Welcome to the Game!

Welcome to Orlando! ...and the Florida Citrus Bowl Stadium. We're glad you're here.

We've got a very exciting game for you today, and it's being held in one of the finest football stadiums in the country. We've worked hard over the past two years to make the Florida Citrus Bowl a first-class facility—accommodating for the players and comfortable for you. We think you'll be pleased with the results.

Have a great time today. We look forward to seeing you again.

Bill Frederick Mayor City of Orlando The nearly 1,000 members of Florida Citrus Sports want to welcome you to our home, the City of Orlando, and the Florida Citrus Bowl. We're glad you're here and enjoying this exciting weekend of football.

Many people have spent countless hours working to make this a special time for the fans, players and coaches of Florida State and Virginia Tech. We hope this has been an unforgettable weekend for all of you and that you visit us in "The City Beautiful" again.

I would also like to thank all of the people who donate their time and effort to make the game, and the many other Florida Citrus Sports events throughout the year, a success. Your work will never go unappreciated.

INTRODUCING DIAMANTE. PROOF THAT A GRACIOUS HOST CAN ALSO BE A STIMULATING ONE.

The proof is presented in a series of revelations.

First you notice the richness of the interior. The many small courtesies, such as the ignition key light and automatic door lock. And the seat, which supports you with almost no sense of pressure against your legs, hips and back.

You might conclude that this is a modern, well-crafted luxury car. But then it reveals a gratifying exuberance as well. A dramatic rush of power. Athletic steering response. It feels not just competent, but eager to perform.

Welcome to the new Mitsubishi Diamante. Conventional "luxury" and "performance" labels do not apply here. It is the best of both, without the limitations of either.

A panel of 49 international judges recently evaluated the Diamante in detail. And then named it Japan's "Car of the Year."

FCS and Central Florida's Future

Supposed football experts scoffed four years ago at an agreement uniting the Florida Citrus Bowl and the Atlantic Coast Conference champion. Prevailing wisdom among such scholars held that the ACC was, first and foremost, a basketball conference. By choosing to tie-in with the ACC, folks in Orlando were relegating themselves to secondclass Bowl status.

experts still said it wouldn't happen. No team from the ACC, no matter what the record, would ever be favored to beat an established program in a bowl game. Late in the afternoon, though, as the last remnants of a record crowd of 72.328 filed out of Florida Citrus Bowl Stadium with goal posts in hand, the "experts" were nowhere in sight. Georgia Tech, champion of the Atlantic Coast Conference, had completed its season by dominating Nebraska, 45-21.

A day later the Yellow Jackets were crowned national champions in several final polls. Early ratings showed that the Florida Citrus Bowl had been the second most watched Bowl game on New Year's Day. It was evident that Florida Citrus Sports and the ACC had moved one step closer to reaching the pinnacle in college football.

It has always been Florida Citrus Sports' goal to strive to be the best, not only when it comes to the Florida Citrus Bowl, but also with its other events throughout the year.

In February, the nation's best college baseball teams square off in the Olive Garden Classic at Kissimmee's Osceola County Stadium, spring training home of the Houston Astros. In June,

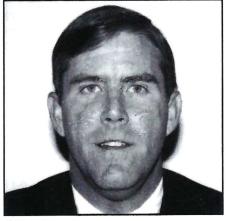

A Special Thanks

There are countless people who came together as a group, volunteered their time and effort, and, after many long hours, made this game a reality. To those people we offer our thanks. Listing everyone who played a role in pulling this game off is impossible, there simply isn't enough space. Suffice it to say that your dedication is appreciated and will serve as a model for the future.

college and pro football stars of the future meet in the Florida/Georgia All-Star Game, where the best outgoing seniors from two of the most talent-rich football states revive their yearly rivalry.

