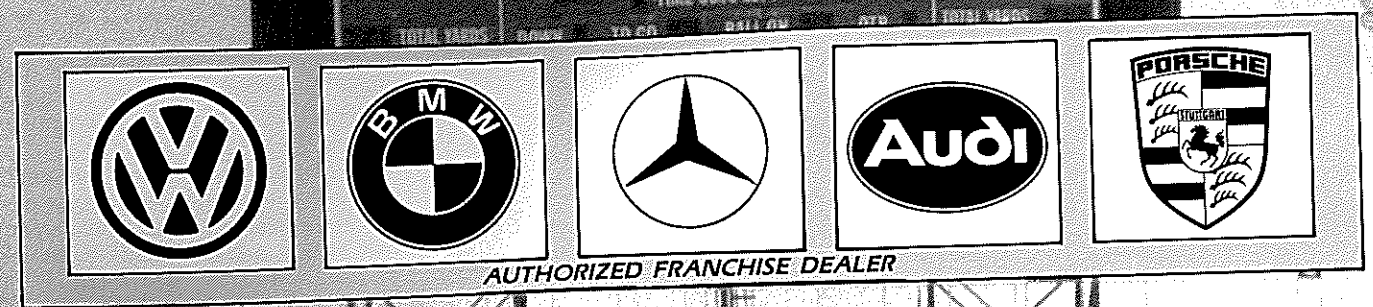

Our guests tonight are representing the following schools:

Apalachicola High School, Carrabelle High School, Carter-Parramore Junior High, Greensboro High School, James A. Shanks High School, Quincy Educational Center, Cottondale High School, Graceville High School, Grand Ridge High School, Malone High School, Marianna High School, Sneads High School, Jefferson County High School, Amos P. Godby High School, Florida High School, FAMU High School, James Rickards High School, Leon High School, Lincoln High School, SAIL School, Augusta Raa Middle School, Belle Vue Middle School, Cobb Middle School, Fairview Middle School, Griffin Middle School, Liberty County High School, Madison County High School, Vernon High School and Thomasville High School.

During half-time ceremonies tonight we will acknowledge our guests and hope you will join with us in welcoming them to "Seminole Territory."

- CBS announcer Brent Musburger on Deion Sanders: "He's the finest all-around cornerback many of us have seen in a long time ..."
- One to watch for the future may be "true" freshman fullback Edgar Bennett. He came off the bench against Auburn to run for 57 yards on nine carries, prompting Tiger coach Pat Dye to say: "Edgar Bennett looked as good as any of them. I'm glad they didn't play him more." In limited action in his first season, Bennett has 232 yards on 44 carries ...
- Florida State's defensive staff has had a banner year with halftime adjustments. The third quarter has belonged to FSU all season as the Tribe has allowed just two touchdowns and a field goal in that period. The FSU advantage in third quarter play is 96-18 ...
- When junior fullback Dayne Williams bulled into the end zone against Auburn for his 12th touchdown this year, he continued his assault on the FSU record book. He needs two more TDs to have the second-best season all-time in that category (Greg Allen had 20 in 1982). Williams now has 17 career rushing TDs—three behind Mark Lyles (1976-79). Allen has the career mark with 40 ...
- This is the third time in 12 years under Bowden that the Seminoles have gotten to 8-1 or better. The 1979 Seminoles were 9-0 at this point and finished 11-0, while the 1980 Tribe was 8-1 and finished 10-1 ...
- Senior tight end Pat Carter, deserving of All-American status with his blocking alone, is proving he can catch and run with the nation's best. His seven catches vs. Auburn was a career high and moved him into second place on the receiving list with 24 grabs this year. Wideout Herb Gainer has caught a team-leading 26. Carter is headed for the best receiving season by a tight end at FSU since Gary Parris snagged 49 passes in 1972 ...
- An incredible 20 different players have caught at least one pass for the Tribe. Could that be tops in the nation? ...
- Even against the nation's best defenses, Florida State continues to roll up points. Florida three notable games this year: Michigan State (31-3), Miami (25-26) and Auburn (34-6). Are there three better defenses in the country? Florida State has not been shut out since Bobby Bowden's second game at FSU in 1976 (136 straight games). Florida State has scored in double figures in every game over the last six seasons ...

Florida State's Odd Couple

By Anne Bunker, Tribe Staff Writer

The odd couple.

At first glance, that seems to be the only way to describe punter Rick Tuten and long snapper Marty Riggs in the same sentence. They enjoy different hobbies and have different attitudes towards life, but in the oddest ways they seem almost identical.

One's a good ol' boy from Ocala who enjoys hunting, fishing, four wheel drives and country music. The other is a smooth-talking fraternity man from Louisville who balances a hectic social calendar with his strong desire to succeed. Tuten has a laid-back attitude. He takes the days as they come, one at a time. Riggs has a more serious outlook on life. He plans his days well in advance.

The differences stop there. Their most distinct similarity is the amount of time they spend on the field. As a long snapper and punter, the pair barely have enough time to get dirty. But, they are good at their jobs. They've seen first hand what can happen as the result of a bad snap—Miami showed them that. And after all, they practice against the best punt block team in the country. "I'd rather go against them five days a week during practice than once during a game," Tuten says. "When Saturday rolls around we're ready."

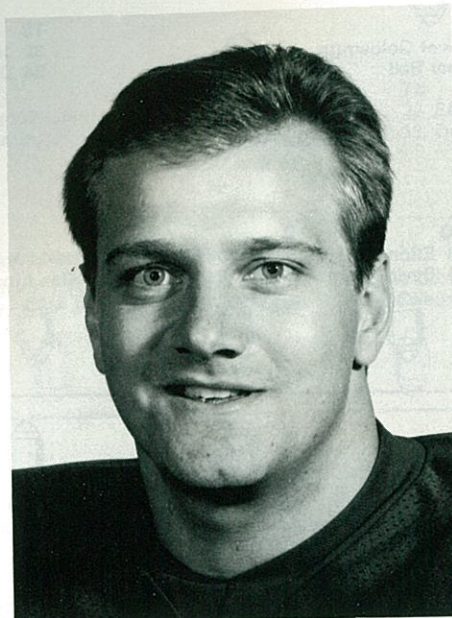

But, more important than football careers are Tuten's and Riggs' academic endeavors. Both are determined to change the stereotype of student athletes. Tuten will graduate in the spring with two majors—one in economics and one in political science. Riggs will finish his undergraduate studies in December with a double major in political science and communication. He plans to go on to graduate school and pursue a master's degree in marketing communications. Both are family-oriented men and have a strong commitment to a family-centered lifestyle.

Tuten left Ocala in search of a change of pace, but got more than he bargained for. Considering that his father graduated from the University of Florida and his mother from Florida State, it seemed only natural that Tuten would attend the University of Miami his freshman year.

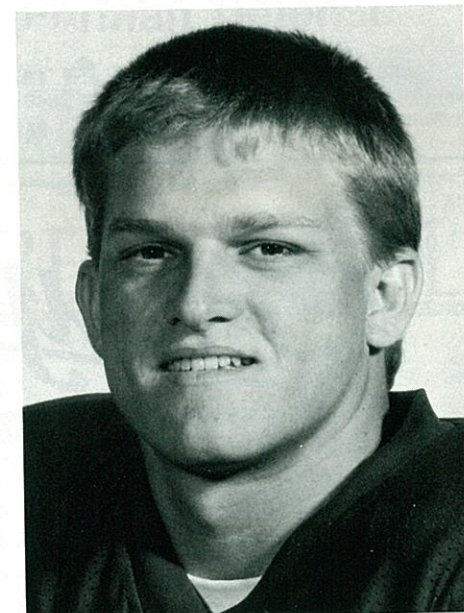

But, something went wrong. He never imagined the differences that could exist between two cities in the same state. Tuten says, "I never thought I'd have to learn a new language just to shop."

Another thing that sent Tuten looking for a new playing field was Howard Schnellenberger's move to Louisville. Tuten didn't mix well with the new crowd at UM so he decided it was time for a change.

Florida State seemed to be the perfect choice for Tuten for several reasons. He was leaving the national championship Hurricane team behind and wanted to head for a team that had already established itself. Also, he felt that the coaching staff at Florida State, particularly Bobby Bowden, had a personality more closely matching his own. And perhaps most importantly, he would be closer to his home and outside of the "international" boundaries of Miami.

Riggs

The decision to come to Florida State may not have been a troubling one for Tuten, but he has run into problems since his arrival. His first year as a transfer student was easy; he was required by NCAA regulations to give up a year of eligibility after the switch. The trouble began just as he was beginning to prepare himself for his final season.

Last summer, Tuten came down with what he thought at the time was the flu. After much deliberation, doctors decided it was a non-communicable form of tuberculosis. Now, after eight weeks of taking strong medications, doctors have once again gone back to the drawing board. It seems that a bacteria found in drinking water and ordinarily combated easily by stomach acids found its way into his lungs. His recovery has been quick, but not quick enough for Tuten. "I've gained most of my strength back," he says, "but I still have to take it easy working out."

A light-hearted young man, Tuten sees the bright side of it all. A couple of weeks ago, he got a call from the American Lung Association asking him to be an honorary chairman of Easter Seals in this area. "At least something good has come out of this," he says. "I'm really looking forward to working with the kids."

Tuten's optimism and determination attracted the Easter Seals people to him to act as one of their spokesmen. It's those attributes, along with a sense of humor, that has helped bond the friendship between Tuten and Riggs. "We enjoy each other because we both have an intellectual type of humor," Riggs says.

Riggs' career at Florida State has been a bit easier than Tuten's. He sat out his freshman year after making a late decision to attend Florida State. He has spent his last three years practicing a little each day and "hanging out" on the sidelines until fourth down. His priorities are straight in terms of his academic and social activities at FSU. "I spent my first four years here heavily involved in the fraternity," Riggs says. "Now, I've shied away. I'm finding that things that are so important to the fraternity, aren't as important to me."

Academics are important to Riggs. When he came to Florida State, he made the faulty assumption that many freshmen make. He assumed college would be a continuation of high school. "I was so immature about school," Riggs says. "In high school, everything came naturally. I soon realized that wasn't how it worked."

Riggs has a lot of confidence in himself and attributes his success to his strong attitude. "I believe in setting goals for myself," he says. "Right now, I'm achieving constructive things and the path seems to be working itself through." Riggs is a firm believer in the old saying, "If you work hard, good things will happen."

Looking back on their college years, both Tuten and Riggs have seen changes in themselves. Tuten may prefer the Oak Ridge Boys over Elvis Presley and a four wheel drive truck over a BMW, but their values as players on the field, in the classroom and in their lives are so comparable that they may not be such an odd couple after all.

This is FSU

Florida State is the University which boasts of such diverse assets as the world's most powerful supercomputer and the greatest all-collegiate show on Earth, the Flying High Circus.

Located in Tallahassee, the capital of Florida, FSU is a public, coeducational university and a senior member of the State University System.

About 23,500 students representing all 50 states and more than 100 foreign countries work toward more than 250 different graduate and undergraduate degrees in the 15 schools and colleges of Florida State. The colleges of arts and sciences, business, communication, education, engineering, home economics, law and social sciences combine with the schools of criminology, library and information studies, music, nursing, social work, theatre and visual arts to make FSU a nationally acclaimed university.

The Florida State campus, located just a few blocks from the state Capitol, is one of the most beautiful in the Southeast. Traditional Gothic-style structures combine with the latest in modern architecture, all brought together by an array of oaks, pines, palms, dogwoods and azaleas. The natural beauty of the 347-acre main campus mirrors the picturesque features of the surrounding North Florida region.

Florida State was founded in 1857 as the Seminary West of the Suwannee River. Name changes over the years included Florida State College and, in 1909, Florida State College for Women. Governor Millard Caldwell signed a bill in 1947 which again made the institution coeducational and named it Florida State University.

