The Game Today

WITH
BUDDY DAVIDSON

For the second time this season Auburn finds itself backed into a corner, with only one way to get out.

The first time was after the first two losses to Arizona and Baylor, by one-point. The Tigers responded with two fine triumphs, 38-28 regionally televised victory over Tennessee and a 10-0 shutout of Ole Miss in Jackson.

Now the Tigers have again dropped a pair. The one-point loss to Memphis State, in which Auburn played an inspired, physical game, hurt. In fact, it might have hurt so much it psychologically hampered preparations for Georgia Tech.

While the Tigers are still 2-0 and tied for the Southeastern Conference lead at the time, there seems to be little consolation in being 2-4.

Florida State comes to Jordan-Hare Stadium with an identical 2-4 record. After a shaky start, FSU won two straight from Kansas State and nationally ranked Boston College before dropping a 33-26 decision to Florida last Saturday night.

However, the Seminoles under Head Coach Bobby Bowden have done what Auburn had done until last week and that is improve with every game.

Under Bowden the Seminoles have gone to the Veer offense, with Jimmy Black taking over at quarterback. Last year it was the passer, Clyde Walker, who ran the FSU offense as Auburn won, 17-14.

During spring practice Black emerged as the No. 1 quarterback and he has improved with every game this fall. A fine option operator, Black is an adequate passer and a good scrambler.

Black sustained a concussion against the Gators last week and Bowden went to freshman Jimmy Jordan in the second half. Jordan moved the Seminoles well through the air and had FSU knocking on the door at the Gator nine when time ran out.

Defensively, FSU shows a lot of different looks. Their basic defense is a 5-2, but they will stack their linebackers and use a lot of offset defenses. They move their linebackers around a lot, but they don't show many unusual stunts.

FSU has a balanced defense in that they don't count on any one player to make the majority of their tackles. They are a swarming, aggressive defensive unit with better than average speed.

Auburn Has New Career Rushing Leader

Although it came in a non-winning effort and did not mean what it would have under different circumstances, Auburn has a new career rushing record holder in fullback Sedrick McIntyre.

On his final carry of the game, McIntyre gained four yards and now has 1,916 yards. The old career rushing record was 1,913 yards by Fob James. McIntyre is just two rushing touchdowns away from the all-time career record of 18 by Pat Sullivan.

Gargis Gaining On Leaders

Rather methodically, senior quarterback Phil Gargis is gaining ground on Auburn's career total offense and rushing leaders.

Gargis has moved up from seventh to fourth in career total offense with 3,216 yards. He is just 201 yards behind third place Jimmy Sidle.

In career rushing Gargis has moved up from 10th on the list to sixth. Phil has gained 1,559 yards on the ground and could finish as high as second to McIntyre.

Also, Gargis needs just 52 yards in total offense the remainder of this season to go over 1,000 yards in total offense for the third year and become the second player in Auburn history to accomplish that feat.