From the football stars of tomorrow to the stars of today, Florida Citrus Sports covers the entire field. In 1991, both Florida and Florida State will play regular-season games in Orlando. The Gators and Mississippi State play in the second annual Texaco Star Classic in late September while the Seminoles take on Virginia Tech in mid-October. Future games are continually in the works, with a particular emphasis on those featuring Florida and Florida State. In 1994, Florida Citrus Sports presents a colossal matchup, Florida State vs. Notre Dame.

December is when much of Florida Citrus Sports' efforts reach a peak. The Florida Citrus Sports Holiday kicks off early with the Florida Citrus Sports Sailfest, followed by the Craig Sports Florida Citrus Half Marathon. And the Red Lobster Basketball Classic later in the month is fast becoming the nation's best holiday basketball tournament.

All of the usual trappings of the holiday bowl atmosphere can be found in Orlando, but no other celebration can match "The Best Bowl trip in America." From PartyEola! to the Florida Citrus Bowl Parade and the Night Before Citrus New Year's Eve Party, a trip to the world's top vacation destination becomes more special around bowl time.

Perhaps the most special feeling for FCS members comes in June with the Annual Contributions Luncheon. Local charities and educational institutions received more than $100,000 from FCS in 1990-91.

The reasons why Florida Citrus

Sports means so much to the community are just as many and varied as why the community means so much to Florida Citrus Sports. Without one, the other would be less than what it is today. And in the end, it's not great games, or national championships, or festivities that will be remembered. What will remain is the contribution of time, money, and love which help build a better future for those less fortunate.

FSU, Tech Bring Rivalry to Orlando

he Florida State and Virginia Tech rivalry goes back a long way, almost to the time when Florida State first began playing football. In 1955, Florida State was entering its ninth season of college football, and Tech was coming off an unbeaten 8-0-1 season. The Hokies managed to handle the Seminoles that year 24-20 and began a rivalry that was standard issue on both teams' schedules for the next 25 years. The only exception to the homeand-home series came in 1960. when the two teams didn't play.

The Florida State and Virginia Tech rivalry has, for the most part, been balanced one. No one team managed to develop a lopsided edge in the series until the mid-1970s. Just when it seemed like one team was ready to become dominant, the other would respond. A prime example came in a seven-year stretch from 1969 to 1975.

Tech's Vaughn Hebron (4) and FSU's Marvin Jones get acquainted in the 'Noles 1990 win over the Hokies.

Virginia Tech led the series 7-6 going into the 1969 game, which ended in the series' first and only tie. FSU won the next three games and pushed to a 9-7 edge in the rivalry. Over the next three years, though, Tech put together its own threegame sweep and took the series lead back at 10-9.

Unfortunately for Hokie fans, the 1975 win was the last opportunity to savor victory over the 'Noles. FSU has won the last eight meetings between the two schools, including three in a row since 1988 when the series was renewed.

FSU in Orlando

Today marks the second game in as many years in Orlando for the Seminoles. Last season, Florida State defeated Memphis State 35-3 in the inaugural Texaco Star Classic, sponsored by Texaco Star Enterprise. Wide receiver Lawrence Dawsey sparked the Seminoles win with 200 yards of total offense (133 receiving, 67 rushing) and a pair of touchdowns.

Florida State's only two other appearances in Orlando came in postseason play. In the 1977 Tangerine Bowl, the 'Noles downed Texas Tech 40-17 to become the first major college football team in Florida to win 10 games in a season. In the 1984 Florida Citrus Bowl, a blocked punt returned for a touchdown gave FSU a 17-17 tie with Georgia, keeping intact the team's unbeaten string of bowl games that today stands at nine.

Father and Son Play a Double Header

While double headers are a common event in baseball, two games on the same day at the same site is rarity in college football. Today will mark the third time in two years that a college football double header has been played in the Florida Citrus Bowl. And if a football double header isn't an uncommon enough occurence today's game features and even more uncommon event—games featuring a fatherson head coaching combination.

In the early 1950s, FSU's Bobby Bowden was a Little All-American at Howard College (now Samford University) in Birmingham, Alabama. It was at Samford that Bowden earned his first head-coaching job.