Today, Florida State faculty and administrators generate more than $35 million annually in external funding to supplement state sponsorship of research. In addition, almost $13 million in private gifts was raised through the FSU Foundation during the past fiscal year. These contributions from alumni, friends, corporations, the university community and charitable foundations are for the sole benefit of Florida State's academic programs.

The FSU Supercomputer Computations Research Institute has attracted international attention to the University, home of the world's fastest supercomputer. The ETA10 has the capacity to perform 10 billion calculations per second.

The Tandem Van de Graaf-Superconducting Accelerator Laboratory in the Department of Physics houses two powerful atom smashers and has been ranked in the top four in the nation by the National Science Foundation.

The University's location affords excellent research and internship opportunities in government, law and the social sciences. The reputation of Florida State's research programs, the expertise of its more than 1,500 faculty members—including four members of the National Academy of Sciences—and the quality of the graduate students involved in research represent major strengths of the University.

Programs in music, dance and theater at Florida State have earned well-deserved national recognition. The visual and performing arts exhibited and produced on campus offer students and the community a wealth of enrichment opportunities.

Student activities at FSU create an important balance between the classroom experience and the personal life of the individual scholar. Honors programs, student government, intramural sports and more than 200 organizations are available for student involvement.

Students from every academic major have a chance to become stars on the highwire or flying trapeze by participating in the Flying High Circus, the only one of its kind in the nation.

Florida State academic programs extend well beyond Tallahassee. The FSU Marine Laboratory is located on the Gulf of Mexico, 45 miles away. Students participate in professional training programs at the Asolo State Theater in Sarasota and the Burt Reynolds Institute for Theatre Training in Jupiter. The Panama City Campus of Florida State offers upper-level courses which lead to bachelor's and master's degrees. The Center for Professional Development and Public Service, housed in the Florida State Conference Center on the edge of campus, manages educational outreach activities from Pensacola to Miami. In addition, Florida State maintains programs of study in England, Italy, Costa Rica, Switzerland, Yugoslavia, the Panama Canal Zone and even the People's Republic of China.

The physical growth of the University during the Sliger administration is best evidenced by such additions as the new wing of the Rovetta Business Building, the University Union expansion project, the new Paul A.M. Dirac Science Library Building, the Panama City Campus, the Jeffersonian Village Green project at the College of Law and the new building for the FAMU/FSU College of Engineering, now under construction.

Florida State is setting the pace as higher education in Florida prepares to enter the 21st century. And President Sliger takes pride not only in the academic programs and facilities of the University, but also in the people—students, faculty, alumni, administrators and staff—who make Florida State a successful monument to learning.

Bernie Sliger
University President

Dr. Bernard Sliger has served as the 10th president of Florida State University since February 7, 1977, following a six-month stint as the University's interim president. In 1987 he is celebrating the end of his first decade of leadership.

After he joined the administration in 1972 as executive vice president, he assumed the additional duties of chief academic officer, and further served as director of the University's London Study Center during the fall quarter, 1975.

Sliger, a native of Trout Creek, Mi., was born Sept. 30, 1924. He holds three degrees, the B.A. ('49), M.A. ('50) and Ph.D. ('55), from Michigan State University, all in economics. Sliger has taught at Florida State, Michigan State, Louisiana State and at Southern University in Baton Rouge, La.

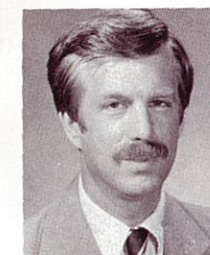

Sliger began his educational career as an instructor in Michigan's Interior Township Schools in 1947. Prior to joining Florida State, he worked for 19 years as a professor and administrator at Louisiana State University. During that time, he served LSU as head of the economics department, member and chairman of the graduate council, dean of academic affairs and vice chancellor. In 1969, he organized the Louisiana Coordinating Council for Higher Education, which is similar to the Florida Board of Regents, and became its executive director.

As president at Florida State, Sliger is involved in athletics. He is a member of the NCAA's Presidents Commission and is one of 22 chief executive officers elected to that body from Division I schools. He began his four-year term in January of this year.

Sliger and his wife, Greta, have four children.

Faculty Athletic Committee Chairman

A professor of Law at Florida State University since 1967, Charles W. Ehrhardt is beginning his fourth year as chairman of the FSU Athletic Committee.

Ehrhardt served on the committee from 1969 to 71, and was reappointed to the board in 1983, becoming Florida State's representative to the NCAA with the appointment.

A native of Elkader, Iowa, Ehrhardt received a bachelor's degree from Iowa State University in 1962. Two years later he earned his law degree from the University of Iowa and went on to become an Assistant United States Attorney in that state before coming to Tallahassee.

A widely-respected expert in the field of Evidence, Ehrhardt holds the Florida State position as the Ladd Professor of Evidence. He wrote the Florida Evidence Code, passed by the state legislature in 1976, which deals with the admissibility of evidence.

From 1984-86, he was president of the Metro Conference which made him the league's chief representative to the NCAA. He is still active in conference administration, serving on the editorial committee. Ehrhardt and his wife, Judy, have three children.

C.W. "Hootie" Ingram

Athletic Director

Cecil Ingram, known to his friends and associates as "Hootie," has headed Florida State's athletic department for the past seven years. He came to FSU in January of 1981 after eight years with the Southeastern Conference.

Upon arriving in Tallahassee, Ingram initiated a $10-million-dollar building program for athletic facilities. Moore Athletic Center, which houses administrative, coaching and ticket personnel, was planned, built and completed under Ingram's leadership.

Dick Howser Stadium, second to none in the South, was completed during Ingram's second year at FSU, while Doak Campbell Stadium, the Bim Stults Aquatic Center and Mike Long Track were all renovated.

Ingram is in his second year of a four-year term on the prestigious NCAA Council. As an elected member of that body, he is one of 22 representatives from Division I schools. Ingram is also a member of the College Football Association (CFA) television committee, chairman of the NCAA nominating committee and chairman of the major independents.

A native of Tuscaloosa, Ala., Ingram played football for the hometown Crimson Tide from 1951 to 1954. He was named all-SEC as a sophomore when he led the nation in pass interceptions. He was a member of both the 1953 Orange and 1954 Cotton Bowl squads, and also lettered for the Alabama baseball team as an infielder.

After graduation and an Army stint, Ingram began his coaching career in 1956 as an assistant football coach at Bradenton (Fla.) Manatee High School. The next year, he became head coach at Tuscaloosa Brookwood High School for three years.

Athletic Director Hootie Ingram and his wife Toni

Ingram moved into the college coaching arena in 1960 as an assistant at Wake Forest. He also made coaching stops at Virginia Tech, Georgia and Arkansas before accepting the head coach's job at Clemson in 1970, the only collegiate head coaching job he held. Three years after taking the position, Ingram left Clemson to join the SEC as assistant commissioner.

During his eight-year tenure with the conference, his duties included supervision of football and basketball officials, rules interpretations and eligibility. After five years as assistant commissioner, he was named associate commissioner in 1978.

Ingram and his wife, Toni, have a son and two daughters.

Head Coach Bobby Bowden

It Began With Bobby

By Wayne Hogan

Put all the rumors to rest and let's play football. Bobby Bowden looks much better in garnet and gold than any other colors anyway.

It seems like a never-ending cycle. Bowden steers his Florida State team to another successful season and into a bowl game and the rumors start to fly. And why not? Can any coach in America claim the success on the field, coupled with the wit, charm and wholesomeness of a Bobby Bowden? Probably not.

It just stands to reason that Bowden's name comes up almost anytime there is a coaching job available. For 11 years now Bowden has been winning football games and friends at Florida State. And for 11 years he's been telling all of these would-be suitors that he really kind of likes it at good Ole FSU. This time, I think he's made his point.

Recently, the most coveted of all coaching jobs on Bowden's list—Alabama—came open. Being a Birmingham native and growing up in the land of red elephants, Bowden seemed a perfect choice to some. And what better circumstance could there be? Bowden's Seminoles just happened to be making their fifth consecutive bowl appearance—where else—Birmingham's All-American Bowl.

For a few days the rumors were rampant. Unofficially, Bowden was contacted by dozens of his long-time Alabama buddies about the job. Things got so desperate that some media outlets reported that the deal was cut for Bobby to move to Tuscaloosa.

But in truth, any possibility of a Bowden move was squelched by none other than Bowden himself.

"I was driving back to Tallahassee from Birmingham with Ann (Bowden's wife of 38 years)," says the coach, "and we just decided the heck with it—we want to stay at Florida State."

Bowden pulled into his driveway that night of January 2, 1987 to find a front yard full of writers and TV cameras. He stepped from his car and said he was staying in Tallahassee . . . period.

