North Carolina Women Win Fifth Straight ACC Title; Tar Heel LaTasha Colander Named MVP

The University of North Carolina handily won its fifth straight ACC Indoor track championship and ninth in eleven years. The Tar Heels scored 163 points, with second-place Florida State finishing with 103 points. It was the best finish for the Seminoles since joining the ACC.

UNC's LaTasha Colander won three individual titles en route to capturing the Meet MVP award. Colander, a junior, successfully defended her 55 meter hurdle title, while winning the 55 meter dash and 200 meter dash as well. She ran the 55 meter races in NCAA provisional qualifying times, and automatically qualified in the 200 meters with a time of 24.05.

The Tar Heels were also paced by first-place performances by Nicole Gamble in the triple jump, defending champion Monique Hennagan in the 400 meter run. North Carolina head coach Dennis Craddock earned ACC Coach of the Year honors for the fifth straight year.

Other individual event winners include: N.C. State Christy Nichols in the 3000 meter run, Maryland's Heather Atkinson in the weight throw and Kerrie Bowes in the one-mile run, and Florida State's Erica Shepard in the 800 meter run.

Twenty-seven Athletes Named to 1997 Women's All-ACC Team; North Carolina Earns Highest Number of Selections with Seven

Twenty-seven athletes made the 1997 All-Atlantic Coast Conference indoor track women's team. To earn all-conference honors, an athlete must finish in first or second place in an individual event at the ACC Championship. North Carolina, who won the 1997 team title for the fifth year in a row, captured the most all-conference spots with seven. They were followed by Clemson with six, and Virginia with five. Florida State and N.C. State tied at three apiece, while Maryland picked up two and Georgia Tech one. Eight athletes made their second appearance on the team, while three earned their third All-ACC honor. Clemson's Nicole Sims was named to her fourth all-conference team, the first Clemson female athlete to do so since Angela Dolby (1989-92).

Clemson Men Defeat Defending Champion North Carolina, Georgia Tech's Krummenacker Named Meet MVP

The Clemson Tigers won the 1997 ACC Indoor Track Championships, narrowly defeating defending champion North Carolina by a score of 155.5 to 141. Clemson captured first place in two events, and won second place in four other events to earn the overall title, their first since 1993.

Georgia Tech junior David Krummenacker is named Meet MVP after successfully defending his 1996 titles in both the one mile run and the 800 meter run. He also ran the third leg of the 4 x 400 meter relay as the Yellow Jackets took first place.

Clemson's individual winners include junior Greg Hines (55 meter hurdles) who defeated defending champion Marcus Stokes of UNC with an NCAA provisional qualifying time of 7.34. It was the fastest time run in the ACC this season. Junior David Hartzler won the pole vault with a height of 16'07.50". Clemson coach Bob Pollock was named ACC Men's Coach of the Year.

Other individual event winners include Wake Forest's Jon Russell in the 3000 meter run, Georgia Tech's David Riley in the triple jump, UNC's Milton Campbell in both the 200 meter and 400 meter dash and UNC's Tony McCall in the 55 meter dash. N.C. State's John Patterson took first place and shattered the ACC record in the weight throw with an NCAA provisional distance of 64'05.25. (Previous record was 62'02.50 set by UNC's Sean Murray in 1991.)