Today, though Bowden has gone on to become one of the game's great coaching minds, his influence at Samford remains. Bowden's son Terry has been the Bulldogs' head coach since 1987 and has led the team from obscurity to near-prominence in NCAA I-AA play.

Terry continues to follow in his dad's footsteps, more literally today than ever before. Approximately four hours apart, father and son will share the same locker room and walk the same sideline in search of a common goal—victory. Bobby's Seminoles take on Virginia Tech at noon, followed by Terry and his

Virginia Tech Makes Its First Appearance in Orlando

The Virginia Tech Hokies have played all of Florida's major colleges at one time or another during their 97-year history. They even played a two-game series with Tampa in the mid-1960s. Indeed, Florida State ranks ninth on the Hokies list of all-time opponents with 28 games. Since 1985 alone, Virginia Tech has played games in Tallahassee, in Gainesville, and in Miami. They've never played a game in Orlando, though, until today.

Former Independents Make Room for Conference Play

Virginia Tech and Florida State joined the ranks of the aligned in the past year, following a recent trend within college football. The Hokies became members of the Big East Football Conference on Feb. 5, joining Boston College, Miami, Fla., Pittsburgh, Rutgers, Syracuse, Temple, and West Virginia. The highest ranked team in the final Associated Press poll will be crowned champion for 1991, but by 1993, the schools will begin a full seven-game league schedule.

Florida State became the ninth member of the Atlantic Coast Conference in July of this year. The Seminoles will begin ACC competition in all sports but football this year and will start vying for the football crown in 1992.

While Florida State is Virginia Tech's ninth most common opponent, Virginia Tech ranks first among out-of-state teams on FSU's list of games played and third to Miami and Florida overall. Because of these new conference alignments, however, it seems unlikely that Virginia Tech and Florida State will renew their rivalry after this year.

All-Stars Return to the Florida Citrus Bowl

Although Doak Campbell Stadium in Tallahassee is home to the Seminoles, many current Florida State players have played in Orlando's Florida Citrus Bowl enough times to call it a second home. For some, today's game is their third in the stadium since just prior to beginning their collegiate careers.

Each June, Florida Citrus Sports presents the Florida-Georgia All-Star Game, pitting 35 of the best outgoing high school seniors from Florida against their counterparts from Georgia. The game goes a long way toward ending debate about which state produces the best football players, even though the series is currently knotted at 3-3-1. The main goal of the game, though, is to raise funds for the Elks Children's Hospital in Umatilla, Fla.

A glance at FSU's 1991 roster shows no fewer than 38 All-Star alumni from both Florida and Georgia who played in games from 1987 through 1991. Prominent players like Casey Weldon, Shannon Baker, and Eric Turral got their first taste of what major college football would be like in Orlando at the Florida-Georgia All-Star Game.

Pitching a Shutout

Florida State Coach Bobby
Bowden may be a legend in Tallahassee, but for Virginia Tech fans, the man is a nightmare. In 11
previous games against the Hokies, Bowden is a perfect 11-0. As the head coach at West Virginia from 1970-75, Bowden led the Mountaineers to wins over the Hokies on three separate occasions. And at Tallahassee, from 1976-90, Bowden's teams have recorded eight straight wins over Virginia Tech.

Fans find the Florida Citrus Bowl accommodating for its outstanding facilities as well as its excellent vantage points.

Tech Head Coach Frank Beamer

football back into the spotlight with two straight winning teams, Frank Beamer looks ahead to his fifth season as the Hokies' head coach with a renewed optimism and a new five-year contract.

The 1990 Hokies capped the season with a 38-13 victory over arch-rival Virginia before a crowd of 54,157, the largest ever to see a football game in the state of Virginia. The Hokies beat three bowlbound teams, Southern Miss, North Carolina State and Virginia, and narrowly lost to co-national champion Georgia Tech, 6-3.