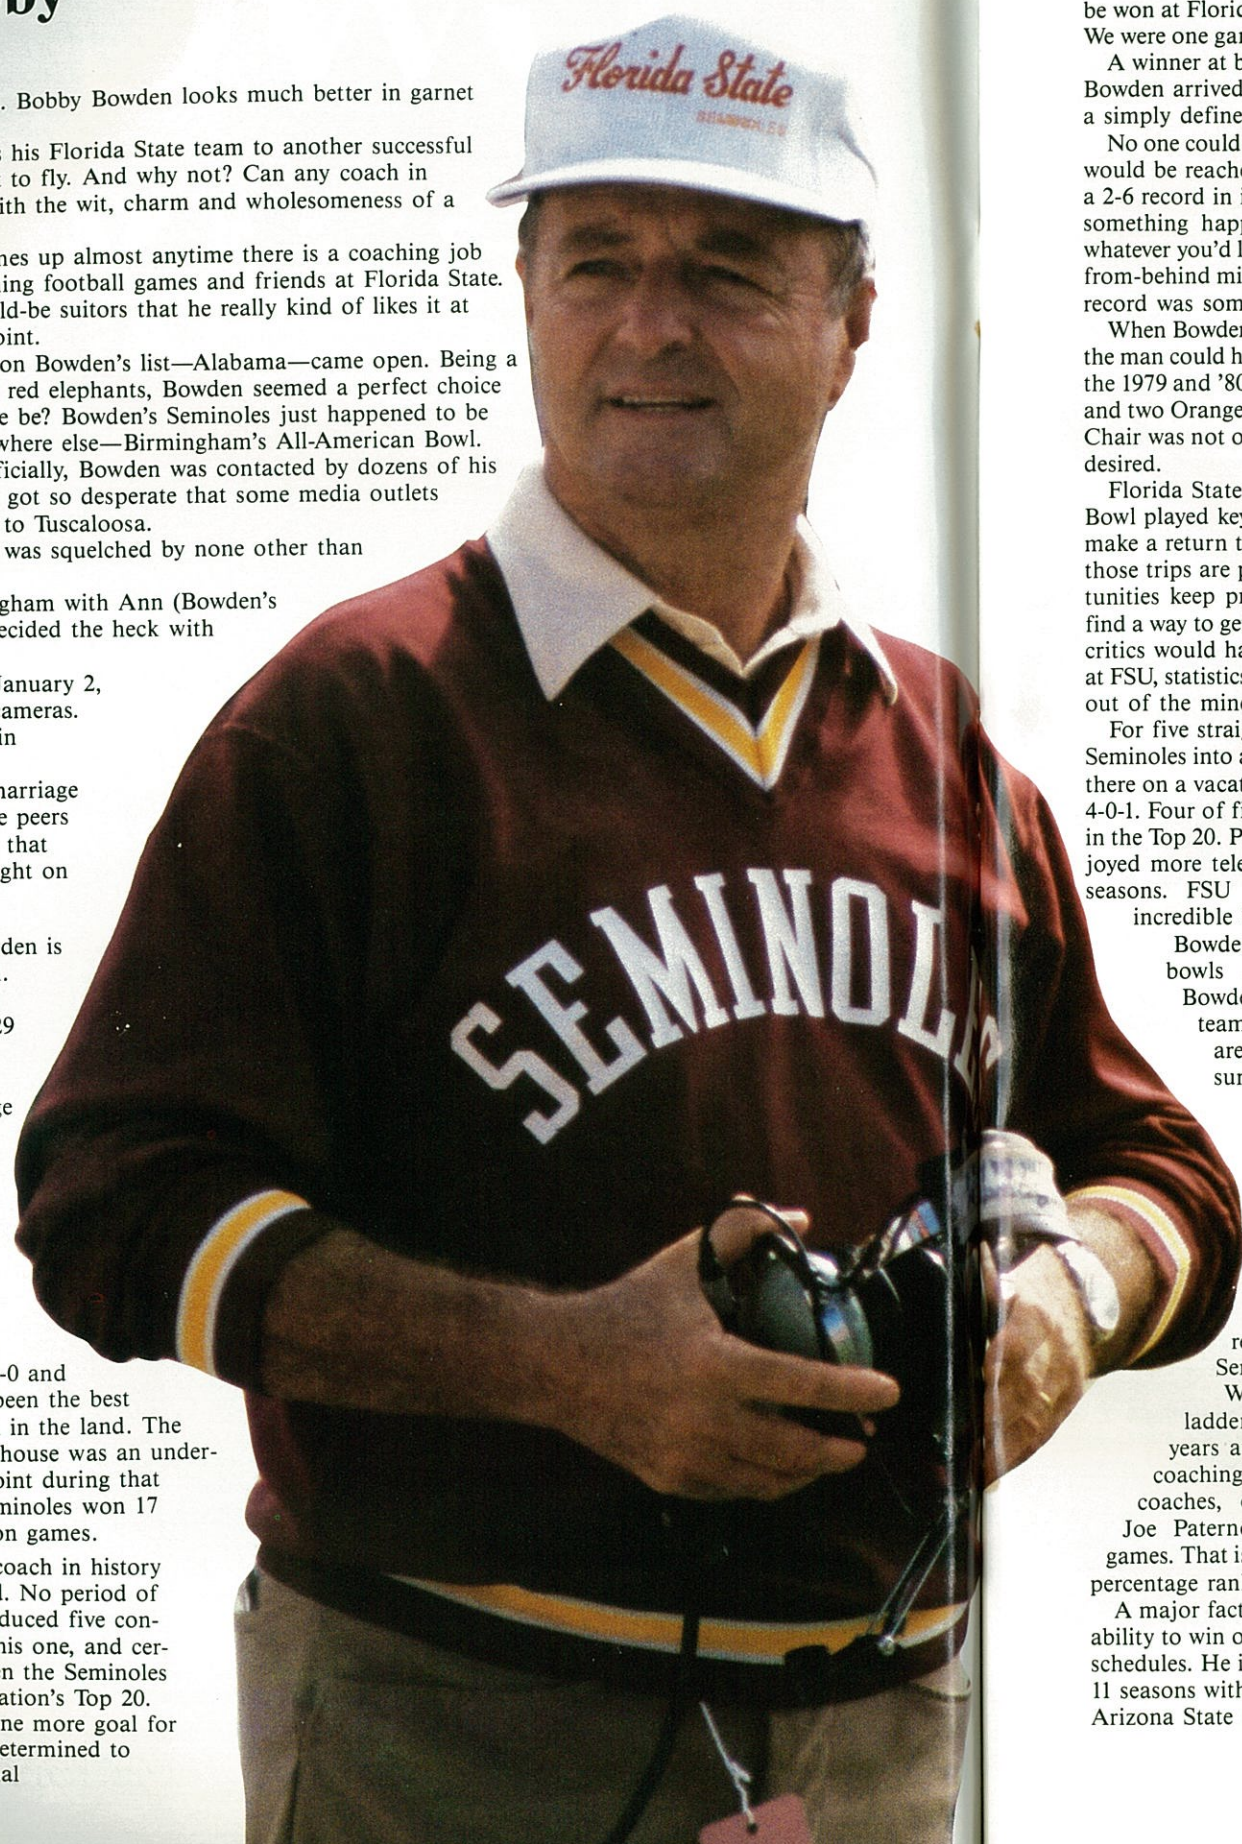

Bowden once said that he and FSU were in a marriage and that no man would put it asunder. Now as he peers at his 12th Seminole season, at age 57, it appears that his remark was just like all other Bowdenisms. Right on target.

In many ways Bowden is Florida State football. He took the program from the ashes of 4-29 over three previous seasons to the very pinnacle of the college football heap. Remember that Florida State was 0-11 and perhaps the worst college team in the land in 1973, and three years into the Bowden era—1979—Florida State went 11-0 and may very well have been the best college football team in the land. The outhouse to the penthouse was an understatement. At one point during that stretch Bowden's Seminoles won 17 straight regular-season games.

No Florida State coach in history can match his record. No period of FSU history has produced five consecutive bowls like this one, and certainly no era has seen the Seminoles consistently in the nation's Top 20. There is really but one more goal for the man and he is determined to reach it. The National Championship.

Coaches with Most Wins

1. Bo Schembechler, Michigan . . . . . 207
2. Joe Paterno, Penn State . . . . . 199
3. Vince Dooley, Georgia . . . . . 183
4. Bobby Bowden, Florida State . . . . . 163
- Jerry Claiborne, Kentucky . . . . . 163
6. Hayden Fry, Iowa . . . . . 150
7. LaVell Edwards, Brigham Young . . . . . 137
- Tom Osborne, Nebraska . . . . . 137
- Barry Switzer, Oklahoma . . . . . 137
10. Bill Dooley, Wake Forest . . . . . 132
- Grant Teaff, Baylor . . . . . 132

"I honestly believe that the national championship can and will be won at Florida State University," he said. "The resources are here. We were one game from that goal in 1979 and '80. We will be back?"

A winner at both of his previous coaching jobs, Bowden arrived at Florida State in 1976. He had a simply defined task: "Save the program?"

No one could have ever predicted the heights that would be reached. His first FSU team trudged to a 2-6 record in its first eight games. But suddenly something happened. Call it Bowden magic or whatever you'd like. There were three straight come-from-behind miracle wins in 1976 and the final 5-6 record was something to celebrate.

When Bowden's second FSU team won 10 games, the man could have been elected mayor. By the time the 1979 and '80 teams had reeled off a 21-3 record and two Orange Bowl appearances, the Governor's Chair was not out of the question if Bobby had so desired.

Florida State has twice since that 1981 Orange Bowl played key regular-season games to perhaps make a return trip, and twice come up short. But those trips are precious and as long as the opportunities keep presenting themselves, Bowden will find a way to get back. While some of the armchair critics would have you believe that times are lean at FSU, statistics prove that those thoughts are born out of the minds of spoiled brats.

For five straight years Bowden has directed the Seminoles into a bowl. And his teams don't just go there on a vacation. In the five bowl trips they are 4-0-1. Four of five years Florida State has finished in the Top 20. Perhaps no team in America has enjoyed more television exposure over the last five seasons. FSU has appeared on the tube an incredible 20 times since 1982.

Bowden's success and style draws the attention of the bowls and networks. One bowl scout said: "Bobby Bowden makes Florida State one of the most attractive teams in the country. I don't care where your allegiances are, everybody loves to see Bobby's team play. I'm not sure there is a more exciting team in America."

Bowden has built a reputation as a wide-open offensive coach. Trickery and deception are a fact of life for a Bowden team. Nothing is out of the question from any spot on the field.

Last season Bowden stunned a national TV audience and the nation's No. 1 team when he called for a cross-field lateral on a kickoff return at Miami. The Seminoles appeared to be slowly falling out of the game, but the trickery resulted in a 90-yard touchdown play that kept the Seminoles in the battle. Vintage Bobby Bowden.

With any luck Bowden will continue to move up the ladder of the nation's most successful coaches. In 11 years at FSU, Bowden is 90-36-3 (.709). His 21-year head coaching record now stands at 163-68-3. Among active coaches, only Michigan's Bo Schembechler, Penn State's Joe Paterno and Georgia's Vince Dooley have won more games. That is pretty good company. Bowden's .703 career winning percentage ranks eighth among all active head coaches.

A major factor in Bowden's success at FSU has been an uncanny ability to win on the road against one of the nation's toughest road schedules. He is 41-24-2 away from Doak Campbell Stadium in his 11 seasons with 11 of those wins coming at LSU (4), Nebraska (2), Arizona State (2), Ohio State (2) and Notre Dame (1).

Bowden's accomplishments have been recognized many times. Twice he has been named National Coach of the Year. In 1980 he was selected for the prestigious Bobby Dodd Coach of the Year Award. He has been inducted into both the Florida and Alabama Halls of Fame.

Bowden's coaching career actually began in his hometown of Birmingham when he was called to coach his alma mater Samford University in 1959. Bowden had earned a degree there in 1953 and gone on to get a master's from Peabody College in Nashville, Tennessee.

In four seasons at Samford he compiled a 31-6 record and caught the eye of then-FSU head coach Bill Peterson. Bowden coached the FSU receivers (including All-American Fred Biletnikoff) in 1963 and '64.

In 1965 he accepted a position as the offensive coordinator under Jim Carlen at West Virginia and succeeded Carlen as the Mountaineer head coach in 1970. In six seasons at WVU, Bowden went 42-26 and capped off his stint there in 1975 with a 9-3 season and a Peach Bowl championship.

Bowden returned to Tallahassee in January of 1976 after a slip on the West Virginia ice convinced him it was time to return to his native South.

In addition to his two national Coach of the Year awards, Bowden was twice named Southern Independent Coach of the Year. He is married to the former Ann Estock of Birmingham and has six children.

Three of his sons are in the coaching business; as well as his son-in-law. Terry is head coach at Samford while son Jeff and son-in-law Jack Hines are assistants on Terry's staff. Tommy Bowden is the receiver coach at Alabama.

The Winning Side.

In any area of life where you accomplish something, you need drive and dedication. A commitment to excellence. An environment that inspires achievement.

Football is certainly a character builder. But that same drive can be expressed in every field.

At Florida Progress, we have what it takes to be the best. Which is why we will continue to progress to the finish.

In four brief years, we have become one of the top 500 corporations in the country. Gaining ground internationally, in business groups ranging from Utility, Energy and Technology to Financial Services, Development and Business Services. Employing more than 8,000 talented people, with a lot of that talent recruited from the business and professional stars of tomorrow we find on Florida's college campuses. Talent that represents a bright legacy for the future of our state.

Certainly, we've an impressive record so far. Yet, you won't catch us holding the ball. We have a lot more games to win. And win them we will, with the help of top-flight recruits from Florida State University.

Because, for us, progress is more than a goal. It's a business.

YOU COULD PROBABLY THINK OF A LOT OF BORING WAYS TO SAVE $25,200 FOR YOUR EDUCATION.

We haven't seen many bored soldiers, though. We're used to seeing young men and women earn vocational/technical school money by learning about high-tech tanks or truck engines or radio communications. And by getting into rock-hard physical shape.

As soldiers, they can earn up to $25,200 for their vo/tech education, if they qualify. They save $1,200 from their first full 12 months' paychecks. The government chips in $9,600, and the Army, $14,400. On top of all that, they also receive a good salary, food, lodging, and medical coverage.

You could be one of them. Ask your local Army Recruiter about the GI Bill Plus the Army College Fund. And how it can turn saving money for your education into a matter of interest.

My Number One Pick? Ford!

It should be yours too, because I think the Ford Dealers here in Florida and South Georgia are Number One. And they've been Number One in truck sales here for over 19 straight years – out-selling Chevy and all the imports combined.*

They got to be Number One by working hard and making great deals on great Ford products ... like Thunderbird Turbo Coupe, Motor Trend's 1987 Car of the Year

Being Number One counts for a lot with me. That's why my Number One pick is Ford ... and the Florida and South Georgia Ford Dealers.

Hard Working Newell Is Last Line of Defense

By Rob Wilson, Tribe Staff Writer

The last line of defense. The phrase conjures up mental images from days of war. In the crusades the last line might have been the sword bearers on the castle walls; in the civil war it was the foot soldier and his bayonet; now it is a satellite system hovering above the earth. But for college football the "last line of defense" has remained ever consistent—the safeties.

