Entries By Schools . . .

Universities and colleges competing in the 1973 NCAA team championships are represented by five-man teams. The low four scores on each team at the end of the 72 holes will count toward the team total. All golfers compete for individual honors. Several schools will be competing in the individual bracket only. In addition, there will be approximately 10 golfers from last week's NCAA College Division Championships in the field whose names are not listed.