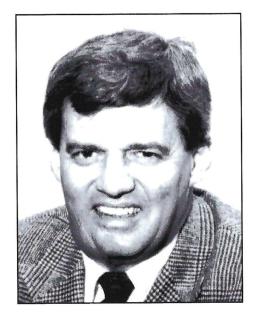

The 1989 team ended its season with a 6-4-1 record, including impressive road victories at West Virginia and North Carolina State.

Last year's team finished 6-5, but just as easily could have been 8-3 or 9-2. It was one of the most exciting teams in Tech history, featuring a high-powered passing attack and an opportunistic defense. The Hokies finished 25th in the final UPI poll.

The 45-year-old Beamer, first alumnus to guide the Hokie footballers in more than 40 years, took over the Tech reins in January, 1987. He began work just a few days after Tech had beaten North Carolina State in the Peach Bowl. Beamer came to Tech from Murray State University, where he had enjoyed a successful six-year stint as head coach.

Beamer was a defensive back and a good one—on Tech teams coached by Jerry Claiborne from 1966 through 1968. He participated in two Liberty Bowl games in 1966 and 1968 and made the All-Virginia Big Five Team in his senior season, when he captained the Hokies.

Beamer was a dean's list student at Tech and was active outside athletics as a member of Omicron Delta Kappa leadership fraternity. He was in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. He also served as president of the Tech Monogram Club.

He received a bachelor's degree in distributive education from Tech in 1969 and a master's in guidance from Radford in 1972. Then came the start of the Beamer coaching career.

He began as an assistant at Radford High School from 1969 through 1971. Then after one season as a graduate assistant at the University of Maryland, he went to the Citadel, where he worked five seasons under Bobby Ross, the current Georgia Tech coach, and one season under Art Baker. His last two years at The Citadel, Beamer was defensive coordinator.

It was in 1979 that Beamer went to Murray State as defensive coordinator under Mike Gottfried. He had an immediate impact on Ohio Valley Conference football. With his arrival came the wide-tackle-six defense that exists at Tech today. Beamer was named head coach at Murray State in 1981 and went on to compile a six-year record of 42 wins, 23,

The first Beamer team at Murray State in 1981 had an 8-3 record. After dropping to 4-7 the next year, his teams went on to post records of 7-4 in 1983, 9-2 in 1984, 7-3-1 in 1985, and 7-4-1 in 1986. His 1986 team was the Ohio Valley cochampion and was ranked 18th in the final Division I-AA National poll. His teams the two previous seasons also finished in the Top 20 in the I-AA poll—13th in 1984 and 17th in 1985. During those two seasons, Beamer's teams stayed in the Top 20 for a total of 22 straight weeks. Murray State is the only Division 1-AA team to accomplish that feat. The Tech coach was born in Mt. Airy, North Carolina, and raised in Hillsville, Virginia. At hillsville High, he earned 11 varsity letters as a three-sport athlete in football, basketball, and baseball. He was the starting quarterback and also a defensive back. In two seasons at quarterback, he passed for 43 touchdowns.

Beamer and his wife, Cheryl, have two children: son Shane, 14, and daughter Casey, 10.

About Virginia Tech

Nestled among the beautiful mountains of southwest Virginia, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, with its 23,000 students, is the largest university in the state.

Virginia Tech continues to function in three major divisionsinstruction, research, and extension—in more than 100 principal buildings, 29 of which are used exclusively for academic activities.

Virginia Tech's 21 residence halls, which house one of the nation's largest on-campus populations, provides easy access to the entire university, including an observatory, agricultural research areas, an environmental systems laboratory, and extensive athletic facilities.

Graduates of Virginia Tech pursue many diverse careers in fields such as aerospace engineering, business, computer science, communications, education, forestry, and architecture. Students can also study pre-law, pre-med, and predentistry at Tech.

The university is composed of eight colleges: Agricultural and Life Sciences, Architecture and Urban Studies, Arts and Sciences, the R.B. Pamplin College of Business, Education, Engineering, Human Resources, and Veterinary Medi-

The newest academic addition at Tech is the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine, which had its first graduating class seven years ago.