For Florida State the all-important free safety position has been held down by the same steady hands for three consecutive years. Playing safety is a little like being a behind the scenes character. If you do your job like you are supposed to, people won't notice you. But if you make a mistake, everyone in the stadium knows it was your fault. The Seminoles' Greg Newell has made free safety an art form.

But this compactly built senior did not always envision himself in a position of consistency and contribution within the football program.

"When I was just coming out of high school" says Newell, "I saw athletics and the opportunity to play college ball as an avenue to get my education. That was kind of my approach. I was more interested in the fact that I could get a good education than I was interested in being a football star."

Few athletes at Florida State have done a better job of meshing the two.

"Once I got here and got involved with the football team I got more into it (the athletic aspect)," says Newell. "It is like a job. You've got to learn to budget your time and to set priorities. Football just takes so much time and concentration. But football is something that I really enjoy."

Seminole fans and coaches alike have enjoyed Newell's exploits on the athletic field. According to defensive coordinator and defensive back coach Mickey Andrews, Greg Newell was an athlete who managed to work himself into being a good player rather than relying on natural talent.

"When I first got here it was in the middle of Greg's redshirt freshman year and I'm gonna tell you that he really was not a very good football player," says Andrews. "But he is a young man who through hours and hours of work on the field and in the film room, has made himself into a fine football player."

"He is not blessed with the great athletic ability," Andrews continues, "but he is a dedicated worker who is very consistent and unselfish. A team player. He watches more film every week than anyone on our defense and that is what he uses to get an edge."

Newell's knack for "studying" the opponent shouldn't come as a surprise as he is one of the Seminoles finest achievers in the classroom as well. A management information systems major, Newell plans to put his degree to good use after his graduation in the computer information field. He got his feet wet this summer working at Tyndall Air Force Base in its computer operations center.

In the meantime, Newell has quietly been rock solid from his free safety spot. In fact, he has been among the top three tacklers on the team for the past two seasons and the leader in the secondary in stops since the 1985 season.

The former Mosley High School star lettered as a redshirt freshman, seeing playing time on the 1984 special teams and playing in eight games—including the last seven.

As a sophomore, the player who some thought would see little playing time in his career started all 11 games. He finished the year with 90 tackles that placed him third on the squad. The oldest starter in the 1985 Seminole secondary in just his second year, Newell registered 13 tackles against Nebraska and Auburn and entrenched himself into a position he has held despite extremely talented backups.

Last year he repeated his 11-game starting performance, highlighting the season by finishing as FSU's second leading tackler. He graded out well enough in his junior year, including afternoons with 15 stops against Miami and 10 against Michigan and North Carolina, to be named to the prestigious "Victor's Club" for winning performance throughout the season.

He has not skipped a beat as a senior. Through eight games he has 53 stops, including 34 solo, and has broken up five passes. Tonight he will start his 31st game at FSU.

"I'm happy with what I have done here," says Newell. "I've done some good things and also some bad things. When you ask me to name some of the best players I've faced you've got to remember I've played against two Heisman winners and seven first-round draft choices. But as far as a receiving corps, I would have to go with Miami. Quarterbacks would be Mike Norseth of Kansas and Testaverde at Miami. Running backs—there have been some great ones, but I guess Bo Jackson and Brent Fullwood of Auburn were the best."

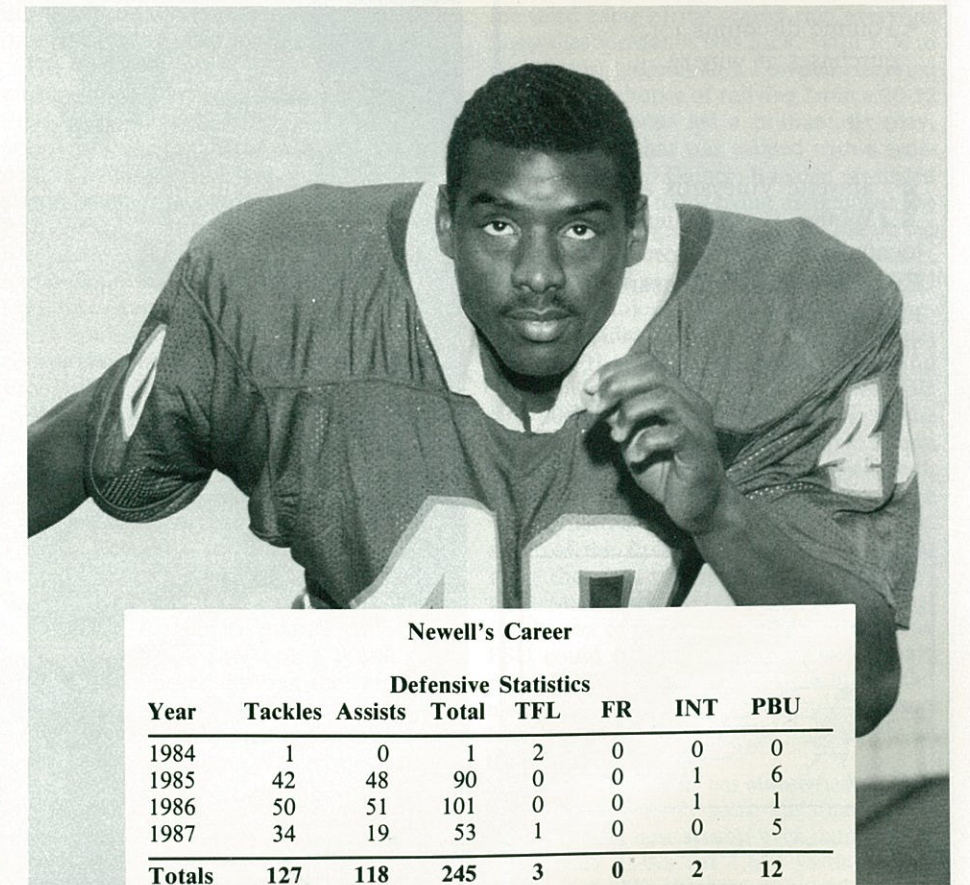

"Greg is the guy who makes all our adjustments on defense," says Andrews. "He is our quarterback on defense. He is very smart and plays intelligently on the field."

"Greg is going to be very successful once his college days are over. He is bright, dedicated and gets along well with people. He is a very vital part of defense that is enjoying great success on a national level."

"Some people think that all you think about at safety is the pass," says Greg. "That is not true. I have run responsibilities as well and I am always looking for reads as to where the ball is going. But I can't ever let anyone behind me. If I do, it's six points."

That's the way it is when you are the "last line of defense."

The State's Cadillac Among Quarterbacks

By Chris Sears, Tribe Staff Writer

McManus is 16-2 in games that he has started and completed the game.

In the case of college quarterbacks in Florida, two's company and three's a crowd. Just go to any newsstand around town and pick up the latest issue of any one of several national publications and two out of the three quarterbacks are credited with the success of his team. Miami Quarterback Steve Walsh is featured on the cover of Sports Illustrated and Florida quarterback Kerwin Bell dons the cover of several pre-season publications including Street and Smith and Sport Magazine. Everyone seems to forget about the third quarterback in these parts—Danny McManus.

While this nation's sportswriters might forget about the unsung McManus, teammates and opposing coaches have an easy time pinpointing one key to FSU's success on the field. Just ask Tulane's Mack Brown, who has seen McManus rack up career numbers against his Green Wave in three games—47 of 58 completions for 588 yards and five touchdowns. He has rushed for two others.

"When he walks in, he means to Florida State what a guy like Jim McMahon means to the Chicago Bears," Brown told Democrat writer Bill McGrotha. "I didn't realize he was that good."

The comparison with McMahon ends there. Off the field, McManus is a quiet leader who rarely makes outrageous statements in the media. McManus also drives a beat-up black 10 speed to class, not a fire-engine red motor scooter that McMahon pushes in his television commercial.

"I really don't idolize any one person," McManus says. "I may be off-color off the field, but when it comes time to play football, I'm ready."

McManus certainly isn't the flashy McMahon, who is apt to wear a full length mink coat on his way to the locker room. Leaving the FSU dressing room, McManus looks more like he's leaving a Jimmy Buffet concert than a practice field. On this day he wears long bermuda shorts, a pair of old flip-flops and a floppy fisherman's cap.

It's that relaxed attitude that has made him popular with the media.

After every Seminole game McManus is the easiest Seminole to find—he's the one surrounded by the largest contingent of reporters. McManus goes out of his way to oblige the requests of the often-demanding media. He's often the last player out of the locker room following a game and he's the first person to rearrange his busy schedule to return a phone call. "It's their job to get the news stories," McManus says, "and it's my job to talk to the media."

McManus' willingness to talk to the media has become legendary and has led to many amusing anecdotes.

Last year when there was speculation of dissension on the FSU team surrounding the choice of the Seminoles' bowl destination, McManus offered his thoughts.

"I don't care what bowl we go to as long as we get a new sweat suit as part of the bowl package," McManus said, as he pointed to his well-worn Gator Bowl sweat jacket that he received the year before.

WTBS announcer Bob Neal can't forget the time McManus caught him off guard during the taping of a Florida State pre-game show two years ago. "Danny, what kind of career would you like to enter after you graduate?" Neal asked. "Well, I'd really like to have your job, Bob," McManus said to a stunned Neal.

Florida State head coach Bobby Bowden supplied the laughter at a media function in 1985 when he discussed the health of McManus following a series of concussions that led to an inner ear problem. "They did all those brain scans and there was nothing there," Bowden said of McManus' tests.

But the real reason that teammates and media alike take notice when McManus talks stems from the tremendous respect they have for the senior quarterback. The old saying, "when he talks, people listen" is true in the case of McManus. "I'm the quiet leader," McManus says. "Some of the younger guys come to me if they have a problem." It's the experience that McManus has gained in four-plus seasons that makes him so knowledgeable.

Coming from South Broward High School, McManus was not a highly recruited player despite passing for over 2,700 yards during his final two years there. He settled on Florida State after considering Stanford.

His first two years at FSU were typical of most young players entering the world of big time college football. After taking a redshirt year in 1983, he caught the attention of many despite playing in only two games as a red-shirt freshman. In a desperation move, FSU head coach Bobby Bowden inserted McManus in the fourth quarter of a 38-26 loss to South Carolina. McManus promptly led FSU to a touchdown while displaying the poise, leadership and strong arm that have come to be synonymous with his number 14. From that point, many pointed to McManus as the quarterback of the future.

That spring, McManus won the starting job as expected and provided the stability that the position had lacked since the early 1980s. In the second game of the 1985 season against Nebraska in Lincoln, McManus guided FSU to a 17-13 lead going into the fourth quarter over the Big Eight powerhouse. Early in the quarter, McManus went back to pass and took a brutal shot from a Cornhusker lineman that knocked him unconscious. He was forced to leave the game. McManus recovered to face Memphis State the following week. In a virtual repeat of the week before, McManus was again blindsided and knocked to the Campbell Stadium turf. The scene was unforgettable to Seminole fans as McManus lay motionless. After several minutes, he finally arose with the help of the Florida State medical staff only to stagger to the dressing room battered and dazed.

FSU doctors elected to hold McManus out of practice the following week to allow specialists to examine the severity of his condition. After getting the go ahead from doctors, McManus came back the following week against Auburn, picking up where he left off. He led FSU to a quick 10 points in its first two possessions. Then the trouble started. Bowden called a play from the sideline only to have a dizzy and disoriented McManus call a different play in the huddle. After the series, Bowden sensed something was wrong and replaced him. It would be his last game for over a year.

The controversy raged: should he come back at all after two devastating hits in a row? The question lingered for the rest of the season and into the spring and summer as he was not medically cleared until fall practice. It was a question that every athlete dreads to ponder—should I continue to play or should I give the sport up? Throughout the ordeal, the answer was relatively simple for McManus. "I was just going to do what the doctor recommended," he says. "If he told me not to play, I wouldn't have played."

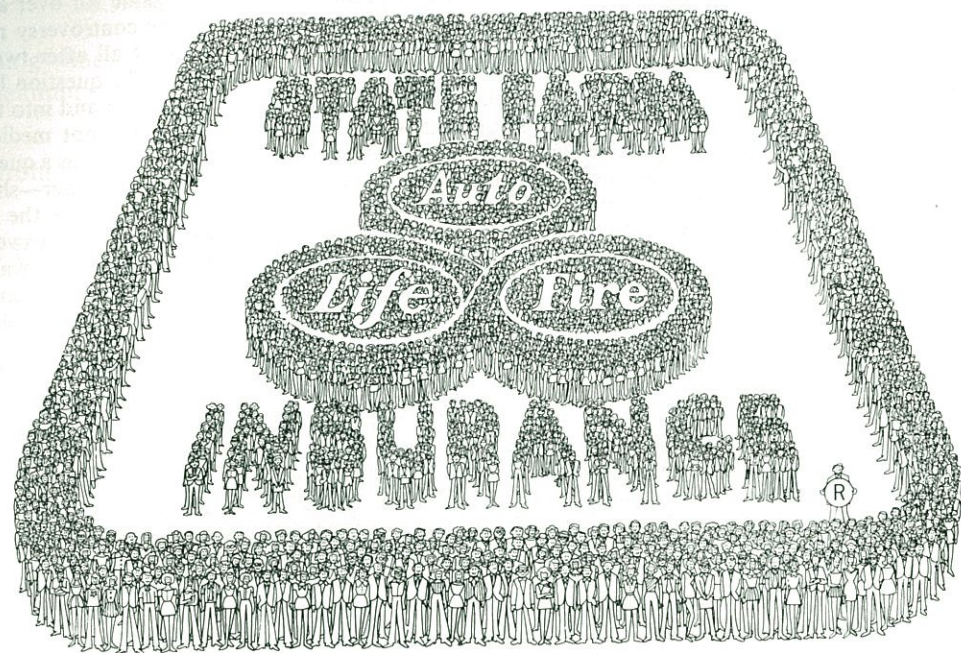

When McManus did decide to return, it wasn't an easy road back to the starting job, since freshman sensation Chip Ferguson was coming off a fantastic Gator Bowl performance to finish the season. It wasn't until the third game of the season that everyone knew that McManus was back. With 1:20 to go against Michigan, Bowden inserted McManus in hopes of rallying from a 20-12 deficit. McManus led a brilliant six play, 67-yard drive that was capped with a scoring pass to Herb Gainer. Bowden rewarded McManus with the starting assignment the very next week against Tulane. McManus led the Seminoles to victories over Tulane, Wichita State and Louisville, before FSU took top-ranked Miami and the more-heralded Vinnie Testaverde. The Seminoles entered the game as underdogs, and McManus led the charge as he directed FSU to a 20-16 lead with 7:49 remaining in the first half. After a drive stalled deep in Miami territory, Bowden called for a fake field goal. McManus took the snap and swept left; he was hit hard at the 11-yard line and fell just short of the first down. Florida State lost more than just the first down on the play, as McManus bruised his thumb and was lost for the rest of the game. His loss was felt as FSU could only muster three second-half points in the 41-23 loss. McManus missed the next game against South Carolina, but came back to quarterback the final three games of the year.

In 1987, McManus has stayed healthy and the results are easily seen. He's having far and away his best season ever, completing 121 of 229 passes for 1,694 yards and 14 touchdowns. His numbers are superior to the

Reaching New Heights

By Rob Wilson, Tribe Staff Writer

Florida State head coach Pat Kennedy swept into Tallahassee last year breathing enthusiasm and optimism into the recently tired Seminole program. While the charismatic leader captured the attention of almost everyone, the skeptics remained highly visible and quite vocal. Within just one game, Kennedy reminded Tallahassee of just how fun college basketball can be and sent the skeptics racing to the ticket windows.

Florida State enjoyed an explosive year during Kennedy's rookie campaign. The 19-11 finish and National Invitational Tournament bid were seen as recent high water marks for a program all too quiet since a 1972 Final Four appearance.

However, Kennedy embarks on his second season with only one returning starter and a near-record 10 players who have never suited up for the Tribe. But he also enters the 1987-88 season with the candid charm and convincing confidence that has FSU looking for another successful year.

"I think that we can clearly see that this year will be the start of our building process," says the 35-year-old veteran coach. "We are seeing the real foundations of building a basketball program. We are excited about the young squad but it is going to make for a rocky season, there is no question."

The Seminoles enter the season as one of the youngest teams in the country. Gone from the lineup are four-year starting forward Randy Allen, super scoring guard Pee Wee Barber, center Raleigh Choice and shooting guard LaRae Davis. It is not difficult to see why a slow start is expected by some.

"As with the beginning of any season, you have got to look at your team and see where your weaknesses lie," says Kennedy. "Especially so with a young team. I think our weaknesses are fairly obvious in that we don't have a real small guard if we play a team that does. We don't know who is going to emerge as our 3-point shooter, which has become very important, and we lack a big person in the middle of the floor."

As quickly as the man who led Iona to four post-season appearances in six years suggests the trouble spots, he also points out the potential.

"I think, number one, that we are going to be a team that can run a lot of defenses to, hopefully, compensate for the lack of a small guard. Number two, we've got three potential 3-point shooters in Jerome (Fitchett), George (McCloud) and Tharon (Mayes). And I think that on the inside we have a player, (Tat) Hunter, who can play at 6-10.

"If those three areas can fit into place, we have enough overall talent that we can be kind of a scary team. The kind that could upset people and cause them problems."

Naturally with just one returning starter, the Seminoles will start from that point and move on. Fitchett, a 6-7 forward with great leaping ability and a silky-smooth shot, will be the only senior on the 1987-88 squad.

Perhaps Fitchett's greatest weakness last year was in not shooting the ball enough. A 59% career shooter from the field and 74% from the line, Fitchett possesses all the tools to take over the scoring chores at FSU.

"Fitchett is a player who has enjoyed a very consistent career here," Kennedy says. "I think, and I have always said this, that if you're going to have a good year or a great year, you've got to go with how good one of your best players is going to be. So the more Jerome emerges as a consistent, dominant player, the better we are going to be."

Behind Fitchett will be one of the nation's top freshmen in 6-6 David White. A high school All-American and one of the nation's most highly recruited players, White is an example of the depth that Florida State will have entering the year. Home-grown rookie Blake Miles will add support to a position that appears solid as pre-season drills begin.

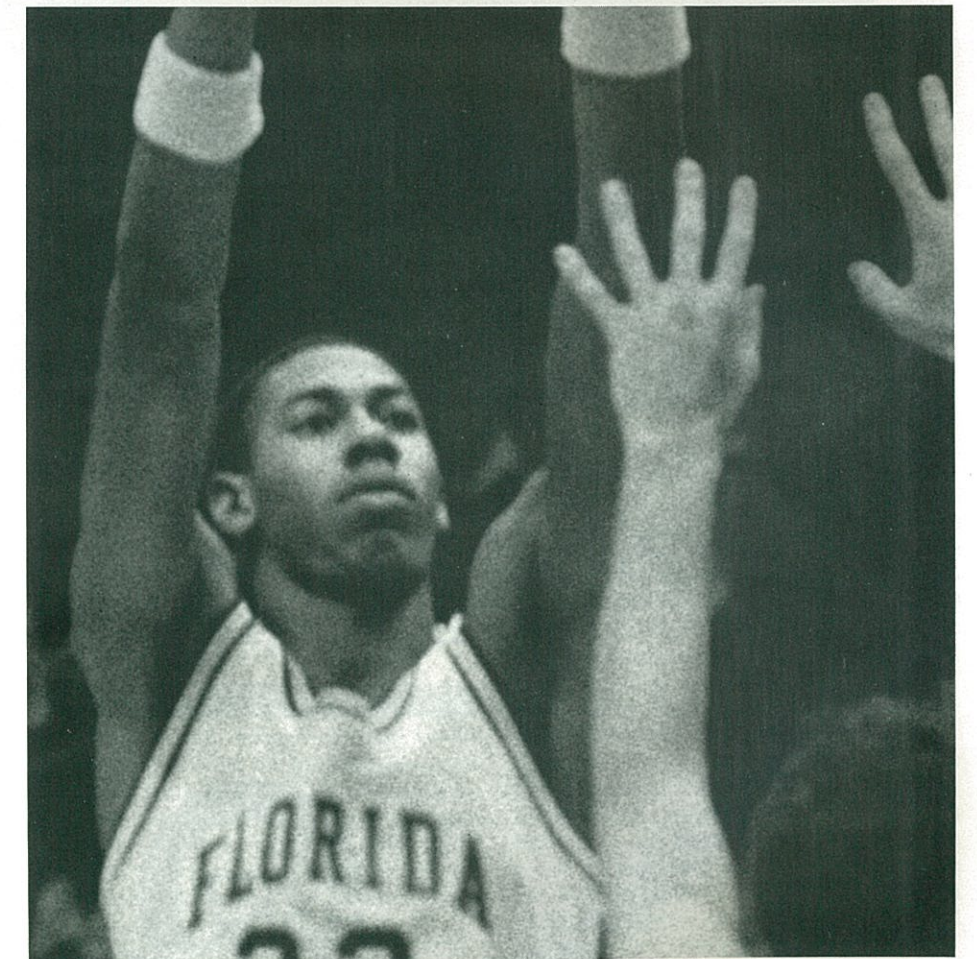

Moving into a much more prominent role this season will be 6-6 guard George McCloud. The most versatile player on the team, McCloud served as the sixth man last year and provided some quick offense to the Tribe's attack. Mayes, a 6-3 sophomore, possesses a deadly accurate jump shot that coaches feel may be the answer from outside the 3-point arc. The two compliment each other and give the shooting guard position some stability.

Hunter, the only other player with any game experience for FSU, draws the inside assignment as the season begins. An immensely talented player, the 6-7 Hunter possess a great vertical jump and good rebounding skills that form the foundation of a good inside player. Behind Hunter stands redshirt freshman Jon Fedor. At 6-8, Fedor is the tallest Seminole and his improvement over the last year has been significant. While the center spot looks to be a weakness entering the season, coaches feel that if improvements are made in the pre-season, the position should be a good one during the year.

"The key for George (McCloud) and Tat (Hunter) is confidence," says Kennedy of his two returning "veterans". "They have played behind some fine players and now they have their chance to emerge and play a lot of minutes for us. I want their con-

FSU Women Pointing To A New Direction

By Nick Gandy, Tribe Staff Writer

When looking at the factors surrounding the Florida State Lady Seminole 1987-88 basketball season, one can easily see that the program is definitely pointing to a new direction.

There's a long checklist of positives: head coach Marynell Meadors, second-ranked among active collegiate coaches with 372 career wins; a talented bunch of newcomers who have known nothing but winning throughout their days of playing organized basketball; and a group of seniors who are hungry to go out winners after struggling through a record of 31-55 since their arrival at Florida State.

Certainly, this season will be Phase One of the new direction in which the Lady Seminoles are heading.

Two weeks into pre-season workouts, Meadors assessed the difference between this squad and last year's 9-19 team. "I checked my practice schedule and we're a week and a half ahead of where we were at this time last year," she says. "I can see good things coming out of this team."

Meadors' banner recruiting year, which brought in six new faces, was bolstered with the return of 1985-86 leading scorer, Bev Burnett. The newcomers are expected to blend smoothly with six returnees to give the Lady Seminoles plenty of depth. "This year will be a treat," says Meadors. "We'll be able to go to the bench frequently without getting hurt. We'll be able to keep players fresh, ones who will be able to score consistently."