FSU Head Coach Bobby Bowden

Florida State's final 1990 regular season game exemplifies the reason Bobby Bowden just might be America's finest football coach.

Pressed into a must-win situation to remain among the nation's Top 10 teams and challenged by a young, innovative gunslinger from across the state, the wise and crafty coaching graybeard of FSU carved an absolute masterpiece.

With only five seniors in the starting lineup, Bowden's surging "baby" Seminoles executed to perfection, toppling Steve Spurrier's sixth-ranked and seemingly insurmountable Florida Gators with a 45-30 victory. And this was a Florida team laden with senior talent and so full of momentum that many felt Operation Desert Storm couldn't have stopped it!

A victory over Penn State in the Blockbuster Bowl at the close of the 1990 season, over his lifelong nemesis, Joe Paterno, further solidifies Bowden's ranking among college football's all-time great coaches.

When Bowden first arrived in Tallahassee in 1976, the team he inhereted in had been 4-29 over the previous three seasons. He went 5-6 that first year, but his team won its last three games in dramatic fashion. Plays of 80 yards or better figured in each of those victories, and somehow, everyone could sense right then what this man was going to bring to FSU.

Bowden's Florida State record is 132-42-3 (.754), which includes a 71-14-1 (.831) record in Tallahassee and a 61-28-2 (.680) mark away from home. He has built those numbers against some of the nation's toughest schedules.

Even before coming to Florida State, Bowden was proving to opponents that he a better than average coach. After graduating from Howard College in Birmingham, where he starred at quarterback, Bowden returned to the school (since renamed Samford) in 1959 and promptly coached the Bulldogs to a 31-6 record in four seasons. From 1970 to 1975, he coached the West Virginia Mountaineers to a 46-26 record and a pair of bowl appearances.

What he has done at Florida State, however, has gone far beyond even the wildest expectations of Bowden watchers. Seven times in 15 years his Seminoles have won 10 or more games in a season. Florida State has been to 12 bowl games, including a string of nine in a row and five New Year's Day trips.

There can be no question about the prominence of the FSU football program has acheived under Bowden. In the 29 years before Bowden, FSU was listed in the AP Top 20 just 13 times. During the last 15 years however, the Seminoles have been a mainstay—ranked by the AP poll 161 weeks out of 215 possible weeks. The team has been ranked in the Top 10 an incredible 81 times.

Bowden and his wife, Ann, have six children and 10 grandchildren. The men in the family carry on the Bowden coaching tradition. Son Terry is now the head coach at Samford, and son Jeff and son-in-law Jack Hines are both on Terry's staff. Oldest son Steve is on the faculty at Flagler College in St. Augustine, Fla, while another son, Tommy, is the offensive coordinator at Auburn.

About Florida State

Florida State University, nearing its golden anniversary as a coeducational graduate research institute, is poised on the brink of joining the nation's academic elite.

Building rapidly from the framework of a highly regarded liberal arts college for women and located on the oldest continuous site of higher education in Florida, the university has emerged as an institution of national and international esteem, evidenced by a number of exciting recent additions to its record of excellence.

Florida State has begun the 1990s with exceptional strength, energy, and vision for the future.

FSU Law School's College Green

Under the new leadership of the university's 11th president, Dr. Dale W. Lick, FSU will continue to build on the foundation of its long history of excellence in scholarship, research, and humanity.

FSU Spotlight: Amp Lee

By Geoff Davis

Special Contributor

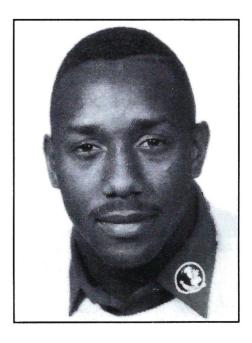

Lee, 6-0, 195 pounds, grew up in the small town of Chipley, Florida, where "there is not much to do except play sports."