No doubt, Florida State will possess a wide variety of scoring threats. "We've got a good shooting team," says Meadors. "There is so much talent at guard and forward and it's an intelligent team. They've played in summer leagues and AAU camps. They've put in time at basketball."

With the addition of the 3-point play this season, FSU will look to the guard position for a good deal of its scoring. Battling it out at that position will be returnees Jan Piatnik and Val Garrett. In Piatnik's three previous seasons, she has played the role of a spot starter and has averaged 3.6 ppg over the course of 83 games. The senior from St. Petersburg has been placed in a leadership role as co-captain. Garrett, one of the quickest members of the team, returns after her best offensive season where she averaged 5.4 points.

Three newcomers also figure prominently at the guard slot. Junior college transfer Robin Storey comes to FSU from North Arkansas Community College where she averaged 15 ppg and four assists last season. Freshmen Robin Corn of Asheville, NC and Kelli Test of Ringgold, GA will see playing time with hopes of improvement for the future. "Robin Corn is one of the most determined athletes I've ever seen," says Meadors. "She is always working to improve her game."

At the swing position will be two athletes similar in stature and style of play. Tallahassee native Bev Burnett and freshman Chris Davis of Pensacola could both play a major role in the FSU offense this season.

Meadors is college basketball's second winningest active coach.

Burnett, a junior, returns to captain the squad after finishing the 1985-86 season as the leading scorer with a 17.3 average. Davis, the Naismith Florida Player of the Year and USA Today Honorable Mention All-American, lights up her coaches' eyes knowing that she will be around for three more years after this one.

Also competing for playing time at forward will be returnees Gussie Clark, Sarah Hall and Angela Tucker along with junior college transfer Aline Harvis. Hall, the most consistent player for the Lady Seminoles over the past three years, has a career average of 7.4 rebounds to rank her sixth on the all-time FSU list. Clark, a senior, saw the most playing time of her career last year and hopes to improve on her 5.6 ppg and 3.8 rpg that she produced. Tucker, a junior, has shown signs of improvement and could be a factor this season. Harvis transferred from Pensacola Junior College and could step in and contribute immediately. Her aggressive inside play brought her all-Panhandle Conference honors as she led PJC in both scoring and rebounding.

Center is a clear cut case of experience and youth with 6-2 senior Terri McCarty and 6-4 freshman Sarah Grimes. McCarty returned to the Lady Seminoles last season after sitting out her sophomore year. In 25 games she contributed 4.9 points and 4.2 rebounds per game. As a high school senior, Grimes averaged 12 rebounds per game at Milton High School in Roswell, GA.

This group will certainly be tested due in part to the schedule Meadors has set up. To begin the season, the Lady Seminoles will take part in two tournaments. The season opener will be at Coopers & Lybrand Tournament Thanksgiving weekend in Chicago, IL. The following weekend, Florida State returns home for the Tallahassee Hilton Classic which features West Virginia, Alabama-Birmingham and Wisconsin. The rest of the schedule includes home-and-home contests with six always-tough Metro Conference opponents as well as home games with New Orleans, Alabama, Florida and Miami. The yearly contest with cross-town rival Florida A&M is set for the Tallahassee-Leon County Civic Center January 21. Topping off the regular season will be the Metro Conference Tournament which will be held in Tallahassee for only the second time in its nine-year existence.

The 1987-88 edition of the Lady Seminoles has set some realistic goals as well as some that followers may consider lofty. The seniors would like nothing more than to go out winners while others are shooting for 20 wins and the Metro Championship. Meadors has little doubt about a winning season and is not skeptical about the Metro crown. "If you look at our Metro losses last year, we were blown out of one game," she says.

Overall, FSU's second-year coach likes the first of what she can call her own team. "At first I was concerned about losing speed from last year," says Meadors, "but we gained an equal amount and gained so much more depth. We might be a year or two away from being an excellent team, but this team will definitely turn some heads this year."

Paladins Face Biggest Challenge In School History

By Hunter Reid, Furman Sports Information Director

When Jimmy Satterfield's Furman University Paladins take to the field tonight against the Florida State Seminoles, an amazing streak of success will be put to the test.

Since 1982, Furman, a member of NCAA I-AA (75 scholarship limit), has recorded a 4-0-1 mark against big brother (NCAA I-A) schools, thereby highlighting a decade of football that has seen the Paladins compile a 69-20-4 record and an unprecedented five Southern Conference championships since 1980.

The coroner's list of fallen foes was initiated in 1982, when Dick Sheridan, now head coach at North Carolina State, led his Paladins past South Carolina, 28-23, before 56,244 stunned fans at USC's Williams-Brice Stadium. A year later Furman made Georgia Tech a true ramblin' wreck with a 17-14 surprise in Atlanta. In 1984 North Carolina State came up short 34-30—an outcome it would duplicate a year later by a 42-20 score in Raleigh. And last year, in Jimmy Satterfield's first season as head coach, Furman came from 10 points down in the fourth quarter to post a 17-17 tie with Georgia Tech.

What then, a curious fan might ask, has been the secret to Furman's success against I-A schools?

For starters Furman, over the last few years, has built a reputation for playing good, fundamental technique football—an absolute must for a squad that is physically the smallest team within its own conference.

Secondly, Furman has had continuity in its coaching staff. Although only in his second year as head coach, Jimmy Satterfield, a recognized innovator in offensive football, has 15 years of experience at the Greenville, SC school, serving as an assistant coach under former Paladin mentor Art Baker from 1973-77 and offensive coordinator under Dick Sheridan from 1978-85. On Satterfield's current staff are seven assistant coaches, five of whom are Furman graduates. Bobby Johnson, the team's defensive coordinator, has coached at Furman for 10 years.

Another factor that has contributed to Furman's becoming the third most successful I-AA program in the country in the 1980s is its offensive system, a basic option-oriented attack that has produced some of the country's top rated running games. Over the last seven seasons, the Paladins have led all of I-AA in rushing, averaging better than 268 yards per game. Since 1981, Furman has produced six consecutive 1,000-yard rushers and a flock of top-rated quarterbacks, including Bobby Lamb, who led the entire nation in passing efficiency in 1985 with a 171.20 rating.

With all the facts and figures on the table, a simple question remains: Can the Paladins retain their role as giant killers tonight against nationally fourth-ranked Florida State?

The answer may be found in what Jimmy Satterfield had to say following a film session last Sunday.

"Florida State certainly looks like the best team in the nation to us. They are the finest team Furman has ever played in football, and you've got to be impressed with their personnel and overall team speed. FSU has great, and I mean truly great, skill people. As for just how good they are, I doubt the Atlanta Falcons could beat them."

If Furman is to give Florida State a tough time tonight, it will have to be able to control the football, keeping it away from an explosive Seminole offense.

At quarterback the Paladins are led by senior Keith Moore, who has thrown for 637 yards and two touchdowns after coming on at midseason for injured starter Chris Speaks. A gutty player, Moore doesn't have impressive speed, but he has rushed for 198 yards and four touchdowns.

In the backfield Furman sports a pair of tough, hardnosed runners in junior fullback and junior tailback John Bagwell. Goldsmith, the premier blocker in the Southern Conference, has rushed for 428 yards this season and has averaged 5.7 yards per carry. Bagwell (803 yards, 7 TDs), who missed all of last year with a knee injury, is bidding to become the school's seventh consecutive 1,000-yard rusher, a streak that began in 1981 with former Paladin great and present Cincinnati Bengals star Stanford Jennings. Probably nowhere does Furman face more of a challenge tonight than along its offensive front, which is outweighed 25 pounds per man on average. Although the Paladins have often fared well against bigger opponents, utilizing good technique, Florida State's vastly superior size and talent could be more than Furman's offensive line can handle.

Defensively Furman employs the basic

"50" look, relying on an experienced defensive front to run interference for a linebacking corps that has been called "the best in the school's history" by some Paladin observers.

At the heart of the defensive front is senior all-conference noseguard Phillip Ferguson, who at 6-3, 250 pounds, should be able to match up with FSU's offensive personnel. Ferguson, who bench presses 500 pounds, is the leading tackler among Paladin down linemen with 49 stops. He also has nine tackles for losses and three sacks. Surrounding Ferguson are a pair of fine tackles in seniors Al Peterson, the team leader in sacks with 3½, and Brian Allison (44 stops).

Linebackers Darryl Gardner and Jeff Blankenship are to Furman what Paul McGowan and David Palmer are to Florida State—outstanding. Gardner leads the Southern Conference in tackles with 127 stops and is generally considered the team's finest player. Blankenship, a junior and three-year starter, is right behind with 123 tackles. He now has 324 career tackles and is as tough a player as Furman can put on the field.

Heading into the season, defensive coordinator Bobby Johnson knew that finding replacements for three graduated starters in the Paladin secondary would be a tough assignment. After all, Furman had picked off 104 enemy aerals over the last four seasons, but only one starter off last year's unit (29 interceptions) was back. As expected the Paladin air defense has been tested this season, but the workout seems to be paying off. Last week in a 38-0 win over VMI, Furman picked off a season-high three passes to run its total number of thefts to nine. Tonight FSU, with quarterback Danny McManus and several receivers with tremendous speed, will provide Furman's air defense corps with a stern test.

Furman leading rusher, John Bagwell.

EMINENT SCHOLAR CHAIR

In an attempt to promote greater scholastic interest in state assisted universities, the Florida Legislature created the Eminent Scholar Chair Program in 1979 to add distinguished professors to university faculties and to stimulate private contributions to public university programs.

A private contribution of $600,000, either as a single gift or a number of gifts in combination, is matched by the State of Florida with $400,000 to create a $1 million Eminent Scholar Endowed Fund. The income from that fund is used to support, in perpetuity, the scholarship activities of an Eminent Scholar.

Those fully funded chairs at Florida State University include:

The Burt Reynolds Chair in Regional and Professional Theatre	The Mack and Effie Campbell Tyner Chair in Home Economics
The Maximilian E. and Marion O. Hoffman Chair in Theatre	The Edward Ball Chair in International Law
The Mildred and Claude Pepper Chair in Social Gerontology	The Bernard F. Sliger Chair in Economic Education
The Wiley and Lucilla Housewright Chair in Music	The Tobias Simon Chair in Public Law
The Thomas L. Williams, Jr. Chair in Information and Management Sciences

Additional Chairs pledged to Florida State University include:

The Syde P. Deeb Chair in Political Science	The Pat Winthrop-King Chair in French
The Jerry Collins Chair in Public Administration	Anonymous Chair in Biological Science
The Payne H. and Charlotte Hodges Midyette Chair in Insurance

MAJOR GIFT CHALLENGE PROGRAM

Under the State of Florida's Major Gift Challenge Program a contribution of $100,000 is matched with $50,000 from the state. This program advances Florida State's academic mission through the establishment of named professorships and scholarships and the enhancement of library resources and technical equipment.

Those Major Gifts at Florida State University which have received or will receive matching funds include:

The John Shaw Family Endowment	The Arthur Andersen Endowed Professorship in Accounting
The Peat, Marwick, Mitchell Endowed Professorship in Accounting	The James Jacob Jones Presidential Scholars Fund
The Martha G. Moore Endowed Scholarship Fund	The Ucola Katzentine Endowed Scholarship Funds
The Ernst and Whinney Endowed Professorship in Accounting	The Rose and Joe Lindsay Scholarship Funds

PRESIDENTIAL SCHOLARS

To enable the University to be in a position to encourage academically gifted students to attend Florida State University, the Florida State University Foundation has created a prestigious category of scholarship funds for this purpose. The special category is called Presidential Scholars.

With a gift of $25,000 you can place your name on a Presidential Scholars Fund. Selected students who are entering the University out of high school will receive an annual stipend based on the earnings of the $25,000 endowed fund for their entire four year undergraduate university career. In the case of a community college student the commitment will be for two years.

Remembering 1987's Seniors

By Lisa Franson, Tribe Editor

There are 15 young men who came to Florida State on Scholarships who are playing their last games in Doak Campbell Stadium tonight. Nine of them have been in the program five years, five have made it through in four and two have been on the Seminole campus a pair of years. In addition to the 15 young men who will be mentioned below, there are two others who come to mind who have contributed to the program. One is John Merna, a walkon fullback who has labored in practice over the years, helping the Seminoles get ready to play on Saturday. The other is a favorite of mine, former tight end Gaylon White, a player who had his leg broken last season while he was fighting for the Seminoles against Miami. The season has been tough on Gaylon; he wanted to play for FSU so badly yet doctors felt that he should sit out.

As associate sports information director at FSU for the past eight football seasons, I have day-to-day interaction with the Seminoles you see on the field tonight. The following are some thoughts I'll share with you on how I'll remember these 15 young men who have led FSU into only its third New Year's Day bowl game.

Pat Carter, Tight End—So many of my memories of Pat are the days I have been in tight end coach Brad Scott's office hearing about how great a player Pat is. I remember the times I told Brad, 'Coach, you guys have got to throw him the ball. Willie Smith down at Miami has 40 catches'. Well Brad and Pat, we've finally got the message across to the media about blocking being important for a tight end. We're expecting Mr. Carter to make one of the major All-America teams this year. Because so much of my work with the team deals with the media, this is probably the area where I've come to appreciate Pat in even a greater way—his always being willing to talk to the media, even after a long hard practice.

Herb Gainer, Wide Receiver—Every time I see Herb, he's got a smile on his face. Soft-spoken and eloquent, he's as smooth off the field as we've come to expect in his playing on the field. I'll never forget his 52-yard catch at the end of the 42-41 Auburn game his freshman redshirt year with time expiring. I still think to this day that the Seminoles had a second left in which to give Derek Schmidt a shot at a long field goal. I expect to see Herb in the future on Sunday NFL games. Jessie Hester, Hassan Jones, Weegie Thompson, Dennis McKinnon—I've seen them all at FSU and Herb belongs in that group too.

Thomas Harp, Nose Guard—I'll remember Thomas as someone who never gave up—especially in his academic battles in the classroom. Although he didn't dress for the first couple of games this year, he came back and has played hard at noseguard and defensive tackle, filling in at the latter position for Steve Gabbard as a starter the last two games. His ability to make his grades and add depth to the defensive line this year is probably a bigger key than any of us realize.

Paul McGowan, Inside Linebacker—If you watch the way he plays, you'd be shocked to learn that this young man is shy off of the field. My initial impression of Paul was when (former inside linebacker coach) Gene McDowell introduced me to him in the lunchroom his freshman year. I remember McDowell saying 'if this guy can be tough, you'll be hearing his name a lot in the future'. (Paul was blushing and looking down at his lunch). The thing with Paul McGowan is that he is so consistent and he doesn't stick out—he's probably the player that we've taken for granted the most at Florida State. It's easy to pick out the spectacular player—like a Deion Sanders—but McGowan is truly deserving of one of the honors that the Sports Information Office hopes to see him receive—the Butkus Award.

How many of us realize that by the end of the season, Danny McManus will have thrown for more yards in 1987 than any FSU quarterback in the last fifteen years?

Danny McManus, Quarterback—He belongs right there with Jamie Dukes. Jamie

Dukes? When it comes to media darlings, he's the second one we've had since I've been here. You don't know how guilty you can feel when you hand a college kid 100 interview cards in a one-week period, knowing that he doesn't get home from school and practice until 7:00 p.m. and then he's got to study. Danny has never complained once and he's always done his best to fulfill any of the things we've asked him to do. Maybe it helped him when he spent six weeks in our office last summer and he has an understanding of what we do, but all of us in the SID office appreciate him more than he could ever imagine. I'll remember Danny as the quarterback (in my eight years) that I've secretly pulled for more than any other in the past—and Danny, I'll never forget the Michigan or Miami drives, even if we didn't win those games. How many of us realize that by the end of the season, Danny McManus will have thrown for more yards in 1987 than any FSU quarterback in the last 15 years? We'll be pushing him for All-South Independent honors, but he's really been overshadowed by some of the other great players on this team. Danny, we'll especially miss you!

Martin Mayhew, Cornerback—It seems like Martin's been here for ages. Martin is one of the friendliest Seminoles and always is willing to do whatever he's asked. A few years ago he helped me out with a recruiting brochure by participating in some pictures in an academic setting. He's also been on three covers of Tribe Magazine—one last year that represented three of our outstanding "students" on the team; and twice this year—in our "Hurricane Watch" issue and our "Punt Blocking Issue". Who will ever forget Martin's interception at North Carolina in 1985 that sealed the victory for FSU?

Greg Newell, Safety—Like Martin, it seems like Greg has been here forever. The "old man" of the secondary because he's a solid three-year starter, Greg has been one of the most hard working players in the program. I remember a few years back (defensive coordinator) Mickey Andrews would throw his hat across the practice fields in a melodrama of one of Newell's mistakes. Now, Andrews calls him his defensive quarterback.

David Palmer, Inside Linebacker—Like Paul McGowan, David is very soft-spoken off of the field. He's one of the young men whom I respect very much and that thought runs down to the last person in the athletic department. A model student, president of

The Home Field Advantage.

In business, as in football, the home field advantage means a great deal. That's why more and more area business and professional people are establishing financial relationships with the home owned and operated Capital City Bank Group. Prompt decisions, based on local market and economic conditions, give customers a distinct advantage.

Remind You:

Install smoke detectors: Smoke is responsible for three out of four fire deaths. The loud siren will give your family those extra minutes to escape safely. Test it once a month. Change batteries once a year.

Establish an escape plan: Have frequent family meetings to establish escape routes from your dwelling. Every room should have two means of escape, rope ladders for upper floor windows. Have practice drills every three months.

Place fire extinguishers throughout your home: For extinguishing all three types of fire, use an    fire extinguisher. Fire extinguishers should only be used in the case of small fires; if there is a large fire, get out of your home immediately.

As winter approaches: It's highly recommended to have heating systems, fireplaces and wood burning stoves checked, serviced and cleaned by a professional.

NOT JUST A JOB, A COMMITMENT

other instate quarterbacks Walsh and Bell. McManus has thrown for 300 yards more than Walsh and 200 more than Bell.

But as most will confirm, statistics don't tell the whole story. McManus' strength lies in the final results. In over three seasons, Florida State holds a 16-2 record when he starts and completes the game.

The offense just seems to naturally play better when he is at the controls. Case in point—scoring offense. Since McManus has started every game this season, FSU is third in the nation in scoring offense, averaging over 43 points per game—10 more than last year.

McManus' quick feet also gives the FSU passing game an added dimension of mobility which frustrates opposing defenses. Against Miami, McManus was not sacked once by the heralded defensive front led by Outland Trophy candidate Dan Stubbs. In fact, during the last two years McManus has only been dropped three times. Like any good politician, McManus is quick to point out the play of his offensive lineman. "Those guys work hard all week," he says. "They respond well to the different situations and are able to communicate well."

McManus' quick feet and uncanny field awareness compliment his lengthy preparation for each opponent. "I prepare for games against Miami, Auburn and Florida in the same way I prepare for Tulane and Southern Mississippi," McManus says. "I'll watch film on my own during the week, but I won't set up a tent and watch it all the time. Me and films don't get along. I get bored in a hurry."

It's that preparation at practice and film-watching that take up most of McManus' time away from the field. He does, however, find time to study in his major or athletic administration. Last semester, he held a grade point average of 3.4 and last summer, interned in the FSU Sports Information office. His academics coupled with his abilities on the field led to his nomination for the Johnny Unitas Award, which is given to the quarterback who shows the traits of the former great.

To Bowden it really doesn't matter whether McManus wins the award or not because he knows the value to his Seminole team. "Danny McManus is the key to our offense," Bowden says. "He's a winner."

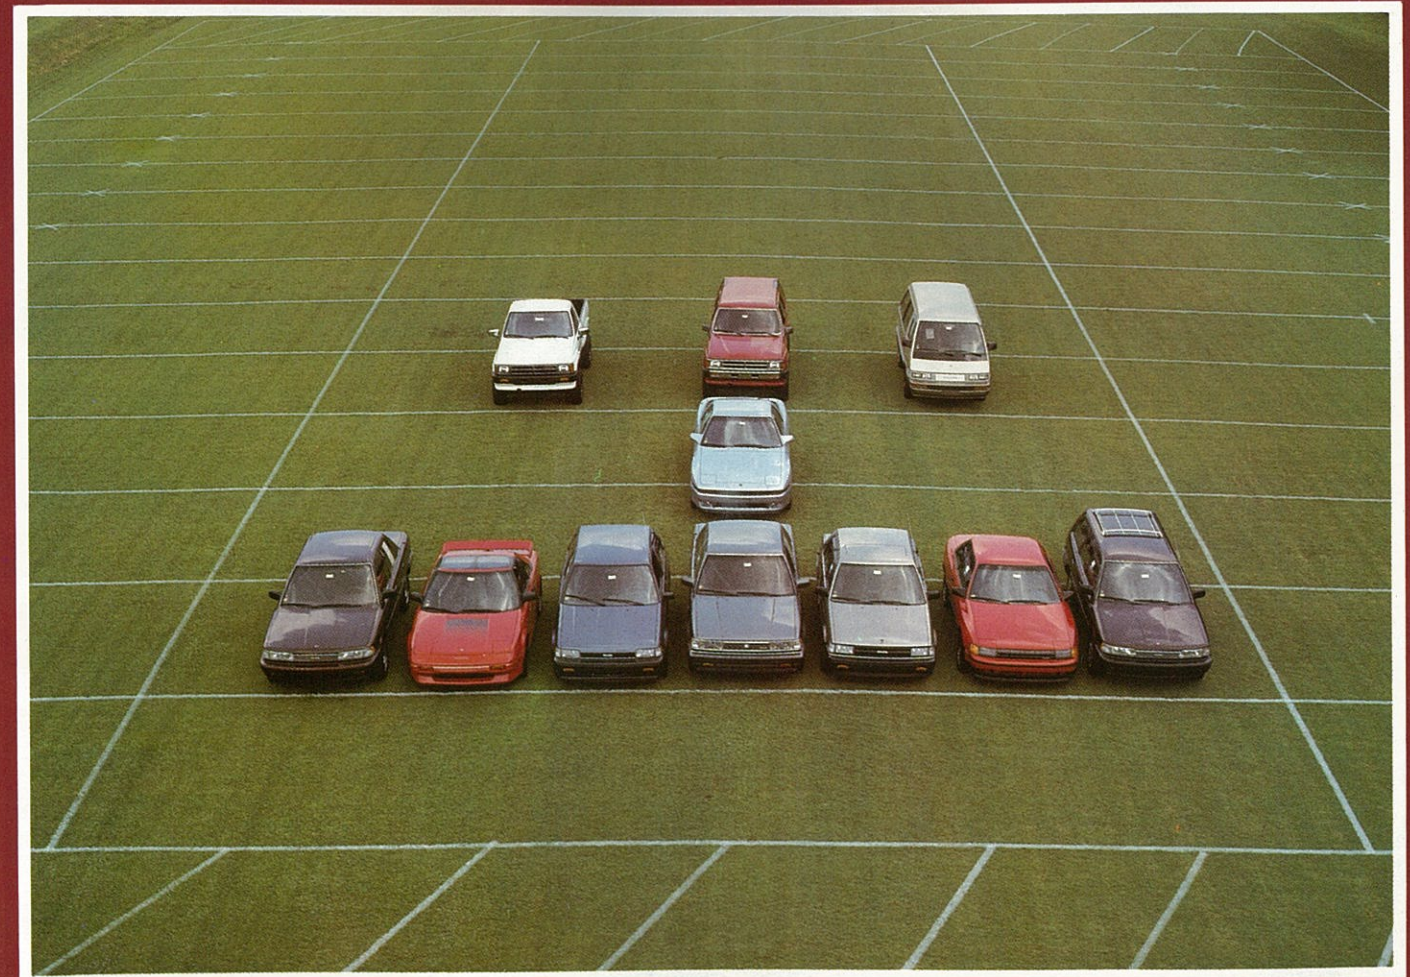

McManus may not be the flashiest quarterback in the state. He may drive a '65 Comet instead of a late model sports car. But to Florida State, he's the cadillac among quarterbacks.