Anthonia (pronounced Anthony) "Amp" Lee did just that, playing baseball, basketball, and of course football in high school. He was recruited by the Seminoles in both basketball and football, but decided to concentrate on football and his studies—physical education with an emphasis on coaching.

Lee's favorite professional football player is Barry Sanders of the Detroit Lions. On a beautiful Saturday just a few weekends ago against Michigan, Amp played like his idol, "shaking and baking" over and around the much-heralded Michigan defense for almost 200 yards of total offense plus a pair of touchdowns.

With his stellar performance, the junior tailback also thrust himself into the Heisman Trophy race along with teammate Casey Weldon. From Chipley to number one, he is in the big time now, but does he like all of the attention? "It's nice. I just like going in and doing my job, but if I get the praise, all the better."

FSU's number 42 describes himself as a modest person who doesn't like people who brag and boast about themselves, but does admit to enjoying the t-shirts his fellow students wear around campus. "It's not the watts that light up the field, it's the AMPS" slogans are part of an everyday wardrobe for some of the 29,000 students that come face-to-face with this "average guy" out of Chipley.

"I'm just an everyday, average 19year-old college student that likes playing Nintendo, going to movies, hanging out with friends, and listening to some rhythm and blues music by Freddie Jackson or Luther Vandross." Lee insists.

Lee attributes much of his success to his parents. "They taught me to stay focused, to know what my goals are, and to survive to reach them at all costs," Lee said.

Look what their influence has done for him. What can be more impressive than Lee's statistical improvement from his freshman to sophomore year? During his freshman year, Lee had 290 rushing yards, behind Dexter Carter's net yardage of 684. Then during his sophomore year, Lee improved to an astounding 825 net yards of rushing.

Now as a junior, Lee has already gained enough yardage to lead the Seminoles in rushing. As of October 5, he was also the leading touchdown maker on the 1991 FSU team. He ranks second on the Seminole career-rushing touchdown chart with 24 scores, and remember, he is still a junior. He's obviously striving and accomplishing every goal that he can run around, through, or over.

"The best word to describe Amp is consistency," says FSU running back coach Billy Sexton. "He's a natural football player who also has an excellent feel for the game, and he is very intelligent."

Coach Bobby Bowden agrees and explains that "while Amp doesn't have great speed, he gets in the open and is hard to catch. "Amp is a natural runner with the knack for making people miss. He's also got a knack for hanging onto the ball. He didn't fumble during his sophomore year, despite handling the ball 192 times."

"Amp Lee is one of the finest competitors I've ever been around," adds Sexton, echoing a common sentiment. "Also, he has super lateral quickness and vision, and to add to all that, he has excellent hands and is a super pass route runner."

According to Lee's roommate, Edgar Bennett, Lee is quiet, not the rowdy type. "We hang out a lot, shoot pool, the basic things. I'd say Amp is a regular guy."

Of course, he is not. Amp Lee is probably one of the best football players that has ever stepped foot on Florida State University's turf. But what's underneath all that equipment and garnet and gold garb is a normal, everyday student who likes what everyone else likes and likes to do what everyone else likes to do.

Tech Spotlight: Jerome Preston

By Mark Owens

Special Contributor

The football spun off Matt Blundin's hand and spiraled downfield, missing its mark. Instead, it landed in the deft hands of cornerback Tyrone Drakeford.

Reacting quickly, massive defensive tackle Jerome Preston turned and looked for somebody—anybody in orange pants—to knock off his feet.

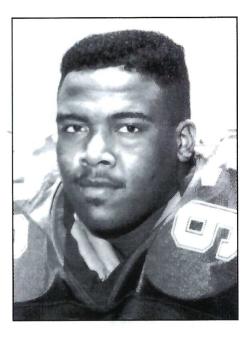

With a vicious blow, Preston smacked into Virginia centor Trevor Ryals with the force of a Patriot missile intercepting a Scud. Virginia Tech football fans, watching the replay later, would rewind the tape time and again to admire it as probably the Lest hit of the year.