The Marching Chiefs

The Marching Chiefs, some 350 members strong, are the band behind the Florida State fight song. They are as much a part of college football in Tallahassee as the game itself.

Since 1951, the Chiefs have provided football fans with the best in upbeat musical entertainment in their pregame and halftime shows.

The Chiefs' entourage includes feature twirlers, majorettes and flag girls representing every school and college in the university. In addition to home game performances, the Chiefs have traveled to many out of town games to cheer on the Seminoles. FSU's regional and national TV appearances have also put them in the living rooms of millions of viewers, including thousands of Seminole alumni across the country.

Under the direction of Bentley Shellahammer, director of the Chiefs; Charles Carter, associate director and arranger; graduate assistant John Carmichael; graduate staff assistants David Legette, Roger Duncan, Steve Grugin, Michael Friedman, Bill Faucett, Lisa Crews, Rick Greenwood and Jim Bye; and drum major Rodney Dorsey, the 1987 Marching Chiefs will once again greet Seminole fans with the familiar style that has entertained millions over the past four decades.

Seminole Songs

ALMA MATER

High o'er the towering pines our voices swell,
Praising those Gothic spires we love so well,
Here sons and daughters stand, faithful and true.
Hailing our ALMA MATER, FSU.

FIGHT SONG

©Music by Thomas Wright
Words by Doug Alley
You've got to fight, fight, fight, for FSU.
You've got to scalp 'em Seminoles.
You've got to win, win, win, this game and roll on down to make those goals.
For FSU is on the warpath now and at the battle's end, she's great
So fight, fight, fight to victory, our Seminoles from Florida State.
(Yell) F-L-O-R-I-D-A S-T-A-T-E

the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and a solid contributor on the field, Palmer is what college football is all about. Just last week I filled out his nomination for academic All-American and we're positive about his chances of becoming the ninth honoree in Florida State history on that prestigious team.

Marty Riggs, Snapper—This guy ought to be our next senator or politician, because Marty is that kind of a guy. Well-dressed and well-spoken, he's probably the most mature young man on this squad. He's got his life planned to a "T" so don't be surprised to see him out shaking hands in about 20 years in a campaign for the presidency. He's one of the Sports Information Office's favorites and visits us frequently.

Mark Salva, Center—Salva has kept me hopping when it comes to depth charts and rosters. Every time we get something set in stone, he changes positions—an editor's nightmare. We're thrilled that he's stayed at center since spring practice. I'll remember Mark Salva as someone who is quiet, a player who you don't notice. Yet he's the center of a team that will be FSU's greatest offensive machine in history.

Derek Schmidt, Kicker—Throw out the Miami game and the North Carolina game too. I went to school at West Virginia and I remember the four years I was there we would cheer if we made the extra point. Now, that's probably an exaggeration, but folks, we've got the all-time NCAA scoring champion here. Here is a guy who hit 108 consecutive extra points—only three players in college football have ever hit that many in a row. We got spoiled early with Derek and somewhere along the way we've forgotten he's human. Off the field, Derek has handled every situation with class and I'm as proud of him as any of our players.

Bart Schuets, Defensive Tackle—"Bart, we hardly knew you" is what comes to mind since he's been in the program for just two years. He's been a key man on the defensive line this season, providing depth and playing in certain situations. Earlier this year I was flipping through some player information cards and noticed we had been spelling his name wrong. Next time I saw him I told him that he should have let us know. "Ah, that's ok," he said. "It didn't bother me."

Terry Warren, Outside Linebacker—Terry is one of my favorites—a guy who I'll be looking for to be successful in whatever he chooses to do. A few weeks back I wrote a Tribe story on Terry and his wanting to get into the entertainment field. For those of you who heard him sing the national anthem for the Homecoming game, you know he's talented. Burt Reynolds was also impressed and is working to get Terry a part down at his dinner theatre in Jupiter. Terry has been a solid defensive player for the years he's been at Florida State—he's one of our nominees for All-South Independent honors this season. I'll probably always remember those two fumbles he fell on last week at Auburn.

Randy White, Wide Receiver—Here's a guy who has battled the injury bug ever since he's been here. Earlier this year we did a Tribe Magazine story on players who had one big game in their careers—Kirk Coker, Bob Davis, Burt Reynolds, etc. If we would have had foresight, Randy would be listed in that group. How can any Seminole fan forget when he came through in the Gator Bowl (4 catches, 87 yards) when FSU needed him most?

Eric Williams, Cornerback—Every time you see an action shot of Eric he's got that big wide grin on his face. Along with best friend Martin Mayhew, I think these guys are going to be our cornerbacks forever. They've been here that long—but most importantly both will graduate with their degrees in December. From the day in his sophomore year that Eric asked me to change his hometown on the roster, I've always found him easy going and friendly.

Seniors, We'll Miss You!

fidence to be high. They both have a lot of talent and can do a lot of things on the floor. They will be one of the keys."

Moving into the power forward spot vacated by four-year starter Randy Allen will be junior college All-American Tony Dawson. A gifted scorer, Dawson works well around the basket and will be asked to anchor the Seminole offense. Freshman Michael Polite has tremendous ability and was an all-state selection and top national talent. His playing time will be based on how quickly he adjusts to the system.

"Tony Dawson is as good a scorer as there is," says Kennedy. "He is a junior so he has the added maturity. He was able to score a lot of points against excellent competition in the past and we feel that he is going to be an excellent player for us. He should be one of the Metro's, and nation's, top players."

Pee Wee Barber became a nationally recognized name with some tremendous offensive performances from the point guard spot last year. However, he has departed via the NBA draft and has left some big shoes to fill as the team's leader. Junior college all-stater Derrick Mitchell should vie for the starting honors. At 6-3, Mitchell led the state in steals, averaging 5.7 per game and he has the tools needed for the position. Freshman Aubry Boyd, rated by some as the top point guard prospect in the nation, has already grown an inch to 6-6 since signing with Florida State. A fundamentally sound player with great skills, Boyd is not expected to sit many games out. Joey Barnes, a 6-2 redshirt freshman, provides a spark and has benefited from a year in the program.

"I don't think any recruiting class, or recruit, lives up to all the press clippings," says an obviously-excited Kennedy (Florida State's 1987-88 newcomers have been rated among the top 5 in the nation). "What you want to do is make sure that what you have is real, and I think we definitely have that. We have players who can play against anyone and beat anyone in the country."

"Our players have the foundation; they are solid. They have the proper attitude, work-ethic, academic goals and desire to win. All our freshmen have that."

When asked about the goals for his Seminoles, Pat Kennedy answers with the future on his mind.

"I think the most important thing, and it sounds so elementary, is our greatest goal is improvement," says Kennedy. "We have six freshmen, a sophomore and two transfers. If we can get daily improvement that is what is important. Winning is going to be secondary, as far as goals are concerned. We are going to improve and let the wins take care of themselves."

Pat Kennedy, his staff, and players have made believers of Florida State's basketball fans. And the Leon County Civic Center, which welcomed a new attendance record last season, figures to be the place to be once again this year.

New Student Union Makes Proud Statement On FSU Campus

By Betsy Petro, FSU Media Relations Office

More space and more facilities are key features of the expanded Ross Oglesby Union at Florida State, slated for completion this fall. Throughout its renovation the complex has maintained a business-as-usual status, although the Union courtyard has been fenced off and some services have been relocated.

Under construction is an elevated second-story wing, running east and west over the Union courtyard, connecting the five existing buildings. After that is finished, renovation of existing buildings will begin.

Union Director Nancy Turner said one of the goals of the new Union is "to make a statement to visitors, students, faculty, staff and alumni, that this is Florida State University."

A microcomputer lab for students, faculty and staff may be the best new addition. Operated by the University Computing Center, it will be open each weekday, offering users time on a terminal on a first-come, first-served basis.

The Union known to recent generations of Seminoles opened in 1964 and was designed to serve a student body of about 7,500, a third of the present enrollment. The original 132,000 square feet of space is being expanded to 200,000 square feet. The increased size will upgrade space available to the more than 200 student organizations on campus.

Some student government agencies, including the Black Student Union and the Women's Center, have had to use offices away from the Union because of limited space. Those groups will find space inside the expanded Union facilities.

The project, begun in August 1985, results in part from the dedicated and farsighted work of a Union Building Committee appointed in 1979. The Florida Legislature in 1983 appropriated $9 million from the Capital Improvement Trust fund to help finance the project.

Randy Drew, student body president in 1979 said: "The Union is something different for everyone. And that's part of what's special about it. You come away from the University with your own unique experience of it."

Turner added: "The Union is a central place for students when they are outside the classroom. It's not just a building; it's also an organization and a program. Students come here for extracurricular activities, for relaxation and entertainment, and for meals. And they can take care of their business at the post office, the bank or the shops."

Also to be part of the new Union are a pub-and-pizza parlor with live entertainment; an amphitheater; a new store combining the Union bookstore and retail store; and, as now, several small retail establishments.

In addition, there will be a facility where students can do personal typing; lounges for listening to music, studying, watching television, and for faculty use; a learning resource center, including video-equipment training facilities; meeting rooms; and a large multi-use room for banquets, meetings, exhibitions, dances, concerts, and other events.

The original Florida State Union was organized in 1946 as a community center for students attending what was then the combined Florida State College for Women and the Tallahassee Branch of the University of Florida. Originally housed in the Longmire Alumni Building, the Union moved in the mid-50s to its present location.

The first major enlargement of the Union facility was completed in 1964. The complex contained dining rooms, a game room, barber shop and beauty salon, ticket office, lounges, an auditorium, offices and meeting rooms, and an Olympic-sized swimming pool.

The Union is named for the late Dean Ross Oglesby, who served for 19 years as professor of government and, concurrently for 10 years, as dean of students.

A new organization devoted to enhancing the quality of student life at Florida State has been created from a dream Student Affairs Vice President Bob E. Leach shared last year with former Seminole student leaders.

"All I had in mind was for them to take out their checkbooks," Leach said. "But they wanted to do something more permanent, more far-reaching. I've been amazed at how many people want to get involved in this."

First project on the agenda of the newly-formed Seminole Torchbearers is a fund-raising drive to provide special furnishings for the Ross Oglesby Union Building. But Leach said the group will continue making a vital difference in the lives of FSU students.

The Torchbearers will devote its efforts toward the benefit of Florida State students for non-academic activities and programs. Leach also envisions forming a discretionary fund through his office for emergency loans that could, for example, assist a student who has a death in the family, but is without personal resources to return home.

Union Director Turner has been involved with the group from the beginning and, in fact, provided the Torchbearers with its name. It is taken from the University seal showing the torches that symbolize Vires, Artes and Mores—strength of all kinds; knowledge and the appreciation of beauty; and customs, character and tradition.

"Because they were committed as students while they were here, Bob Leach knew they had a commitment to the University now," Turner said of the Torchbearers.

THE LOOK OF THE FUTURE—A clock with garnet face and numbers is but one of the many handsome features of the addition to the FSU Union.

Former student body president Drew is among the founding members of the Torchbearers. "What's so exciting about the Torchbearers is not that I want to come back and relive my student days, but the opportunity to continue my involvement in Florida State in the things that have meant so much to me," Drew said. "Being a Torchbearer means that those wonderful experiences aren't over, because the programs I was a part of are as alive today as when I was here."

Membership in the Torchbearers is open to all students or former students who are or have been involved in student activities at Florida State University. For more information, write Dr. Bob E. Leach, Vice President for Student Affairs, 313 Westcott, Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida 32306; or telephone (904) 644-5590.

Donations to the Torchbearers may be sent to the FSU Foundation.