"He (Ryals) released downfield after the ball was thrown, and I had been rushing hard before I stopped and saw Ty (Drakeford) pick off the pass," says Preston. "That's when I started to peel around and looked to make a block. He was the one who happened to be there. I don't think he saw me coming because I was on his blind side, and that's when I zeroed in and put it on him. It was a great feeling."

Ironic? A defensive tackle's most satisfying play coming during a sudden swap to offensive player?

Not really—junior Jerome Preston, 6-foot-5 and 283 pounds, came to Tech as a high school quarterback.

Before he began knocking offensive lineman on their duffs, he guided Magna Vista High School of Martinsville, Virginia, to an 8-3 mark and a conference title, throwing for more than 500 yards and three touchdowns during his senior year. He rushed for 350 yards and three more touchdowns.

After playing tight end for most of his high school career, Preston was asked to step under center for his senior season.

"It was fun playing quarterback," says Preston, "but strangely enough, I didn't get to take advantage of smaller linebackers and defensive backs on option plays a lot of the time because we had three guys in the backfield who all weighed over 255 pounds. When you have a backfield like that in high school, there is not much need for a quarterback to run a lot of keepers."

Now he's glad to be on the other side of the ball. It's usually better being the hunter rather than the hunted—just ask Mr. Ryals. But Preston will quickly point out that there hasn't been easy learning the defensive tackle position in Tech's wide-tackle defense.

"It was really rough at first trying to learn everything about the position," he says. "As a freshman, I did not have a lot of experience on the interior line, but as I gained strength and learned the basics, everything started coming together."

The last two games of the 1990 season clearly show how far he has come. Against national champion Georgia Tech, he registered his first collegiate sack when he dropped Yellow Jacket quarterback Shawn Jones late in the forth quarter. "It felt so good to finally get the first sack, especially since it came against a player like Shawn Jones," grins Preston.

He finished the year as Tech's 10th leading tackler despite being slowed by ankle problems early in the season. He finished strong, with a career-high eight tackles against the Yellow Jackets.

Then the following week against Virginia, he delivered the BIG HIT on Ryals and came up with his first career interception, all within a span of six minutes in the forth quarter. It was the first pickoff for a defensive tackle at Tech since Morgan Roane did it in 1984.

"I saw (RB Terry Kirby) come to the line and set up horizontally, so I read screen, made a good break on the ball, and picked it off," Preston explains. "After realizing I has the ball, all I could do after that was head for the end zone. Unfortunately, someone tripped me up from behind."

But his favorite interception is one that didn't even count.

"I think the one in the spring game (1991) was more impressive The ball was thrown a lot harder and I grabbed it with one hand. I even came a little closer to scoring.

This season, Preston has taken up where he left off last year.

"Jerome has a lot of untapped potential," defensive tackle coach Larry Creekmore said. "If he continues to work on his techniques and progresses, Jerome can be a great player for us. After struggling with injuries early in the season last year, he came on strong the last two games and really showed what he could do."

Mark Owens is a former Virginia Tech assistant sports information director.

"It starts, it gets you out where the fish are, and it gets you home."

Don't tell Terry Shaughnessy that the Suzuki 150 Super Six is just a bass motor. Because he runs his in the shallow brackish waters off the Louisiana Gulf, "fishin' for trout and redfish." It's out there poppin' Shaughnessy and his people up "out of the hole" and "runnin' as reliable as can be." Whether you run eight 150SSs on eight bay boats, like Shaughnessy, or just one on your favorite bass boat, you're going to get a motor that doesn't know the meaning of "quit."

For a bass engine that'll also handle any other kind of fishing or boating you fancy, see the Suzuki 150 Super Six at your nearest dealer soon.

Growth at FCS

rom near obscurity to national prominence, the Florida Citrus Bowl has grown tremendously in its 46-year history. Later this month the Florida Citrus Bowl and Florida Citrus Sports will take another step toward greatness with the completion of Citrus Centre.

Citrus Centre is a multi-use complex that will house Florida Citrus Sports and enabling it to better conduct its year-round schedule of events and activities. Other groups that will utilize the $2.5 million facility include the Downtown Athletic Club of Orlando and the Orlando Thunder.

Housed within the walls of the Citrus Centre will be a conference center that may be used by local groups for meetings or banquets.

During bowl time the conference center will be converted into a press room with interview areas and enough working space to accommodate even the largest media contingency. The Citrus Centre will also have its own travel agency to better accommodate the needs of Florida Citrus Sports' scouts.

The building will also be used on days when an event is being held at the stadium. New restroom facilities and concession stands are built into the rear of the Centre across from the south stands.

The most prominent feature of the Citrus Centre, however, is a 12-foot replica of the George L. Stuart Memorial Trophy, which graces the entranceway to the building. The Stuart trophy is given each year to the Florida Citrus Bowl Champion.

Undergraduate work at Tech leads to a Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Architecture, or a Bachelor of Landscape of Architecture. Each program of study requires a liberal exposure to basic science, the humanities, and other disciplines (through electives) to produce a consistently well-educated graduate in more than 65 fields of study.

All 50 states and more than 75 countries are represented by Tech's student and faculty population, and the university offers an outstanding of level of education that is geared to meet the challenges of today's multi-faced and rapidly changing society. More than 1,500 full-time instruction faculty, serve the student body. The university also aids the state of Virginia and the nation through its extension and research divisions.

The possibilities for leisure sports and activities are almost as rich in variety and diversity as the academic programs. Students can participate in 18 intercollegiate sports ranging from football and basketball to golf and volleyball. There are more than 350 campus organizations, which include intramural and extramural sports, student government and publications, and such special interest groups as caving drama and lacrosse. Throughout the year, the university also sponsors exhibits, films, trips, lectures, and concerts.

The composition of Tech's student body has also changed a great deal in recent years. Considered primarily a male, military college until the mid-1960s, now nearly one-half of the approximate 23,000 students on campus are women, while about two percent of the entire student body is enrolled in the Corps of Cadets.

as an institution of higher learning in 1851 by legislative act and began operating in 1857.

Today, Florida State's operating budget is $399 million. Faculty and administrators generate more than $87 million annually in external funding to supplement state sponsored research, and the private non-profit FSU Foundation raises millions through private gifts.

The main campus is spread out over 347 acres in Tallahassee; the university owns a total of 1,172 acres in Leon, Bay, and Franklin counties. FSU also maintains facilities at its 28-acre campus in Panama City, its marine laboratory on the Gulf of Mexico, the Appleton Museum of Art in Ocala, and professional theater-training programs in Sarasota.

Additionally, the Center for Professional Development and Public Service, housed in the Florida State Conference Center on the edge of the main campus, provides extensive credit and noncredit continuing education programs statewide.

For many years, FSU has extended its reach far beyond Florida through nternational study programs in England, Italy, Switzerland, Yugoslavia, France, Panama, Costa Rica, and the Caribbean.

These far-reaching programs are but a few of the 271 graduate and undergraduate degree programs offered through Florida State's eight independent colleges (Arts and Sciences, Business, Communication, Education, Engineering, Human Sciences, Law, and Social Sciences, which incorporates the School of Public Administration and Policy) and eight independent schools (Criminology and Criminal Justice, Library and Information Studies, Motion Picture, Television and Recording Arts, Music; Nursing, Social Work, Theatre, and Visual Arts and Dance).

Florida State continues to progress and grow from its foundation as the Seminary West of the Suwannee to its modern development as an acclaimed research institution, as a top-ranked competitor in intercollegiate athletics, and as a standard-setter in the basic sciences and the performing arts. In all areas of teaching, research, and service, FSU is boldy advancing into the 21st century.
